Marin City: 'Self-Help' Or 'Power Grab'?

By ANNE BARDWELL

After watching the development of Marin City slowly grind to a halt four years ago and stand still since then, Marin City residents are attempting to take matters into their own hands and are seeking new directions for the growth of their community.

Alternately termed "positive self-help" by its supporters and "a power grab" by its detractors, the move to take control of Marin City's future away from the county and its subagencies and give it to local residents has sparked a new interest and vitality in the Southern Marin community.

Suddenly Marin City is swamped with people who want to do something and have the know-how to put the ideas into effect.

Two groups in particular — the Development Corporation of Marin City and Plan of Action for Challenging Times (PACT), a private non-profit organization from San Francisco — have presented in-depth proposals to local leadership for the long-range development of the community.

(At 8 p.m. today at the Manzanita Center, the Marin City Council, the Marin City Community Services District and the Development Corporation of Marin City will meet to discuss the community's future planning and development and the role each of these two vital areas.)

PACT has been consulting with the Marin City Council in recent weeks, aiding that group in its bid to become the official planning agency for the community and to replace the Marin County Redevelopment Agency in the active social, economic, educational and physical planning of Marin City.

The council has retained PACT as its consultant on community development. In months ahead, PACT will draft a master plan for the remaining undeveloped areas of the community and present proposals for such diverse projects as community controlled law enforcement, beautification, a jitney bus service, black culture courses, construction of an enclosed swimming pool and improved community communication.

PACT has already submitted a preliminary application to the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development for funds to accomplish the ambitious planning program and expects to hear within the next few weeks whether the application has been accepted.

The Development Corporation of Marin City, an organization comprised mostly of Marin City residents, is seeking to develop

NO MISSILE BASE

State Plans Busy Angel Island Park

The state is preparing a $2.5 million development of Angel Island which leaves "no room for a missile site," a state park official declared yesterday at a meeting of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission.

Harry Dean Jr., regional supervisor for the State Department of Parks and Recreation, presented slides showing plans for restoration of historic sites, camping and restaurant facilities.

"Do you have any room for a missile site?" asked Lothar Salin, who served as chairman in the absence of Melton Ferris, whose father died in Riverside.

Ayala Cove will be the main public access on the west side, the park official reported. Dockage will be available for tour boats and private boats. Bicycle rentals, concessions for snacks, facilities for picnicking, and ticket sales for rides around the island will be provided at Ayala Cove.

The North Garrison will have vending machines, possibly a store, interpretive exhibits, a dining hall with a concessionaire serving perhaps one meal a day, and barracks for on-duty employees.

The East Garrison, facing San Francisco, will have a highly developed marina with parking for 200 boats, the main museum, and overnight camping facilities for 400 to 500 persons. It will also have a swimming beach, cabins, motels, and possibly an outdoor theater, swimming pool, and auditorium.

At Point Blunt to the south, group picnic areas will handle 1,000 persons. More picnic units are planned at Alcatraz Gardens, and Camp Reynolds will be the major area for historic restoration.

Dean said 11 possible embarkation points are planned in the Bay, with four in Marin County. The four under consideration in Marin are the old Tiburon Naval Net Depot, Fort Baker, City of Tiburon, and the Corte Madera tidelands.

The capacity of the 720-acre island is 10,000 persons at any one time, said Dean.

By 1970-71, the state hopes to put in $1 million in development. He said most of the concessions will be provided by private capital.

"I get the feeling of a certain amount of overdelopment," agreed Salin.

Commissioner Raymond Bresnan, 15-year-old student from Novato, said he fears hotels and restaurants would draw too big a crowd.

"The idea is to provide for all types of people," explained Dean. "Some people want to

Hanoi Demands Viet Cong Place At Negotiation Table

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam said today it would not negotiate with the United States unless the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front is present at the table. It called on the United States to state clearly under what conditions it is prepared to resume the Paris peace talks.

A spokesman for Hanoi's delegation to the Paris conference said the position taken Tuesday by Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford "was ambiguous and requires urgent clarification."

Clifford told a news conference in Washington that if the Saigon government continues to boycott the talks, the United States should go ahead without it.

President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam is demanding that his government be given the status of an independent delegation while the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front be made subordinate to North Vietnam's representatives.

Clifford said even without Saigon, there were various military matters the United States could settle "with Hanoi."

"Mr. Clifford has to explain what he means when he says the United States is prepared to negotiate 'with Hanoi,'" the North Vietnamese said. "If he means a two-sided conference with only the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam on one side, then that is absolutely unacceptable to us.

"We hope to have a clarification of this point soon."

Search To Solve Turmoil Closes All San Francisco State Classes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Classes have been suspended for an indefinite period for San Francisco State College's 18,000 students after a week of sporadic vandalism and violence stemming from a Black Student Union strike.

President Robert R. Smith ordered the suspension last night "until we can open and operate in a more rational manner." He advised students to stay in their homes and work on their studies.

Smith acted after about 30 members of the police tactical squad were summoned to the campus twice within half an hour. They were met with rocks and cans and surrounded by groups of shouting demonstrators, both Negro and white.

In the resulting melee, eight persons were arrested. There were no reports of serious injuries.

Smith said he felt yesterday's disturbances showed, "We are moving further and further toward physical confrontation between people and this has demonstrated that a minority can close a campus and that we can't keep it open with the assistance of police."

Smith arranged to meet with his administration and faculty, particularly Negro members, to "define the issues and attempt to provide solutions to them."

One of the main demands made by the black student union has been for reinstatement of a controversial part-time instructor now under 30 day suspension —Black Panther George Mason Murray.

Smith, looking grim and haggard, said he suspended classes after discussing the situation with Glenn Dumke, chancellor of the 19 state colleges. Murray was suspended Nov. 1 on Dumke's orders pending investigation of his fitness as an instructor. Smith said he reluctantly acceded to the order. He contended that regular procedures had been initiated to consider Murray's case.

Leydecker Granted Leave By Bank To Fight Charges

Byron W. Leydecker, the Marin County civic leader accused of possessing marijuana, was granted a sudden leave of absence yesterday from his duties as president of the Redwood National Bank in San Rafael.

Directors of the bank said Leydecker, former chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, asked for the leave to answer charges lodged against him yesterday.

Ernest N. Kettenhofen, a bank director, announced last night that Leydecker had asked for time away from his presidential duties "until such time as charges against him are clarified."

The board, during its meeting yesterday afternoon, took note of newspaper articles regarding Leydecker's felony charge and

Mushrooms Deadly To Fairfax Father?

Harvested New Kind, Ate Them

Since he was a youngster, Kenneth Egger of Fairfax had enjoyed eating wild mushrooms picked on idle hikes.

Monday, a holiday from his job as a repairman with Bill's Refrigeration Service in Corte Madera, Egger took his five children on a hike to Alpine Dam.

Returning, Egger picked about a dozen robust-looking mushrooms — a type he had never selected before.

HIS DISH ALONE

That night, he cooked the mushrooms and offered some to his wife, Mary Louise, and the couple's five children, Delma, 15; Melynda, 13; Kathryne, 10; Kenneth Jr., 8, and Karl Allen, 6.

But they chose to eat a hamburger dinner, a favorite, that Mrs. Egger had prepared, leaving Egger to all the mushrooms.

AWOKE AILING

Egger, 45, awoke at 4:30 a.m. the next morning, sick to his stomach, and although vomiting persisted throughout the day and into yesterday morning, his wife thought he had caught the flu.

She called an ambulance when he collapsed at 10:30 a.m. yesterday. Egger died early today in Marin General Hospital.

'FIRST TIME'

"He had grown up in the habit of eating wild mushrooms but somehow or other it would appear he got some bad ones," said Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, county coroner. "He had told the doctor it was the first time he had eaten this kind."

Cooke said that Egger, in addition to the mushrooms, had joined his wife in a serving of frozen shrimp at the Monday night dinner, but Mrs. Egger had not become ill.

The coroner said Egger's death was the first believed due to mushroom poisoning in Marin County since he took office two years ago.

Egger, who lived at 34 Arroyo Road, was a native of La Habra, Orange County, and had lived in Marin 14 years. He was a Navy veteran of World War II, serving as a gunnery instructor.

Funeral, pending an autopsy, will be from Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

LBJ Assures Nixon On Foreign Policy

NEW YORK (AP)—President-elect Richard M. Nixon said today he has President Johnson's assurance—and insistence—that the incoming president be consulted in advance of any major foreign policy decision prior to the inauguration.

Nixon said that is essential so that any action taken by the current administration "will be a decision that I would have approved of and not one that I would have rejected."

He said that is the case because such decisions would be likely to carry over from the current administration to the next.

"If the United States is unable to speak with one voice it can not speak at all" in foreign affairs, Nixon said.

Nixon personally announced his understanding with Johnson in naming career diplomat Robert Murphy to be his personal liaison man with the Johnson administration.

Nixon said Murphy will represent him in foreign policy matters and specifically in connection with the Vietnam peace negotiations.

Nixon said Murphy also will be in charge of arrangements for prior consultation on any foreign policy judgments that might have to be implemented by the next administration. Asked specifically whether he had Johnson's assurance of prior consultation, Nixon replied:

"Not only his assurance, but his and my insistence, that that be done."

Nixon said he talked with Johnson by telephone this morning.

He said Secretary of State Dean Rusk also had given him such assurances at a White House briefing Monday.

After that Monday session, Nixon said he had told the President that the outgoing administration can speak for the nation and the new administration in foreign policy prior to the inauguration.

Border Clash Leaves 287 Red Troops Dead

SAIGON (AP) — While U.S. planes and helicopters rained down flares, bullets and bombs, less than 500 South Vietnamese rangers and American artillerymen fought off about 1,000 North Vietnamese troops near the Cambodian border through the night and counted 287 enemy bodies after dawn broke today.

The North Vietnamese attack on the small ranger camp 60 miles north of Saigon produced the Vietnam War's heaviest fighting in weeks, with 120 of the enemy dead found inside the camp's barbed wire.

The other bodies were strewn over the cratered approaches which had been blasted by the Americans' 155mm guns inside the camp and the U.S. planes and helicopters circling overhead.

Four South Vietnamese were reported killed and 23 wounded. No American casualties were reported.

The North Vietnamese crossed the Cambodian border to storm the jungle camp, named Landing Zone Dot, in an area where allied forces are sweeping for an estimated 15,000 to 20,000 North Vietnamese troops believed massed along the border. Dot was held by a battalion of South Vietnamese rangers and a U.S. howitzer battery.

The North Vietnamese made their first charge about midnight, under cover of a heavy mortar barrage to pin down the defenders. Within about an hour, two thrusts had breached the camp's barbed wire defense perimeter.

The attackers made four assaults through the night, holding on for seven hours before the big American guns fired point-blank, helicopter gunships and dive bombers blasted them back across the border.

It was 7:25 a.m. when the camp radioed that the enemy had broke off the action and pulled back.

The rangers reported capturing a large quantity of enemy weapons left on the battlefield, including 53 Chinese assault rifles; 12 rocket launchers; 3 mortar tubes and 7 antiaircraft machine guns.

Earlier, U.S. headquarters reported that troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division killed 50 North Vietnamese soldiers in two fights yesterday in the same general area near the border. Two Americans were reported killed and five wounded.

Awaits Reunion

New Palace

TOKYO (AP) — Emperor Hirohito today thanked his people for Japan's new $36 million royal palace and termed it "a masterpiece of modernity harmonized with tradition."

The palace in the heart of Tokyo, built partially of 800-year-old woods and roofed with copper artificially corroded to color it emerald green, replaces the building destroyed by an air raid during World War II.

Snag Telegrams

LONDON (AP) — Telegrams to and from Britain ran into major delays today as 1,800 overseas telegraph operators walked off their jobs in a pay dispute.

A spokesman for the Post Office, which handles telegraph and telephone services, said delays would snowball if the walkout continued. The operators attended a union meeting to discuss their demands.

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko flew to Budapest today for a meeting with Hungarian Foreign Minister Janos Peter, an official announcement said. It did not specify the purpose of the meeting or give other details.

Italians Strike

ROME (AP) — A nationwide 24-hour strike hit Italy today, crippling business and industry, snarling traffic and touching off noisy demonstrations by students and workers.

The strike was called in support of demands for more money for the nation's 28 million pensioners. Crippled and disabled persons marched from the Piazza Barberini to the Chigi Palace, where Giovanni Leone has his office. Strikers also massed in the Piazza del Santi Apstoli, just off the Plazza Venezia.

Abortion Stand

DETROIT (UPI) — "All women" should have the right to "safe legal abortions," the American Public Health Association's governing council declared today.

In a formal resolution, it put no string on any woman's right to decide not to have a baby if she became pregnant. Such a stand goes far beyond even the most liberal of the present state laws.

"The APHA urges that access to abortion be accepted as an important means of securing the right to spacing and choosing the number of children wanted," the resolution said.

No Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fierce battle among America's Roman Catholic bishops has raised doubts they can reach quick concensus on birth control and issue a pastoral letter to guide their troubled church.

The proposed wording of a letter brought before a closed meeting of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops drew such fire yesterday that it forced a night-long rewriting session.

The dispute raised some doubt whether the bishops would be able to shape a stand on either the birth control controversy on the morality of the war on Vietnam before their windup Friday.

TESTS WINGLESS CRAFT

NASA research pilot John A. Manke of Edwards Air Force Base had a double cause for celebration yesterday — his 37th birthday and a successful test flight of the HL-10, a triple-tailed lifting craft. The craft is one of several being tested for possible use as a ferry between earth and an orbiting space station. During the flight the craft reached an altitude of more than eight miles. Russ Space Ship May Be On Return

JODRELL BANK, England (AP) — An unmanned Soviet spaceship circled the moon and apparently headed back to earth today, Britain's Jodrell Bank Observatory reported.

Sir Bernard Lovell, the director of the observatory, said the craft, Zond 6, was performing almost exactly like Zond 5, the first spaceship to circle the moon and be recovered safely.

Zond 5 was launched on a Sunday, like Zond 6, and it was recovered in the Indian Ocean the following Saturday, Sept. 21.

The current moon trip, together with the successful flight of cosmonaut Georgy Beregovoy last month and the Zond 5 success, has started speculation that the Soviets may try to beat the U.S. manned shot around the moon scheduled for Christmas.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Tuesday that three U.S. astronauts would make 10 orbits around the moon during a 20-hour photography mission on Christmas Eve. The Apollo 8 is to orbit 70 miles above the moon's surface.

Lovell reported Zond 6 passed within 1,000 to 2,000 miles of the moon's surface. Yesterday he reported voices that appeared to be recordings were heard from the craft.

Flight Set Within 10 Miles Of Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A flight to less than 10 miles above the moon's surface will be undertaken next year by a crew of space veterans, officials disclosed yesterday.

This Apollo 10 flight will include separation in lunar orbit of the U.S. moon lander and a descent to within 50,000 feet of the moon's surface. Officials have said privately the flight plans possibly could be changed later to a lunar landing.

Crewmen will be Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford, the commander; Navy Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan, lunar module pilot, and Navy Cmdr. John W. Young, the command module pilot.

Apollo 10 will be a mission classification 'F', which, according to plans made public last August, will include a command and service module and lunar module launched by a Saturn 5 booster into an orbit around the moon.

Stafford and Cernan will transfer to the lunar module and separate it from the command module, leaving Young to pilot the command module in moon orbit. Stafford and Cernan will fly the lunar module to within 50,000 feet of the lunar surface.

Then they'll rendezvous with the command module, rejoin Young on board, separate from the lunar module and return to earth.

Apollo 10's, 'F' mission differs from the Apollo 8 'C prime' mission, also a lunar orbit flight, in the type of hardware and altitude above the moon.

Apollo 8, scheduled to fly next month, will orbit the moon 10 times at an altitude of 69 miles. It will not have the lunar module on board. Apollo 8 crew members are Frank Borman, James Lovell and William Anders.

The command module and lunar module combination will fly manned for the first time on Apollo 9, scheduled for launch early next year.

Jamaica Honors Late Dr. King

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Jamaica's Marcus Garvey Prize for human rights has been awarded posthumously to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The award was created by the government of Jamaica as part of its observance of the current international year of human rights. The value of the prize is 5,000 pounds, or $14,000.

Prime Minister Hugh Shearer, announcing the award yesterday, said nominations had been received from 51 governments and nongovernmental bodies. They nominated 23 persons and four organizations.

$183,000 For Petaluma Water Works

A capital outlay of $183,000 was approved by the Petaluma Water Commission yesterday afternoon for the 1968-69 fiscal year.

The major project in the program is $126,000 for the installation of a 12-inch water line from East Washington Street down Wilson Street and Lakeville Highway. There the new line will connect to the present line on McDowell Boulevard to Casa Grande Road.

Robert S. Lipman, Petaluma councilman and commission vice chairman, said the Lakeville area had been described as the only major weak link in the city water system by fire insurance underwriters. The Lakeville area is already sewered, and a water line will aid development there, he said.

Also included in the capital outlay programs are pump stations at McNear and Magnolia avenues to provide better water pressure. Other items were for general maintenance of the water system.

The program will be presented to city council for approval sometime next month.

Rotary President Will Dedicate Park

Kiyoshi (George) Togasaki, president of Rotary International, will dedicate Carl Gabrielson Memorial Park in Sausalito, created by the Sausalito Rotary Club, at 1 p.m. Nov. 21.

Togasaki will attend a meeting of the Sausalito club at 12:15 p.m. at the Alta Mira Hotel prior to the dedication of the park, which was named in honor of the late Carl W. Gabrielson who served on the Sausalito City Council.

The pecan is the state tree of Texas.

ATTENDS MUSICAL

Presidential Dig Brings Nixon Laugh

NEW YOR K(AP) — Richard M. Nixon startled a throng of Broadway theater-goers last night when he and his family showed up at "George M!"—a musical about a young man who rose from modest beginnings to make it really big.

"I thought I would split when that line came in there," the president-elect told star Joel Gray after the show.

The line Nixon referred to is spoken by Gray, who plays song-writer and entertainer George M. Cohan. Cohan is objecting to a comeback part in a musical:

"I wouldn't take the role even if I played the president of the United States."

After the show, the Nixon party—his wife, Pat, daughters Julie and Tricia and others—went to 21 for a private late supper before returning to their Fifth Avenue apartment about 1 a.m.

The Nixon theater party included Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Lewis and C. G. Bebe Rebozo of Key Biscayne, Fla. Lewis is president and executive editor of the Readers' Digest.

The Nixons squeezed through a lobby crowd shortly before curtain time, waited out of sight briefly, then went to their seats amid standing applause.

Some women in the audience exclaimed that Mrs. Nixon is "prettier than her pictures" and that the Nixon daughters are "really lovely."

At intermission, much of the audience remained standing at their places, watching the famous guests. Secret Service men were plentiful, including some occupying the upper boxes.

The Nixon entourage made the trip and from the Palace theater along New York City streets that had been blocked off for the quick trip. The Nixons rode in the new presidential bubble-top limousine that President Johnson has not used yet. Scattered crowds waved along the route.

Nixon, chatting with the cast, said: "There's nothing like coming to the theater, having the feel of it. . .Keep putting on the good ones."

Paper Closed Over Story

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government closed one of Saigon's three English-language newspapers today, charging it failed to give the government equal billing with the United States in their dispute over the Paris peace talks.

A spokesman for the information ministry said the Saigon Daily News had splashed a story on U.S. Defense Secretary Clark Clifford's news conference Tuesday across the top of page one but played down the Saigon government's response.

"They printed the truth under tiny headlines," a spokesman said.

Merger Plan For Libraries Gains Ground

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The proposed merger of the Petaluma Library with the Sonoma County library system was presented trustees of the Santa Rosa Library last night and met with a favorable reaction, according to Kenneth M. Wightman, Petaluma trustees president.

Discussing the merger article by article, Wightman said the Santa Rosa trustees, who administer the county library program, reacted well to the plan. The agreement will be considered at a regular Santa Rosa trustees meeting and if approved will be sent to the Santa Rosa City Council for consideration.

A joint meeting of the Petaluma trustees, city council, chamber of commerce and other interested organizations has been planned for Dec. 5 at 7:30 p.m. at the Kenilworth Recreation Center. "This meeting will serve to inform the people of the status of the proposed merger," Wightman said.

Petaluma City Council delayed approval of the plan until such an informational meeting is held.

Suspects Deny Anti-Nixon Plot

NEW YORK (AP) — Three Yeneni Arabs, a father and his two sons, have pleaded innocent to a charge of conspiring to assassinate President-elect Richard M. Nixon.

Ahmed Rageh Namer, 43, and his sons, Hussin, 20, and Aldo, 19, were indicted yesterday by a Brooklyn grand jury before being brought into Brooklyn Supreme Court for a hearing.

Justice John R. Starkey reduced bail from $100,000 to $25,000 each, but the lower bond was not posted. No trial date was set.

Defense counsel asked lower bail on grounds that the defendants had no criminal records and had been steadily employed in Manhattan's garment district.

Magnolia Parking Deadlocks Council

Merchants from the north end of Magnolia Avenue lost their bid last night to have parking on both sides of the new four-lane stretch in their area. The Larkspur City Council deadlocked 2-2.

After a two-and-a-half-hour hearing the council was back where it started with its plan for parking on the west side only along the stretch from south of Murray Avenue to the north city limits.

A motion by Mayor Alfred Malvino to establish parking on both sides and have two traffic lanes south and one traffic lane north on a temporary basis, ended in the tie vote when Councilman Neil Brixon disqualified himself because he owns property and operates a business in the area.

Malvino and Earl O'Grady voted for the two-side parking, and William G. Fleckles and Benton A. Sifford Jr. voted against.

Malvino explained to the audience of about 20 that the lack of approval meant there would be no change in the city's long standing plan for four traffic lanes and west side parking.

The merchants, claiming business losses and a need for parking, renewed their request for parking on both sides until the Magnolia Avenue widening is completed to Doherty Drive, probably in the fall of 1970.

Councilmen indicated if both side parking were approved, it would be only until the widening is completed to Bon Air Road, sometime late next summer or early fall.

A motion by Fleckles for both side parking, one lane of traffic each way and a center strip for stacking turning cars, failed for lack of a second. It was a plan favored by some merchants.

A motion by O'Grady, similar to Malvino's but setting a 30-minute parking limit on the east side, also failed for lack of a second.

Merchants also had requested that a two-hour parking limit be established, but the council failed to resolve this matter, and said it would be considered at its next meeting, Dec. 4.

O'Grady and Malvino contended that parking spaces in the area are being used by merchants and their employees, and the merchants could gain space by policing this parking.

After the special session on Magnolia Avenue, City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst briefed the council on a tentative schedule for proposed annexation of the Hutchinson Quarry property, 58.3 acres, east of Highway 101, to the city.

Bathurst said there would be a city planning commission session on pre-zoning the area Nov. 26, and probably submission of a request for annexation to the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission Dec. 5.

Under this schedule the council would have to act Dec. 4, 11 and 18 to introduce and adopt necessary ordinances on zoning and permitting the asphalt and batch plant on the property under a use permit.

Adhesive-backed United States postage stamps first went on sale July 1, 1847.

Utilities District Discussed

The possibility of setting up an assessment district for installation of underground utilities in Greenbrae was discussed last night by the Greenbrae Property Owners Association board.

Mrs. James Staats, board member, said L. P. Biancalana of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and P. S. Bunschu of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., both of San Rafael, attended and discussed the work involved.

The board agreed to write both companies and request that a sample study be made of a small area to determine approximate installation costs to the individual home owner. Greenbrae residents would then be contacted by letter to see what interest exists, Mrs. Staats said.

The board heard a report on the association's annual harvest ball held Nov. 2, and discussed setting up committees to run the annual Christmas decorating contest.

BUSY PRESIDENT-ELECT — Richard M. Nixon reaches out to shake hands after leaving a noon luncheon yesterday at New York City's Recess Club. Later he attended the theater with his family. (UPI Telephoto)

$183,000 For Petaluma Water Works

A capital outlay of $183,000 was approved by the Petaluma Water Commission yesterday afternoon for the 1968-69 fiscal year.

The major project in the program is $126,000 for the installation of a 12-inch water line from East Washington Street down Wilson Street and Lakeville Highway. There the new line will connect to the present line on McDowell Boulevard to Casa Grande Road.

Robert S. Lipman, Petaluma councilman and commission vice chairman, said the Lakeville area had been described as the only major weak link in the city water system by fire insurance underwriters. The Lakeville area is already sewered, and a water line will aid development there, he said.

Also included in the capital outlay programs are pump stations at McNear and Magnolia avenues to provide better water pressure. Other items were for general maintenance of the water system.

The program will be presented to city council for approval sometime next month.

Rotary President Will Dedicate Park

Kiyoshi (George) Togasaki, president of Rotary International, will dedicate Carl Gabrielson Memorial Park in Sausalito, created by the Sausalito Rotary Club, at 1 p.m. Nov. 21.

Togasaki will attend a meeting of the Sausalito club at 12:15 p.m. at the Alta Mira Hotel prior to the dedication of the park, which was named in honor of the late Carl W. Gabrielson who served on the Sausalito City Council.

ATTENDS MUSICAL

Presidential Dig Brings Nixon Laugh

NEW YOR K(AP) — Richard M. Nixon startled a throng of Broadway theater-goers last night when he and his family showed up at "George M!"—a musical about a young man who rose from modest beginnings to make it really big.

"I thought I would split when that line came in there," the president-elect told star Joel Gray after the show.

The line Nixon referred to is spoken by Gray, who plays song-writer and entertainer George M. Cohan. Cohan is objecting to a comeback part in a musical:

"I wouldn't take the role even if I played the president of the United States."

After the show, the Nixon party—his wife, Pat, daughters Julie and Tricia and others—went to 21 for a private late supper before returning to their Fifth Avenue apartment about 1 a.m.

The Nixon theater party included Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Lewis and C. G. Bebe Rebozo of Key Biscayne, Fla. Lewis is president and executive editor of the Readers' Digest.

The Nixons squeezed through a lobby crowd shortly before curtain time, waited out of sight briefly, then went to their seats amid standing applause.

Some women in the audience exclaimed that Mrs. Nixon is "prettier than her pictures" and that the Nixon daughters are "really lovely."

At intermission, much of the audience remained standing at their places, watching the famous guests. Secret Service men were plentiful, including some occupying the upper boxes.

The Nixon entourage made the trip and from the Palace theater along New York City streets that had been blocked off for the quick trip. The Nixons rode in the new presidential bubble-top limousine that President Johnson has not used yet. Scattered crowds waved along the route.

Nixon, chatting with the cast, said: "There's nothing like coming to the theater, having the feel of it. . .Keep putting on the good ones."

Paper Closed Over Story

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government closed one of Saigon's three English-language newspapers today, charging it failed to give the government equal billing with the United States in their dispute over the Paris peace talks.

A spokesman for the information ministry said the Saigon Daily News had splashed a story on U.S. Defense Secretary Clark Clifford's news conference Tuesday across the top of page one but played down the Saigon government's response.

"They printed the truth under tiny headlines," a spokesman said.

Merger Plan For Libraries Gains Ground

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The proposed merger of the Petaluma Library with the Sonoma County library system was presented trustees of the Santa Rosa Library last night and met with a favorable reaction, according to Kenneth M. Wightman, Petaluma trustees president.

Discussing the merger article by article, Wightman said the Santa Rosa trustees, who administer the county library program, reacted well to the plan. The agreement will be considered at a regular Santa Rosa trustees meeting and if approved will be sent to the Santa Rosa City Council for consideration.

A joint meeting of the Petaluma trustees, city council, chamber of commerce and other interested organizations has been planned for Dec. 5 at 7:30 p.m. at the Kenilworth Recreation Center. "This meeting will serve to inform the people of the status of the proposed merger," Wightman said.

Petaluma City Council delayed approval of the plan until such an informational meeting is held.

Suspects Deny Anti-Nixon Plot

NEW YORK (AP) — Three Yeneni Arabs, a father and his two sons, have pleaded innocent to a charge of conspiring to assassinate President-elect Richard M. Nixon.

Ahmed Rageh Namer, 43, and his sons, Hussin, 20, and Aldo, 19, were indicted yesterday by a Brooklyn grand jury before being brought into Brooklyn Supreme Court for a hearing.

Justice John R. Starkey reduced bail from $100,000 to $25,000 each, but the lower bond was not posted. No trial date was set.

Defense counsel asked lower bail on grounds that the defendants had no criminal records and had been steadily employed in Manhattan's garment district.

Magnolia Parking Deadlocks Council

Merchants from the north end of Magnolia Avenue lost their bid last night to have parking on both sides of the new four-lane stretch in their area. The Larkspur City Council deadlocked 2-2.

After a two-and-a-half-hour hearing the council was back where it started with its plan for parking on the west side only along the stretch from south of Murray Avenue to the north city limits.

A motion by Mayor Alfred Malvino to establish parking on both sides and have two traffic lanes south and one traffic lane north on a temporary basis, ended in the tie vote when Councilman Neil Brixon disqualified himself because he owns property and operates a business in the area.

Malvino and Earl O'Grady voted for the two-side parking, and William G. Fleckles and Benton A. Sifford Jr. voted against.

Malvino explained to the audience of about 20 that the lack of approval meant there would be no change in the city's long standing plan for four traffic lanes and west side parking.

The merchants, claiming business losses and a need for parking, renewed their request for parking on both sides until the Magnolia Avenue widening is completed to Doherty Drive, probably in the fall of 1970.

Councilmen indicated if both side parking were approved, it would be only until the widening is completed to Bon Air Road, sometime late next summer or early fall.

A motion by Fleckles for both side parking, one lane of traffic each way and a center strip for stacking turning cars, failed for lack of a second. It was a plan favored by some merchants.

A motion by O'Grady, similar to Malvino's but setting a 30-minute parking limit on the east side, also failed for lack of a second.

Merchants also had requested that a two-hour parking limit be established, but the council failed to resolve this matter, and said it would be considered at its next meeting, Dec. 4.

O'Grady and Malvino contended that parking spaces in the area are being used by merchants and their employees, and the merchants could gain space by policing this parking.

After the special session on Magnolia Avenue, City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst briefed the council on a tentative schedule for proposed annexation of the Hutchinson Quarry property, 58.3 acres, east of Highway 101, to the city.

Bathurst said there would be a city planning commission session on pre-zoning the area Nov. 26, and probably submission of a request for annexation to the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission Dec. 5.

WAR

nounced that combat casualties in the war edged upward last week; the first full week since the bombing of North Vietnam was halted.

The U.S. Command said 166 American troops were killed in action, compared with 150 the week before. South Vietnamese casualties climbed from 129 killed two weeks ago to 200 last week; and 1,431 enemy dead were reported.

Enemy casualties of 1,353 had been reported for the week previous, but this was increased today to 2,162, a usual occurrence, and the 1,431 total presumably will be increased next week after more reports come in.

Meanwhile, in the wake of Washington's warning that serious peace talks cannot be conducted if the Demilitarized Zone is used for attacks on allied forces, the U.S. Command announced six more incidents "involving enemy activity" in the southern part of the buffer zone between North and South Vietnam.

U.S. Command said four of the incidents involved firing on U.S. reconnaissance planes. A fifth was the sighting of sets of vehicle lights moving south, which could have been tanks or supply trucks. The sixth was 10 armed, uniformed North Vietnamese soldiers seen moving in the open.

Garbage Service To Change Hands

The Bolinas Community Public Utility District agreed last night to contract with Henry's Service to handle garbage in Stinson Beach and Bolinas, according to secretary Katherine E. Martin.

The service will begin next week. The basic rate is $3 per month per customer for weekly service. The district previously had contracted with Don Pepper of Bolinas at the same rate.

The board also decided to purchase a pipe finder for the district at a cost of $249.50.

A special meeting of the board has been called for Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the district office to discuss a joint sewerage proposal for Stinson Beach and Bolinas.

Petaluma Coed Bruised In Crash

A teen-age Petaluma girl was injured at 7:30 a.m. today when the car in which she was riding sideswiped a school bus and struck the corner of a vacant house at Laurel Street and Schuman Road, Petaluma, police reported.

Cherrie Qusander, 15, of 753 Elm Drive, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for minor bruises. She had been a passenger in a car driven by her brother, Richard Qusander, 16. Both are students at Petaluma Senior High School.

No one on the bus en route to Petaluma Junior High School was injured.

Dance Policies Are Abandoned

New policies planned for a dance at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Terra Linda High School gym have been abandoned following a change in the sponsorship of the dance.

Students for Action, apparently a two-man group, had announced open doors and elimination of faculty chaperones. Principal Frank Stocking said, however, that all dances at Terra Linda High have faculty chaperones and doors are closed.

He said the sponsorship of the dance was changed to the Block Terra Linda Club, a letterman's club, and the senior class, after Denny Umphreys and John Cullen who call themselves Students for Action, were afraid they would not be able to meet expenses if the dance were a flop.

agreed to the leave of absence, Kettenhofen said.

During the interval, the office of bank president will be filled by the bank's chairman of the board, Abe Blumenfeld of Blumenfeld Enterprises, Kettenhofen said.

He will be assisted in those duties by other directors, who include William R. Berglund, George Gund III, Harry Heifetz, Robert A. Roumiguiere, Dr. John C. Siemens and Dale E. Walter, Kettenhofen said.

Leydecker, accompanied by his attorney Albert Bianchi, was to surrender himself for booking at Marin County Jail and arraignment in Municipal Court this afternoon.

Mrs. Rabuzzi, represented by William O. Weissich, was arraigned on the same charge yesterday by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. The magistrate ordered her released without bail and set Wednesday as the date for the divorcee to return and plead to the charge.

Leydecker who has been president of the San Rafael bank since it opened, was appointed to the Marin Board of Supervisors by then Gov. Edmund G. Brown in 1963. He later won election to a short term on the board, then declined to run for re-election in 1966.

He has been active in Marin County affairs. He was twice chairman of the United Crusade, and a member of the board of trustees of the San Rafael Military Academy and the Sunnyhills home for children.

Handicapped Talk Scheduled Tonight

Dr. Franz Bauman will speak on the topic, "Experiences with uncommon Approaches to the Neurologically Handicapped Problem: Hypnotherapy and Behavior Therapy," at meeting today of the Marin chapter of the California Association for Neurologically Handicapped Children.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at Bahia Vista School, 125 Bahia Way, San Rafael. Dr. Bauman is a San Francisco pediatrician and associate director of adolescence services, mental health committee, San Francisco Medical Society.

NIXON

other side of that agreement.

Nixon said the arrangement with Johnson did not give him veto power over foreign policy decision. "Nothing of that sort, no."

But he was not explicit on the question of what would happen if the Johnson administration settled upon a decision with which he disagreed.

He said that point was not discussed precisely. He also said he has no disagreement with the broad general outlines of Johnson's current Vietnam policy.

And he also said that Johnson is keenly aware that it would be very difficult to agree on any major foreign matter now without the assurance that it would be implemented and approved by the new administration.

Nixon and Murphy appeared together at a brief news conference at the Pierre Hotel. Nixon said Murphy's assignment is a temporary one during the transition period. He said Murphy will have an office of that adjacent to Dean Rusk.

Murphy spent 39 years in the foreign service, has served as assistant secretary of state and as undersecretary of state and now is chairman of Corning Glass International.

Nixon said he has no plans at this time to send Murphy or anyone else to the Paris peace talks or to Saigon. He said he does not rule that out at a later time, however.

Nixon said his understanding with Johnson in the foreign policy field is more explicit than those of past transition periods. He said this was particularly necessary with the Vietnam negotiations under way. Unless there is to be a 60-day delay in that and other fields "we have to have this kind of an understanding."

In another matter, Nixon named John D. Ehrlichman, 43, a Seattle attorney and eight-year political aide, to be counsel to the president.

Nixon's latest appointment to the White House staff was announced by Ronald L. Ziegler, his chief spokesman. Nixon himself was conferring with advisers at his headquarters on the 39th floor of the Hotel Pierre.

Ehrlichman, active in Nixon's 1960 presidential campaign and his 1962 effort to become governor of California, was tour director of this year's Republican presidential campaign.

hike, others want hotels." In any event, he said controls would be established to keep the maximum capacity to 10,000 persons at any one time.

The commissioners asked County Parks and Recreation Director Pierre W. Joske to come back with comments on the plan at the next meeting on Dec. 11.

Dean announced that a public hearing on the Angel Island plan is scheduled for Dec. 13 somewhere in San Francisco.

Troubled School Gets Black Principal

EAST PALO ALTO (AP) — Racially troubled Ravenswood High School's new principal is a Negro educator, Earl M. Meneweather, 41, assistant dean at Merritt Junior College in Oakland.

The Sequoia Union High School District Board of Trustees appointed Meneweather last night to succeed Malcolm J. Taylor, a white principal who resigned recently because of controversies involving Ravenswood's predominantly Negro student body.

How Arms Race Talks Could Start

WASHINGTON (UPI) —In the 24th year of the atomic age, the United States and Russia face an opportunity to make their first real effort to curb their nuclear arms race.

The vehicle by which they could do so is known in official cables as SALT (Strategic Arms Limitation Talks) expected to be held sooner or later between the two countries.

Assuming the dlays caused by the Czechoslovakia crisis are overcome, and the United States and Russia do sit down for such talks, how would they begin?

How could they tackle the complexities of the arms race? What are the prospects of success? What are the hurdles and dangers? What is the outlook if the talks do not take place?

Many U.S. weapons experts believe the two countries can best begin by just talking about the arms race, without worrying too much at the start about what agreements might someday result.

Their reasoning is that the first step will be not nuclear disarmament but a slowdown in the present runaway arms race. This race, they believe, is being propelled forward by a series of uncertainties, misunderstandings and different ways of looking at the problem. For example:

The United States, under former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, and probably still under his successor, Clark M. Clifford, plans its weapons on a philosophy of building "enough" power to maintain a nuclear deterrent. But there is concern here that Russia may do its planning on a "more and more and more" philosophy.

Russia has viewed anti-ballistic missiles as "defensive." The United States has viewed them as upsetting the nuclear balance (except for the small, anti-Chinese variety which the U.S. plans.)

McNamara, before he left office, described how both the United States and Russia had built nuclear arsenals greater than they needed for deterrence, because they could not read each other's intentions and because each planned against the "worst plausible case."

The arms race goes forward by actions and reactions. The United States began working on multiple warhead missiles in order to be able to overhelm a big anti-ballistic missile system which it feared Russia might build by the mid 1970's.

Now, these U.S. multiple warheads, known as MIRVS, threaten in the next few years to greatly magnify the arms race.

Because of the danger that Russia may develop MIRV, or may greatly increase the accuracy of its Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles (ICBMs), the United States has on the drawing boards a whole series of "options" including super-protected underground missile silos, an expanded Sprint defense system, and bigger and better ICBMs.

It is unlikely that the two countries would discuss their secret plans. Instead they would be discussing the possible consequences of each other's actions.

If, as a result, they independently decided not to build some of the new weapons they plan—or even to build more slowly—the talks would have achieved monumental success. Formal treaty negotiating could follow later.

It is immediately clear that such talks make no sense unless both countries adopt two premises:

First, that they have a "mutual interest" in curbing the nuclear race.

Second that until the very distant day of ultimate disarmament, they must maintain the "strategic balance" in which neither could attack the other without being destroyed in return.

WAR

nounced that combat casualties in the war edged upward last week; the first full week since the bombing of North Vietnam was halted.

The U.S. Command said 166 American troops were killed in action, compared with 150 the week before. South Vietnamese casualties climbed from 129 killed two weeks ago to 200 last week; and 1,431 enemy dead were reported.

Enemy casualties of 1,353 had been reported for the week previous, but this was increased today to 2,162, a usual occurrence, and the 1,431 total presumably will be increased next week after more reports come in.

Meanwhile, in the wake of Washington's warning that serious peace talks cannot be conducted if the Demilitarized Zone is used for attacks on allied forces, the U.S. Command announced six more incidents "involving enemy activity" in the southern part of the buffer zone between North and South Vietnam.

U.S. Command said four of the incidents involved firing on U.S. reconnaissance planes. A fifth was the sighting of sets of vehicle lights moving south, which could have been tanks or supply trucks. The sixth was 10 armed, uniformed North Vietnamese soldiers seen moving in the open.

Garbage Service To Change Hands

The Bolinas Community Public Utility District agreed last night to contract with Henry's Service to handle garbage in Stinson Beach and Bolinas, according to secretary Katherine E. Martin.

The service will begin next week. The basic rate is $3 per month per customer for weekly service. The district previously had contracted with Don Pepper of Bolinas at the same rate.

The board also decided to purchase a pipe finder for the district at a cost of $249.50.

A special meeting of the board has been called for Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the district office to discuss a joint sewerage proposal for Stinson Beach and Bolinas.

Petaluma Coed Bruised In Crash

A teen-age Petaluma girl was injured at 7:30 a.m. today when the car in which she was riding sideswiped a school bus and struck the corner of a vacant house at Laurel Street and Schuman Road, Petaluma, police reported.

Cherrie Qusander, 15, of 753 Elm Drive, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for minor bruises. She had been a passenger in a car driven by her brother, Richard Qusander, 16. Both are students at Petaluma Senior High School.

No one on the bus en route to Petaluma Junior High School was injured.

Dance Policies Are Abandoned

New policies planned for a dance at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Terra Linda High School gym have been abandoned following a change in the sponsorship of the dance.

Students for Action, apparently a two-man group, had announced open doors and elimination of faculty chaperones. Principal Frank Stocking said, however, that all dances at Terra Linda High have faculty chaperones and doors are closed.

He said the sponsorship of the dance was changed to the Block Terra Linda Club, a letterman's club, and the senior class, after Denny Umphreys and John Cullen who call themselves Students for Action, were afraid they would not be able to meet expenses if the dance were a flop.

agreed to the leave of absence, Kettenhofen said.

During the interval, the office of bank president will be filled by the bank's chairman of the board, Abe Blumenfeld of Blumenfeld Enterprises, Kettenhofen said.

He will be assisted in those duties by other directors, who include William R. Berglund, George Gund III, Harry Heifetz, Robert A. Roumiguiere, Dr. John C. Siemens and Dale E. Walter, Kettenhofen said.

Leydecker, accompanied by his attorney Albert Bianchi, was to surrender himself for booking at Marin County Jail and arraignment in Municipal Court this afternoon.

Mrs. Rabuzzi, represented by William O. Weissich, was arraigned on the same charge yesterday by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. The magistrate ordered her released without bail and set Wednesday as the date for the divorcee to return and plead to the charge.

Leydecker who has been president of the San Rafael bank since it opened, was appointed to the Marin Board of Supervisors by then Gov. Edmund G. Brown in 1963. He later won election to a short term on the board, then declined to run for re-election in 1966.

He has been active in Marin County affairs. He was twice chairman of the United Crusade, and a member of the board of trustees of the San Rafael Military Academy and the Sunnyhills home for children.

NIXON

other side of that agreement.

Nixon said the arrangement with Johnson did not give him veto power over foreign policy decision. "Nothing of that sort, no."

But he was not explicit on the question of what would happen if the Johnson administration settled upon a decision with which he disagreed.

He said that point was not discussed precisely. He also said he has no disagreement with the broad general outlines of Johnson's current Vietnam policy.

And he also said that Johnson is keenly aware that it would be very difficult to agree on any major foreign matter now without the assurance that it would be implemented and approved by the new administration.

Nixon and Murphy appeared together at a brief news conference at the Pierre Hotel. Nixon said Murphy's assignment is a temporary one during the transition period. He said Murphy will have an office of that adjacent to Dean Rusk.

Murphy spent 39 years in the foreign service, has served as assistant secretary of state and as undersecretary of state and now is chairman of Corning Glass International.

Nixon said he has no plans at this time to send Murphy or anyone else to the Paris peace talks or to Saigon. He said he does not rule that out at a later time, however.

Nixon said his understanding with Johnson in the foreign policy field is more explicit than those of past transition periods. He said this was particularly necessary with the Vietnam negotiations under way. Unless there is to be a 60-day delay in that and other fields "we have to have this kind of an understanding."

In another matter, Nixon named John D. Ehrlichman, 43, a Seattle attorney and eight-year political aide, to be counsel to the president.

Nixon's latest appointment to the White House staff was announced by Ronald L. Ziegler, his chief spokesman. Nixon himself was conferring with advisers at his headquarters on the 39th floor of the Hotel Pierre.

Ehrlichman, active in Nixon's 1960 presidential campaign and his 1962 effort to become governor of California, was tour director of this year's Republican presidential campaign.

hike, others want hotels." In any event, he said controls would be established to keep the maximum capacity to 10,000 persons at any one time.

The commissioners asked County Parks and Recreation Director Pierre W. Joske to come back with comments on the plan at the next meeting on Dec. 11.

Dean announced that a public hearing on the Angel Island plan is scheduled for Dec. 13 somewhere in San Francisco.

Troubled School Gets Black Principal

EAST PALO ALTO (AP) — Racially troubled Ravenswood High School's new principal is a Negro educator, Earl M. Meneweather, 41, assistant dean at Merritt Junior College in Oakland.

The Sequoia Union High School District Board of Trustees appointed Meneweather last night to succeed Malcolm J. Taylor, a white principal who resigned recently because of controversies involving Ravenswood's predominantly Negro student body.

How Arms Race Talks Could Start

WASHINGTON (UPI) —In the 24th year of the atomic age, the United States and Russia face an opportunity to make their first real effort to curb their nuclear arms race.

The vehicle by which they could do so is known in official cables as SALT (Strategic Arms Limitation Talks) expected to be held sooner or later between the two countries.

Assuming the dlays caused by the Czechoslovakia crisis are overcome, and the United States and Russia do sit down for such talks, how would they begin?

How could they tackle the complexities of the arms race? What are the prospects of success? What are the hurdles and dangers? What is the outlook if the talks do not take place?

Many U.S. weapons experts believe the two countries can best begin by just talking about the arms race, without worrying too much at the start about what agreements might someday result.

Their reasoning is that the first step will be not nuclear disarmament but a slowdown in the present runaway arms race. This race, they believe, is being propelled forward by a series of uncertainties, misunderstandings and different ways of looking at the problem. For example:

The United States, under former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, and probably still under his successor, Clark M. Clifford, plans its weapons on a philosophy of building "enough" power to maintain a nuclear deterrent. But there is concern here that Russia may do its planning on a "more and more and more" philosophy.

Russia has viewed anti-ballistic missiles as "defensive." The United States has viewed them as upsetting the nuclear balance (except for the small, anti-Chinese variety which the U.S. plans.)

McNamara, before he left office, described how both the United States and Russia had built nuclear arsenals greater than they needed for deterrence, because they could not read each other's intentions and because each planned against the "worst plausible case."

The arms race goes forward by actions and reactions. The United States began working on multiple warhead missiles in order to be able to overhelm a big anti-ballistic missile system which it feared Russia might build by the mid 1970's.

Now, these U.S. multiple warheads, known as MIRVS, threaten in the next few years to greatly magnify the arms race.

Because of the danger that Russia may develop MIRV, or may greatly increase the accuracy of its Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles (ICBMs), the United States has on the drawing boards a whole series of "options" including super-protected underground missile silos, an expanded Sprint defense system, and bigger and better ICBMs.

At the minimum, experts believe U.S.-Soviet talks might achieve better mutual understanding of how the arms race works, how each side looks at it and what the actions and reactions and "destabilizing" factors are.

It is unlikely that the two countries would discuss their secret plans. Instead they would be discussing the possible consequences of each other's actions.

If, as a result, they independently decided not to build some of the new weapons they plan—or even to build more slowly—the talks would have achieved monumental success. Formal treaty negotiating could follow later.

It is immediately clear that such talks make no sense unless both countries adopt two premises:

First, that they have a "mutual interest" in curbing the nuclear race.

Second that until the very distant day of ultimate disarmament, they must maintain the "strategic balance" in which neither could attack the other without being destroyed in return.

Emeryville Loses Bay Fill Battle

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Town of Emeryville has lost a two-year contest over the authority of the San Francisco Bay Commission.

The State Supreme Court ruled yesterday that Emeryville cannot continue a 144-acre bay fill project without the commission's permission.

The agency was created in 1965 by a state legislative act. Superior Court Judge Robert Kroninger of Oakland ruled in September 1967 that Emeryville had started its filling before the commission came into existence and therefore was entitled to continue.

Kroninger's decision was affired by the State District Court of Appeal, but the commission appealed.

The original Emeryville plan was to develop a high rise residential community on the filled land.

The Supreme Court directed, however, that Judge Kroninger issue a new injunction banning any further bay fill by Emeryville without a commission permit.

Design approval of a proposed 11-unit apartment building at 166 Tunstead Avenue was given by the San Anselmo Design Review Committee last night. Applicant was John Komo.

Bobby Baker Claims Evidence 'Tainted'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert G. 'Bobby' Baker, former secretary to Senate Democrats who was convicted of income tax evasion, is asking for a new trial because, he says, "tainted" evidence was used in his first.

In a motion filed yesterday in U.S. District Court here, Baker claims evidence uncovered recently in the perjury case of former Lt. Gov. Clifford A. Jones of Nevada will show Baker was convicted by means of evidence that should have been suppressed.

Baker's motion contends this "tainted" evidence was given by Wayne Bromley, Washington lobbyist and lawyer who implicated Baker and Jones in a tax-evasion scheme.

Bromley used a hidden microphone to record in Los Angeles conversations with Baker and Jones, a Baker business associate, with the cooperation of the Department of Justice. Bromley told of these conversations at Baker's trial last January.

Baker's lawyers contend Gesell's ruling must apply in Baker's case since the same circumstances are involved. The government has appealed the ruling.

The government contended at Baker's trial the former Senate Democratic aide stole nearly $100,000 from California savings and loan executives who thought they were making political contributions. It was this income on which Baker was convicted of not paying taxes.

District Judge Oliver Gasch, with whom Baker filed his motion for a new trial, has scheduled a hearing Dec. 16 on certain aspects of the Baker case as ordered by the U.S. Court of Appeals.

The appellate court affirmed in part Baker's conviction that netted him a sentence of 1 to 3 years in prison. But it ordered Gasch to determine whether bugged telephone conversations in which Baker did not take part but in which he was discussed could have led the government to secure evidence used at his trial.

Medi-Cal Probe Brings Charges Of Kickbacks And Shady Deals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The chairman of a joint legislative investigative committee says testimony from its hearing shows kickbacks and unethical practices exist in the state's Medi-Cal program.

The chairman, Assemblyman John W. Veneman, R-Modesto, said as the two-day hearing closed yesterday that the committee will meet in Sacramento in January to issue recommendations.

The hearing should make vendors of medical services "a little leery of attempting something that is on the verge of being illegal or unethical," he said, and help curb abuses in the state's $800-million-dollar-a-year program of health care for the poor.

The hearings followed a report from the state attorney general that Medi-Cal was being bilked of $6 million to $8 million a year.

"When 80,000 claims are processed a day—or 20 million a year—and they have found only 1,000 cases (of abuse), I would say some were escaping," Veneman said.

He said he believes some nursing homes receive kickbacks and some pharmacists "border on practices that are unethical if not illegal."

Albert E. Bridges, the manager of a portable X-ray service, testified yesterday he had been solicited by nursing homes for kickbacks connected with Medi-Cal.

Bridges quoted nursing home operators as asking him: "What's in it for me?" when he offered his service.

Eearlier, a suburban Sunland nursing home operator testified that many convalescent homes demanded kickbacks from equipment and medical service suppliers and suppliers of such items as linen, meat, milk and groceries.

And Dr. Alex E. Okran, dental director of the Los Angeles Department of Social Services, said that a small minority of dentists are "milking the hell' out of Medi-Cal.

He said some make the rounds of sanitariums and make dentures for terminal cancer patients, then send the bill to Medi-Cal. And others, Okran said, charge patients additional money even though full treatment is to be paid by Medi-Cal.

"What I am talking about," said Okran, "covers dentists in Watts, on Wilshire—all colors, creeds. This (Los Angeles) is the most troublesome county in the entire state."

Okran said Blue Shield has failed to program its computers to prevent overpayments, double payments and other violations.

Veneman read aletter from 27 Modesto doctors who said they were overpaid a total of $2,000 from Blue Shield for Medi-Cal services. In one instance, the letter said, a $40 bill was paid at $400, but the money was returned.

Blue Shield vice president Harry Parke, recalled to the stand to answer Okran's testimony, said his company is working to improve its computer system.

Dr. Jean J. Crum, president of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, denied physicians were involved in abuses and accused the attorney general of conducting a "witch-hunt."

And Donald Gormly, president of the California Nursing Home Association, said the attorney general's report was an attempt to destroy public confidence in nursing and convalescent institutions.

"It is obvious it was politically inspired," he said, "because the state attorney general is of a different political party than the governor."

Meanwhile, Gov. Ronald Reagan, speaking to a meeting of county supervisors, said the state will push for prosecution of doctors or institutions guilty of defrauding or abusing the Medi-Cal program.

But the governor said he is sure doctors themselves "will purge that relative handful who would violate the ethics of their profession."

$1 Million Decision In Klan Slaying Case

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) — A federal court jury has returned a judgment of $1,022,500 against the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and three white men in the 1966 slaying of Ben Chester White, a 65-year-old Negro.

Investigators said the slaying was part of a plot to create enough racial tension in Natchez to lure the late Dr. Martin Luther King, a Negro civil rights leader, into rifle range.

At the time, King was busy elsewhere.

Judge Harold Cox, declaring the defendants liable for "the dastardly act," ordered the verdict yesterday. The question he put to the jury was the amount of damages to be awarded in the unusual civil suit, filed under a Reconstruction era law.

The jury of eight Negroes and four whites deliberated for an hour and 30 minutes and then brought back the verdict—$22,500 in actual damages and $1-million punitive damages against Ernest Avants, 37, Claude Fuller, 48, and James L. Jones, 58, all employees of a Natchez paper mill, and the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

Avants, Fuller and Jones listened to the verdicts impassively.

All three had been charged with murder in the slaying. In Circuit Court trials on the state charge Avants was acquitted and Jones won a mistrial. Fuller's case hasn't come up.

White had not been connected with civil rights activities.

The civil suit was brought by his son, Jesse, of Baton Rouge, La.

In the charge to the jury, Judge Fox said assessment of punitive damages would serve as a deterrent to others who may try to do similar acts.

The North Coast Mobile Relay Network, an amateur radio operators group being formed in Marin, has been incorporated as a nonprofit organization.

Listed as directors of the corporation were Charles E. Walsh, 19 Shiela Court, San Anselmo; Norman J. Taylor, 209 Humboldt Street, San Rafael, and Daniel C. Dufficy, 252 Center Street, San Rafael.

Marin City's Future To Be Session Topic

The Marin City Council, Marin City Community Services District and the Development Corporation of Marin City will have a joint meeting today at 8 p.m. in Manzanita Center on Marin City planning and development.

The Independent-Journal mistakenly said the meeting was to be last night in an article in yesterday's paper.

The community services district will have a special meeting at 7 p.m. to try to work out the responsibilities of the three groups in the development of Marin City as requested by the board of supervisors on Tuesday.

Public notice of more than 24 hours was given by the services district of both meetings.

School's In, School's Out

SCHAIJK, Holland (UPI)— When teachers and pupils arrived to start the school term at the new St. Joseph School, they found the premises completely without furniture.

It had been ordered but the plant failed to deliver. Everybody was sent back home to await the furniture.

Brown Hints Of Possible Try For Governor In '70

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Former Gov. Edmund G. Brown says there's a chance he might run in 1970 for governor — the post he lost to Republican Ronald Reagan in 1966.

"I'm giving it thought, but only thought," Brown said in a telephone interview yesterday from his Beverly Hills law office.

Brown said "I'd like to be vindicated in Sacramento," but he added he would not run unless "there was a tremendous draft . . . tremendous request, and the winds don't blow that strongly in California."

Brown, now 63, earlier mentioned he might seek the U.S. Senate seat in 1970 now held by Republican George Murphy.

But he said in the interview he believes Rep. John V. Tunney of Riverside will run for the Senate and be elected "if he is able to get any real support."

Brown added, "I'm too much a Californian. I just don't want to go back to Washington. I would have four years ago, but not now."

The two-term governor said he thinks the Democratic Party in California has "hit the bottom" with the 1966 and 1968 elections and now "I think we're on our way up."

"The problem is candidates. If we get the right candidates, we'll defeat Reagan and Murphy" Brown said.

Studies of water use patterns reveal the Saturday night bath is still an institution in many American homes.

$1 Million Decision In Klan Slaying Case

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) — A federal court jury has returned a judgment of $1,022,500 against the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and three white men in the 1966 slaying of Ben Chester White, a 65-year-old Negro.

Investigators said the slaying was part of a plot to create enough racial tension in Natchez to lure the late Dr. Martin Luther King, a Negro civil rights leader, into rifle range.

At the time, King was busy elsewhere.

Judge Harold Cox, declaring the defendants liable for "the dastardly act," ordered the verdict yesterday. The question he put to the jury was the amount of damages to be awarded in the unusual civil suit, filed under a Reconstruction era law.

The jury of eight Negroes and four whites deliberated for an hour and 30 minutes and then brought back the verdict—$22,500 in actual damages and $1-million punitive damages against Ernest Avants, 37, Claude Fuller, 48, and James L. Jones, 58, all employees of a Natchez paper mill, and the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

Avants, Fuller and Jones listened to the verdicts impassively.

All three had been charged with murder in the slaying. In Circuit Court trials on the state charge Avants was acquitted and Jones won a mistrial. Fuller's case hasn't come up.

White had not been connected with civil rights activities.

The civil suit was brought by his son, Jesse, of Baton Rouge, La.

In the charge to the jury, Judge Fox said assessment of punitive damages would serve as a deterrent to others who may try to do similar acts.

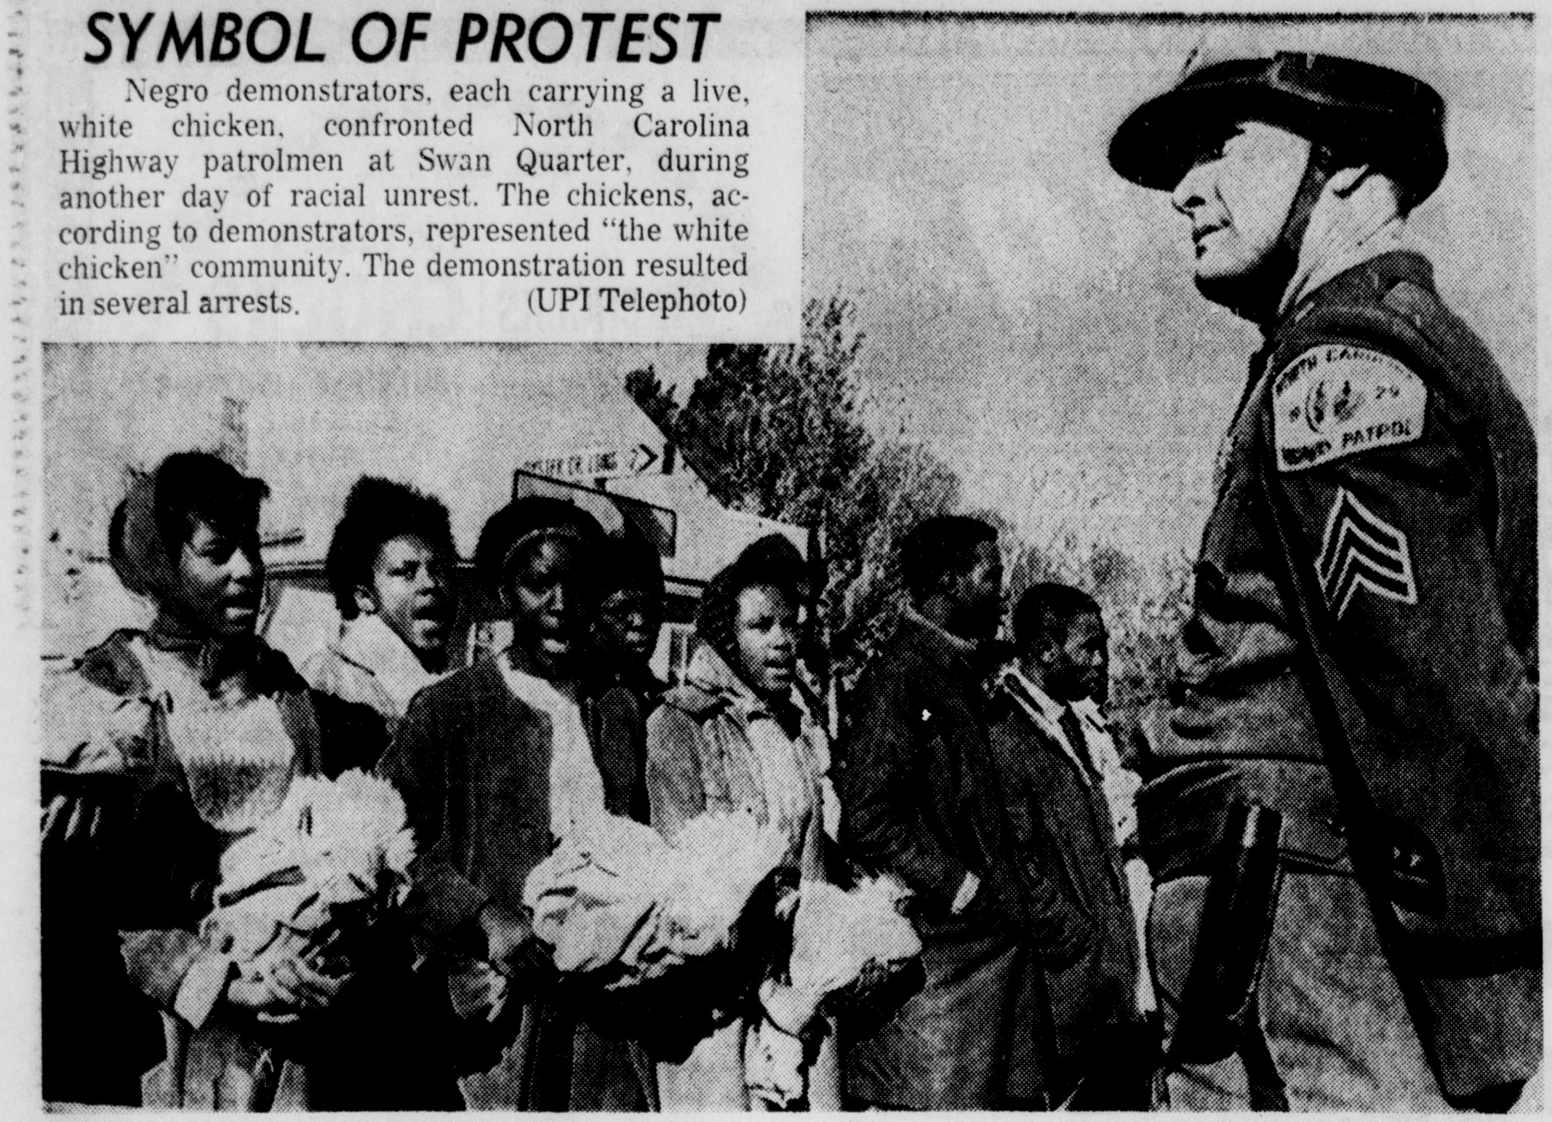
SYMBOL OF PROTEST



Negro demonstrators, each carrying a live, white chicken, confronted North Carolina Highway patrolmen at Swan Quarter, during another day of racial unrest. The chickens, according to demonstrators, represented "the white chicken" community. The demonstration resulted in several arrests. (UPI Telephoto)

Sausalito Rail Link Decay Stressed

By DAVID DIETZ

SAN FRANCISCO — The Sausalito branch of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad was pictured yesterday as a rusted and decaying stretch that would require about $1.4 million to renovate.

And such an expense is not justified, said C. E. Neal, vice president and general manager of the railroad, because of light freight business on the branch.

Neal, taking the stand in the first day of an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on Northwestern Pacific's bid to abandon service on the branch, said that "major expenditures must be made to rehabilitate the line if it is to continue to operate."

"The rehabilitation will be extremely expensive," he added, "and I do not believe that the present and future traffic on the line are sufficient to warrant that very large outlay."

Neal said the 2,172-foot Corte Madera tunnel, first built in 1884, would have to be reconstructed, three trestles on the branch replaced or rebuilt and new track laid to replace rail installed in 1909 and 1937.

Neal presented pictures of the tunnel which showed the structure in various degrees of collapse and deterioration. He said the tunnel was weakened and so narrow that it was once necessary to cut away sections of the wall to permit a train to pass.

The cost of a reconstructed tunnel was estimated by Neal at $1.2 million. He placed the cost of repairing or replacing the trestles at $66,485 and of track repair at $219,400.

Neal said under questioning by Robert N. Lowry, attorney for three Sausalito businessmen who use the branch to haul freight and are opposing abandonment, that the reconstruction work had "accumulated" over the years because of light traffic.

But Neal said he "assumed" that traffic at one time was heavier and that, had the railroad spent a sum of $55,000 that was appropriated for this type of work in 1955, the Sausalito branch would be in better condition today.

It is Northwestern Pacific's second attempt to abandon service on the branch. An ICC examiner ruled in favor of abandonment after a hearing in 1960, but was overturned by an ICC subcommittee.

The railroad also sought unsuccessfully to abandon the Puerto Suello Tunnel, which was heavily damaged by fire in 1961 but reopened in September 1967.

Curb Sought On Larkspur Park Hippies

An ordinance designed to alleviate the problem of hippie vandalism in Dolliver Park was ordered last night by the Larkspur Parks and Recreation Commission.

Robert C. Bundy, parks and recreation director, said today he was directed to include in the draft some restrictions on the use of park equipment and the hours which the park should remain open, then submit the draft for consideration at the 8 p.m. commission meeting Dec. 11 at city hall.

Bundy said at present the rules regulating park use are vague, that a 7 p.m. curfew in the evenings has often been ignored because of long summer evenings. Police Chief Howard Clark on Nov. 6 told the city council that hippies have sometimes vandalized the park. He added, however, that the problem has diminished with recent rainy weather.

The Larkspur Parks and Recreation Commission also:

HALL — Heard a report by Bundy that repair of delapidated and city-owned Eastman Hall, 200 Williams Avenue, would cost about $6,600. He said the fire department also has reported that a fire hazard exists with cooking and water vents.

The commission agreed to assist groups now using the hall to find new meeting places until a decision is made whether to repair or replace the hall with a portable building in Piper Park.

BOAT LAUNCHING — Heard Bundy report that the state Department of Highways and the state Small Craft Harbor Commission have approved a proposed city-built small craft launching ramp on Corte Madera Creek beneath the Greenbrae underpass of Highway 101.

Bundy said development plans will now proceed, and he also was directed to investigate the possibility of Larkspur's obtaining financial aid from other agencies toward gaining matching federal funds for dredging of a sand bar off Point San Quentin.

PIPE PARK — Requested a report on possible revision of the master plan of Pipe Park to devote the park to recreational facilities rather than include the suggested erection of a city hall and library there.

Revolver Stolen

Rewording Of 'Fifth' Is Held A Must Today

Californians 34 years ago wrote into their state constitution a construction of the Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination similar to that now proposed for the U.S. Constitution by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court.

Attorney William O. Weissich noted this today when he appeared on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" with Judge Gardiner to discuss the proposal.

The California constitution was amended by initiative to provide: "In any criminal case (the defendant's) failure to explain or deny . . . may be commented upon by court or counsel and may be considered by the court and jury."

Three years ago, however, the U.S. Supreme Court by 7-2 vote held this California provision was unconstitutional.

Judge Gardiner has proposed in an open letter to Sen.-elect Alan Cranston and Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, that the Congress undertake a rewording of the Fifth Amendment to carry the self-incrimination protection back to the time of arrest — as it has been carried by court decisions — but to provide, if the accused person fails to take the stand and offer "credible response" in open court, that judge or jury "may draw all appropriate conclusions therefrom."

This, he held, would do more than the California provision did before it was thrown out by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Both speakers stressed fear that the United States is trending toward a police state, pointing out that anti-law riots such as now are common in this country preceded imposition of police states in Italy, Germany and elsewhere. Both saw the rewording of the Fifth Amendment guarantee as one step in increasing respect for law by making it more difficult for the guilty man to escape punishment.

Weissich, who is probably Marin's most prominent defense attorney, said an innocent man may need the protection at time of arrest but need not "hide behind the Fifth" in open court.

He quoted from "The Common Law" by the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes: "If the law is to continue to be believed, it must keep its promises."

Use of the Fifth Amendment to protect the guilty, as is done during trial, makes it more difficult for the law to keep its promises, he contended.

Long Distance Call Saves Life Of Novato Wife

Miriam Louise Burrage of 42 Alondros Court, Novato, was treated yesterday at Novato General Hospital for carbon monoxide inhalation after being found unconscious in the living room of her home, according to police reports.

Police said they found Mrs. Burrage after receiving a phone call from a friend of hers in Southern California, reporting a previous phone conversation in which Mrs. Burrage has said she was going to take her own life.

They found a hose leading from a car with its motor running in the garage, into the kitchen. A towel was stuffed in the opening under the door of an adjacent bedroom where her two sons, ages 5 and 10 years, were asleep, according to police. They were unharmed, police said.

Her husband, William Burrage, who has his own garage business in San Francisco, was at work.

Winners Announced In Poster Contest

Scott Kresy wonn a radio as first prize in the poster contest in the sixth grade at Martin Luther King School in Sausalito in connection with the third annual children's bazaar Dec. 7.

Karla Meeks took second prize and Richard Lohmann got third in the event sponsored by the Sausalito Artists and Merchants.

Inverness Water Rate Hike Argued

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A hearing resumed yesterday in the California Public Utilities Commission offices into requests for water rate increases of nearly 100 per cent in Inverness and other Northern California areas.

PUC Examiner Carol T. Coffey heard two days of testimony at the Inverness Yacht Club in October. Inverness residents had contended the increases sought by the Inverness Water Co. were not justified because the holding company to which the Inverness firm belongs was improperly charging expenses to the local subsidiary.

Besides an increase in Inverness rates, hikes up to 106 per cent are sought in other parts of the Redwood Empire by the holding company.

There was no indication when the hearing would conclude. Coffey ultimately will make a recommendation to Public Utilities Commissioner William E. Bennett of Kentifeld, who will present the case to the full commission for a final decision.

The case is being heard beginning at 10 a.m. weekdays in the commission offices in the state building.

Kennedy Funeral Gun Case Ends

NEW YORK (AP) — Gary R. De Dell, a Syracuse, N.Y., printing-firm executive was given a conditional discharge today in criminal court for illegal possession of a pistol at the funeral of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The discharge was given by a three-judge panel, with Judges Daniel Weiss and Hyman Solniker concurring on the sentence and Judge William Shea voting to sentence De Dell to $100 fine or 10 days in prison.

The condition of De Dell's discharge was that he not at any time carry a loaded or unloaded gun without a license.

Yule Fete Planned

Belvedere volunteer firemen last night agreed to host a Christmas party for firemen's children on Dec. 21 at the fire station, President Orley R. Holm reported. The time of the party has not been set, Holm said.

New Pearson Feud: Nixon, Psychiatrist

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Columnist Drew Pearson, who has been involved in disputes involving several presidents, has raised the question of why Richard M. Nixon, now president-elect, consulted a New York physician several years ago.

Pearson related to an audience at the National Press Club yesterday that he was told the visit concerned "psychiatric problems" and occurred at some time in the 1953-61 period that Nixon was vice president.

The physician is Dr. Arnold A. Hutschnecker, currently a psychiatrist with offices in New York City. Dr. Hutschnecker told UPI that when he was treating Nixon two or three times a year from 1950 to 1955 it was "for strictly medical problems."

Hutschnecker emphasized that while he had gradually changed his practice to psychiatry over the past several years, at the time Nixon was consulting him he was practicing internal medicine.

Ronald Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, questioned at a news briefing about the columnist's remarks, said: "I won't be drawn into a discussion of a Pearson utterance that is totally untrue, as most of his statements and utterances are,"

Pearson, who spoke at a National Press Club luncheon, mentioned the Nixon medical matter while responding to a question as to how closely he checks material for his column.

Pearson said that in the process of checking rumors, he telephoned Dr. Hutschnecker about 9:30 A.M. Oct. 31 —five days before the election —"and he told me he had treated Nixon when he was vice president."

Parson took this to mean he had treated Nixon psychiatrically. The doctor had patients at the time and asked Pearson to call him again at 4 p.m.

"I called the doctor back at 4 o'clock and he said, it's true that Nixon did consult me, but this was for problems of internal medicine and it was not for psychotherapy," Pearson said. The columnist said he decided to write nothing, although he wondered why Nixon would go to New York to see an internist. He added:

"Now subsequently Dr. Hutschnecker has told others and confirmed the fact that in the interim between my call at 9:30 in the morning and 4 p.m. he got a call from the Nixon office and that he had changed his story to me. And he did confirm to others that he had treated or advised Nixon over psychiatric problems. And he had expressed some worry privately that Nixon had problems —or did have a problem —of not standing up under great pressure."

Dr. Hutschnecker, interviewed by telephone, said that he had not said he had treated Nixon for any psychiatric reason.

"If Mr. Pearson made that statement, he fabricated it," he said. "I did not make it."

The doctor said he treated Nixon from about 1950 (the year Nixon was elected to the Senate) through the first couple of years of his vice presidency, which began in 1953.

"I was engaged at that time in internal medicine, so Mr. Nixon came at that time for strictly medical problems," Hutschnecker said. The visits were "at rather rare intervals, maybe two or three times a year." He would not elaborate on the reason, beyond saying "for general consultation."

The doctor said that "we came to an understanding that because of his exposed position he should get someone in Washington" — indicating that this was because as vice president, Nixon was more in the public eye and always accompanied by a Secret Service man.

Dr. Hutschnecker, who came to this country from Germany in 1936, described himself as now "engaged in psychotherapy which is psychoanalytically-oriented treatment of emotional problems."

He said he has written several books on psychosomatic medicine, which concerns the relationship of psychological elements to bodily ills.

New Attack On Poverty Panel's Role

The Marin County Building and Construction Trades Council has joined the Marin County Labor Council in criticizing lack of coordination of manpower services by the Economic Opportunity Council.

The building and trades council Tuesday concurred with a labor council resolution charging the EOC has failed to coordinate the 20 agencies involved in manpower services in Marin, president N. C. Green reported.

The building and trades council also joined the labor council in urging the county to hire Dr. Arthur Pearl of the University of Oregon as consultant to the New Careers program in Marin.

New Careers, proposed by Dr. Pearl, is a program to train minority workers for county jobs.

The council will also support the labor council's cooperation with the human rights commission in sponsoring a part of the manpower program, as requested by the board of supervisors.

Green said it was also reported that the rain has started to take its toll of construction work. A total of 202 men were reported out of work because of the weather Tuesday, he said.

Burglars Take Mink Valued At $50,000

OAKLAND (UPI) — Burglars with a selective taste for mink robbed the Benioff Furs store early today, taking an estiated $50,000 worth of furs.

The burglars forced the front door and smashed a glass show case where the furs were displayed. The action set off a silent alarm, but the thieves were gone before police arrived. The robbers took all the mink furs in the case but left a Kalgan coat, made of curly lamb, on the floor.

Parents Ask Return Of Gregory Book

About 125 parents, teachers and students converged on the Dixie School District trustees meeting last night and demanded that Dick Gregory's autobiography, "Nigger," be returned to the classrooms.

The trustees appointed a review committee to study the Gregory book and report back with a recommendation on Nov. 27. The review committee will comprise Dr. Penrod Moss, assistant superintendent for curriculum; Earl Thomason, principal of Vallecito School; Mrs. Lorena Pedan, district librarian; one of the teachers at Vallecito; and two teachers to be selected by the Dixie Teachers Association.

The controversy arose last month when Supt. Dennie B. Willis withdrew the book from classrooms at Vallecito School, where two teachers were using the book for classroom study.

The trustees declared last night that the superintendent had acted in his best judgment and they would not second-guess him but would await the report of the review committee before deciding on whether "Nigger" should return to the classrooms.

Dixie School District trustees also:

LANDSCAPING — Adopted a landscaping plan for Oak View School and authorized the superintendent to apply to the state Local Allocation Board and the department of finance to pay for part of the project.

LITTER CLEANING — Authorized the purchase of a litter vacuum to clean school yards at a cost of $436.90.

TRAILERS — Accepted a bid from Design Facilities Corp. in the amount of $5,565 for the three trailers and authorized purchase of a fourth trailer for $1,195. The trailers will be used in the speech program for handicapped pupils.

Kentfield Doctor Tries Out Drug Against Leprosy

Dr. Paul Fasal of Kentfield, chief of the leprosy section of the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in San Francisco, is working on a new drug to fight the disease.

A story in yesterday's Wall Street Journal noted that Dr. Charles C. Shepard of the National Communicable Disease Center and Dr. Fasal were working on a drug called B-663.

In tests the drug has seemed to work as well as sulfones, which have enabled physicians to arrest the disease before more damaging complications set in, the Wall Street Journal reported.

But B-663 hasn't the side effects of sulfones, such as anemia, the story noted. The only drawback to B-663 discovered so far is that reddish dye, one of its key ingredients, gives the patient's skin a reddish hue, it was reported.

$7,300 Jewelry Theft At Strawberry Home

The theft of $7,300 worth of jewelry from a Strawberry home Friday was among the several burglaries reported today by the Marin sheriff's office.

Engelberta Dwelly of 320 East Strawberry Drive said someone pushed open a sliding glass door while she was away at a party.

They took her valuable jewelry from a chest of drawers, but left behind less expensive costume jewelry, she said.

Other burglaries reported were:

The theft of $88 cash Friday from the home of Marie Ailka at 240A Redwood Highway, Alto. The thief entered through an unlocked door, she said.

The theft of $4.50 in change from John D. Penfield's house at 575 Appleberry Lane, Marinwood, Saturday.

Theft of two radios and $10 cash from the home of John C. Reynolds at 787 Penney Royale Lane, Terra Linda, Sunday.

Antique items, including a civil war saber and a Japanese bayonet, stolen between Oct. 26 and Monday from the summer house on Perth Way, Inverness, of David W. Mushet of 16 Mallard Road, Belvedere.

Jewelry and clothing, valued at $125, stolen Saturday from the car of Benjamin C. Train of 23 Tamalpais Drive, Mill Valley, while it was parked in front of 223 Woodland Avenue, Kentfield.

Teen-Age Trio Accused On Pot; Crossbow Taken

Tiburon police yesterday arrested three 17-year-old boys on suspicion of marijuana possession after the youths were allegedly found smoking pot on a remote Tiburon road.

The youths, from Corte Madera, Larkspur and San Anselmo, were booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall.

Officer John O. Goff reported he smelled the distinctive odor of marijuana when he stopped at 2:55 p.m. to talk to the youths, who were sitting in a car parked on Taylor Road off Paradise Drive near the Corte Madera city limits. A further check uncovered marijuana cigarettes, Goff said.

He also confiscated, as a dangerous weapon, a crossbow, which the youths said they had made in local high school class. Also found in the car were two Volkswagen bucket seats which police said are believed to have been stolen. Investigation of the seats is continuing, police said.

Jury Faces Decision On Killer's Life

SAN JOSE (AP) — The seven men and five women jurors who convicted Thomas E. Braun of first-degree murder were asked today to decide whether he pays with his life or life in prison.

"Your only decision is death, or permission to live out his life in prison," said Superior Court Judge Joseph P. Kelly of Santa Clara County.

College Editor Resumes Post

HAYWARD (UPI) — Karen Holzmeister has resumed her duties as editor of the Pioneer, the student publication at Hayward State College.

Miss Holzmeister resigned last month when she was confronted by a group of Negro students after writing an editorial that was critical of the black power demonstration by two Negro athletes at the Olympic Games.

After an exhaustive investigation, Ellis E. McCune, interim president at Hayward State, yesterday said the resignation was not being accepted.

Curb Sought On Larkspur Park Hippies

An ordinance designed to alleviate the problem of hippie vandalism in Dolliver Park was ordered last night by the Larkspur Parks and Recreation Commission.

Robert C. Bundy, parks and recreation director, said today he was directed to include in the draft some restrictions on the use of park equipment and the hours which the park should remain open, then submit the draft for consideration at the 8 p.m. commission meeting Dec. 11 at city hall.

Bundy said at present the rules regulating park use are vague, that a 7 p.m. curfew in the evenings has often been ignored because of long summer evenings. Police Chief Howard Clark on Nov. 6 told the city council that hippies have sometimes vandalized the park. He added, however, that the problem has diminished with recent rainy weather.

The Larkspur Parks and Recreation Commission also:

HALL — Heard a report by Bundy that repair of delapidated and city-owned Eastman Hall, 200 Williams Avenue, would cost about $6,600. He said the fire department also has reported that a fire hazard exists with cooking and water vents.

The commission agreed to assist groups now using the hall to find new meeting places until a decision is made whether to repair or replace the hall with a portable building in Piper Park.

BOAT LAUNCHING — Heard Bundy report that the state Department of Highways and the state Small Craft Harbor Commission have approved a proposed city-built small craft launching ramp on Corte Madera Creek beneath the Greenbrae underpass of Highway 101.

Bundy said development plans will now proceed, and he also was directed to investigate the possibility of Larkspur's obtaining financial aid from other agencies toward gaining matching federal funds for dredging of a sand bar off Point San Quentin.

PIPE PARK — Requested a report on possible revision of the master plan of Pipe Park to devote the park to recreational facilities rather than include the suggested erection of a city hall and library there.

Rewording Of 'Fifth' Is Held A Must Today

Californians 34 years ago wrote into their state constitution a construction of the Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination similar to that now proposed for the U.S. Constitution by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court.

Attorney William O. Weissich noted this today when he appeared on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" with Judge Gardiner to discuss the proposal.

The California constitution was amended by initiative to provide: "In any criminal case (the defendant's) failure to explain or deny . . . may be commented upon by court or counsel and may be considered by the court and jury."

Three years ago, however, the U.S. Supreme Court by 7-2 vote held this California provision was unconstitutional.

Judge Gardiner has proposed in an open letter to Sen.-elect Alan Cranston and Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, that the Congress undertake a rewording of the Fifth Amendment to carry the self-incrimination protection back to the time of arrest — as it has been carried by court decisions — but to provide, if the accused person fails to take the stand and offer "credible response" in open court, that judge or jury "may draw all appropriate conclusions therefrom."

This, he held, would do more than the California provision did before it was thrown out by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Both speakers stressed fear that the United States is trending toward a police state, pointing out that anti-law riots such as now are common in this country preceded imposition of police states in Italy, Germany and elsewhere. Both saw the rewording of the Fifth Amendment guarantee as one step in increasing respect for law by making it more difficult for the guilty man to escape punishment.

Weissich, who is probably Marin's most prominent defense attorney, said an innocent man may need the protection at time of arrest but need not "hide behind the Fifth" in open court.

He quoted from "The Common Law" by the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes: "If the law is to continue to be believed, it must keep its promises."

Use of the Fifth Amendment to protect the guilty, as is done during trial, makes it more difficult for the law to keep its promises, he contended.

Long Distance Call Saves Life Of Novato Wife

Miriam Louise Burrage of 42 Alondros Court, Novato, was treated yesterday at Novato General Hospital for carbon monoxide inhalation after being found unconscious in the living room of her home, according to police reports.

Police said they found Mrs. Burrage after receiving a phone call from a friend of hers in Southern California, reporting a previous phone conversation in which Mrs. Burrage has said she was going to take her own life.

They found a hose leading from a car with its motor running in the garage, into the kitchen. A towel was stuffed in the opening under the door of an adjacent bedroom where her two sons, ages 5 and 10 years, were asleep, according to police. They were unharmed, police said.

Her husband, William Burrage, who has his own garage business in San Francisco, was at work.

Inverness Water Rate Hike Argued

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A hearing resumed yesterday in the California Public Utilities Commission offices into requests for water rate increases of nearly 100 per cent in Inverness and other Northern California areas.

PUC Examiner Carol T. Coffey heard two days of testimony at the Inverness Yacht Club in October. Inverness residents had contended the increases sought by the Inverness Water Co. were not justified because the holding company to which the Inverness firm belongs was improperly charging expenses to the local subsidiary.

Besides an increase in Inverness rates, hikes up to 106 per cent are sought in other parts of the Redwood Empire by the holding company.

There was no indication when the hearing would conclude. Coffey ultimately will make a recommendation to Public Utilities Commissioner William E. Bennett of Kentifeld, who will present the case to the full commission for a final decision.

The case is being heard beginning at 10 a.m. weekdays in the commission offices in the state building.

Kennedy Funeral Gun Case Ends

NEW YORK (AP) — Gary R. De Dell, a Syracuse, N.Y., printing-firm executive was given a conditional discharge today in criminal court for illegal possession of a pistol at the funeral of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The discharge was given by a three-judge panel, with Judges Daniel Weiss and Hyman Solniker concurring on the sentence and Judge William Shea voting to sentence De Dell to $100 fine or 10 days in prison.

The condition of De Dell's discharge was that he not at any time carry a loaded or unloaded gun without a license.

Sausalito Rail Link Decay Stressed

By DAVID DIETZ

SAN FRANCISCO — The Sausalito branch of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad was pictured yesterday as a rusted and decaying stretch that would require about $1.4 million to renovate.

And such an expense is not justified, said C. E. Neal, vice president and general manager of the railroad, because of light freight business on the branch.

Neal, taking the stand in the first day of an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on Northwestern Pacific's bid to abandon service on the branch, said that "major expenditures must be made to rehabilitate the line if it is to continue to operate."

"The rehabilitation will be extremely expensive," he added, "and I do not believe that the present and future traffic on the line are sufficient to warrant that very large outlay."

Neal said the 2,172-foot Corte Madera tunnel, first built in 1884, would have to be reconstructed, three trestles on the branch replaced or rebuilt and new track laid to replace rail installed in 1909 and 1937.

Neal presented pictures of the tunnel which showed the structure in various degrees of collapse and deterioration. He said the tunnel was weakened and so narrow that it was once necessary to cut away sections of the wall to permit a train to pass.

The cost of a reconstructed tunnel was estimated by Neal at $1.2 million. He placed the cost of repairing or replacing the trestles at $66,485 and of track repair at $219,400.

Neal said under questioning by Robert N. Lowry, attorney for three Sausalito businessmen who use the branch to haul freight and are opposing abandonment, that the reconstruction work had "accumulated" over the years because of light traffic.

But Neal said he "assumed" that traffic at one time was heavier and that, had the railroad spent a sum of $55,000 that was appropriated for this type of work in 1955, the Sausalito branch would be in better condition today.

It is Northwestern Pacific's second attempt to abandon service on the branch. An ICC examiner ruled in favor of abandonment after a hearing in 1960, but was overturned by an ICC subcommittee.

The railroad also sought unsuccessfully to abandon the Puerto Suello Tunnel, which was heavily damaged by fire in 1961 but reopened in September 1967.

New Pearson Feud: Nixon, Psychiatrist

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Columnist Drew Pearson, who has been involved in disputes involving several presidents, has raised the question of why Richard M. Nixon, now president-elect, consulted a New York physician several years ago.

Pearson related to an audience at the National Press Club yesterday that he was told the visit concerned "psychiatric problems" and occurred at some time in the 1953-61 period that Nixon was vice president.

The physician is Dr. Arnold A. Hutschnecker, currently a psychiatrist with offices in New York City. Dr. Hutschnecker told UPI that when he was treating Nixon two or three times a year from 1950 to 1955 it was "for strictly medical problems."

Hutschnecker emphasized that while he had gradually changed his practice to psychiatry over the past several years, at the time Nixon was consulting him he was practicing internal medicine.

Ronald Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, questioned at a news briefing about the columnist's remarks, said: "I won't be drawn into a discussion of a Pearson utterance that is totally untrue, as most of his statements and utterances are,"

Pearson, who spoke at a National Press Club luncheon, mentioned the Nixon medical matter while responding to a question as to how closely he checks material for his column.

Pearson said that in the process of checking rumors, he telephoned Dr. Hutschnecker about 9:30 A.M. Oct. 31 —five days before the election —"and he told me he had treated Nixon when he was vice president."

Parson took this to mean he had treated Nixon psychiatrically. The doctor had patients at the time and asked Pearson to call him again at 4 p.m.

"I called the doctor back at 4 o'clock and he said, it's true that Nixon did consult me, but this was for problems of internal medicine and it was not for psychotherapy," Pearson said. The columnist said he decided to write nothing, although he wondered why Nixon would go to New York to see an internist. He added:

"Now subsequently Dr. Hutschnecker has told others and confirmed the fact that in the interim between my call at 9:30 in the morning and 4 p.m. he got a call from the Nixon office and that he had changed his story to me. And he did confirm to others that he had treated or advised Nixon over psychiatric problems. And he had expressed some worry privately that Nixon had problems —or did have a problem —of not standing up under great pressure."

Dr. Hutschnecker, interviewed by telephone, said that he had not said he had treated Nixon for any psychiatric reason.

"If Mr. Pearson made that statement, he fabricated it," he said. "I did not make it."

The doctor said he treated Nixon from about 1950 (the year Nixon was elected to the Senate) through the first couple of years of his vice presidency, which began in 1953.

"I was engaged at that time in internal medicine, so Mr. Nixon came at that time for strictly medical problems," Hutschnecker said. The visits were "at rather rare intervals, maybe two or three times a year." He would not elaborate on the reason, beyond saying "for general consultation."

The doctor said that "we came to an understanding that because of his exposed position he should get someone in Washington" — indicating that this was because as vice president, Nixon was more in the public eye and always accompanied by a Secret Service man.

Dr. Hutschnecker, who came to this country from Germany in 1936, described himself as now "engaged in psychotherapy which is psychoanalytically-oriented treatment of emotional problems."

He said he has written several books on psychosomatic medicine, which concerns the relationship of psychological elements to bodily ills.

New Attack On Poverty Panel's Role

The Marin County Building and Construction Trades Council has joined the Marin County Labor Council in criticizing lack of coordination of manpower services by the Economic Opportunity Council.

The building and trades council Tuesday concurred with a labor council resolution charging the EOC has failed to coordinate the 20 agencies involved in manpower services in Marin, president N. C. Green reported.

The building and trades council also joined the labor council in urging the county to hire Dr. Arthur Pearl of the University of Oregon as consultant to the New Careers program in Marin.

New Careers, proposed by Dr. Pearl, is a program to train minority workers for county jobs.

The council will also support the labor council's cooperation with the human rights commission in sponsoring a part of the manpower program, as requested by the board of supervisors.

Green said it was also reported that the rain has started to take its toll of construction work. A total of 202 men were reported out of work because of the weather Tuesday, he said.

Burglars Take Mink Valued At $50,000

OAKLAND (UPI) — Burglars with a selective taste for mink robbed the Benioff Furs store early today, taking an estiated $50,000 worth of furs.

The burglars forced the front door and smashed a glass show case where the furs were displayed. The action set off a silent alarm, but the thieves were gone before police arrived. The robbers took all the mink furs in the case but left a Kalgan coat, made of curly lamb, on the floor.

Parents Ask Return Of Gregory Book

About 125 parents, teachers and students converged on the Dixie School District trustees meeting last night and demanded that Dick Gregory's autobiography, "Nigger," be returned to the classrooms.

The trustees appointed a review committee to study the Gregory book and report back with a recommendation on Nov. 27. The review committee will comprise Dr. Penrod Moss, assistant superintendent for curriculum; Earl Thomason, principal of Vallecito School; Mrs. Lorena Pedan, district librarian; one of the teachers at Vallecito; and two teachers to be selected by the Dixie Teachers Association.

The controversy arose last month when Supt. Dennie B. Willis withdrew the book from classrooms at Vallecito School, where two teachers were using the book for classroom study.

The trustees declared last night that the superintendent had acted in his best judgment and they would not second-guess him but would await the report of the review committee before deciding on whether "Nigger" should return to the classrooms.

Dixie School District trustees also:

LANDSCAPING — Adopted a landscaping plan for Oak View School and authorized the superintendent to apply to the state Local Allocation Board and the department of finance to pay for part of the project.

LITTER CLEANING — Authorized the purchase of a litter vacuum to clean school yards at a cost of $436.90.

TRAILERS — Accepted a bid from Design Facilities Corp. in the amount of $5,565 for the three trailers and authorized purchase of a fourth trailer for $1,195. The trailers will be used in the speech program for handicapped pupils.

Kentfield Doctor Tries Out Drug Against Leprosy

Dr. Paul Fasal of Kentfield, chief of the leprosy section of the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in San Francisco, is working on a new drug to fight the disease.

A story in yesterday's Wall Street Journal noted that Dr. Charles C. Shepard of the National Communicable Disease Center and Dr. Fasal were working on a drug called B-663.

In tests the drug has seemed to work as well as sulfones, which have enabled physicians to arrest the disease before more damaging complications set in, the Wall Street Journal reported.

But B-663 hasn't the side effects of sulfones, such as anemia, the story noted. The only drawback to B-663 discovered so far is that reddish dye, one of its key ingredients, gives the patient's skin a reddish hue, it was reported.

$7,300 Jewelry Theft At Strawberry Home

The theft of $7,300 worth of jewelry from a Strawberry home Friday was among the several burglaries reported today by the Marin sheriff's office.

Engelberta Dwelly of 320 East Strawberry Drive said someone pushed open a sliding glass door while she was away at a party.

They took her valuable jewelry from a chest of drawers, but left behind less expensive costume jewelry, she said.

Other burglaries reported were:

The theft of $88 cash Friday from the home of Marie Ailka at 240A Redwood Highway, Alto. The thief entered through an unlocked door, she said.

The theft of $4.50 in change from John D. Penfield's house at 575 Appleberry Lane, Marinwood, Saturday.

Theft of two radios and $10 cash from the home of John C. Reynolds at 787 Penney Royale Lane, Terra Linda, Sunday.

Antique items, including a civil war saber and a Japanese bayonet, stolen between Oct. 26 and Monday from the summer house on Perth Way, Inverness, of David W. Mushet of 16 Mallard Road, Belvedere.

Tiburon police yesterday arrested three 17-year-old boys on suspicion of marijuana possession after the youths were allegedly found smoking pot on a remote Tiburon road.

The youths, from Corte Madera, Larkspur and San Anselmo, were booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall.

Officer John O. Goff reported he smelled the distinctive odor of marijuana when he stopped at 2:55 p.m. to talk to the youths, who were sitting in a car parked on Taylor Road off Paradise Drive near the Corte Madera city limits. A further check uncovered marijuana cigarettes, Goff said.

He also confiscated, as a dangerous weapon, a crossbow, which the youths said they had made in local high school class. Also found in the car were two Volkswagen bucket seats which police said are believed to have been stolen. Investigation of the seats is continuing, police said.

Jury Faces Decision On Killer's Life

SAN JOSE (AP) — The seven men and five women jurors who convicted Thomas E. Braun of first-degree murder were asked today to decide whether he pays with his life or life in prison.

"Your only decision is death, or permission to live out his life in prison," said Superior Court Judge Joseph P. Kelly of Santa Clara County.

College Editor Resumes Post

HAYWARD (UPI) — Karen Holzmeister has resumed her duties as editor of the Pioneer, the student publication at Hayward State College.

Miss Holzmeister resigned last month when she was confronted by a group of Negro students after writing an editorial that was critical of the black power demonstration by two Negro athletes at the Olympic Games.

After an exhaustive investigation, Ellis E. McCune, interim president at Hayward State, yesterday said the resignation was not being accepted.

Bringing Art Into Classrooms

With the help of volunteer mothers, art projects are brightening the classrooms in 33 Marin schools with original paintings and sculpture by the children and color reproductions by the masters.

The program is intended to supplement regular art curriculum in the schools and is directed to children in second through sixth grades.

At Ross School two teams of volunteer mothers are working with the fifth and sixth grade teachers to bring the Marin Museum Association Young People's Art Program into the classroom.

Mrs. William Cavalier Jr. is assisted by Mesdames Richard Nelson, Ralph McMurray and Ned Burman; and Mrs. Richard Saladin has as her assistants Mesdames John Weaver and Laurie Felton. Mrs. Cavalier has assembled a display of European and Asian art history for the Ross youngsters. It includes reproductions of paintings from the time of the caveman to the 20th Century and is mounted along the length of the corridor at the school.

In other parts of Ross School are an exhibit of North American art which begins with the 2,000 - year - old culture of the Marin Miwok Indians and a display of Mexican art from earliest times to the present.

Mrs. Ellis Stephens, art program chiarman at Ross School, explains that the displays can help the children to realize how the elements of art have been used at different times and different cultures and the differences of the peoples who produced the art. But she emphasized that the most important part of the program is the children's own experiments.

At Ross Mrs. Dorothy Hardy's fifth grade classroom has paintings, sculpture, collage, ceramics and mixed media on every available wall space, window sills and the floor.

Recently a field trip to Stinson Beach was made by the volunteer mothers and fifth graders from the school, who became fascinated with seaweed. Later, in the classroom the children drew their own impressions of seaweed with a soft stick and sumi ink.

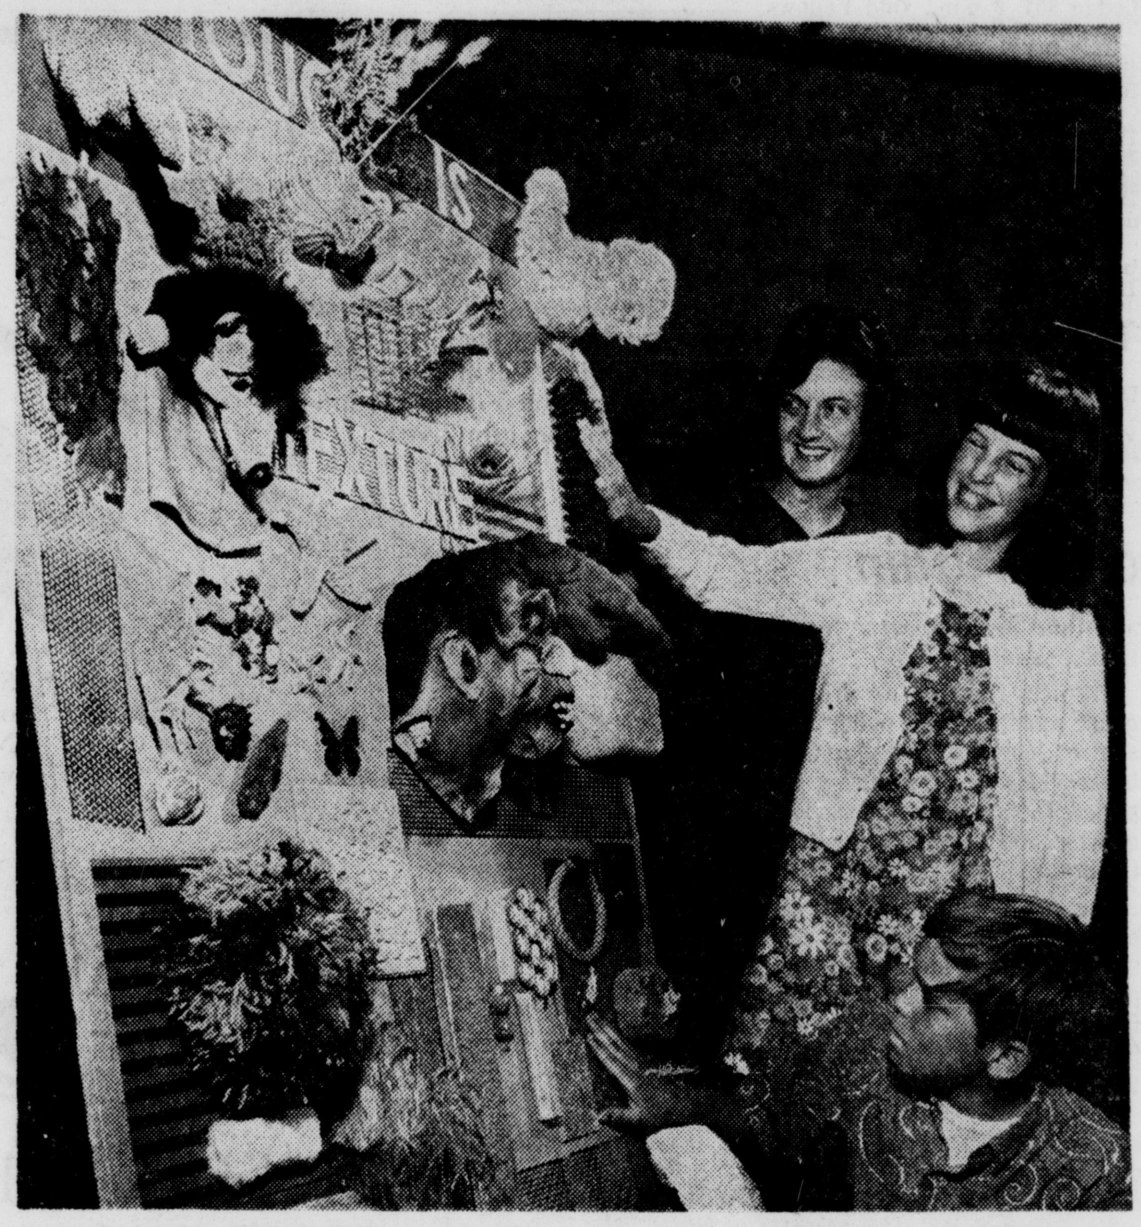
The children are enthusiastic about the volunteer program. When eight more mothers finish their training course as art volunteers the Ross program can be expanded in the spring.

Before they become volunteers the mothers are given a two month training course, with both basic and advanced training offered to them by the Marin Museum Association at the County Schools Office in Corte Madera. Mrs. Jay Crotty of San Rafael is the course director.

Many of the volunteers were art majors in college or were teachers, but a great variety of backgrounds is represented among them.

Guest lecturers for the adults who will then assist in Marin schools are art and education specialists from the Dixie, Kentfield and Reed districts and the College of Marin, as well as professional artists and education supervisors from the San Francisco art museums and San Francisco State College instructors in elementary education. The women are also given field trips and films in their training.

The program has been underway through the Marin Museum Association and public schools for some four years.



'TOUCH IS TEXTURE' reads the board, and who could resist running a hand over such smooth and rough objects? Learning the varieties and uses of textures are Ross pupils Jane Grazzola, center, and Mark Simonitch. Mrs. Richard Nelson, volunteer mother in the art program, discusses it with them. The texture board includes everything from scrub brush bristles, to bottle caps, to a starfish and a fold of velvet cloth.

CLASSICAL art of Greece and Rome is the subject for the sixth graders at Ross Elementary School as volunteer Mrs. William Cavalier Jr. conducts the program. Assisting her, right, is Mrs. Richard Nelson. The art program conducted by volunteer mothers at Ross is similar to those held in some 33 Marin public schools.

Couple Adjusting To Life In Mill Valley After Rome

By MOLLY MARIN

Home after 14 months in Rome, Dr. and Mrs. Michael Hogan say that if they didn't live right where they do in Mill Valley, they would like to move to Rome.

An eye specialist, Dr. Hogan has been doing research on uveitis and teaching at the University of Rome. Mrs. Hogan said they finally learned to speak Italian and became so accustomed to the ways of life in Italy that they are now having to make adjustments to life in this country.

The Hogans bought a car and had the opportunity to do a lot of traveling. Some of the most interesting places they visited were Istanbul, Beirut and Cairo. They went to Sicily and Tunis at Christmas time, and in February they went skiing in Switzerland and had a chalet near the Jungfrau.

Their daughter Judy came over to spend a month with them, and they had many visitors from the Bay Area.

On the way home they took six weeks, going up the Adriatic to Vienna and stopping at Salzburg, Tubingen and Wurzburg and Ghent before going to London, their last stop.

They visited clinics, and Dr. Hogan lectured in most of these places. They will return to Rome next year for a month so that Dr. Hogan can do followup work on his research.

TWO BIRTHDAYS were celebrated Sunday with a cocktail party and buffet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stevens in Novato. Honored on their natal day were Mr. Stevens and Mrs. Edward Ghirardo. Among the guests who gathered for singing around the piano and dancing were Messrs. and Mesdames Ghirardo, Ed Adams, Leigh Metteer, Thomas H. Smith, Jack Hudson, Ike Doerksen, Robert Lusk, Rudy Larisch, J. Scott Wright and Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Almgren, all of Novato. Other guests were the Ralph Beattys and Roy Smith of Kentfield, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Boehm of Walnut Creek and the Larry Driscolls and Robert St. Johns of the Peninsula.

THE SIDNEY Diehls of San Rafael are home after a visit to Gold Beach, Ore., to see their newborn grandson, Terry Martin Hirt, born Nov. 2. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hurt (Margaret Diehl).

MR. AND MRS. Richard F. Bradley of Kentfield are on an around-the-world cruise aboard the liner President Roosevelt.

A RETIRED school teacher that couldn't take her retirement seriously continues to substitute teach while planning to celebrate her 80th birthday tomorrow. Mrs. Orbie S. Griffith of San Anselmo was a third grade teacher in the Fairfax School District until her official retirement in 1957. Since that time she has assisted with kindergarten classes through fourth grade at various schools.

Very active in the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo, Mrs. Griffith will be honored at an invitational reception at the church Sunday afternoon. Hosting the occasion will be her three sons and a foster son and their families. They are Mr. and Mrs. Newell Griffith of Terra Linda, Mr. and Mrs. George Griffith of Novato, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Griffith of Larkspur and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Stiener of San Mateo.

Girl Would Divorce Her Family And Seeks Advice On First Step

DEAR HELEN:

Just like married people get divorces, I'd like to divorce my family.

My mother hates me, and my father couldn't care less. My family is a whole army against me. You can hear my mother screaming at me clear down the street. Both parents figure by yelling louder or hitting harder and grounding me, they will make things better.

My mother sees sex in everything, and trusts nobody. My friends aren't fiends, but she thinks all teen-agers ever do is have orgies. If she had her way, she'd send me to the doctor every month for an examination to see if I'm still "pure."

A boy I know moved away and sent me a letter. You know how all kids sign "Luv" on their notes. Well, he printed it in those fat, psychedelic letters, and my mother said it was "a picture of the sex act" and he was "depraved." He just wrote friendly things. We never dated, 'cause they don't allow me to. I'm over 16, do well in school and earn my own money, which they mostly take away from me, for board and room.

I'd run away, but my brother did, and he ended up in Juvy.

I have a girl friend whose mother and father are wonderful. They see how things are and want me to come live with them. I don't dare mention it at home. But I'm getting so nervous I burst into tears if anybody looks at me.

What can I do?—JANIE

DEAR JANIE:

If things are as bad as they appear from your 10-page letter, a foster home is just about the only solution. Since a good one is waiting, it may take only a discussion with juvenile authorities and your parents to place you there. Surely your friend's parents will go to bat for you. Ask them! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My Dad and I have a little argument. When my boy friend comes over, he usually holds my hand, or sometimes lightly puts an arm around me. No mushy stuff though. We aren't the type.

I see nothing wrong with this, but Dad practically throws a fit. He says it's very disrespectful, especially when I've got younger sisters around.

I can see where he might object to an arm over my shoulder (though not really), but holding my hand? I just wish my mother and father would show their affection like this in front of us. It would make us all feel closer. — ABERDEEN TEEN

DEAR TEEN:

I think your attitude is healthier than your father's.

Take a lesson from your teen, Pop! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You had so many blasts at Jade, K.K. and Deadette, that you may not want another, but I had to tell you these spoiled brats need a good whacking. When they call anyone over 30 "old bats" they aren't speaking for any teens but themselves. But they're creating an impression that all teens must live down. If I did the crude things Deadette brags about at her "skating rink love-ins" I sure wouldn't brag!

I belong to a gang too. We are the Mighty Blackjacks, but a nicer name is "soul sisters." Our block dances and parties don't get us reputations. We try to do good, not bad, and maybe it's just a little harder for US.

See, I'm black. But besides being proud of it, I feel I am blessed for it because I have learned to appreciate what I've got and take things as they come. My parents don't bow to my every command, and neither does the world — and I like it that way!

I think those three should not only chew on a bar of soap as you said, Helen, but douse it with double strength mouthwash! — BORN BLACK

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Food Prices Are Up Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail food prices advanced one per cent from July through September and were three per cent higher than in the same period last year, reports the Agriculture Department.

Prices of all farm-originated food, except fresh vegetables and fats and oils, were higher than a year ago.

Farmers received an average of 39 cents of each dollar consumers spent for a "market basket" list of food during the period, the same as for previous quarter and third quarter 1967, the department said.

The rising prices this year resulted from increased consumer demand, decreased supplies of some foods — mainly fruits and vegetables — and higher charges for marketing, the department said.

Though the farm value of market basket foods is currently decreasing, higher marketing costs are expected to keep retail prices through the first half of 1969 at about this year's third quarter levels, the department said.

Bringing Art Into Classrooms

With the help of volunteer mothers, art projects are brightening the classrooms in 33 Marin schools with original paintings and sculpture by the children and color reproductions by the masters.

The program is intended to supplement regular art curriculum in the schools and is directed to children in second through sixth grades.

At Ross School two teams of volunteer mothers are working with the fifth and sixth grade teachers to bring the Marin Museum Association Young People's Art Program into the classroom.

Mrs. William Cavalier Jr. is assisted by Mesdames Richard Nelson, Ralph McMurray and Ned Burman; and Mrs. Richard Saladin has as her assistants Mesdames John Weaver and Laurie Felton. Mrs. Cavalier has assembled a display of European and Asian art history for the Ross youngsters. It includes reproductions of paintings from the time of the caveman to the 20th Century and is mounted along the length of the corridor at the school.

In other parts of Ross School are an exhibit of North American art which begins with the 2,000 - year - old culture of the Marin Miwok Indians and a display of Mexican art from earliest times to the present.

Mrs. Ellis Stephens, art program chiarman at Ross School, explains that the displays can help the children to realize how the elements of art have been used at different times and different cultures and the differences of the peoples who produced the art. But she emphasized that the most important part of the program is the children's own experiments.

At Ross Mrs. Dorothy Hardy's fifth grade classroom has paintings, sculpture, collage, ceramics and mixed media on every available wall space, window sills and the floor.

Recently a field trip to Stinson Beach was made by the volunteer mothers and fifth graders from the school, who became fascinated with seaweed. Later, in the classroom the children drew their own impressions of seaweed with a soft stick and sumi ink.

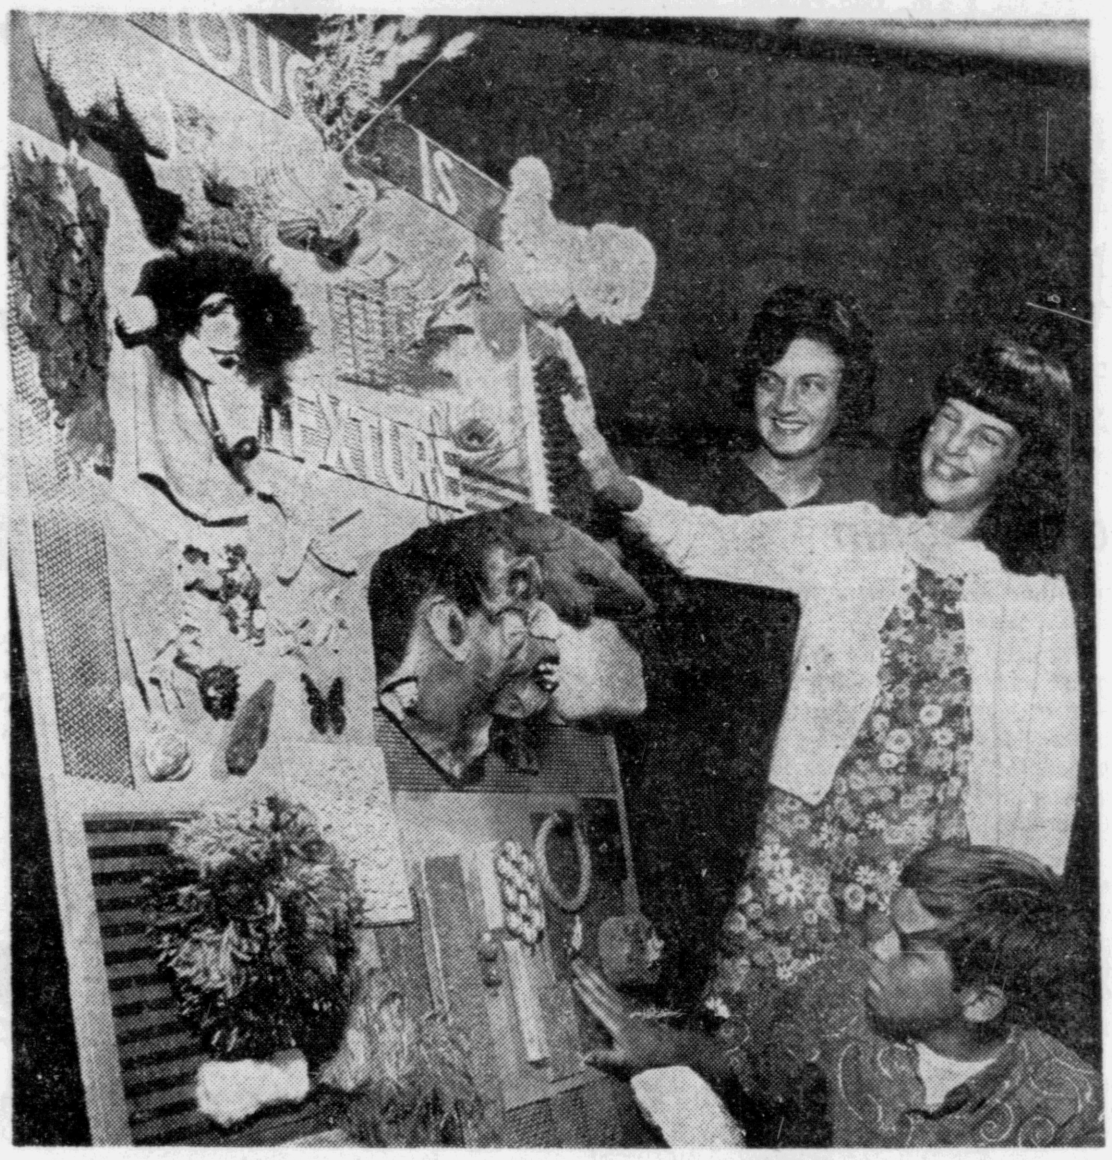
The children are enthusiastic about the volunteer program. When eight more mothers finish their training course as art volunteers the Ross program can be expanded in the spring.

Before they become volunteers the mothers are given a two month training course, with both basic and advanced training offered to them by the Marin Museum Association at the County Schools Office in Corte Madera. Mrs. Jay Crotty of San Rafael is the course director.

Many of the volunteers were art majors in college or were teachers, but a great variety of backgrounds is represented among them.

Guest lecturers for the adults who will then assist in Marin schools are art and education specialists from the Dixie, Kentfield and Reed districts and the College of Marin, as well as professional artists and education supervisors from the San Francisco art museums and San Francisco State College instructors in elementary education. The women are also given field trips and films in their training.

The program has been underway through the Marin Museum Association and public schools for some four years.



'TOUCH IS TEXTURE' reads the board, and who could resist running a hand over such smooth and rough objects? Learning the varieties and uses of textures are Ross pupils Jane Grazzola, center, and Mark Simonitch. Mrs. Richard Nelson, volunteer mother in the art program, discusses it with them. The texture board includes everything from scrub brush bristles, to bottle caps, to a starfish and a fold of velvet cloth.

CLASSICAL art of Greece and Rome is the subject for the sixth graders at Ross Elementary School as volunteer Mrs. William Cavalier Jr. conducts the program. Assisting her, right, is Mrs. Richard Nelson. The art program conducted by volunteer mothers at Ross is similar to those held in some 33 Marin public schools.

Couple Adjusting To Life In Mill Valley After Rome

By MOLLY MARIN

Home after 14 months in Rome, Dr. and Mrs. Michael Hogan say that if they didn't live right where they do in Mill Valley, they would like to move to Rome.

An eye specialist, Dr. Hogan has been doing research on uveitis and teaching at the University of Rome. Mrs. Hogan said they finally learned to speak Italian and became so accustomed to the ways of life in Italy that they are now having to make adjustments to life in this country.

The Hogans bought a car and had the opportunity to do a lot of traveling. Some of the most interesting places they visited were Istanbul, Beirut and Cairo. They went to Sicily and Tunis at Christmas time, and in February they went skiing in Switzerland and had a chalet near the Jungfrau.

Their daughter Judy came over to spend a month with them, and they had many visitors from the Bay Area.

On the way home they took six weeks, going up the Adriatic to Vienna and stopping at Salzburg, Tubingen and Wurzburg and Ghent before going to London, their last stop.

They visited clinics, and Dr. Hogan lectured in most of these places. They will return to Rome next year for a month so that Dr. Hogan can do followup work on his research.

TWO BIRTHDAYS were celebrated Sunday with a cocktail party and buffet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stevens in Novato. Honored on their natal day were Mr. Stevens and Mrs. Edward Ghirardo. Among the guests who gathered for singing around the piano and dancing were Messrs. and Mesdames Ghirardo, Ed Adams, Leigh Metteer, Thomas H. Smith, Jack Hudson, Ike Doerksen, Robert Lusk, Rudy Larisch, J. Scott Wright and Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Almgren, all of Novato. Other guests were the Ralph Beattys and Roy Smith of Kentfield, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Boehm of Walnut Creek and the Larry Driscolls and Robert St. Johns of the Peninsula.

THE SIDNEY Diehls of San Rafael are home after a visit to Gold Beach, Ore., to see their newborn grandson, Terry Martin Hirt, born Nov. 2. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hurt (Margaret Diehl).

MR. AND MRS. Richard F. Bradley of Kentfield are on an around-the-world cruise aboard the liner President Roosevelt.

A RETIRED school teacher that couldn't take her retirement seriously continues to substitute teach while planning to celebrate her 80th birthday tomorrow. Mrs. Orbie S. Griffith of San Anselmo was a third grade teacher in the Fairfax School District until her official retirement in 1957. Since that time she has assisted with kindergarten classes through fourth grade at various schools.

Very active in the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo, Mrs. Griffith will be honored at an invitational reception at the church Sunday afternoon. Hosting the occasion will be her three sons and a foster son and their families. They are Mr. and Mrs. Newell Griffith of Terra Linda, Mr. and Mrs. George Griffith of Novato, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Griffith of Larkspur and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Stiener of San Mateo.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Girl Would Divorce Her Family And Seeks Advice On First Step

DEAR HELEN:

Just like married people get divorces, I'd like to divorce my family.

My mother hates me, and my father couldn't care less. My family is a whole army against me. You can hear my mother screaming at me clear down the street. Both parents figure by yelling louder or hitting harder and grounding me, they will make things better.

My mother sees sex in everything, and trusts nobody. My friends aren't fiends, but she thinks all teen-agers ever do is have orgies. If she had her way, she'd send me to the doctor every month for an examination to see if I'm still "pure."

A boy I know moved away and sent me a letter. You know how all kids sign "Luv" on their notes. Well, he printed it in those fat, psychedelic letters, and my mother said it was "a picture of the sex act" and he was "depraved." He just wrote friendly things. We never dated, 'cause they don't allow me to. I'm over 16, do well in school and earn my own money, which they mostly take away from me, for board and room.

I'd run away, but my brother did, and he ended up in Juvy.

I have a girl friend whose mother and father are wonderful. They see how things are and want me to come live with them. I don't dare mention it at home. But I'm getting so nervous I burst into tears if anybody looks at me.

What can I do?—JANIE

DEAR JANIE:

If things are as bad as they appear from your 10-page letter, a foster home is just about the only solution. Since a good one is waiting, it may take only a discussion with juvenile authorities and your parents to place you there. Surely your friend's parents will go to bat for you. Ask them! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My Dad and I have a little argument. When my boy friend comes over, he usually holds my hand, or sometimes lightly puts an arm around me. No mushy stuff though. We aren't the type.

I see nothing wrong with this, but Dad practically throws a fit. He says it's very disrespectful, especially when I've got younger sisters around.

I can see where he might object to an arm over my shoulder (though not really), but holding my hand? I just wish my mother and father would show their affection like this in front of us. It would make us all feel closer. — ABERDEEN TEEN

DEAR TEEN:

I think your attitude is healthier than your father's.

Take a lesson from your teen, Pop! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You had so many blasts at Jade, K.K. and Deadette, that you may not want another, but I had to tell you these spoiled brats need a good whacking. When they call anyone over 30 "old bats" they aren't speaking for any teens but themselves. But they're creating an impression that all teens must live down. If I did the crude things Deadette brags about at her "skating rink love-ins" I sure wouldn't brag!

I belong to a gang too. We are the Mighty Blackjacks, but a nicer name is "soul sisters." Our block dances and parties don't get us reputations. We try to do good, not bad, and maybe it's just a little harder for US.

See, I'm black. But besides being proud of it, I feel I am blessed for it because I have learned to appreciate what I've got and take things as they come. My parents don't bow to my every command, and neither does the world — and I like it that way!

I think those three should not only chew on a bar of soap as you said, Helen, but douse it with double strength mouthwash! — BORN BLACK

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Food Prices Are Up Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail food prices advanced one per cent from July through September and were three per cent higher than in the same period last year, reports the Agriculture Department.

Prices of all farm-originated food, except fresh vegetables and fats and oils, were higher than a year ago.

Farmers received an average of 39 cents of each dollar consumers spent for a "market basket" list of food during the period, the same as for previous quarter and third quarter 1967, the department said.

The rising prices this year resulted from increased consumer demand, decreased supplies of some foods — mainly fruits and vegetables — and higher charges for marketing, the department said.

Though the farm value of market basket foods is currently decreasing, higher marketing costs are expected to keep retail prices through the first half of 1969 at about this year's third quarter levels, the department said.

Art Films Held Lousy For Popcorn

That was the opinion voiced yesterday by Julian Lefkowitz of Detroit, president of the National Association of Concessionaires.

Lefkowitz told a newspaper reporter that "What's really good for us is a male customer between 17 and 19 years old who is in school and has a part time job.

"When he goes to a drive-in with his date he'll spend $1.50 to $2 on food and drink."

"The guy we don't want to see walk or drive into a movie is a white-collar man over 40," he continued. "He's watching his diet. His concept of going to a movie is to be entertained, not to sit munching a candy bar. . ."

The association is meeting here in conjunction with the meeting of the National Association of Theater Owners.

Shah's Coronation Film To Be Shown

A 45-minute color film of last year's coronation of the Shah of Iran will be shown at 6 p.m. Monday in Meeting Room A in the College of Marin student center.

The film, obtained from the Iranian embassy, will be followed by discussion of Iranian economic, political and social life. Admission is free.

Tiburon Outlines Planner's Duties

The Tiburon City Council last night established the general duties, qualifications, salary and method of selection for the recently created post of city planning director.

Councilmen agreed to pay their new planning director, upon whom they indicated they might bestow the loftier title of director of community development, a starting annual salary of $11,000 with five per cent step increases over a period of five years. At the end of the fifth year, the council agreed, the planner should be earning approximately $13,500.

Jackie Parnell, former city councilman, told the council: "This is a very very good salary. For this price you should be able to get the very best man to apply for the job."

The council specified a master's degree in planning with a proviso the requirement could be waived for other "outstanding qualifications," a minimum of five years experience and an extensive knowledge of all areas of planning, including data processing.

The council also agreed to have the full council and planning commission and a representative from the parks and recreation commission screen final candidates. The final selection will be made by the council and city manager in joint consultation.

Earlier in the evening, the council ratified appointments to the planning and parks and recreation commissions made by Mayor William R. Bremer.

Bremer reappointed Peter MacGowan and Victor C. Banks to the planning commission for second four-year terms and named Allan Thompson, a parks and recreation commissioner, to fill the post vacated by Elmo L. DeMartini.

F. G. Knight was named to the parks and recreation commission to fill out Ullan Thompson's unexpired term which runs through July, 1971.

Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood, in a written statement to the council objected to the reappointment of Banks.

Banks, she said, had made a "serious mistake in judgment" when he organized support in his neighborhood against a proposed rezoning of his and other property in the area.

Not only did Banks propose joint neighborhood action to defeat the zoning proposal, Miss Ellinwood said, but he also proposed the services of an attorney, contacted the attorney and, in a letter sent to the affected property owners, attached an authorization blank for the attorney to act in behalf of the property owners.

Banks later called neighbors and also held a meeting in his own home to organize opposition to the rezoning, Miss Ellinwood said.

"I do not in any way dispute the right or privilege of this citizen to exercise his prerogatives as a citizen to achieve his goal," Miss Ellinwood said, but she argued, in the statement, that his activity in the matter was to such a degree as to disqualify him for public office.

She noted that Banks did not vote on the matter when it came before the commission, but said, "in my view, no public official can just 'take off his hat' when matters of personal (and economic) concern are involved."

Other councilmen made no comment, apparently because the matter had been previously discussed in closed sessions held on appointments. Vote on the appointments was 3-1 with Miss Ellinwood dissenting.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

ANNEXATION — Approved the annexation of five parcels of property on Mar East Avenue, adjacent to the city limits. The annexation was initiated at the request of the property owners who wanted to consolidate their land under one governmental jurisdiction, Rose said.

NUISANCE — Declared a drainage problem in Blackie's pasture at Tiburon Boulevard and Reed Ranch Road a public nuisance and gave owners Thomas and Gerald Connell 30 days in which to abate it.

APPEAL — Dismissed an appeal request by Weinberg and Demeraux for a permit to establish a parking lot adjacent to Paradise Drive between Tiburon Boulevard and Mar West Street.

DRAINAGE — Postponed discussion of the Trestle Glen basin drainage problem to Nov. 25, pending a report from the public services committee.

MEETING — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Nov. 25 in city hall.

Transport Agency Aide Resigning

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Gordon C. Luce, secretary of the state Business and Transportation Agency, today announced that James C. Schmidt assistant secretary, will leave his post to return to private business in December.

Schmidt accompanied Luce to Sacramento in 1967. He will return to his position as vice president of the Home Federal Savings and Loan Association in San Diego and also will act as assistant to that firm's president.

Luce lauded the 41-year-old attorney, and drew attention to the role Schmidt played in "streamlining the operation of each of the state's units now included in the Business and Transportation Agency."

Art Films Held Lousy For Popcorn

That was the opinion voiced yesterday by Julian Lefkowitz of Detroit, president of the National Association of Concessionaires.

Lefkowitz told a newspaper reporter that "What's really good for us is a male customer between 17 and 19 years old who is in school and has a part time job.

"When he goes to a drive-in with his date he'll spend $1.50 to $2 on food and drink."

"The guy we don't want to see walk or drive into a movie is a white-collar man over 40," he continued. "He's watching his diet. His concept of going to a movie is to be entertained, not to sit munching a candy bar. . ."

The association is meeting here in conjunction with the meeting of the National Association of Theater Owners.

Has 'Law-Order' Been Robbed Of Meaning?

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The phrase "law and order" has been largely robbed of its meaning by becoming a political slogan, two speakers at the Mill Valley Forum agreed last night.

A third speaker on the four-man panel agreed in part with this view. The fourth held that "law and order" means just what it says, that strict enforcement of the laws will maintain order, and that such enforcement must be left to local police.

"I really see it ('law and order') pretty much as a trick phrase — another move by the Establishment to keep black people in their place," said Michael Brown, a black San Francisco State College student who has been working in a police-community relations project in Vallejo. Brown appeared as a substitute for Elmer Cooper, associate dean of students at San Francisco State, who canceled his appearance because of a disorderly confrontation with the law that closed the college yesterday afternoon.

" 'Law and order' is a political slogan," flatly declared attorney Richard Wertheimer, legal committee chairman of the American Civil Liberties Union in California.

Joseph E. Sheeks, Mill Valley attorney, chose to analyze the phrase for what it really means rather than its political context.

"Law is a body of rules and sanctions designed to prescribe human conduct," he pointed out, and "gives society a certainty which gives a measure of orderliness." But to preserve order, he held, law must provide justice — which it does not always do.

What Wertheimer called "the easy answer" was advanced by W. Garry Woodward of Larkspur, electric company slaesman who is John Birch Society section leader in Marin. He held that discrediting of "law and order" is a Communist plot, and "advocates of civil disobedience set themselves up as their own supreme court."

Questions from the standing-room-only audience in the Mill Valley City Council chamber ranged widely. Despite a warning by moderator Robert H. Andresen, an attorney and city councilman, that "we want questions, not speeches," several in the audience indulged in considerable oratory and rambling talk.

When Woodward, responding to a question, said, "We need better people, not more laws," Brown instantly agreed, "That's it!"

To another question, Brown said he believes Negro riots are about ended. "The only people killed in riots have been black people," he said. "We are no longer going to put ourselves in a position where we will be shot." Also, he said, "things are happening in the black community which are emphasizing other things than just taking to the streets."

When a young girl asked Woodward whether people should have the right to evade the draft, he replied: "If on a legitimate basis of conscientious objection, yes. I'm against the draft. It should be done away with."

Wertheimer, responding to a question, said: "Law and order must be coupled with equal justice for all, then it has meaning."

And from the other end of the table, Woodward chimed in "I wouldn't want anybody to accuse me of being a liberal, but I'll agree with that."

State Officials Weighing North Bay Milk Price Cut

The state Department of Agriculture will decide in 45 days whether or not it should lower the price of retail milk by a penny per half gallon in Marin, Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties.

The request for a lower price came yesterday from the Northern California Dairy Association before a hearing board of the Bureau of Milk Stabilization which met at the Marin County Civic Center.

L. C. Schafer, chief of the bureau, said the testimony taken yesterday will be reviewed, and a new price order announced before Dec. 31. The decision will be made by Richard Lyng, director of the Department of Agriculture.

The present price of milk in Marin is $1.05 per gallon, 52.5 cents for a half gallon, and 27 cents per quart.

The Northern California Dairy Association, represented by J. D. Kaczor, asked for reduction in the minimum prices set by the department of agriculture so that the dairy association can compete with integrated operators such as Safeway stores.

Educator Cites Youth Discontent

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Pennsylvania educator said today discontent among the nation's youth is growing and is already more serious than ever.

Dr. David Gottlieb, professor of human development at Pennsylvania State University, warned delegates to the 20th Annual California Conference on Educational Research against indifference.

"It is clear that growing numbers of young people do not and will not accept even our most sincere explanations for who we are and what we do," Gottlieb said.

He urged that adults "respond to the needs of youth not out of fear of riots and rebellion, but because any other answer is morally unacceptable, economically incomprehensible and socially untinkable."

Peninsula Joint Rec Session Set

The Belvedere and Tiburon parks and recreation commissions will hold a joint meeting at 8 p.m. today in Tiburon City Hall to discuss future summer recreation programs with teen-agers from both communities.

Following the joint meeting, the Belvedere commission will adjourn to the Belvedere Community Hall to consider other agenda items.

The Tiburon commission has nothing else scheduled.

Tiburon Outlines Planner's Duties

The Tiburon City Council last night established the general duties, qualifications, salary and method of selection for the recently created post of city planning director.

Councilmen agreed to pay their new planning director, upon whom they indicated they might bestow the loftier title of director of community development, a starting annual salary of $11,000 with five per cent step increases over a period of five years. At the end of the fifth year, the council agreed, the planner should be earning approximately $13,500.

Jackie Parnell, former city councilman, told the council: "This is a very very good salary. For this price you should be able to get the very best man to apply for the job."

The council specified a master's degree in planning with a proviso the requirement could be waived for other "outstanding qualifications," a minimum of five years experience and an extensive knowledge of all areas of planning, including data processing.

The council also agreed to have the full council and planning commission and a representative from the parks and recreation commission screen final candidates. The final selection will be made by the council and city manager in joint consultation.

Earlier in the evening, the council ratified appointments to the planning and parks and recreation commissions made by Mayor William R. Bremer.

Bremer reappointed Peter MacGowan and Victor C. Banks to the planning commission for second four-year terms and named Allan Thompson, a parks and recreation commissioner, to fill the post vacated by Elmo L. DeMartini.

F. G. Knight was named to the parks and recreation commission to fill out Ullan Thompson's unexpired term which runs through July, 1971.

Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood, in a written statement to the council objected to the reappointment of Banks.

Banks, she said, had made a "serious mistake in judgment" when he organized support in his neighborhood against a proposed rezoning of his and other property in the area.

Not only did Banks propose joint neighborhood action to defeat the zoning proposal, Miss Ellinwood said, but he also proposed the services of an attorney, contacted the attorney and, in a letter sent to the affected property owners, attached an authorization blank for the attorney to act in behalf of the property owners.

Banks later called neighbors and also held a meeting in his own home to organize opposition to the rezoning, Miss Ellinwood said.

"I do not in any way dispute the right or privilege of this citizen to exercise his prerogatives as a citizen to achieve his goal," Miss Ellinwood said, but she argued, in the statement, that his activity in the matter was to such a degree as to disqualify him for public office.

She noted that Banks did not vote on the matter when it came before the commission, but said, "in my view, no public official can just 'take off his hat' when matters of personal (and economic) concern are involved."

Other councilmen made no comment, apparently because the matter had been previously discussed in closed sessions held on appointments. Vote on the appointments was 3-1 with Miss Ellinwood dissenting.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

ANNEXATION — Approved the annexation of five parcels of property on Mar East Avenue, adjacent to the city limits. The annexation was initiated at the request of the property owners who wanted to consolidate their land under one governmental jurisdiction, Rose said.

NUISANCE — Declared a drainage problem in Blackie's pasture at Tiburon Boulevard and Reed Ranch Road a public nuisance and gave owners Thomas and Gerald Connell 30 days in which to abate it.

APPEAL — Dismissed an appeal request by Weinberg and Demeraux for a permit to establish a parking lot adjacent to Paradise Drive between Tiburon Boulevard and Mar West Street.

DRAINAGE — Postponed discussion of the Trestle Glen basin drainage problem to Nov. 25, pending a report from the public services committee.

MEETING — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Nov. 25 in city hall.

Transport Agency Aide Resigning

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Gordon C. Luce, secretary of the state Business and Transportation Agency, today announced that James C. Schmidt assistant secretary, will leave his post to return to private business in December.

Schmidt accompanied Luce to Sacramento in 1967. He will return to his position as vice president of the Home Federal Savings and Loan Association in San Diego and also will act as assistant to that firm's president.

Luce lauded the 41-year-old attorney, and drew attention to the role Schmidt played in "streamlining the operation of each of the state's units now included in the Business and Transportation Agency."

Marin City Planning Pace Quickens Again

the remaining undeveloped areas of the community.

According to Sausalito attorney and corporation director Hugh G. Lawrence, the corporation will supplement, rather than overlap, PACT'S program.

Since PACT is primarily involved in planning rather than development, it would have to hire outside developers to undertake its projects, Lawrence noted. The Development Corporation is the logical group to implement the planning, Lawrence said, since it is a local organization controlled by local residents.

It is headed by an eight-man board of directors, six of whom are Marin City residents. The seventh director, Jerry Brown, owns a business in Marin City but lives in San Francisco. Lawrence is the only director who neither lives nor works in Marin City. Other directors are Ronald Foster, Alvin C. Bynum. Mrs. Willie H. Smith, Benjamin Myles, Alvis Allen, Daniel Hayden and Margaret Beauchampt.

The group was incorporated in September under articles of incorporation purposely tailored to fit the needs of the community and requirements of the federal Small Business Administration so that it can qualify for federal small business loans.

Its primary objective, as stated in the articles, is to "benefit the community as measured by increased employment, payroll, business volume . . . rather than monetary profits to the shareholders. Any monetary profits or other benefits which flow to shareholders shall be merely incidental to such community benefits."

The corporation is now in the process of hiring Ulysses J. Montgomery, a San Francisco planning consultant, to undertake the economic planning of its projects and to shepherd applications for federal and private loans through the various funding agencies.

Its immediate goal is to develop the eight-acre parcel adjacent to Highway 101 designated as the community's commercial area by the redevelopment agency.

Initially, the corporation is planning to construct a 10,000-square-foot building on one acre of the commercial acreage to house existing Marin City stores and some new businesses.

According to Hayden, corporation secretary, the new building will house the Marin City market, the cleaners, barber shop, beauty shop and music store all of which are presently housed in delapidated World War II buildings. The buildings will also contain legal offices and a Greyhound bus depot.

Future plans for the remaining seven acres envisage a shoe store, a restaurant and bar and other resident-serving shops and offices.

Construction will be financed through private and federal Small Business Administration loans and/or the sale of corporation stock, according to Lawrence.

Stock will be sold to Marin City residents at a minimum of $10 per share. Directors hope to finance a major part of the construction costs through the stock sales.

Lawrence noted that the articles of incorporation were written specifically to ensure broad community participation. They require that 80 per cent of the stock must be held by local residents, there must be a minimum of 25 stockholders and no one stockholder can own more than 20 per cent of the shares.

The number of shares to be issued will depend on the size and cost of the development, he said.

One the commercial buildings are completed, the corporation board hopes, through another Small Business Administration program, to finance local residents in establishing new businesses in the community.

This is a project which is also being studied by the Marin County Human Rights Commission. (The commission is scheduled to discuss the project at its meeting at 8 p.m. today at the Civic Center.)

According to Austin J. Thompson, Human Rights Department executive director, the program envisions Marin County businessmen acting as consultants to persons interested in establishing their own businesses.

Local planning and development in Marin City unofficially have been encouraged by the board of supervisors. However, the redevelopment agency is less unified in its support.

Agency chairman Phillip S. Erlich Jr. has publically supported the move toward local control but other directors, especially Vera Schultz, are less certain.

Mrs. Schultz, at the agency's Nov. 6 meeting, argued that the planning implementation of the existing Marin City master plan is the function and duty of the redevelopment agency. The agency, she said, is "permitting its function to be taken over by voluntary groups." She also argued that since the Marin City Council is not a public body, it cannot legally be entrusted with planning authority."

Also concerned is the California Development Corp., a private company which has options to develop Marin City. The corporation was hired in 1961 by the redevelopment agency to plan and redevelop the community which was originally established as temporary housing for Sausalito's Marinship workers during World War II. The corporation won a national architectural prize at the time for its master plan for the community.

In 1964, completion of the Marin City community bogged down with the national tight money crisis, which also drastically curtailed construction in Marin County until this year.

The California Development Corp. stand, thus far, has been that it is willing to give up its options on the one acre of commercial land sought by the Development Corporation of Marin City but that it wishes to retain development rights to the remaining undeveloped acreage throughout the community.

The local Development Corporation of Marin City, on the other hand, according to Hayden, hopes eventually to obtain options, now held by the California Development Corp. for the commercial acreage and, perhaps, if local planning dictates, to the remaining undeveloped residential uses.

Has 'Law-Order' Been Robbed Of Meaning?

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The phrase "law and order" has been largely robbed of its meaning by becoming a political slogan, two speakers at the Mill Valley Forum agreed last night.

A third speaker on the four-man panel agreed in part with this view. The fourth held that "law and order" means just what it says, that strict enforcement of the laws will maintain order, and that such enforcement must be left to local police.

"I really see it ('law and order') pretty much as a trick phrase — another move by the Establishment to keep black people in their place," said Michael Brown, a black San Francisco State College student who has been working in a police-community relations project in Vallejo. Brown appeared as a substitute for Elmer Cooper, associate dean of students at San Francisco State, who canceled his appearance because of a disorderly confrontation with the law that closed the college yesterday afternoon.

" 'Law and order' is a political slogan," flatly declared attorney Richard Wertheimer, legal committee chairman of the American Civil Liberties Union in California.

Joseph E. Sheeks, Mill Valley attorney, chose to analyze the phrase for what it really means rather than its political context.

"Law is a body of rules and sanctions designed to prescribe human conduct," he pointed out, and "gives society a certainty which gives a measure of orderliness." But to preserve order, he held, law must provide justice — which it does not always do.

What Wertheimer called "the easy answer" was advanced by W. Garry Woodward of Larkspur, electric company slaesman who is John Birch Society section leader in Marin. He held that discrediting of "law and order" is a Communist plot, and "advocates of civil disobedience set themselves up as their own supreme court."

Questions from the standing-room-only audience in the Mill Valley City Council chamber ranged widely. Despite a warning by moderator Robert H. Andresen, an attorney and city councilman, that "we want questions, not speeches," several in the audience indulged in considerable oratory and rambling talk.

When Woodward, responding to a question, said, "We need better people, not more laws," Brown instantly agreed, "That's it!"

To another question, Brown said he believes Negro riots are about ended. "The only people killed in riots have been black people," he said. "We are no longer going to put ourselves in a position where we will be shot." Also, he said, "things are happening in the black community which are emphasizing other things than just taking to the streets."

When a young girl asked Woodward whether people should have the right to evade the draft, he replied: "If on a legitimate basis of conscientious objection, yes. I'm against the draft. It should be done away with."

Wertheimer, responding to a question, said: "Law and order must be coupled with equal justice for all, then it has meaning."

And from the other end of the table, Woodward chimed in "I wouldn't want anybody to accuse me of being a liberal, but I'll agree with that."

State Officials Weighing North Bay Milk Price Cut

The state Department of Agriculture will decide in 45 days whether or not it should lower the price of retail milk by a penny per half gallon in Marin, Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties.

The request for a lower price came yesterday from the Northern California Dairy Association before a hearing board of the Bureau of Milk Stabilization which met at the Marin County Civic Center.

L. C. Schafer, chief of the bureau, said the testimony taken yesterday will be reviewed, and a new price order announced before Dec. 31. The decision will be made by Richard Lyng, director of the Department of Agriculture.

The present price of milk in Marin is $1.05 per gallon, 52.5 cents for a half gallon, and 27 cents per quart.

The Northern California Dairy Association, represented by J. D. Kaczor, asked for reduction in the minimum prices set by the department of agriculture so that the dairy association can compete with integrated operators such as Safeway stores.

Educator Cites Youth Discontent

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Pennsylvania educator said today discontent among the nation's youth is growing and is already more serious than ever.

Dr. David Gottlieb, professor of human development at Pennsylvania State University, warned delegates to the 20th Annual California Conference on Educational Research against indifference.

"It is clear that growing numbers of young people do not and will not accept even our most sincere explanations for who we are and what we do," Gottlieb said.

He urged that adults "respond to the needs of youth not out of fear of riots and rebellion, but because any other answer is morally unacceptable, economically incomprehensible and socially untinkable."

Peninsula Joint Rec Session Set

The Belvedere and Tiburon parks and recreation commissions will hold a joint meeting at 8 p.m. today in Tiburon City Hall to discuss future summer recreation programs with teen-agers from both communities.

Following the joint meeting, the Belvedere commission will adjourn to the Belvedere Community Hall to consider other agenda items.

The Tiburon commission has nothing else scheduled.

Court-Martial Of Airman Will Begin On Tuesday

The general court-martial for Airman John E. King, a security policeman charged in the death of a fellow security policeman at Hamilton Air Force Base, will start at 9 a.m. Tuesday in the judge advocate's office at the base.

Airman King, 20, of West Plains, Mo., is charged with involuntary manslaughter and failure to obey a lawful order in the Sept. 10 shooting of fellow policeman A/1C Wesley A. Dorman, 20, of Phoenix, Ariz.

At the pre-trial hearing, a witness, Airman Christopher J. Autieri, 21 of Evansville, Ind., another security officer, testified that King was playing with his revolver when it went off accidentally, hitting Dorman in the forearm and head.

If found guilty, King could be given a maximum sentence of a dishonorable discharge, three-and-a-half years at hard labor, forfeiture of all pay, allowances and rank or any combination of these, according to base officials.

The total land area of the Virgin Islands equals no more than a sixth of Rhode Island.

GI Widows, Wives Eligible For Studies

Education and training benefits will be extended for the first time to widows of servicemen who died as a result of military service and wives of veterans who are totally and permanently disabled as a result of such service.

These benefits are provided in a law that goes into effect on Dec. 1, according to James V. Burdick, Marin County veterans service officer.

These wives and widows will be eligible for the same Veterans Administration educational assistance now offered to sons and daughters of veterans who died or are permanently and totally disabled.

Payments will range from $130 a month for full time training (up to a maximum of 36 months) to $95 for three-quarters time training and $60 for half-time training.

The new law also gives veterans separated from service after Jan. 31, 1955, more education and training time under the current post-Korean G.I. Bill. For each month of service, the veteran gets one and one-half months, instead of one month, of training. However, the maximum entitlement of 36 months remains unchanged.

Under the new law, veterans with 18 months or more of service after Jan. 31, 1955 are entitled to 36 month of VA educational assistance.

Prince Charles Leaves His Teens

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — Prince Charles, the heir to the British throne, ceased being a teen-ager today and took the day off from university lectures to celebrate.

The 20-year-old prince went off in his sports car, accompanied by a detective, to join friends at a hunting party somewhere in Suffolk. It was believed the prince was at Elveden Hall, the estate of the chairman of Guinness, Lord Iveagh.

In this university city flags waved atop the colleges and church bells pealed in the only official celebration of his birthday. Tomorrow it's back to the lecture halls for the student prince.

Mechanical Heart?

LONDON (UPI)—Dr. Christiaan Barnard, who performed the world's first heart transplant, said yesterday mechanical hearts will be practical whenever a new plastic is developed which will let blood flow through it effectively.

The 50th wedding anniversary is traditionally known as the Golden Wedding anniversary.

Christmas Card Costs Six Cents

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Christmas Cards this year will require the same six-cent stamp as first class mail whether they are sealed or not.

Under a little-noticed provision of the new postal rates, costs for the first ounce were made identical to first class rates — six cents.

A year ago and for many Christmases before that, unsealed greeting cards containing no personal message beyond the sender's signature could be mailed for a penny less than first class.

Marin City Planning Pace Quickens Again

the remaining undeveloped areas of the community.

According to Sausalito attorney and corporation director Hugh G. Lawrence, the corporation will supplement, rather than overlap, PACT'S program.

Since PACT is primarily involved in planning rather than development, it would have to hire outside developers to undertake its projects, Lawrence noted. The Development Corporation is the logical group to implement the planning, Lawrence said, since it is a local organization controlled by local residents.

It is headed by an eight-man board of directors, six of whom are Marin City residents. The seventh director, Jerry Brown, owns a business in Marin City but lives in San Francisco. Lawrence is the only director who neither lives nor works in Marin City. Other directors are Ronald Foster, Alvin C. Bynum, Mrs. Willie H. Smith, Benjamin Myles, Alvis Allen, Daniel Hayden and Margaret Beauchampt.

The group was incorporated in September under articles of incorporation purposely tailored to fit the needs of the community and requirements of the federal Small Business Administration so that it can qualify for federal small business loans.

Its primary objective, as stated in the articles, is to "benefit the community as measured by increased employment, payroll, business volume . . . rather than monetary profits to the shareholders. Any monetary profits or other benefits which flow to shareholders shall be merely incidental to such community benefits."

The corporation is now in the process of hiring Ulysses J. Montgomery, a San Francisco planning consultant, to undertake the economic planning of its projects and to shepherd applications for federal and private loans through the various funding agencies.

Its immediate goal is to develop the eight-acre parcel adjacent to Highway 101 designated as the community's commercial area by the redevelopment agency.

Initially, the corporation is planning to construct a 10,000-square-foot building on one acre of the commercial acreage to house existing Marin City stores and some new businesses.

According to Hayden, corporation secretary, the new building will house the Marin City market, the cleaners, barber shop, beauty shop and music store all of which are presently housed in delapidated World War II buildings. The buildings will also contain legal offices and a Greyhound bus depot.

Future plans for the remaining seven acres envisage a shoe store, a restaurant and bar and other resident-serving shops and offices.

Construction will be financed through private and federal Small Business Administration loans and/or the sale of corporation stock, according to Lawrence.

Stock will be sold to Marin City residents at a minimum of $10 per share. Directors hope to finance a major part of the construction costs through the stock sales.

Lawrence noted that the articles of incorporation were written specifically to ensure broad community participation. They require that 80 per cent of the stock must be held by local residents, there must be a minimum of 25 stockholders and no one stockholder can own more than 20 per cent of the shares.

The number of shares to be issued will depend on the size and cost of the development, he said.

One the commercial buildings are completed, the corporation board hopes, through another Small Business Administration program, to finance local residents in establishing new businesses in the community.

This is a project which is also being studied by the Marin County Human Rights Commission. (The commission is scheduled to discuss the project at its meeting at 8 p.m. today at the Civic Center.)

According to Austin J. Thompson, Human Rights Department executive director, the program envisions Marin County businessmen acting as consultants to persons interested in establishing their own businesses.

Local planning and development in Marin City unofficially have been encouraged by the board of supervisors. However, the redevelopment agency is less unified in its support.

Agency chairman Phillip S. Erlich Jr. has publically supported the move toward local control but other directors, especially Vera Schultz, are less certain.

Mrs. Schultz, at the agency's Nov. 6 meeting, argued that the planning implementation of the existing Marin City master plan is the function and duty of the redevelopment agency. The agency, she said, is "permitting its function to be taken over by voluntary groups." She also argued that since the Marin City Council is not a public body, it cannot legally be entrusted with planning authority."

Also concerned is the California Development Corp., a private company which has options to develop Marin City. The corporation was hired in 1961 by the redevelopment agency to plan and redevelop the community which was originally established as temporary housing for Sausalito's Marinship workers during World War II. The corporation won a national architectural prize at the time for its master plan for the community.

In 1964, completion of the Marin City community bogged down with the national tight money crisis, which also drastically curtailed construction in Marin County until this year.

The California Development Corp. stand, thus far, has been that it is willing to give up its options on the one acre of commercial land sought by the Development Corporation of Marin City but that it wishes to retain development rights to the remaining undeveloped acreage throughout the community.

The local Development Corporation of Marin City, on the other hand, according to Hayden, hopes eventually to obtain options, now held by the California Development Corp. for the commercial acreage and, perhaps, if local planning dictates, to the remaining undeveloped residential uses.

DESIRES VS. RULES

Adults Hear Teen Recreation Goals

By WAT TAKESHITA

Marin County teen-agers want a "drop-in place" with minimum or no supervision where they can buy refreshments, smoke, and meet other teen-agers without rigid schedules.

That was the gist of their request at a meeting at the Civic Center yesterday, where Marin County Parks and Recreation Commissioners invited them to speak up.

Several teen-agers mentioned the Fillmore and Avalon Ballrooms in San Francisco as the type of place they have in mind. They said the coffee house program in Terra Linda is a step in that direction, but otherwise, they have no place to go in the county.

Leaders of organized recreation in the county promptly pointed out that the desire of youth for a free rein conflicts with rules and regulations such as the 11 p.m. curfew, no smoking on campus, and the laws against marijuana.

After two hours of frank talk, the group of more than 50 who attended the meeting agreed that a problem exists and set 8 p.m. Nov. 26 as the next countywide meeting on teen-age recreation.

Gary Peter Davis, student at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, was the scheduled feature speaker. But outside of his opening remarks, he scarcely had a chance to speak as others from the audience demanded attention.

It was Davis's report to the San Rafael Board of Education and Terra Linda Community Services District board on "teen-age anarchy" and drug use in Terra Linda which caught the attention of the county parks and recreation commissioners and prompted yesterday's meeting.

Davis charged that the press had distorted his report, exaggerating drugs and his statement about "anarchy." He explained he did not mean destructive anarchy but teen-age drop-outs who reject society.

"Drugs are merely the symptom," declared Davis. He said the report that 90 per cent of youth use drugs is untrue. "I don't know what the figure is."

He said the existing recreational system is not responsive to the needs of youth. "We need things like the coffee houses." But even coffee houses will fail unless the community gives them financial backing, warned Davis.

Commissioner Lothar Salin invited youth to speak up.

"Teen-agers want a place open from 8 a.m. to 1 a.m., all day and most of the night. A drop-in center where they can go and not feel supervised . . . Where they can buy food and drinks but are not compelled to buy."

Daytime recreation is more than ample for anyone who wants such recreation, said Mulhaupt. "We're practically drowned in the daytime with activities." But it is an unsupervised place which teen-agers need. "They go because lots of other people are there, and that's good enough."

He said the Fillmore and Avalon Ballroom in San Francisco provide a meeting place with a minimum of supervision. "If they can just go do their own thing and not have to participate in art work, and a place where they won't be run out at a designated time."

But recreation officials pointed out that each community has rules and regulations to follow.

"There's the 11 p.m. curfew which we have to abide by," said Gary Howell, recreation supervisor in Novato. "They ask 'why can't we smoke marijuana?' Because there's a law against it. So they don't show up."

"All we run into are rules and regulations," complained one youth.

"Would you prefer setting your own rules?" asked Howell.

"Yes."

"That answers it," said Howell.

Commissioner Raymond Bresnan, 15-year-old student from Novato, declared that basic rules like the 11 p.m. curfew present no problems at the coffee houses in Terra Linda. "The kids know when it's curfew. They just go. No problems."

Both Edward Adams, recreation director in Novato, and Andrew Snyder, director in San Rafael, claimed fund limitations make it impossible to meet the needs of all age groups, but Snyder added that San Rafael has a variety of programs, and the real problem is lack of communication with teen-agers.

"Frankly I resent being cast as the community authoritarian." He referred to complaints by youths that they are chased out of Northgate and counter complained that damage during the summer months of 1967 ran to about $1,000 per month.

Less said merchants do not mind teen-agers who congregate at the shopping center after school. "Those not welcome are those who are there from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., carving initials in the benches and destroying electrical equipment."

Robert Bundy, director of recreation for Larkspur and Corte Madera, complained he gets no response from youth when he attempts to find out what they want. He suggested a drop-in center open daily, not just one night a week.

John A. Colistra, chairman of the Terra Linda Recreation and Park District, said Terra Linda Valley is no different from other communities. He said the recreation district tried to get funds from the county and from Northgate without success. With minimum funds, the district hired Davis for summer recreation. "But what we did brought the problem to light and culminated in this meeting."

William A. Gordon, Marinwood recreation director, said his experience has been that teen-agers observe basic rules like the curfew and good behavior and proper dress, if rules are kept to a minimum and firmly enforced.

Acting Chairman Salin asked that each organization or individual come up with specific ideas on teen-age recreation at the special meeting of Nov. 26.

Exam Date Set

A graduate school entrance examination has been scheduled for Dec. 14 at Sonoma State College, according to Edie Moon, college test officer. Registration materials and information can be received at the test office, Stevenson Hall.

San Anselmo Neighbors Objecting To Proposed Nursery School

A proposal by a San Anselmo public school official to open a private nursery school on Yolanda Drive has upset residents of the Hub City's Yolanda subdivision.

Patrick O'Donnell, director of instruction for San Anselmo School District, has filed with the city planning commission an application for a use permit for a school for 60 children, aged 3 years and up, in a two-story residence at 39 Yolanda Drive.

Mrs. R. D. Smith of 30 Yolanda Drive said today a petition in protest is being circulated in the neighborhood and "we will be there to present it" at the planning commission meeting next Monday at 8 p.m.

The application calls the school an "early childhood education school."

The residence is on the market, and O'Donnell proposes to buy it and convert it to school use.

Charles R. Leitzell, city planning director, said a private school is permitted in a single-family residential zone in San Anselmo by use permit. The planning commmission has discretion on whether or not to issue such a permit.

Leitzell said, however, that fire regulations will not permit 60 children in the house. The maximum would be 20, he reported.

The planning director said O'Donnell's intention was to have the classrooms in the lower story of the house, and living quarters upstairs for the teachers — of whom there would be six for the proposed enrollemnt of 60 children.

O'Donnell could not be reached today at the San Anselmo School District office. Rulon H. Cook, administrative assistant for the district, said he had heard nothing of the director of instruction's plan for a private school.

Pair Is Booked In Petty Theft Probe

Two San Rafael women were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of petty theft after they were picked up at Northgate Shopping Center with $90 worth of merchandise from the Emporium and H. Liebes, San Rafael, police reported.

Shirley Ray McMurphy, 23, and Judy Laverne Tamburini, 23, both of 87 Elizabeth Way, made bail of $315 each and were to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Helen E. Newman Rejoins County Rec Commission

Helen E. Newman of Tiburon was welcomed back to the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission yesterday after an absence of five years.

She was appointed to fill the post held by Aline M. McClain, who resigned last month for personal reasons.

Mrs. Neman formerly served on the county recreation commission for seven years, two years as chairman, before she resigned in 1963.

The Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission also:

CHAIRMAN — Elected Lothar Salin as temporary chairman in the absence of Melton Ferris, who was in Riverside because of the death of his father.

COMMENDATION — Voted a resolution of commendation for Mrs. McClain, who served on the commission since 1963.

TIBURON TRAILS — Accepted in principle a plan for riding and hiking trails on Tiburon Peninsula, devised by Walter S. Horchler, county planner. The plan proposes a trail extending along the ridges from Bluff Point to Alto Hill.

Youths Booked For Car Theft

Three Vallejo youths were booked into Marin County Jail today on suspicion of car theft, not having identification, possession of stolen property and possession of an automobile with altered or missing identification.

San Rafael police arrested James Earl, 19, Jimmie Lee Mackbee, 20, and Joseph Lester Cannon, 19, at Northgate Shopping Center at 1:27 a.m. today after they could not produce identification.

Bail was set at $2,500 in each case and not made. The three were to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

$212 Theft Reported

Christine Halverson of Sacramento reported yesterday that $212 had been taken from her car while it was parked at 26 Inverness Drive, San Rafael, Sunday, police said.

Coffee House For Teens Is Approved

Weekend coffee houses for teen-agers at the Terra Linda Recreation Center will open Nov. 22, Terra Linda Parks and Recreation directors announced last night.

The coffee house will be open on Friday and Saturday nights thereafter in the teen room at the center, the hours to be announced later.

Eleanor Langendorf, general manager-secretary, said a small conflict has developed in the use of the teen room because the coffee house group has moved in furniture and rugs, which means that the furniture will have to be moved aside when the room is used for other activity the rest of the week. Director Elroy S. Munson will investigate the possibility of storing some of the furniture in another location at the center.

Terra Linda Parks and Recreation Directors also:

MINI-BIKE CLUB — Munson reported that the Terra Linda fire chief has offered to help set up a minibike club and an auto mechanics club for youth. Chairman John A. Colistra will contact the firemen to discuss details.

MRS. MARTZ — Failed to muster enough votes to accept the resignation of director Cecelia Martz, who announced her resignation on Oct. 26. Munson moved to accept the resignation, but there was no second. "It was left in limbo," said Mrs. Langendorf.

BINGO — Announced that a bingo game sponsored by the district will be held at the center tonight from 8 to 10 p.m.

Park Pavilion Paint Job Asked

The Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission last night asked the city council to allocate $2,700 to paint the inside and refinish the floors of the park pavilion.

Mrs. Kenneth Edgar, commission secretary, said the council had budgeted funds for the work.

Many San Rafael Burglaries Solved

Fifteen to 20 San Rafael house burglaries were solved yesterday with the cooperation of one member of a gang which has been operating throughout the Bay Area for the past year, San Rafael Police Inspector Thomas Cheetham reported today.

Cheetham said Ronald Lee Barrows, 27, of Hayward, who has pleaded guilty to similar charges in San Jose, came to Marin yesterday to pick out houses he and his gang had burgled within the past year.

He said Barrows has also cleared up more than 100 East Bay house burglaries.

Cheetham said most of the San Rafael burglaries were committed in the daytime and most of the houses were entered by popping open sliding glass doors.

He said it is doubtful that any of the stolen merchandise will be recovered because Barrows told him it had been shipped out to Texas and Utah.

He said three of the other men involved, Edward Roemki, Jim Durant and Eddie Revine, are scheduled to be sentenced in San Jose tomorrow.

He said information on the San Rafael cases will be turned over to the district attorney, but noted several other police departments are ahead of San Rafael.

Cheetham said some men involved in the thefts are still at large and may still be operating.

Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa, noting there were 365 burglaries in San Rafael in the first 10 months of the year, compared to 261 in the same period last year, recommended that residents with sliding glass doors install extra bolts to help prevent unwanted entry.

Gnoss Estates Slate Elected

John Schoonover was re-elected president of the Gnoss Estates Association at a postponed meeting of the association last night at the Olive School in Novato.

Mrs. Gerald N. Birkland was re-elected vice president and Mrs. Josephine Johnson, treasurer. Mrs. Thomas Stahlbaum was elected secretary, according to Schoonover.

The bylaws of the association were changed so that the board, which had consisted of the four officers and seven other members, became four officers and only one other member, Schoonover said. Edward C. Saunders was elected as that board member, according to Schoonover.

The officers will be installed Jan. 13, he said.

Sets Yule Party

The Marin City Senior Citizens Club has scheduled a Chirstmas party for Dec. 11 at 10 a.m. in Manzanita Center and a bazaar Dec. 14 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., also at the center.

Low Bid Set For Dredging

Hydraulic Dredge of Oakland with a bid of $53,775, was the apparent low bidder for dredging the lagoon and waterways at Bel Marin Keys when bids were opened last night at a special meeting of the Bel Marin Keys Community Service District, according to publicity chairman Joan Wrightsman.

The only other bid received was from Shellmaker Inc. of San Francisco with a bid of $58,125, she said. The district had estimated $65,000 for the job.

The contract for the dredging will be let at the regular meeting of the CSD board at 8 p.m. today in the community center, she said.

Court-Martial Of Airman Will Begin On Tuesday

The general court-martial for Airman John E. King, a security policeman charged in the death of a fellow security policeman at Hamilton Air Force Base, will start at 9 a.m. Tuesday in the judge advocate's office at the base.

Airman King, 20, of West Plains, Mo., is charged with involuntary manslaughter and failure to obey a lawful order in the Sept. 10 shooting of fellow policeman A/1C Wesley A. Dorman, 20, of Phoenix, Ariz.

At the pre-trial hearing, a witness, Airman Christopher J. Autieri, 21 of Evansville, Ind., another security officer, testified that King was playing with his revolver when it went off accidentally, hitting Dorman in the forearm and head.

If found guilty, King could be given a maximum sentence of a dishonorable discharge, three-and-a-half years at hard labor, forfeiture of all pay, allowances and rank or any combination of these, according to base officials.

GI Widows, Wives Eligible For Studies

Education and training benefits will be extended for the first time to widows of servicemen who died as a result of military service and wives of veterans who are totally and permanently disabled as a result of such service.

These benefits are provided in a law that goes into effect on Dec. 1, according to James V. Burdick, Marin County veterans service officer.

These wives and widows will be eligible for the same Veterans Administration educational assistance now offered to sons and daughters of veterans who died or are permanently and totally disabled.

Payments will range from $130 a month for full time training (up to a maximum of 36 months) to $95 for three-quarters time training and $60 for half-time training.

The new law also gives veterans separated from service after Jan. 31, 1955, more education and training time under the current post-Korean G.I. Bill. For each month of service, the veteran gets one and one-half months, instead of one month, of training. However, the maximum entitlement of 36 months remains unchanged.

Under the new law, veterans with 18 months or more of service after Jan. 31, 1955 are entitled to 36 month of VA educational assistance.

Prince Charles Leaves His Teens

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — Prince Charles, the heir to the British throne, ceased being a teen-ager today and took the day off from university lectures to celebrate.

The 20-year-old prince went off in his sports car, accompanied by a detective, to join friends at a hunting party somewhere in Suffolk. It was believed the prince was at Elveden Hall, the estate of the chairman of Guinness, Lord Iveagh.

In this university city flags waved atop the colleges and church bells pealed in the only official celebration of his birthday. Tomorrow it's back to the lecture halls for the student prince.

Mechanical Heart?

Christmas Card Costs Six Cents

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Christmas Cards this year will require the same six-cent stamp as first class mail whether they are sealed or not.

Under a little-noticed provision of the new postal rates, costs for the first ounce were made identical to first class rates — six cents.

A year ago and for many Christmases before that, unsealed greeting cards containing no personal message beyond the sender's signature could be mailed for a penny less than first class.

Morals Case Figure Flunks Defect Test

William Duncan Lindley, the first man to be ordered tested in Marin courts for a chromosome defect which allegedly makes a man a born criminal, has no such defect, his attorney said today.

Deputy Public Defender Richard Breiner said Lindley, a 22-year-old sex offender, was tested while in Atascadero State Hospital and found to have normal chromosome composition.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Municipal Court, concerned by a hospital report that Lindley is a potential killer, ordered Nov. 5 that Lindley be given the chromosome test.

The judge apparently did not know of the previous test, Breiner said.

The test is based on researchers' findings that men with an extra Y chromosome are prone to criminal violence.

In a Municipal Court hearing today, Vernon Betourni, a social worker from Atascadero told Judge Goldstein that Lindley was returned to Marin courts in September because the staff decided "treatment was not successful and, in our view, he was still a danger."

Another staff report describes Lindley, who pleaded guilty to trying to sexually molest two hitchhiking boys in Marin, as a "potential murderer."

Lindley told staff workers at the hospital that he "had difficulty controlling his sexual impulses toward younger patients," Betourni said.

At another time, Lindley reported "fantasies about deriving sexual pleasure from injuring and torturing young boys," Betourni said.

Judge Goldstein must decide whether he should sentence Lindley on his misdemeanor convictions or suspend criminal proceedings and try to send the young man to state prison as a mentally disordered sex offender.

Medical Testimony Given In Death Of Gun Collector

A Marin Superior Court jury yesterday heard detailed medical testimony on the final days of Wesley L. Marshall's life in Marin General Hospital before he succumbed to infection following brain surgery.

The jury will decide the fate of Dennis C. Novotny and John Arceo, charged with Marshall's murder. The gun collector died after he was robbed, beaten and stomped at his San Rafael home Dec. 6.

Marshall, 68, was found four days after the beating. He underwent surgery Dec. 20 to remove a blood clot on the brain, developed an infection 11 days later and died Jan. 6, testimony showed.

Dr. David G. Costanza, internist who treated Marshall for the infection, related in detail the drugs and treatment Marshall received.

Robert A. Smallman, a defense attorney for Arceo, bored in on Costanza with questions and won an admission that some medication given Marshall reduced his resistance to infection.

But the medicine, a synthetic form of cortisone, was necessary because of Marshall's brain injury, Costanza said.

Dr. Calvin Plumhof, pathologist who performed the autopsy on Marshall's body, testified today that Marshall caught his fatal infection in the hospital.

If Marshall had not been beaten, Plumhof said, "there is no indication any of this would have happened."

"Including the staph infection?" asked Deputy Dist. Attorney Joshua W. Thomas.

"Yes," Plumhof replied. He said there was no probable reason Marhall would have been in the hospital otherwise.

Surgeon William M. Klemme testified that the infection probably triggered another blood clot on the brain which killed Marshall.

"The second hemorrhage was not a direct result of the injury?" asked Michael Lewton, Novotny's attorney.

"That's a difficult question to answer," Klemme said. "... I can't answer on those terms. The clot did not result from the blow ... but one could say there was a casual relationship between the injury and the blood clot."

Keating stepped in then. "He has told us the sequence of events," the judge said. "This broad question is one for the jury."

Costanza also testified that a man of Marshall's age and physical condition would have had only a 25 to 50 per cent of surviving such a severe infection even if he had not been injured in a beating and had not undergone brain surgery.

Costanza said the most likely sources of the infection were a catheter or nose tubes required in treating Marshall after the surgery.

Teen Director Discussion Set

The Sausalito Recreation Commission will have a special meeting at 10 a.m. Saturday in city hall to discuss appointing a part-time director for the Sausalito Teen Club.

Chairman Eleanor Cruikshank said the special session was called so a recommendation could be made to the Sausalito City Council before it meets Tuesday.

She said the teen club had met Monday, inviting representatives of the commission and the council to attend and explained its financial problems and again requested a part-time director.

The young people had started a program this summer in the basement of the Old Star of the Sea Church with about 100 teenagers participating, but felt they could not continue without a director.

Army Cutting Back Infantry Training

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is making an initial move to cut back on its training establishment by eliminating advanced individual training for infantrymen at Fort Dix, N.J.

The Army said the phaseout, announced yesterday at Fort Dix, "is prompted by the decline in the number of new recruits entering the Army since the peak months of the Vietnam buildup."

Viet Impasse Called For By Cranston

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Democratic Senator-elect Alan Cranston suggested today that the United States try to create a stalemate in Vietnam, forcing the North Vietnamese to negotiate an end to the war.

Cranston told a news conference that if the fighting has not ended by the time he is seated as a senator, he will support efforts to de-Americanize the war and turn the fighting over to the South Vietnamese themselves.

This should be done, he said, after serving notice to the South Vietnamese that the United States will offer only material aid — in arms and training — but will not fight in Southeast Asia.

By matching the aid (about $3 billion a year) which the Soviet Union and Communist China give to the North Vietnamese, Cranston said, the United States could force a stalemate.

"I believe this would be to the advantage of both sides," Cranston said. "I think it would strengthen South Vietnam because you are stronger when you are compelled to stand on your own feet."

The United States, he said, has been spending about $30 billion a year in Vietnam, and has lost 30,000 men while the Communists have lost no troops.

Asked if he believes Nixon is moving closer to the Johnson administration's policies in Vietnam, Cranston said he believes Nixon may "have some new approaches" to the war after his inauguration.

Airport Taxi Hearing Set

A state Public Utilities Commission hearing will open Wednesday into an application to provide airport limousine service in the Bay Area, including Marin.

The hearing, into the application by National Executive Service Inc. of Burlingame, will begin at 10 a.m. in the commission courtroom of the State Building. Examiner Thomas E. Daly will preside.

The Marin locations from which the limousine would operate have not been spelled out, according to Eugene Raleigh, PUC information officer. The company also seeks to operate between airports and points in Santa Clara, San Mateo, San Francisco, Contra Costa and Alameda counties.

Drill Tower Plans Take Up Session

Cooper and Clark of 816 Grant Avenue, Novato, will make the soils tests and Sonoma Testing Inc. of Santa Rosa will make the concrete tests on the two buildings. They were selected by architects Gromme and Priestley, Fire Chief George Cavallero reported.

The board approved a change order costing $996 for underground irrigation for the landscaping required by the county planning department, according to the chief. William L. Kapranos, landscape architect of 503 D Street, San Rafael, was paid $250 for the landscaping plans, Cavallero said.

The board approved the payment of $14,702 as the first payment to Hayco Inc. of 61 Industrial Way, San Rafael, for their $85,442 contract on the drill tower and training facility.

The Novato Dire District board also:

DESIRES VS. RULES

Adults Hear Teen Recreation Goals

By WAT TAKESHITA

Marin County teen-agers want a "drop-in place" with minimum or no supervision where they can buy refreshments, smoke, and meet other teen-agers without rigid schedules.

That was the gist of their request at a meeting at the Civic Center yesterday, where Marin County Parks and Recreation Commissioners invited them to speak up.

Several teen-agers mentioned the Fillmore and Avalon Ballrooms in San Francisco as the type of place they have in mind. They said the coffee house program in Terra Linda is a step in that direction, but otherwise, they have no place to go in the county.

Leaders of organized recreation in the county promptly pointed out that the desire of youth for a free rein conflicts with rules and regulations such as the 11 p.m. curfew, no smoking on campus, and the laws against marijuana.

After two hours of frank talk, the group of more than 50 who attended the meeting agreed that a problem exists and set 8 p.m. Nov. 26 as the next countywide meeting on teen-age recreation.

Gary Peter Davis, student at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, was the scheduled feature speaker. But outside of his opening remarks, he scarcely had a chance to speak as others from the audience demanded attention.

It was Davis's report to the San Rafael Board of Education and Terra Linda Community Services District board on "teen-age anarchy" and drug use in Terra Linda which caught the attention of the county parks and recreation commissioners and prompted yesterday's meeting.

Davis charged that the press had distorted his report, exaggerating drugs and his statement about "anarchy." He explained he did not mean destructive anarchy but teenage drop-outs who reject society.

"Drugs are merely the symptom," declared Davis. He said the report that 90 per cent of youth use drugs is untrue. "I don't know what the figure is."

He said the existing recreational system is not responsive to the needs of youth. "We need things like the coffee houses." But even coffee houses will fail unless the community gives them financial backing, warned Davis.

Commissioner Lothar Salin invited youth to speak up.

"Teen-agers want a place open from 8 a.m. to 1 a.m., all day and most of the night. A drop-in center where they can go and not feel supervised . . . Where they can buy food and drinks but are not compelled to buy."

Daytime recreation is more than ample for anyone who wants such recreation, said Mulhaupt. "We're practically drowned in the daytime with activities." But it is an unsupervised place which teen-agers need. "They go because lots of other people are there, and that's good enough."

He said the Fillmore and Avalon Ballroom in San Francisco provide a meeting place with a minimum of supervision. "If they can just go do their own thing and not have to participate in art work, and a place where they won't be run out at a designated time."

But recreation officials pointed out that each community has rules and regulations to follow.

"There's the 11 p.m. curfew which we have to abide by," said Gary Howell, recreation supervisor in Novato. "They ask 'why can't we smoke marijuana?' Because there's a law against it. So they don't show up."

"All we run into are rules and regulations," complained one youth.

"Would you prefer setting your own rules?" asked Howell.

"Yes."

"That answers it," said Howell.

Commissioner Raymond Bresnan , 15-year-old student from Novato, declared that basic rules like the 11 p.m. curfew present no problems at the coffee houses in Terra Linda. "The kids know when it's curfew. They just go. No problems."

Both Edward Adams, recreation director in Novato, and Andrew Snyder, director in San Rafael, claimed fund limitations make it impossible to meet the needs of all age groups, but Snyder added that San Rafael has a variety of programs, and the real problem is lack of communication with teen-agers.

"Frankly I resent being cast as the community authoritarian." He referred to complaints by youths that they are chased out of Northgate and counter complained that damage during the summer months of 1967 ran to about $1,000 per month.

Less said merchants do not mind teen-agers who congregate at the shopping center after school. "Those not welcome are those who are there from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., carving initials in the benches and destroying electrical equipment."

Robert Bundy, director of recreation for Larkspur and Corte Madera, complained he gets no response from youth when he attempts to find out what they want. He suggested a drop-in center open daily, not just one night a week.

John A. Colistra, chairman of the Terra Linda Recreation and Park District, said Terra Linda Valley is no different from other communities. He said the recreation district tried to get funds from the county and from Northgate without success. With minimum funds, the district hired Davis for summer recreation. "But what we did brought the problem to light and culminated in this meeting."

William A. Gordon, Marinwood recreation director, said his experience has been that teen-agers observe basic rules like the curfew and good behavior and proper dress, if rules are kept to a minimum and firmly enforced.

Acting Chairman Salin asked that each organization or individual come up with specific ideas on teen-age recreation at the special meeting of Nov. 26.

Exam Date Set

A graduate school entrance examination has been scheduled for Dec. 14 at Sonoma State College, according to Edie Moon, college test officer. Registration materials and information can be received at the test office, Stevenson Hall.

San Anselmo Neighbors Objecting To Proposed Nursery School

A proposal by a San Anselmo public school official to open a private nursery school on Yolanda Drive has upset residents of the Hub City's Yolanda subdivision.

Patrick O'Donnell, director of instruction for San Anselmo School District, has filed with the city planning commission an application for a use permit for a school for 60 children, aged 3 years and up, in a two-story residence at 39 Yolanda Drive.

Mrs. R. D. Smith of 30 Yolanda Drive said today a petition in protest is being circulated in the neighborhood and "we will be there to present it" at the planning commission meeting next Monday at 8 p.m.

The application calls the school an "early childhood education school."

The residence is on the market, and O'Donnell proposes to buy it and convert it to school use.

Charles R. Leitzell, city planning director, said a private school is permitted in a single-family residential zone in San Anselmo by use permit. The planning commmission has discretion on whether or not to issue such a permit.

Leitzell said, however, that fire regulations will not permit 60 children in the house. The maximum would be 20, he reported.

The planning director said O'Donnell's intention was to have the classrooms in the lower story of the house, and living quarters upstairs for the teachers — of whom there would be six for the proposed enrollemnt of 60 children.

O'Donnell could not be reached today at the San Anselmo School District office. Rulon H. Cook, administrative assistant for the district, said he had heard nothing of the director of instruction's plan for a private school.

Pair Is Booked In Petty Theft Probe

Two San Rafael women were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of petty theft after they were picked up at Northgate Shopping Center with $90 worth of merchandise from the Emporium and H. Liebes, San Rafael, police reported.

Shirley Ray McMurphy, 23, and Judy Laverne Tamburini, 23, both of 87 Elizabeth Way, made bail of $315 each and were to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Helen E. Newman Rejoins County Rec Commission

Helen E. Newman of Tiburon was welcomed back to the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission yesterday after an absence of five years.

She was appointed to fill the post held by Aline M. McClain, who resigned last month for personal reasons.

Mrs. Neman formerly served on the county recreation commission for seven years, two years as chairman, before she resigned in 1963.

The Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission also:

CHAIRMAN — Elected Lothar Salin as temporary chairman in the absence of Melton Ferris, who was in Riverside because of the death of his father.

COMMENDATION — Voted a resolution of commendation for Mrs. McClain, who served on the commission since 1963.

TIBURON TRAILS — Accepted in principle a plan for riding and hiking trails on Tiburon Peninsula, devised by Walter S. Horchler, county planner. The plan proposes a trail extending along the ridges from Bluff Point to Alto Hill.

Youths Booked For Car Theft

Three Vallejo youths were booked into Marin County Jail today on suspicion of car theft, not having identification, possession of stolen property and possession of an automobile with altered or missing identification.

San Rafael police arrested James Earl, 19, Jimmie Lee Mackbee, 20, and Joseph Lester Cannon, 19, at Northgate Shopping Center at 1:27 a.m. today after they could not produce identification.

Bail was set at $2,500 in each case and not made. The three were to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

$212 Theft Reported

Christine Halverson of Sacramento reported yesterday that $212 had been taken from her car while it was parked at 26 Inverness Drive, San Rafael, Sunday, police said.

Coffee House For Teens Is Approved

Weekend coffee houses for teen-agers at the Terra Linda Recreation Center will open Nov. 22, Terra Linda Parks and Recreation directors announced last night.

The coffee house will be open on Friday and Saturday nights thereafter in the teen room at the center, the hours to be announced later.

Eleanor Langendorf, general manager-secretary, said a small conflict has developed in the use of the teen room because the coffee house group has moved in furniture and rugs, which means that the furniture will have to be moved aside when the room is used for other activity the rest of the week. Director Elroy S. Munson will investigate the possibility of storing some of the furniture in another location at the center.

Terra Linda Parks and Recreation Directors also:

MINI-BIKE CLUB — Munson reported that the Terra Linda fire chief has offered to help set up a minibike club and an auto mechanics club for youth. Chairman John A. Colistra will contact the firemen to discuss details.

MRS. MARTZ — Failed to muster enough votes to accept the resignation of director Cecelia Martz, who announced her resignation on Oct. 26. Munson moved to accept the resignation, but there was no second. "It was left in limbo," said Mrs. Langendorf.

BINGO — Announced that a bingo game sponsored by the district will be held at the center tonight from 8 to 10 p.m.

Park Pavilion Paint Job Asked

The Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission last night asked the city council to allocate $2,700 to paint the inside and refinish the floors of the park pavilion.

Mrs. Kenneth Edgar, commission secretary, said the council had budgeted funds for the work.

Many San Rafael Burglaries Solved

Fifteen to 20 San Rafael house burglaries were solved yesterday with the cooperation of one member of a gang which has been operating throughout the Bay Area for the past year, San Rafael Police Inspector Thomas Cheetham reported today.

Cheetham said Ronald Lee Barrows, 27, of Hayward, who has pleaded guilty to similar charges in San Jose, came to Marin yesterday to pick out houses he and his gang had burgled within the past year.

He said Barrows has also cleared up more than 100 East Bay house burglaries.

Cheetham said most of the San Rafael burglaries were committed in the daytime and most of the houses were entered by popping open sliding glass doors.

He said it is doubtful that any of the stolen merchandise will be recovered because Barrows told him it had been shipped out to Texas and Utah.

He said three of the other men involved, Edward Roemki, Jim Durant and Eddie Revine, are scheduled to be sentenced in San Jose tomorrow.

He said information on the San Rafael cases will be turned over to the district attorney, but noted several other police departments are ahead of San Rafael.

Cheetham said some men involved in the thefts are still at large and may still be operating.

Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa, noting there were 365 burglaries in San Rafael in the first 10 months of the year, compared to 261 in the same period last year, recommended that residents with sliding glass doors install extra bolts to help prevent unwanted entry.

Gnoss Estates Slate Elected

John Schoonover was re-elected president of the Gnoss Estates Association at a postponed meeting of the association last night at the Olive School in Novato.

Mrs. Gerald N. Birkland was re-elected vice president and Mrs. Josephine Johnson, treasurer. Mrs. Thomas Stahlbaum was elected secretary, according to Schoonover.

The bylaws of the association were changed so that the board, which had consisted of the four officers and seven other members, became four officers and only one other member, Schoonover said. Edward C. Saunders was elected as that board member, according to Schoonover.

The officers will be installed Jan. 13, he said.

Sets Yule Party

The Marin City Senior Citizens Club has scheduled a Chirstmas party for Dec. 11 at 10 a.m. in Manzanita Center and a bazaar Dec. 14 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., also at the center.

Low Bid Set For Dredging

Hydraulic Dredge of Oakland with a bid of $53,775, was the apparent low bidder for dredging the lagoon and waterways at Bel Marin Keys when bids were opened last night at a special meeting of the Bel Marin Keys Community Service District, according to publicity chairman Joan Wrightsman.

The only other bid received was from Shellmaker Inc. of San Francisco with a bid of $58,125, she said. The district had estimated $65,000 for the job.

The contract for the dredging will be let at the regular meeting of the CSD board at 8 p.m. today in the community center, she said.

Morals Case Figure Flunks Defect Test

William Duncan Lindley, the first man to be ordered tested in Marin courts for a chromosome defect which allegedly makes a man a born criminal, has no such defect, his attorney said today.

Deputy Public Defender Richard Breiner said Lindley, a 22-year-old sex offender, was tested while in Atascadero State Hospital and found to have normal chromosome composition.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Municipal Court, concerned by a hospital report that Lindley is a potential killer, ordered Nov. 5 that Lindley be given the chromosome test.

The judge apparently did not know of the previous test, Breiner said.

The test is based on researchers' findings that men with an extra Y chromosome are prone to criminal violence.

In a Municipal Court hearing today, Vernon Betourni, a social worker from Atascadero told Judge Goldstein that Lindley was returned to Marin courts in September because the staff decided "treatment was not successful and, in our view, he was still a danger."

Lindley told staff workers at the hospital that he "had difficulty controlling his sexual impulses toward younger patients," Betourni said.

At another time, Lindley reported "fantasies about deriving sexual pleasure from injuring and torturing young boys," Betourni said.

Judge Goldstein must decide whether he should sentence Lindley on his misdemeanor convictions or suspend criminal proceedings and try to send the young man to state prison as a mentally disordered sex offender.

Medical Testimony Given In Death Of Gun Collector

A Marin Superior Court jury yesterday heard detailed medical testimony on the final days of Wesley L. Marshall's life in Marin General Hospital before he succumbed to infection following brain surgery.

The jury will decide the fate of Dennis C. Novotny and John Arceo, charged with Marshall's murder. The gun collector died after he was robbed, beaten and stomped at his San Rafael home Dec. 6.

Marshall, 68, was found four days after the beating. He underwent surgery Dec. 20 to remove a blood clot on the brain, developed an infection 11 days later and died Jan. 6, testimony showed.

Dr. David G. Costanza, internist who treated Marshall for the infection, related in detail the drugs and treatment Marshall received.

Robert A. Smallman, a defense attorney for Arceo, bored in on Costanza with questions and won an admission that some medication given Marshall reduced his resistance to infection.

But the medicine, a synthetic form of cortisone, was necessary because of Marshall's brain injury, Costanza said.

Dr. Calvin Plumhof, pathologist who performed the autopsy on Marshall's body, testified today that Marshall caught his fatal infection in the hospital.

If Marshall had not been beaten, Plumhof said, "there is no indication any of this would have happened."

"Including the staph infection?" asked Deputy Dist. Attorney Joshua W. Thomas.

"Yes," Plumhof replied. He said there was no probable reason Marhall would have been in the hospital otherwise.

"The second hemorrhage was not a direct result of the injury?" asked Michael Lewton, Novotny's attorney.

"That's a difficult question to answer," Klemme said. " . . . I can't answer on those terms. The clot did not result from the blow . . . but one could say there was a casual relationship between the injury and the blood clot."

Keating stepped in then. "He has told us the sequence of events," the judge said. "This broad question is one for the jury."

Costanza also testified that a man of Marshall's age and physical condition would have had only a 25 to 50 per cent of surviving such a severe infection even if he had not been injured in a beating and had not undergone brain surgery.

Costanza said the most likely sources of the infection were a catheter or nose tubes required in treating Marshall after the surgery.

Teen Director Discussion Set

The Sausalito Recreation Commission will have a special meeting at 10 a.m. Saturday in city hall to discuss appointing a part-time director for the Sausalito Teen Club.

Chairman Eleanor Cruikshank said the special session was called so a recommendation could be made to the Sausalito City Council before it meets Tuesday.

She said the teen club had met Monday, inviting representatives of the commission and the council to attend and explained its financial problems and again requested a part-time director.

The young people had started a program this summer in the basement of the Old Star of the Sea Church with about 100 teenagers participating, but felt they could not continue without a director.

Army Cutting Back Infantry Training

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is making an initial move to cut back on its training establishment by eliminating advanced individual training for infantrymen at Fort Dix, N.J.

The Army said the phaseout, announced yesterday at Fort Dix, "is prompted by the decline in the number of new recruits entering the Army since the peak months of the Vietnam buildup."

Viet Impasse Called For By Cranston

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Democratic Senator-elect Alan Cranston suggested today that the United States try to create a stalemate in Vietnam, forcing the North Vietnamese to negotiate an end to the war.

Cranston told a news conference that if the fighting has not ended by the time he is seated as a senator, he will support efforts to de-Americanize the war and turn the fighting over to the South Vietnamese themselves.

This should be done, he said, after serving notice to the South Vietnamese that the United States will offer only material aid — in arms and training — but will not fight in Southeast Asia.

By matching the aid (about $3 billion a year) which the Soviet Union and Communist China give to the North Vietnamese, Cranston said, the United States could force a stalemate.

"I believe this would be to the advantage of both sides," Cranston said. "I think it would strengthen South Vietnam because you are stronger when you are compelled to stand on your own feet."

The United States, he said, has been spending about $30 billion a year in Vietnam, and has lost 30,000 men while the Communists have lost no troops.

Asked if he believes Nixon is moving closer to the Johnson administration's policies in Vietnam, Cranston said he believes Nixon may "have some new approaches" to the war after his inauguration.

Auto Is Stolen

Walter C. Miles of Marin Dodge, 1075 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, reported yesterday that a 1967 brown Plymouth, license UYR 890, had been stolen from the car lot Saturday, police said.

Airport Taxi Hearing Set

A state Public Utilities Commission hearing will open Wednesday into an application to provide airport limousine service in the Bay Area, including Marin.

The hearing, into the application by National Executive Service Inc. of Burlingame, will begin at 10 a.m. in the commission courtroom of the State Building. Examiner Thomas E. Daly will preside.

The Marin locations from which the limousine would operate have not been spelled out, according to Eugene Raleigh, PUC information officer. The company also seeks to operate between airports and points in Santa Clara, San Mateo, San Francisco, Contra Costa and Alameda counties.

Drill Tower Plans Take Up Session

Cooper and Clark of 816 Grant Avenue, Novato, will make the soils tests and Sonoma Testing Inc. of Santa Rosa will make the concrete tests on the two buildings. They were selected by architects Gromme and Priestley, Fire Chief George Cavallero reported.

The board approved a change order costing $996 for underground irrigation for the landscaping required by the county planning department, according to the chief. William L. Kapranos, landscape architect of 503 D Street, San Rafael, was paid $250 for the landscaping plans, Cavallero said.

The board approved the payment of $14,702 as the first payment to Hayco Inc. of 61 Industrial Way, San Rafael, for their $85,442 contract on the drill tower and training facility.

The Novato Dire District board also:

MEETINGS — Moved the Nov. 27 meeting up to 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday because Nov. 27 is Thanksgiving Eve. It set a special meeting Dec. 4 to discuss hospitalization plans. The regular meeting will be held on Dec. 11. The meeting scheduled for Dec. 25 was moved to Dec. 18.

'ARE REALLY SHY'

Ex-Marinite Dispels The Gorilla 'Myth'

By FRANK CAREY

DIAN FOSSEY
Gorillas are 'shy'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Humans have almost a completely wrong idea of the nature of gorillas, says an attractive former Marin woman who has been observing a bunch of the great apes in the African wilds.

Dian Fossey, 36-year-old brunette who is the daughter of Kathryn Fossey of Kentfield and the late George E. Fossey, has just returned from 22 months in Africa not only braving the wilds but safely escaping native troubles.

"The popular notion that gorillas are ferocious beasts is just a big myth — an ancient myth that has been helped along in modern times by 'King Kong' movies and comic books," says Miss Fossey.

"They're really pretty shy, tend to be friendly and are not aggressive," says the anthropologist.

She says she likes nothing better than to sit down with a group of 475-pound gorillas and chew giant celery leaves with her strictly vegetarian pals.

She rose to the defense of gorillas at a news conference called by the National Geographic Society from which she has a grant "to provide science with the knowledge needed to help save Africa's mountain gorillas from extinction."

After reporting to the society on her progress, she plans to head back to Rwanda in central Africa where she lives in a little one-room hut, 10,000 feet up on a mountainside.

Her headquarters is some 50 miles from the nearest town and she comes down only every month or so to get fresh food. To reach the gorillas, she says she usually has to push her way through thick forests.

"In the 22 months I've been engaged in this study — first in the Congo, later in Rwanda — I've had 830 hours of direct observation of gorillas," she says, "but each hour costs at least four hours of walking."

And the species is endangered, says Miss Fossey, by cattle grazing on their traditional territory — forcing the apes ever higher into the mountains where food is scarcer.

Also, she says, the apes have long been naturally terrified of humans — including native cattle-herders and game-poachers in the area—to such an extent that when the California girl first showed up on the mountain, "they would scream and run."

But, she said, she gradually gained acceptance with many of about 50 apes on her side of the mountain — by sitting in the undergrowth with them, chewing celery leaves, and even beating on her chest and grooming herself with ape-like motions.

"I want them to react normally, so I imitate their behavior," she says.

Once, she said, she had a dangerous close call from a group of five male gorillas who came charging down the mountainside — only because she had apparently frightened them.

"I had been following them without their knowing it," she said, "when one of them spotted me. He let out a fearful roar, spread the alarm, and five gorillas came galloping down from 50 yards away — letting out intensive, explosive roars and causing the foliage to shake as they came on.

"As they came near me, I held out my arms and yelled, 'Whoa.'

"And, when they were only about three feet from me, their leader caused them to swerve. Apparently, his first instinct was to protect them from me. I had never been a fright-object to them before."

Cross Burning Case Is Solved

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — A burning cross in front of the home of a Negro family was set by two teen-age students from Sequoia High School, police said yesterday.

The white youths, whose names were not disclosed, were arrested and charged with a misdemeanor count of burning rubish on private property and a felony county of conspiracy, officers reported.

Police quoted the boys as saying they placed the burning cross Sunday night as a joke.

Speed Record

Classes On Learning To Spend Are Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—American consumers need to learn how to spend their money just as much as they need to learn how to make it, according to a social scientist.

"It seems strange that almost every conceivable way to earn an income is represented by a course if not an entire curriculum, but that almost no attention is given to spending that income wisely," said Dr. James Mullen at the Federal Trade Commission hearings on "national consumer protection."

Appearing yesterday in behalf of the Association for Education in Journalism, Mullen said, "We believe that it is the responsibility of the educational system to prepare people to be consumers as well as producers.

"When the great mass of consumers cannot be fooled by half-truths and faulty logic, advertisers will not find it profitable to resort to these practices," Mullen said.

He is with the School of Journalism, University of North Carolina.

Another witness warned the commission that the widely heralded Consumer Credit Protection Act, commonly called the truth-in-lending law, was just "scratching the surface."

Mrs. Erma Angevine, Executive director of Consumer Federation of America, said a seemingly innocuous provision written into the law "is about to offer a wholesale escape from the principle protections of the consumer credit protection act, to wholly emasculate the act's effectiveness."

The vehicle for this purpose, she claimed, is the uniform consumer credit code which allows any state adopting it to exempt the classes of consumer credit transactions governed by the code from the federal law which requires full disclosure of how much more it costs to buy on credit.

School Panel Set

A panel of five parents and citizens will discuss education in the Bolinas-Stinson School District today at 8 p.m. in the Bolinas School.

Bay Leader Calls For Regionalism

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Creation of a multi-purpose regional government was recommended today by Stanley E. McCaffrey, president of the San Francisco Bay Area Council.

McCaffrey, keynoting the Construction Materials Conference '68, said such an organization could best coordinate Bay Area transportation decisions with other regional problems.

McCaffrey also is a member of the Bay Transportation Study Commission and chairman of its citizens advisory committee.

He urged combining all existing regional functions such as air pollution control, water quality, bay conservation and development and transportation.

Transportation is the backbone of economy and society and its development must be comprehensive, McCaffrey said.

New Substance Opens Vistas In Diabetes Riddle Research

VAN DELLEN

The search for the cause of diabetes has narrowed since the discovery of proinsulin, a substance from which insulin is formed. The chemical, isolattd from animals, is an inert substance. The big question is whether lack of an enzyme to convert proinsulin to insulin proves to be the cause of some forms of diabetes.

It is difficult to distinguish between insulin and proinsulin via the usual blood tests. On the other hand, the former is more active, explaining why some who develop diabetes after age 40 have blood insulin levels above, rather than below, normal.

PERHAPS THEY have a greater proportion of proinsulin that is not being properly converted into usable insulin. The presence of proinsulin may also explain a somewhat related condition in which the individual is "insulin resistant." Although insulin is in the blood, it does not metabolize sugars and other carbohydrates.

Coincidental research conducted at the National Institute for Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases also yielded two forms of insulin in blood plasma. One was labeled big insulin because of heavier molecular weight; the other, little insulin, because it was smaller. Both insulins are found in the pancreas, but the highly purified pancreatic hormone resembled little insulin. Other tests suggested that big insulin may be related to, or the same as, proinsulin.

IN DIABETES, the body is unable to utilize starches and sugars due to a disturbance of the pancreas. The problem is offset by using insulin or antidiabetic pills, but the basic cause continues to be a mystery. There is some evidence that the gland could be affected by a virus or poor circulation.

The discovery of proinsulin will open up many new fields in diabetes research.

CAUSE OF NEPHROSIS

Mrs. L. writes: My boy has nephrosis and the doctor is giving him steroids. Is this disease caused by an infection?

REPLY

Yes, in some instances. In others, degeneration is responsible but in the majority the cause is not known. Steroids often are helpful in this condition, which is confined to the tubules of the kidney.

CAUSES OF CLUMSINESS

Mrs. B. writes: I know that growing boys tend to be awkward, but my 14-year-old seems unusually clumsy. Are there any exercises that would help him become more graceful?

REPLY

You might get a medical opinion as to whether his nervous system is normal, because a boy who suddenly becomes awkward may have chorea. If he is otherwise healthy, teach him how to pick up and hold various objects.

Sports such as baseball and swimming also may take off the rough edges. It is better to give instructions of this kind than to be too critical, for some children have better coordination than others.

EPILEPY FORM CHANGES

N. T. writes: If a youngster suffers from petit mal, will he develop grand mal in adulthood?

REPLY

This sequence would be usual. But victims of petit mal may continue to have these "spells" or they may develop epileptic equivalents in later life.

MYELOGRAM EXPLAINED

H. G. writes: Is a myelogram the same as a spinal fluid test?

REPLY

No. In a myelogram, some of the spinal fluid is withdrawn and replaced with a radiopaque solution. This dye is visible under X-ray and demonstrates whether a slipped disk is pressing upon the spinal cord or a tumor exists.

Extension Of Water Main Is Given Approval

The Novato Sanitary District board has approved an agreement with the City of Novato and Western California Telephone Co. to extend an eight-inch water main down Davidson Street to the corporation yards of the city, telephone company, and the sanitary district offices, one third of the cost, or $2,523, to be borne by each agency.

The board accepted a deed of easement yesterday from Ted Schuman Chevrolet Co. for the extension of the sewer main west of Highway 101, south of Lamont Avenue and also approved a temporary agreement to furnish service to Peter La Dow at 793 Eucalyptus Avenue until that lot can be annexed into the district.

Worker Kills His Family, Then Himself

LIVERMORE (AP)—An electronics assembler shot and killed his wife and two young children yesterday then killed himself, police said.

The body of Paul Cranfill, 27, was found slumped against a bedroom wall by his brother, Carl, when he returned home from classes at Hayward State College.

The brother said the family was heavily in debt.

Faced down in front of the television set in the living room of the apartment was Robert Allen Cranfill, 4.

Police theorized the shootings had occurred earlier in the day. The victims had been dead several hours, coroner's deputies said.

The mother had some of her daughter's clothes in her hands and apparently had been dressing the girl when the shots were fired.

Carol told police he had been living with the family several months while going to school.

'ARE REALLY SHY'

Ex-Marinite Dispels The Gorilla 'Myth'

By FRANK CAREY

DIAN FOSSEY
Gorillas are 'shy'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Humans have almost a completely wrong idea of the nature of gorillas, says an attractive former Marin woman who has been observing a bunch of the great apes in the African wilds.

Dian Fossey, 36-year-old brunette who is the daughter of Kathryn Fossey of Kentfield and the late George E. Fossey, has just returned from 22 months in Africa not only braving the wilds but safely escaping native troubles.

"The popular notion that gorillas are ferocious beasts is just a big myth — an ancient myth that has been helped along in modern times by 'King Kong' movies and comic books," says Miss Fossey.

"They're really pretty shy, tend to be friendly and are not aggressive," says the anthropologist.

She says she likes nothing better than to sit down with a group of 475-pound gorillas and chew giant celery leaves with her strictly vegetarian pals.

She rose to the defense of gorillas at a news conference called by the National Geographic Society from which she has a grant "to provide science with the knowledge needed to help save Africa's mountain gorillas from extinction."

After reporting to the society on her progress, she plans to head back to Rwanda in central Africa where she lives in a little one-room hut, 10,000 feet up on a mountainside.

Her headquarters is some 50 miles from the nearest town and she comes down only every month or so to get fresh food. To reach the gorillas, she says she usually has to push her way through thick forests.

"In the 22 months I've been engaged in this study — first in the Congo, later in Rwanda — I've had 830 hours of direct observation of gorillas," she says, "but each hour costs at least four hours of walking."

And the species is endangered, says Miss Fossey, by cattle grazing on their traditional territory — forcing the apes ever higher into the mountains where food is scarcer.

Also, she says, the apes have long been naturally terrified of humans — including native cattle-herders and game-poachers in the area—to such an extent that when the California girl first showed up on the mountain, "they would scream and run."

But, she said, she gradually gained acceptance with many of about 50 apes on her side of the mountain — by sitting in the undergrowth with them, chewing celery leaves, and even beating on her chest and grooming herself with ape-like motions.

"I want them to react normally, so I imitate their behavior," she says.

Once, she said, she had a dangerous close call from a group of five male gorillas who came charging down the mountainside — only because she had apparently frightened them.

"I had been following them without their knowing it," she said, "when one of them spotted me. He let out a fearful roar, spread the alarm, and five gorillas came galloping down from 50 yards away — letting out intensive, explosive roars and causing the foliage to shake as they came on.

"As they came near me, I held out my arms and yelled, 'Whoa.'

"And, when they were only about three feet from me, their leader caused them to swerve. Apparently, his first instinct was to protect them from me. I had never been a fright-object to them before."

Cross Burning Case Is Solved

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — A burning cross in front of the home of a Negro family was set by two teen-age students from Sequoia High School, police said yesterday.

The white youths, whose names were not disclosed, were arrested and charged with a misdemeanor count of burning rubish on private property and a felony county of conspiracy, officers reported.

Police quoted the boys as saying they placed the burning cross Sunday night as a joke.

Speed Record

Classes On Learning To Spend Are Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—American consumers need to learn how to spend their money just as much as they need to learn how to make it, according to a social scientist.

"It seems strange that almost every conceivable way to earn an income is represented by a course if not an entire curriculum, but that almost no attention is given to spending that income wisely," said Dr. James Mullen at the Federal Trade Commission hearings on "national consumer protection."

Appearing yesterday in behalf of the Association for Education in Journalism, Mullen said, "We believe that it is the responsibility of the educational system to prepare people to be consumers as well as producers.

"When the great mass of consumers cannot be fooled by half-truths and faulty logic, advertisers will not find it profitable to resort to these practices," Mullen said.

He is with the School of Journalism, University of North Carolina.

Another witness warned the commission that the widely heralded Consumer Credit Protection Act, commonly called the truth-in-lending law, was just "scratching the surface."

Mrs. Erma Angevine, Executive director of Consumer Federation of America, said a seemingly innocuous provision written into the law "is about to offer a wholesale escape from the principle protections of the consumer credit protection act, to wholly emasculate the act's effectiveness."

The vehicle for this purpose, she claimed, is the uniform consumer credit code which allows any state adopting it to exempt the classes of consumer credit transactions governed by the code from the federal law which requires full disclosure of how much more it costs to buy on credit.

School Panel Set

A panel of five parents and citizens will discuss education in the Bolinas-Stinson School District today at 8 p.m. in the Bolinas School.

Bay Leader Calls For Regionalism

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Creation of a multi-purpose regional government was recommended today by Stanley E. McCaffrey, president of the San Francisco Bay Area Council.

McCaffrey, keynoting the Construction Materials Conference '68, said such an organization could best coordinate Bay Area transportation decisions with other regional problems.

McCaffrey also is a member of the Bay Transportation Study Commission and chairman of its citizens advisory committee.

He urged combining all existing regional functions such as air pollution control, water quality, bay conservation and development and transportation.

Transportation is the backbone of economy and society and its development must be comprehensive, McCaffrey said.

Contracting License

The contractors state license board has announced that on Nov. 29 it will grant a license for general contracting to Menlo Construction Co., 808 Third Street, San Rafael, operated by Douglas M. Christensen, if no written protests are filed.

New Substance Opens Vistas In Diabetes Riddle Research

VAN DELLEN

The search for the cause of diabetes has narrowed since the discovery of proinsulin, a substance from which insulin is formed. The chemical, isolattd from animals, is an inert substance. The big question is whether lack of an enzyme to convert proinsulin to insulin proves to be the cause of some forms of diabetes.

It is difficult to distinguish between insulin and proinsulin via the usual blood tests. On the other hand, the former is more active, explaining why some who develop diabetes after age 40 have blood insulin levels above, rather than below, normal.

PERHAPS THEY have a greater proportion of proinsulin that is not being properly converted into usable insulin. The presence of proinsulin may also explain a somewhat related condition in which the individual is "insulin resistant." Although insulin is in the blood, it does not metabolize sugars and other carbohydrates.

Coincidental research conducted at the National Institute for Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases also yielded two forms of insulin in blood plasma. One was labeled big insulin because of heavier molecular weight; the other, little insulin, because it was smaller. Both insulins are found in the pancreas, but the highly purified pancreatic hormone resembled little insulin. Other tests suggested that big insulin may be related to, or the same as, proinsulin.

IN DIABETES, the body is unable to utilize starches and sugars due to a disturbance of the pancreas. The problem is offset by using insulin or antidiabetic pills, but the basic cause continues to be a mystery. There is some evidence that the gland could be affected by a virus or poor circulation.

The discovery of proinsulin will open up many new fields in diabetes research.

CAUSE OF NEPHROSIS

Mrs. L. writes: My boy has nephrosis and the doctor is giving him steroids. Is this disease caused by an infection?

REPLY

Yes, in some instances. In others, degeneration is responsible but in the majority the cause is not known. Steroids often are helpful in this condition, which is confined to the tubules of the kidney.

CAUSES OF CLUMSINESS

Mrs. B. writes: I know that growing boys tend to be awkward, but my 14-year-old seems unusually clumsy. Are there any exercises that would help him become more graceful?

REPLY

You might get a medical opinion as to whether his nervous system is normal, because a boy who suddenly becomes awkward may have chorea. If he is otherwise healthy, teach him how to pick up and hold various objects.

Sports such as baseball and swimming also may take off the rough edges. It is better to give instructions of this kind than to be too critical, for some children have better coordination than others.

EPILEPY FORM CHANGES

N. T. writes: If a youngster suffers from petit mal, will he develop grand mal in adulthood?

REPLY

This sequence would be usual. But victims of petit mal may continue to have these "spells" or they may develop epileptic equivalents in later life.

MYELOGRAM EXPLAINED

H. G. writes: Is a myelogram the same as a spinal fluid test?

REPLY

No. In a myelogram, some of the spinal fluid is withdrawn and replaced with a radiopaque solution. This dye is visible under X-ray and demonstrates whether a slipped disk is pressing upon the spinal cord or a tumor exists.

Ramon Novarro Estate Valued At $500,000

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Silent screen lover Ramon Novarro, who was slain two weeks ago, left an estate estimated at $500,000, it was disclosed yesterday when his will was filed for probate.

Under the will, the bulk of Novarro's estate will go into a trust fund for his four brothers and four sisters, who live in Mexico, Spain and the United States, and for his personal secretary, Edward J. Weber of Los Angeles.

A fifth brother, Antonio Samaniego of Woodland Hills was not included in the trust but a provision in the will provided for payment of his outstanding debts.

Novarro also left bequests to several religious orders and institutions, including $15,000 to St. Anne's Catholic Church in North Hollywood.

Two Water Districts Agree To Sewer Study

Marin Municipal Water District officially branched out into the sewage business yesterday with the approval of a five-year agreement with the County of Marin and North Marin County Water District.

Under the agreement, the two water districts will:

Investigate the effects of the county's Brown and Caldwell report, a long range master plan for sewerage service, on existing sanitary districts.

Prepare recommendations for implementation of the Brown and Caldwell report.

Make recommendations for providing sewage disposal service to portions of the county not now within a sanitary district; and Prepare recommendations for future county action on septic tanks in cooperation with the health department.

Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger explained all work will be done under the direction of a project engineer furnished by Marin Municipal Water District, and an assistant engineer furnished by the North Marin Municipal by the North Marin district.

All costs will be paid by the county, he said.

Director William A. Marcus commented on the county's current problems with waste disposal from houseboats and asked unhappily, "Are we going to inherit that?"

The vote on the agreement was taken without further discussion and was unanimous.

Marin Municipal Water District Board Also:

FLOOD CONTROL — Set 1:30 p.m. Dec. 11 as the date to open bids on the second stage of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

PHOENIX DAM — Approved a payment of $12,551 toward the Phoenix Dam rehabilitation and heard a report from Seeger that the total project would cost $175,000, about $23,000 more than estimated, because of unexpected extra excavation.

CORTE MADERA — Agreed to let the Town of Corte Madera use a water district driveway as access to the town's corporation yard, in return for the town taking over maintenance of the drive.

RELOCATION — Approved administrative action awarding a contract for moving an 18-inch line for Highway 101 widening to the low bidder, Maggiora & Ghilotti Inc., Corte Madera, with the state paying the full cost of $2,000.

TREES — Decided to spend not more than $1,275 on removing dead limbs and trees in the Lake Lagunitas area.

MOBILE HOME PARK — Agreed to sell water to the North Marin County Water District so it can provide service to a new mobile home park near Hamilton Air Force Base.

Duane F. Miller of Woodacre and program chairman for the chapter, said talks by several speakers will deal with freedom of the high school student press, the students' right to dress as he or she chooses, questions of school censorship and the right to hear controversial speakers.

Tam Officials Eye Impact Of Bond Issue's Failure

In wake of the Nov. 5 defeat of a $10.9 million Tamalpais High School District bond election, District Supt. Chester G. Carlisle has requested information on the more urgent school needs for next year.

District officials said yesterday the data, solicited from the principals of the three high schools — Redwood, Tamalpais and Sir Francis Drake — will include an estimate of the number of portable classrooms that would handle the student population overflow, what minimal construction could be undertaken, or suggestions on further doubling up on class schedules in existing classrooms.

They said the information probably will be presented at the 8 p.m. meeting Monday of the district board at its offices at Redwood High in Larkspur.

There is general agreement that defeat of the bond issue, which would have provided new high schools at Tiburon and San Geronimo Valley and additional construction at the three existing schools, was a part of the continuing trend throughout California to defeat bond issues including those for school development.

Gloria Melbostad, board president, said she has no new proposal on how to meet the demand for more school facilities. She said the board hasn't discussed it yet, but probably will at the Monday session.

She said an often made proposal that the district be split into three smaller districts, one for each existing high school, would probably create even less chance for passage of bond issues. "I don't see that that's going to help the picture any," said she. "I've always been opposed to splitting off any financially disadvantaged part of the district, but we (the board) haven't discussed that, either."

She added: "It's not that we're unaware of the problems (since the election). It's just that we haven't thrashed them out."

Library Exhibit

A water color exhibit by Norman Beals of Tamalpais Valley will be on display at the Larkspur Library until the middle of next month.

Armed Bandit Hits Station For About $100

Station attendant Charles Plato of Greenbrae said he was working in the lubrication room about 3:45 a.m. when the bandit crept up behind him and ordered him to "turn around and see what I've got."

He had a revolver and he demanded and received a key to the station cash box. Plato said he watched as the gunmen took the cash and drove off in a 1963 or 1964 Chevrolet Impala.

The bandit was about 25 years old, six feet tall and 200 pounds. He wore a blue nylon jacket and jeans, Plato said.

San Rafael's Christmas decorations will be put up next week, according to the committee.

Strep Infections Top Weekly List

Streptoccocus infections again topped the list of communicable diseases reported last week in Marin County, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

A total of 61 strep cases was reported in the county, with Novato the hardest hit community, accounting for 31 of the cases.

Also reported were seven cases of infectious hepatitis and one of salmonella.

Extension Of Water Main Is Given Approval

The Novato Sanitary District board has approved an agreement with the City of Novato and Western California Telephone Co. to extend an eight-inch water main down Davidson Street to the corporation yards of the city, telephone company, and the sanitary district offices, one third of the cost, or $2,523, to be borne by each agency.

The board accepted a deed of easement yesterday from Ted Schuman Chevrolet Co. for the extension of the sewer main west of Highway 101, south of Lamont Avenue and also approved a temporary agreement to furnish service to Peter La Dow at 793 Eucalyptus Avenue until that lot can be annexed into the district.

Worker Kills His Family, Then Himself

LIVERMORE (AP)—An electronics assembler shot and killed his wife and two young children yesterday then killed himself, police said.

The body of Paul Cranfill, 27, was found slumped against a bedroom wall by his brother, Carl, when he returned home from classes at Hayward State College.

The brother said the family was heavily in debt.

Faced down in front of the television set in the living room of the apartment was Robert Allen Cranfill, 4.

Police theorized the shootings had occurred earlier in the day. The victims had been dead several hours, coroner's deputies said.

The mother had some of her daughter's clothes in her hands and apparently had been dressing the girl when the shots were fired.

Carol told police he had been living with the family several months while going to school.

Sinatra Quits Smoggy South

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Declaring that smog is endangering his health and career, singer Frank Sinatra said yesterday he is moving permanently from the Los Angeles area to his Palm Springs estate.

"I've had it with Los Angeles and Hollywood," the 52-year-old entertainer said. "The smog is so bad I had to visit my doctor three days a week."

O.J. Simpson Ponders Million Dollar Offer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Football star O. J. Simpson of the University of Southern California was offered a $1-million concontract yesterday. Simpson's reaction: "Whew! A million bucks:"

The offer came from Sam Morris Jr., of National Enterprises, Inc., of San Antonio, Tex. But the catch is that the contract is for the management of Simpson's personal services and does not specifically mention football.

Morris, a former high school football player in Texas, says he hopes to acquire a pro team in one of the existing leagues or open his own circuit, "a television league that would play Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday nights in Southern cities and at any time during the year."

He said he made the offer to the All-American running back at USC "because he's the best football player in the country, the greatest runner since Red Grange at least.

"I would expect to get back my investment in him in a very short time," Morris said, noting that the contract would cover "all facets of Simpson's professional career, including his signing."

If Simpson accepts the offer, the signing would take place after the season ends this month or, if the No. 1 ranked Trojans make it to the Rose Bowl, after the New Year's Day classic.

Morris said he will not contact Simpson again "until the season is over, I don't want to get the USC people mad at me."

Simpson, obviously stunned by the offer, said:

"I've had guys say that they'd be willing to handle my affairs and say I could make a million dollars and things like that—but this is the first set figure I've received."

But he said he still is far from a decision. "I'll put off until at least the end of the season any thoughts about my future career," he said.

"We have three tough ball games to play yet. I don't want to get my mind cluttered up with money and business right now."

Simpson, who grew up in a San Francisco ghetto, didn't hide his thoughts about the offer. "I think of the few bills I've got now and I wish I had some of that money to pay them.

"I'd like to buy things for my family, for my wife and the baby that's coming along in December that I've never been able to buy," he said. "But I don't have that money yet and I, get the feeling sometimes I'm gonna wake up one morning and find I never will."

But No. 32 in the Southern Cal backfield who says he "ran with reckless abandon" last year, but adds "I haven't this year," is showing equal caution with his future and the contracts that will accompany it.

"I have to make sure that whoever it is with has my welfare in mind."

Low Grades Knock Some Tars Off Grid Team

Ineligible List Is Not Revealed

College of Marin's football team, on the verge of a possible Camino Norte Conference championship, has been jolted by a roadblock that haunts all football coaches — scholastic ineligibility.

Nine players, four to five of them starters, were declared ineligible because of scholastic deficiencies yesterday.

Five of the nine players were deficient because of incompletes — which contains the possibility that they could make up work or tests before tomorrow's 8 p.m. game with Santa Rosa Junior College in Kentfield.

The other four have received failing marks in at least 10½ credit hours and would not be able to play unless their grades take an upswing between today and tomorrow. And that could happen, according to athletic director Harry J. Pieper.

OUTSIDE CHANCE

"There is a possibility that they may be failing in a subject where it is possible to raise a grade through weekly tests," Pieper said. "There is an outside chance that they may be able to play. But they will receive no special favors."

Pieper refused to release the names of the athletes on the ineligible list.

"This is a departmental policy," he said. "We will not release personal or private records of students to the public. I know some places do this but we don't. In the case of the incompletes, it would do damage to the athletes who could make up their work."

Football coach Dick Read conceded that there was very little chance that four of the athletes would play tomorrow. That would include two backfield standouts, a substitute lineman and a defensive backfield starter. The others are expected to return.

FOR THE TITLE

"It won't help us," Read said. "But we are playing for a championship and the boys that will play know it."

In Read's tentative starting lineups for tomorrow night's game, Jim Finnegan, Gary Dinkel, Keith Stirling and Val Sabuco will be in the offensive backfield. Missing are Tim Garvin, the Tars' top rusher and scorer, and safetyman Rod Powell, who started in last week's victory over Contra Costa College of San Pablo.

The deficiencies were discovered through a standard check after mid-terms.

SHARES LEAD

College of Marin shares the Camino Norte Conference lead with West Valley of Los Gatos and DeAnza of Cupertino with 3-1 records. The other co-leaders will battle it out Saturday night.

Pieper said the situation would probably change by tomorrow, with some of the athletes making up deficiencies.

Gal Teaches Women The Arts Of Sailing

SAILING SALLIES — You land-lubbing dollies who'll tag along with your better halves to the Northern California Boats and Sports Show opening tomorrow at the Oakland Coliseum should make it a point to visit a booth operated by Mrs. G. C. Nooney of Mill Valley.

Jeanne Nooney is dedicated to the task of educating skirts in all that is involved in the sailing of boats. She'll have a booth on the main floor of the Oakland Coliseum Arena to register femmes for her series of lectures scheduled after the first of the year.

'The Boat Show will be populated by a lot of enthusiastic husbands contemplating their first purchase of a sailboat," Mrs. Nooney said yesterday, "and at this point the wife usually doesn't comprehend what is required of her. My bag, then, is I want her to visit me at the show so that I can encourage her to start learning NOW. Whether or not a woman expects to participate in the handling of a boat, it behooves her to know what is going on so that she becomes a more relaxed and, therefore, more helpful mate aboard."

After First Of Year

Mrs. Nooney schedules her lectures after the first of the year because, "No woman with a family can consider her time free after school is out. After vacation, she is still hung up until a home schedule is set. By then we are well into planning for the holidays. Thus it naturally follows that the best time for women to devote themselves to a boat class is after the first of the year. My services are learned about by word-of-mouth, and too many women call me after Opening Day on the Bay and then it is too late. I'll start registrations at the Oakland boat show because I want to forestall those dissappointed phone calls that come too late in the spring."

For those of you planning to attend the show which runs daily through Nov. 24, admission is $2 for adults, six-bits for kids.

SAFETY FIRST—And while we're on the instructional kick, you motorcycle buffs should be aware of the Marin Motorcycle Association's second series of safety classes scheduled to start tomorrow, 7:15 p.m. at Sir Francis Drake High School in San Anselmo.

Dr. Ken O'Brien, the association's safety officer, reports that the first classes were a huge success with 54 persons passing tests.

More Pavement Training

Dr. O'Brien said students will be given more pavement riding training this time since most accidents happen on streets. Also, tests will be used as a teaching aid to show students what to expect if and when the state starts examining for license purposes. Trainees must be over 15½ years of age and need not own a motorcycle. The course includes four sessions, opening tomorrow with a three-hour classroom session. Bikes are provided by the association and Marin motorcycle dealers.

THE STARS — If you've been wondering why assistant coach Carl Brown of Drake High School occasionally slaps one of his gridders on the helmet during games, here's the explanation:

Every time a Drake player intercepts a pass he is rewarded with a star on his helmet and Brown is assitant coach in charge of slapping stars on helmets.

Trevino, Boros Favored To Win World Cup Golf

ROME (AP) — They add up to 76 years of age and almost a quarter of a million dollars in golf winnings for 1968 alone. By any odds they are the favorites to outplay two-man teams from 41 other nations and capture the 16th annual World Cup Golf Championship which opened today.

In a lazy practice round under a mellow Rome sun yesterday Boros carded a 68, two off the record 66 for the 6,850-yard par 72 Olgiata Country Club course. Trevino, tanned and fresh from winning the Hawaii Open, finished in 72.

Athens Invitational On Tap In Oakland

OAKLAND (AP) — The third annual Athens Invitational Indoor Track Meet will be Jan. 24 in the Oakland Arena, it was announced yesterday.

Sam Bell, track coach at the University of California and meet director, said acceptances had already been received from Olympic high jump champion Dick Fosbury and indoor three-mile record holder Tracy Smith, another Olympian.

Ashe In British Doghouse

LONDON (UPI) — Arthur Ashe, the king of America's amateur tennis players, is in the doghouse with critical British fans who claim they were shortchanged by his lackluster showing in the London Indoor Championships.

Ashe, the reigning U.S. Open champion from Richmond, Va., bowed out of the meet yesterday amidst sneers of "half-hearted" and "not trying." The uncomplimentary remarks were made when young Welshman Gerald Battrick beat the American 6-1, 6-4, 6-2, in a second round match.

IN DOUBLES, TOO

Then to top off a miserable day Ashe and doubles partner Jim Osborne of Honolulu were trounced by John Paish and David Lloyd of Britain, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2, in a match which prompted Lloyd to comment "There is no joy in winning a match like that."

Ashe seemed to play at half speed against Battrick and at no stage did the American show the form which he used in leading the U.S. team to a decisive role in the team's victory over India in the Davis Cup Inter-Zone final.

HURTING?

At first Ashe denied that there was anything wrong with him physically but later gave as reasons for his poor performance: "There might be three things wrong with me. I might have a fractured left shin, I might have a deposit of calcium on my left heel or I might have tendonitis in my right elbow. Anyhow, I guess you could say I had a black day."

Asked if he would be consulting a doctor, Ashe said: "I will wait until my Davis Cup captain Donald Dell arrives."

WAITING

Ashe was not the only one awaiting Dell's arrival in London. Sponsors of the indoor meet also wanted to talk with him.

Chairman of the management committee for the Dewar Cup tournament—of which the covered court championships are a part—said "Any comment I have to make will only come after I have seen the American captain. Beyond saying that I am extremely disappointed with today's showing."

49ers' Pass Blocking Gets A Stiff Test

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — San Francisco's 49ers believe they have organized an effective blocking unit for the passing of John Brodie. Just how good it is probably will be apparent this Sunday.

Despite the 49er loss last week to Chicago, Bear tacklers were unable to dump Brodie a single time while he was throwing. Coach Dick Nolan says motion pictures showed the quarterback was hurried only twice.

But this Sunday at Kezar Stadium the 49ers will be playing the Los Angeles Rams who may have the best rushing line in the National Football League in David Jones, Merlin Olsen, Roger Brown and Gregg Schumacher.

Los Angeles has an 8-1 record and the 49ers are 4-5.

Seals Nip Red Wings, And Howe

By DAVID DIETZ

OAKLAND — Ruddy-faced Chris Worthy sipped a soft drink in the Seals' dressing room last night and spoke reverently of 40-year-old Gordie Howe.

"He's so bloody smart," said the English-born goalie. "He came in on the right side and looked for a hole between my skates to put the puck, but I got lucky."

Worthy stopped that shot — off the stick of the most prolific scorer in National Hockey League history — and 13 others in the last period as the Detroit Red Wings rushed the Seals' net in an effort to break a 1-1 tie.

WINNING SHOT

Worthy — like Jarrett, a former Red Wing — was superb. Besides Howe's attempt, the 20-year-old rookie stopped Frank Mahovlich and Alex Delvecchio on two other ominous rushes.

"I feel great," said Worthy, who played the second game of his NHL career. He lost Tuesday although he played well.

PLAYING GOOD

"I'm glad he (coach Fred Glover) put me in. Luck? Oh, yeah, you need it, but the guys were playing good out there; they were clearing the puck from in front."

The victory snapped a four-game losing streak for the Seals, who begin a seven-game road trip Saturday night in Montreal. The next home game is Nov. 29, also against Montreal.

Illegal Payoffs— What To Do Next?

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. Olympic Committee and the Amateur Athletic Union agree that some hanky-panky went on among American track and field athletes in the Mexico City Olympic Games but the two groups can't get together on what to do next about those taking illegal payoffs.

Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, yesterday accepted the likelihood there were payoffs as high as $7,500 to "eight or 10" members of the U.S. track squad, but said the next step, including possible revocation of medals, was up to the AAU.

But an AAU official said his group must first have a report from the U.S. Olympic Committee on its investigation of the alleged payoffs. A USOC official said, "We're interested in getting evidence on it, but at this time we're not doing anything on it."

AWARE OF REPORTS

Brundage said his group was aware of reports of illegal payoffs during the games in Mexico City last month. The 80-year-old IOC president said the matter would be taken up first by the AAU, which controls track and field athletes in the U.S., then brought up at the 1969 meeting of the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

Ollan Cassell, an AAU official, said "Our hands are tied" until the AAU gets the USOC report, which was begun in Mexico City.

WAIT

"We cannot do anything until we receive that report. They have not presented that kind of progress report," Cassell said. The U.S. Olympic Committee has jurisdiction for the investigation, he said, because the reported payoffs came while the athletes were under USOC control.

Brundage said his IOC would come in only on general survey of the situation and the necessity of controlling identification marks on equipment of any kind.

CASHED CHECKS

U. S. Olympic Committee Chairman Douglas F. Roby said in Birmingham, Ala. Monday that several American athletes cashed travelers' checks for amounts ranging up to $7,500 during the Olympic Games.

Roby said there still was not enough evidence to take action against those involved—Even though he knew their names—because "Since those checks are the same as cash it is impossible to pin down the people who were making the payoffs and just what the payoffs were for."

WEST GERMANS

The Mexican government turned over some of the used checks and they were traced to West German banks, Roby said. Rumors during the games implicated a West German shoe firm in the payoffs. Roby did not name any firms.

Giants Announce Schedule

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Six doubleheaders and 19 night games feature the 1969 home schedule of the San Francisco Giants released today.

The Giants played 23 night games and four doubleheaders during the 1968 season. They will play the usual 81 home-game schedule next year despite the expansion of the National League to 12 teams by the addition of San Diego and Montreal.

San Diego will open the Giants' 1969 home schedule on April 17 and close it Oct. 2.

One of the doubleheaders will be with the Atlanta Braves on the Fourth of July. The other five will be on Sundays—the Houston Astros on April 27, Pittsburgh on May 25, Montreal on June 15, Chicago on Aug. 17 and New York Aug. 31.

Montreal also will furnish the opposition for the Giants in a single game at Candlestick Park on Labor Day.

Eleven of the 19 night games will be played on Friday.

Added to the special attraction program were Helmet Day on Saturday, May 24, and Ball Day on Saturday, July 5, when souvenir helmets and balls will be presented to younger fans. Other special events will be Bat Day on Saturday, April 26, combined Camera and Cap Day on Saturday, June 14, Old Timers Day on Sunday, July 20 and Fan Appreciation Day on the last Sunday of the home season.

The National League has been divided into two divisions with San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Atlanta, Cincinnati and Houston bracketed in one division. There will be a five-game playoff series between the division winners to determine the National League champion.

Two Water Districts Agree To Sewer Study

Marin Municipal Water District officially branched out into the sewage business yesterday with the approval of a five-year agreement with the County of Marin and North Marin County Water District.

Under the agreement, the two water districts will:

Investigate the effects of the county's Brown and Caldwell report, a long range master plan for sewerage service, on existing sanitary districts.

Prepare recommendations for implementation of the Brown and Caldwell report.

Make recommendations for providing sewage disposal service to portions of the county not now within a sanitary district; and Prepare recommendations for future county action on septic tanks in cooperation with the health department.

Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger explained all work will be done under the direction of a project engineer furnished by Marin Municipal Water District, and an assistant engineer furnished by the North Marin Municipal by the North Marin district.

All costs will be paid by the county, he said.

Director William A. Marcus commented on the county's current problems with waste disposal from houseboats and asked unhappily, "Are we going to inherit that?"

The vote on the agreement was taken without further discussion and was unanimous.

Marin Municipal Water District Board Also:

FLOOD CONTROL — Set 1:30 p.m. Dec. 11 as the date to open bids on the second stage of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

PHOENIX DAM — Approved a payment of $12,551 toward the Phoenix Dam rehabilitation and heard a report from Seeger that the total project would cost $175,000, about $23,000 more than estimated, because of unexpected extra excavation.

CORTE MADERA — Agreed to let the Town of Corte Madera use a water district driveway as access to the town's corporation yard, in return for the town taking over maintenance of the drive.

RELOCATION — Approved administrative action awarding a contract for moving an 18-inch line for Highway 101 widening to the low bidder, Maggiora & Ghilotti Inc., Corte Madera, with the state paying the full cost of $2,000.

TREES — Decided to spend not more than $1,275 on removing dead limbs and trees in the Lake Lagunitas area.

MOBILE HOME PARK — Agreed to sell water to the North Marin County Water District so it can provide service to a new mobile home park near Hamilton Air Force Base.

Strep Infections Top Weekly List

Streptoccocus infections again topped the list of communicable diseases reported last week in Marin County, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

A total of 61 strep cases was reported in the county, with Novato the hardest hit community, accounting for 31 of the cases.

Also reported were seven cases of infectious hepatitis and one of salmonella.

Duane F. Miller of Woodacre and program chairman for the chapter, said talks by several speakers will deal with freedom of the high school student press, the students' right to dress as he or she chooses, questions of school censorship and the right to hear controversial speakers.

Miller said the meeting is free and open to the public, including students.

Tam Officials Eye Impact Of Bond Issue's Failure

In wake of the Nov. 5 defeat of a $10.9 million Tamalpais High School District bond election, District Supt. Chester G. Carlisle has requested information on the more urgent school needs for next year.

District officials said yesterday the data, solicited from the principals of the three high schools — Redwood, Tamalpais and Sir Francis Drake — will include an estimate of the number of portable classrooms that would handle the student population overflow, what minimal construction could be undertaken, or suggestions on further doubling up on class schedules in existing classrooms.

They said the information probably will be presented at the 8 p.m. meeting Monday of the district board at its offices at Redwood High in Larkspur.

There is general agreement that defeat of the bond issue, which would have provided new high schools at Tiburon and San Geronimo Valley and additional construction at the three existing schools, was a part of the continuing trend throughout California to defeat bond issues including those for school development.

Gloria Melbostad, board president, said she has no new proposal on how to meet the demand for more school facilities. She said the board hasn't discussed it yet, but probably will at the Monday session.

She said an often made proposal that the district be split into three smaller districts, one for each existing high school, would probably create even less chance for passage of bond issues. "I don't see that that's going to help the picture any," said she. "I've always been opposed to splitting off any financially disadvantaged part of the district, but we (the board) haven't discussed that, either."

She added: "It's not that we're unaware of the problems (since the election). It's just that we haven't thrashed them out."

Library Exhibit

A water color exhibit by Norman Beals of Tamalpais Valley will be on display at the Larkspur Library until the middle of next month.

Armed Bandit Hits Station For About $100

Station attendant Charles Plato of Greenbrae said he was working in the lubrication room about 3:45 a.m. when the bandit crept up behind him and ordered him to "turn around and see what I've got."

He had a revolver and he demanded and received a key to the station cash box. Plato said he watched as the gunmen took the cash and drove off in a 1963 or 1964 Chevrolet Impala.

The bandit was about 25 years old, six feet tall and 200 pounds. He wore a blue nylon jacket and jeans, Plato said.

Some Important Facts On Giants' Pitching

Art Santo Domingo just completed the first phase of his winter work. As usual, Santo Domingo has done an excellent job. Santo Domingo is statistician for the Giants and they are lucky to have him because he is the best in baseball.

The first phase of Santo Domingo's 1968 winter work is a masterpiece of analysis, a detailed study of the team's pitching staff. Santo Domingo provides 14 pages of solid statistics to support his conclusions which he lists alphabetically starting with Bob Bolin.

"THIS WAS Bolin's best year, once he got the chance to pitch . . . did not become a regular starter until July 31 . . . all but two decisions (both wins) came as a starter . . . in last two months of season, Bolin started 13 games, won 6, completed five, finished with ERA of 1.98 and 10-5 record.

"For first time in his career, Joe Gibbon did not start a game in the entire season . . . used almost exclusively in short, middle inning relief . . . longest job was 4⅓ innings . . . consistently effective when entering games with no baserunners or at start of an inning . . . infrequently involved in games where outcome hung in balance.

"RON HERBEL . . . used very sparingly and never brought into a game when the Giants were ahead.

"For fourth straight season Frank Linzy was the Giants' best relief pitcher, particularly when games got down to do-or-die stage . . . for last two seasons Linzy has been National League's best fireman from standpoint of consistent effectiveness . . . in last four seasons has won 32 games and saved 50 more . . . lifetime ERA is 2.15.

"THE YEAR 1968 was one of Juan Marichal's most successful seasons although it was not his most effective . . . Marichal's 26 wins were a personal high and also were the most by a Giant since Carl Hubbell won as many in 1936 . . . no Giant pitcher has won more than 26 in a season since Christy Mathewson was 27-9 in 1910 . . . . Marichal pitched 30 complete games, most in the majors, and also set a personal high with 326 innings . . . he also won 21 games for the fifth time in six seasons . . . he has completed 100 of his last 103 wins . . . Juan won more games in the first half of 1968 than after All-Star break but he was more effective in second half . . . he was at his best against the top three clubs St. Louis, Chicago and Cincinnati, winning 9 of 10 decisions from them . . . only Houston beat him for the season, 3 out of 5.

"A 16-15 record doesn't indicate how effective Gaylord Perry was in 1968 . . . it was his best season . . . he capped it with a brilliant no-hitter Sept. 17 over Bob Gibson and the Cardinals 1-0 . . . after losing by one run nine time in 1967, Perry suffered 11 defeats in 1968 when the Giants scored two runs or less . . .

"RAY SADECKI had one of his best seasons in spite of his 12-18 record . . . he completed 13 games, equaling his career high of the 1961 season for St. Louis. . . he struck out more batters than in any previous season (206) and passed the 1,000 mark for his career . . . his 254 innings were also a career high and he led the Giants with six shutouts . . . eight of his defeats came when Giants were shutout, five others when they got only one run."

Friends Give Ailing Former Champ Charles An Assist

CHICAGO (AP) — A helping hand was given ailing former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles last night, including a tender lift out of a wheelchair by ex-ring greats Rocky Marciano and Archie Moore.

The climax of a nostalgic evening for an overflow crowd of 1,300 boxing fans came when Charles, stricken with lateral sclerosis, was helped to his feet to express thanks for his benefit banquet.

Propped before the rostrum by Marciano and Moore, two men he fought, Charles said hatingly scarcely above a hoarse whisper:

"It's hard to realize this could happen to me. All I can say is thank you, thank you."

Marciano, Moore, Cassius Clay, Rev. Henry Armstrong and Johnny Coulon, all former champions, attended the $15-a-plate benefit for 47-year-old Charles, who held the heavyweight from 1949 to 1951.

In the overflow crowd at a downtown hotel were such other former fighters as Johnny Bratton, Bob Stterfield, Coley Walace, Johnny Paychek, Max Marek, Davey Day and Hubert Hood.

There even was a telegram from former heavyweight champion Max Schmeling of Germany, who expressed regret he was unable to attend.

The dinner chairman, Ed Moran, said a minimum of $15,000 would be deposited in a bank for Charles, who sat in his wheelchair at the speaker's table with his wife, two daughters and his son.

The only two other speakers were Moore and Marciano, although Clay engaged in some good-natured heckling of Marciano.

Marciano, who twice defeated Charles in 1954, lauded Charles as a "fighter of science" who never was appreciated by fight fans because of his skillful boxing in an era between the reigns of Joe Louis and Marciano.

"I thought the fight game was pretty dead until I came here tonight," said Marciano, "but this crowd has really surprised me."

Marciano also asked for five seconds of silence in deference to his former manager, Charlie Goldman, who died Monday.

"Charles was a great man for boxing, a great human being, and he's the only one who never knocked me before a fight," said Marciano.

"There's another guy here who was just the opposite," Rocky said with a smile referring to Moore.

Marciano, jokingly accepting this as a challenge, retorted:

"Back in 1952 maybe we would have had a great match,"

Clay quipped back:

"No contest."

No Love Lost Between Namath, Raiders

NEW YORK (AP) — At 6-feet-8 and 280 pounds, Oakland's Ben Davidson is plenty big. But he's not big enough to be the only reason Joe Namath wants to beat the Raiders Sunday.

It's only natural that the New York Jets' quarterback should want to get even with Davidson since it was the defensive end's fist that he ran into when he broke his right cheekbone last year.

But Namath has a loftier purpose, a grander scheme in mind for his first visit to Oakland since the incident.

INCENTIVE

"The biggest incentive I have," Namath said yesterday, "is we have a chance to cinch the title out there against Oakland and San Diego. If we could come back here with the title, that would be great."

The Jets go into their two-game West Coast trip with a 3½-game lead in the American Football League's Eastern Division. Two victories out there would give the Jets their first title.

Namath had had a lot of knee injuries, but he never had experienced a broken cheekbone before last year's game at Oakland.

In fact, he probably never had been so manhandled as he was by the Raiders. First Ike Lassiter, 6-5 and 270, belted Namath with a forearm, and then Davidson's fist got in his way.

COMPLAINTS

Coach 'Weeb Ewbank complained bitterly afterward, saying something to the effect that the officials had let the game get out of hand. But Ewbank wasn't about to bring up the charges again yesterday.

"I was already fined for that game," he said.

Namath never has been as vocal about the incidents as his coach. He didn't even talk to Davidson when the two were in Jacksonville, Fla., last January for the AFL All-Star game.

"We just didn't have anything to say to each other," Namath explained. "I just stayed away from him. We have no relationship.

"Look, I don't mind a good clean shot. But I don't think it's proper when you're already on the ground and someone twists your leg or sticks a hand through your face mask.

CHEAP SHOTS

"Every team has a couple of individuals who take cheap shots. They say there are a couple of guys on our team who do."

Of the Raiders as a whole, Namath added:

"I think I like Oakland less than any other team personally. We've always been frustrated against them. Two years ago we should've beaten them here, but we lost in the last two seconds. And I remember we had a bad time against them when I was a rookie.

"They hate me, I'm sure, but that's because I'm the opposing quarterback. Beyond that, I don't know."

He may find out Sunday.

Big 'E' Scores 54 Points

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sensational Elvin Hayes went on the biggest scoring binge in the National Basketball Association this season—54 points—but he needed two little points by Art "Hambone" Williams to keep it from going for naught.

Williams connected on a driving layup with 17 seconds left last night to give San Diego a 122-120 victory over Detroit after Hayes fended off a Piston rally with 17 of his points in the final quarter.

Runnerup Baltimore trimmed Cincinnati's lead in the Eastern Division with a 115-111 victory and Atlanta trounced Seattle 142-113 in the night's other games.

The 6-foot-8 Hayes, a top candidate for Rookie-of-the-Year honors, broke the previous season high of 41 set by San Francisco's Nate Thurmond in a game with Seattle last month.

After Williams' shot wiped that out, the Pistons drew a technical foul and Rocket John Block converted for the final two-point margin.

Earl Monroe drilled in four of his 33 points in the final 1½ minutes in enabling Baltimore to hand Cincinnati a loss that was painful in more ways than one.

The defeat stopped the Royals' six-game winning streak, and to make things worse, their top shooter, Oscar Robertson, aggravated an ankle injury in the second quarter and issed the entire second half.

The Bullets, who trail Cincinnati by only .017 percentage points, led until the last quarter when Fred Foster's free throw put the Royals in front 105-104 with 3:11 left.

After an exchange of field goals, Westley Unseld hit a free throw and a basket and Monroe canned two straight shots to preserve Baltimore's first victory at Cincinnati since 1964.

Joe Caldwell hit 11 of his 26 points in a third-quarter spurt that broke open a tight match.

Seattle had taken a 42-34 lead early in the second quarter, but Atlanta rallied for a 58-52 lead at halftime. Lou Hudson paced the winners with 28 points, while Lenny Wilkens had 27 for the SuperSonics.

"That was the greatest game any man could have played," Sherman told Tarkenton. "You were just great."

Tarkenton threw scoring passes of five yards to Joe Morrison and 60 yards to Homer Jones while completing 16 of 24 for 187 yards. He also scrambled 22 yards for one touchdown.

Marin Vs. Santa Rosa Usually Is A Wild Time

By KIMO CAMPBELL

The College of Marin Tars, fighting for at least a share of the Camino Norte Conference's first football championship, couldn't have chosen a wilder way to do it.

When the Tars face off against the Santa Rosa Bearcubs in Marin's Homecoming Game tomorrow night in Kentfield, there will be enough variables surrounding the game to confound a computer. First, there is the ineligibility issue, with several Marin players possibly out for low grades. Toss in the pressure factor, the angle of a big traditional rivalry, Santa Rosa's desire to make up for a lackluster season, and Marin's mental attitude after the ineligibility hassle, and the season records of the two mean nothing.

UPSETS

Which is hardly novel in the long and seldom placid rivalry between the schools, which dates from 1928, two years after the College of Marin was founded. Upsets abound, usually on the Santa Rosa side, since the Cubs have a 20-10-1 lead in the series.

"They've always played it up big there" Marin Coach Dick Read said. 'We don't make that much out of it, although we try to get the kids up for it as a big point in the season. This year, of course we have all the incentive we need — a championship."

Read's Northern California co-champions of last fall beat the Cubs, 23-0 in Santa Rosa to clinch their last Golden Valley championship and gave Marin its first victory over SRJC since 1947. The series was suspended for a few years due to mutual animosity, but Marin had a 12-game non-winning string until last fall.

Marin has had a long backlog of bad experiences with Santa Rosa teams. "We didn't have the material they did for a long time," says Read, "and when we did they always snuck up on us."

In 1966, a fine Marin squad with quarterback Al Simontacci, end Honor Jackson and halfback Fred Rodoni was favored over a Cub team that was 0-8 for the year but gave up a 16-0 halftime lead and lost 16-14. Marin steamed about that one for a long while, as Santa Rosa confused the Tar defense in the first half by switching numbers and jerseys — which was legal at the time, but not quite recommended by Emily Post. The Marinites also felt that the time was out of joint — the clock moved faster than seemed logical as Marin rallied in the second half, and sprinted at the end as Marin ran out of time on SRJC's 20 yard line.

TENSION

For these and other reasons, the game is not without tension and an emotional factor not usually present at football games. Read's situation is complicated by the fact that he was raised in Santa Rosa, many of his friends are there, and his brother Len is backfield coach under Marvin Mays at SRJC.

This year's Santa Rosa club has an improved defense and the passing and running of quarterback Ray Borowicz, who has the school total-offense mark within his reach. Borowicz, a sophomore scrambler, likes to run and throw, dipping and dodging to avoid tacklers. Marin hopes to put a good rush on him and contain his scrambling. As Read puts it "he'll run around back there on a broken play until he finds someone loose in the end zone — and bingo, they've got six."

FAVORITE

Borowicz's favorite receiver is a familiar name to Marin sports fans — Chris Bowman, who was the starting quarterback for Terra Linda's 1966 Marin County Athletic League co-champions. He went to SRJC, sat out a year, and has been the best Cub receiver this year.

With Borowicz the workhorse (286 plays in eight games) passing, running, and punting, SRJC has struggled through a 4-4 season, putting them at the bottom of Camino Norte. A win would be a big salve to that season.

O.J. Simpson Ponders Million Dollar Offer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Football star O. J. Simpson of the University of Southern California was offered a $1-million con-contract yesterday. Simpson's reaction: "Whew! A million bucks:"

The offer came from Sam Morris Jr., of National Enterprises, Inc., of San Antonio, Tex. But the catch is that the contract is for the management of Simpson's personal services and does not specifically mention football.

Morris, a former high school football player in Texas, says he hopes to acquire a pro team in one of the existing leagues or open his own circuit, "a television league that would play Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday nights in Southern cities and at any time during the year."

He said he made the offer to the All-American running back at USC "because he's the best football player in the country, the greatest runner since Red Grange at least.

"I would expect to get back my investment in him in a very short time," Morris said, noting that the contract would cover "all facets of Simpson's professional career, including his signing."

If Simpson accepts the offer, the signing would take place after the season ends this month or, if the No. 1 ranked Trojans make it to the Rose Bowl, after the New Year's Day classic.

Morris said he will not contact Simpson again "until the season is over, I don't want to get the USC people mad at me."

Simpson, obviously stunned by the offer, said:

"I've had guys say that they'd be willing to handle my affairs and say I could make a million dollars and things like that—but this is the first set figure I've received."

But he said he still is far from a decision. "I'll put off until at least the end of the season any thoughts about my future career," he said.

"We have three tough ball games to play yet. I don't want to get my mind cluttered up with money and business right now."

Simpson, who grew up in a San Francisco ghetto, didn't hide his thoughts about the offer. "I think of the few bills I've got now and I wish I had some of that money to pay them.

"I'd like to buy things for my family, for my wife and the baby that's coming along in December that I've never been able to buy," he said. "But I don't have that money yet and I, get the feeling sometimes I'm gonna wake up one morning and find I never will."

But No. 32 in the Southern Cal backfield who says he "ran with reckless abandon" last year, but adds "I haven't this year," is showing equal caution with his future and the contracts that will accompany it.

"I have to make sure that whoever it is with has my welfare in mind."

Gal Teaches Women The Arts Of Sailing

SAILING SALLIES — You land-lubbing dollies who'll tag along with your better halves to the Northern California Boats and Sports Show opening tomorrow at the Oakland Coliseum should make it a point to visit a booth operated by Mrs. G. C. Nooney of Mill Valley.

Jeanne Nooney is dedicated to the task of educating skirts in all that is involved in the sailing of boats. She'll have a booth on the main floor of the Oakland Coliseum Arena to register femmes for her series of lectures scheduled after the first of the year.

'The Boat Show will be populated by a lot of enthusiastic husbands contemplating their first purchase of a sailboat," Mrs. Nooney said yesterday, "and at this point the wife usually doesn't comprehend what is required of her. My bag, then, is I want her to visit me at the show so that I can encourage her to start learning NOW. Whether or not a woman expects to participate in the handling of a boat, it behooves her to know what is going on so that she becomes a more relaxed and, therefore, more helpful mate aboard."

After First Of Year

Mrs. Nooney schedules her lectures after the first of the year because, "No woman with a family can consider her time free after school is out. After vacation, she is still hung up until a home schedule is set. By then we are well into planning for the holidays. Thus it naturally follows that the best time for women to devote themselves to a boat class is after the first of the year. My services are learned about by word-of-mouth, and too many women call me after Opening Day on the Bay and then it is too late. I'll start registrations at the Oakland boat show because I want to forestall those dissappointed phone calls that come too late in the spring."

For those of you planning to attend the show which runs daily through Nov. 24, admission is $2 for adults, six-bits for kids.

SAFETY FIRST—And while we're on the instructional kick, you motorcycle buffs should be aware of the Marin Motorcycle Association's second series of safety classes scheduled to start tomorrow, 7:15 p.m. at Sir Francis Drake High School in San Anselmo.

Dr. Ken O'Brien, the association's safety officer, reports that the first classes were a huge success with 54 persons passing tests.

More Pavement Training

Dr. O'Brien said students will be given more pavement riding training this time since most accidents happen on streets. Also, tests will be used as a teaching aid to show students what to expect if and when the state starts examining for license purposes. Trainees must be over 15½ years of age and need not own a motorcycle. The course includes four sessions, opening tomorrow with a three-hour classroom session. Bikes are provided by the association and Marin motorcycle dealers.

THE STARS — If you've been wondering why assistant coach Carl Brown of Drake High School occasionally slaps one of his gridders on the helmet during games, here's the explanation:

Every time a Drake player intercepts a pass he is rewarded with a star on his helmet and Brown is assitant coach in charge of slapping stars on helmets.

Trevino, Boros Favored To Win World Cup Golf

ROME (AP) — They add up to 76 years of age and almost a quarter of a million dollars in golf winnings for 1968 alone. By any odds they are the favorites to outplay two-man teams from 41 other nations and capture the 16th annual World Cup Golf Championship which opened today.

In a lazy practice round under a mellow Rome sun yesterday Boros carded a 68, two off the record 66 for the 6,850-yard par 72 Olgiata Country Club course. Trevino, tanned and fresh from winning the Hawaii Open, finished in 72.

Athens Invitational On Tap In Oakland

OAKLAND (AP) — The third annual Athens Invitational Indoor Track Meet will be Jan. 24 in the Oakland Arena, it was announced yesterday.

Sam Bell, track coach at the University of California and meet director, said acceptances had already been received from Olympic high jump champion Dick Fosbury and indoor three-mile record holder Tracy Smith, another Olympian.

Ashe In British Doghouse

LONDON (UPI) — Arthur Ashe, the king of America's amateur tennis players, is in the doghouse with critical British fans who claim they were shortchanged by his lackluster showing in the London Indoor Championships.

Ashe, the reigning U.S. Open champion from Richmond, Va., bowed out of the meet yesterday amidst sneers of "half-hearted" and "not trying." The uncomplimentary remarks were made when young Welshman Gerald Battrick beat the American 6-1, 6-4, 6-2, in a second round match.

IN DOUBLES, TOO

Then to top off a miserable day Ashe and doubles partner Jim Osborne of Honolulu were trounced by John Paish and David Lloyd of Britain, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2, in a match which prompted Lloyd to comment "There is no joy in winning a match like that."

Ashe seemed to play at half speed against Battrick and at no stage did the American show the form which he used in leading the U.S. team to a decisive role in the team's victory over India in the Davis Cup Inter-Zone final.

HURTING?

At first Ashe denied that there was anything wrong with him physically but later gave as reasons for his poor performance: "There might be three things wrong with me. I might have a fractured left shin, I might have a deposit of calcium on my left heel or I might have tendonitis in my right elbow. Anyhow, I guess you could say I had a black day."

Asked if he would be consulting a doctor, Ashe said: "I will wait until my Davis Cup captain Donald Dell arrives."

WAITING

Ashe was not the only one awaiting Dell's arrival in London. Sponsors of the indoor meet also wanted to talk with him.

Chairman of the management committee for the Dewar Cup tournament—of which the covered court championships are a part—said "Any comment I have to make will only come after I have seen the American captain. Beyond saying that I am extremely disappointed with today's showing."

49ers' Pass Blocking Gets A Stiff Test

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — San Francisco's 49ers believe they have organized an effective blocking unit for the passing of John Brodie. Just how good it is probably will be apparent this Sunday.

Despite the 49er loss last week to Chicago, Bear tacklers were unable to dump Brodie a single time while he was throwing. Coach Dick Nolan says motion pictures showed the quarterback was hurried only twice.

But this Sunday at Kezar Stadium the 49ers will be playing the Los Angeles Rams who may have the best rushing line in the National Football League in David Jones, Merlin Olsen, Roger Brown and Gregg Schumacher.

Los Angeles has an 8-1 record and the 49ers are 4-5.

Seals Nip RedWings, And Howe

By DAVID DIETZ

OAKLAND — Ruddy-faced Chris Worthy sipped a soft drink in the Seals' dressing room last night and spoke reverently of 40-year-old Gordie Howe.

"He's so bloody smart," said the English-born goalie. "He came in on the right side and looked for a hole between my skates to put the puck, but I got lucky."

Worthy stopped that shot — off the stick of the most prolific scorer in National Hockey League history — and 13 others in the last period as the Detroit Red Wings rushed the Seals' net in an effort to break a 1-1 tie.

WINNING SHOT

Worthy — like Jarrett, a former Red Wing — was superb. Besides Howe's attempt, the 20-year-old rookie stopped Frank Mahovlich and Alex Delvecchio on two other ominous rushes.

"I feel great," said Worthy, who played the second game of his NHL career. He lost Tuesday although he played well.

PLAYING GOOD

"I'm glad he (coach Fred Glover) put me in. Luck? Oh, yeah, you need it, but the guys were playing good out there; they were clearing the puck from in front."

The victory snapped a four-game losing streak for the Seals, who begin a seven-game road trip Saturday night in Montreal. The next home game is Nov. 29, also against Montreal.

Illegal Payoffs—What To Do Next?

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. Olympic Committee and the Amateur Athletic Union agree that some hanky-panky went on among American track and field athletes in the Mexico City Olympic Games but the two groups can't get together on what to do next about those taking illegal payoffs.

Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, yesterday accepted the likelihood there were payoffs as high as $7,500 to "eight or 10" members of the U.S. track squad, but said the next step, including possible revocation of medals, was up to the AAU.

But an AAU official said his group must first have a report from the U.S. Olympic Committee on its investigation of the alleged payoffs. A USOC official said, "We're interested in getting evidence on it, but at this time we're not doing anything on it."

AWARE OF REPORTS

Brundage said his group was aware of reports of illegal payoffs during the games in Mexico City last month. The 80-year-old IOC president said the matter would be taken up first by the AAU, which controls track and field athletes in the U.S., then brought up at the 1969 meeting of the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

Ollan Cassell, an AAU official, said "Our hands are tied" until the AAU gets the USOC report, which was begun in Mexico City.

WAIT

"We cannot do anything until we receive that report. They have not presented that kind of progress report," Cassell said. The U.S. Olympic Committee has jurisdiction for the investigation, he said, because the reported payoffs came while the athletes were under USOC control.

Brundage said his IOC would come in only on general survey of the situation and the necessity of controlling identification marks on equipment of any kind.

CASHED CHECKS

U. S. Olympic Committee Chairman Douglas F. Roby said in Birmingham, Ala. Monday that several American athletes cashed travelers' checks for amounts ranging up to $7,500 during the Olympic Games.

Roby said there still was not enough evidence to take action against those involved—Even though he knew their names—because "Since those checks are the same as cash it is impossible to pin down the people who were making the payoffs and just what the payoffs were for."

WEST GERMANS

The Mexican government turned over some of the used checks and they were traced to West German banks, Roby said. Rumors during the games implicated a West German shoe firm in the payoffs. Roby did not name any firms.

Ineligible List Is Not Revealed

College of Marin's football team, on the verge of a possible Camino Norte Conference championship, has been jolted by a roadblock that haunts all football coaches — scholastic ineligibility.

Nine players, four to five of them starters, were declared ineligible because of scholastic deficiencies yesterday.

Five of the nine players were deficient because of incompletes — which contains the possibility that they could make up work or tests before tomorrow's 8 p.m. game with Santa Rosa Junior College in Kentfield.

The other four have received failing marks in at least 10½ credit hours and would not be able to play unless their grades take an upswing between today and tomorrow. And that could happen, according to athletic director Harry J. Pieper.

OUTSIDE CHANCE

"There is a possibility that they may be failing in a subject where it is possible to raise a grade through weekly tests," Pieper said. "There is an outside chance that they may be able to play. But they will receive no special favors."

Pieper refused to release the names of the athletes on the ineligible list.

"This is a departmental policy," he said. "We will not release personal or private records of students to the public. I know some places do this but we don't. In the case of the incompletes, it would do damage to the athletes who could make up their work."

Football coach Dick Read conceded that there was very little chance that four of the athletes would play tomorrow. That would include two backfield standouts, a substitute lineman and a defensive backfield starter. The others are expected to return.

FOR THE TITLE

"It won't help us," Read said. "But we are playing for a championship and the boys that will play know it."

In Read's tentative starting lineups for tomorrow night's game, Jim Finnegan, Gary Dinkel, Keith Stirling and Val Sabuco will be in the offensive backfield. Missing are Tim Garvin, the Tars' top rusher and scorer, and safetyman Rod Powell, who started in last week's victory over Contra Costa College of San Pablo.

The deficiencies were discovered through a standard check after mid-terms.

SHARES LEAD

College of Marin shares the Camino Norte Conference lead with West Valley of Los Gatos and DeAnza of Cupertino with 3-1 records. The other co-leaders will battle it out Saturday night.

Pieper said the situation would probably change by tomorrow, with some of the athletes making up deficiencies.

Giants Announce Schedule

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Six doubleheaders and 19 night games feature the 1969 home schedule of the San Francisco Giants released today.

The Giants played 23 night games and four doubleheaders during the 1968 season. They will play the usual 81 home-game schedule next year despite the expansion of the National League to 12 teams by the addition of San Diego and Montreal.

San Diego will open the Giants' 1969 home schedule on April 17 and close it Oct. 2.

One of the doubleheaders will be with the Atlanta Braves on the Fourth of July. The other five will be on Sundays—the Houston Astros on April 27, Pittsburgh on May 25, Montreal on June 15, Chicago on Aug. 17 and New York Aug. 31.

Montreal also will furnish the opposition for the Giants in a single game at Candlestick Park on Labor Day.

Eleven of the 19 night games will be played on Friday.

Added to the special attraction program were Helmet Day on Saturday, May 24, and Ball Day on Saturday, July 5, when souvenir helmets and balls will be presented to younger fans. Other special events will be Bat Day on Saturday, April 26, combined Camera and Cap Day on Saturday, June 14, Old Timers Day on Sunday, July 20 and Fan Appreciation Day on the last Sunday of the home season.

The National League has been divided into two divisions with San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Atlanta, Cincinnati and Houston bracketed in one division. There will be a five-game playoff series between the division winners to determine the National League champion.

From The Bench Come The Heroes

NEW YORK (AP) — The success of Earl Morrall, Bill Nelsen and Virgil Carter may mark the 1968 season as the Year of the Backup Quarterback in the National Football League.

Baltimore picked up Morrall from the New York Giants during the training season as insurance for John Unitas' chronic tennis elbow. The Giants planned to go with Fran Tarkenton and Morrall, 34, who threw only 24 passes last season, was excess baggage.

WORK

Morrall found plenty of work with the Colts when Unitas' arm started acting up in the exhibition season.

The story of Morrall is the story of the Colts who are tied with Los Angeles in the Coastal Division with an 8-1 record. He has thrown 17 touchdown passes, the most in the league.

Nelsen's career at Pittsburgh was ruined by a series of knee injuries that twice required surgery. Coach Bill Austin finally decided to go with Kent Nix and shipped Nelsen off to Cleveland for Dick Shiner. Incidentally, Shiner now is the No. 1 passer for the Steelers.

When the Browns faltered in early season, losing two of their first three games, Blanton Collier benched Frank Ryan his veteran passer, and switched to Nelsen. The results have been remarkable. Cleveland has won its last four and has opened up a half game lead over St. Louis in the Century Division.

SURPRISE

Carter is the real surprise of the bunch. After setting all kinds of college records at Brigham Young he spent all of the 1967 season on the taxi squad with the Chicago Bears. Only after injuries cut down Jack Concannon and Rudy Bukich, did the Bears put Carter on the active list. Under his direction the Bears have won four in a row and are tied with Minnesota for the lead in the Central Division.

Although Carter is way down on the list of top passers, 14th in the rankings, and has thrown only four touchdown passes, he has been able to pull the Bears together.

Several other backup passers have moved front and center because of injuries to the No. 1 men. Shiner has taken over at Pittsburgh and the Steelers have shown new punch. Bob Berry became the starter at Atlanta in the new regime of Norm Van Brocklin after Randy Johnson was injured.

SWEETAN

When Bill Kilmer was knocked out of action at New Orleans, the Saints dropped back to Karl Sweetan, who came over from Detroit earlier in the season. After Sweetan twisted an ankle last Sunday in Cleveland, the Saints were down to Ronnie South, a rookie from Arkansas who was just activated last Friday.

Sonny Jurgensen's damaged ribs bothered him so much last Sunday against Philadelphia that he took himself out of the game as Washington quarterback. Jim Ninowski, his relief man, directed the Redskins to their best running game of the year.

And, of course, there is Bill Munson who sat it out at Los Angeles behind Roman Gabriel. He became No. 1 at Detroit as soon as he was traded and now ranks fourth among the league's passers.

Trout Season Comes To Close, Here Come Salmon, Steelhead

STEVENS

Tomorrow taps will be blown for the general trout season, and the salmon trolling comes to an end in ocean waters. But that doesn't mean you should hang up your fishing gear until May, 1969.

There are plenty of waters still waiting for you to fish. That brings up the question-and-answer game about streams and lakes where trout and salmon, as well as steelhead, may be legally caught.

THE QUESTION of whether or not it is legal to catch and keep a salmon in such areas as Racoon Strait, Paradise Cove or the Redrock region often comes up. The answer is state plainly in the booklet, Sport Fishing Regulations: (Page 29) "It is open season from the Saturday nearest Feb. 15 through the Sunday nearest Nov. 15 south of Tomales Point including all bays except Tomales Bay. No closed season north of Tomales Point, including Tomales Bay and all bays lying to the north. No closed season in San Francisco, San Pablo and Richardson bays between Carquinez Bridge and Golden Gate Bridge."

The limits are the same: Three salmon 22 inches or more, but said limit may include one fish not less than 20 inches.

ONCE THE Yuba River furnished some hot fishing for shad. At the present time the Yuba is teeming with fish but it requires savvy and patience to garner a limit.

Another river is well worth the effort to fish, the Trinity, where the best action seems to be above Trinity Lake. Very good reports have featured the upper Sacramento River (exceptionally good, actually).

Then you have the upper Klamath River where Jim Roads reports very good angling. Jim Roads spotlights the Happy Camp area. Big steelhead are infesting the Klamath from Orleans to Happy Camp.

I have no verified report from the Smith River from the mouth upstream, but this is the time of the year when fishing in the Smith becomes torrid for salmon (and warm for steelies).

AS YOU probably know the coastal streams both north and south of the "Gate" are now open for salmon. (Try the lagoon from the mouth of the Navarro to the bridge for silver salmon and grilse. Could be you'll do yourself a lot of good. You might get a steelhead, but don't bank on it.)

Unser, Bench Win Rookie Honors In Sporting News

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Center fielder Del Unser of the Washington Senators and catcher Johnny Bench of the Cincinnati Reds easily captured honors for rookies of the year yetserday in a poll of players taken by the Sporting News.

The players also picked Stan Bahnsen of the Yankees and Jerry Koosman of the Mets for rookie pitchers of the year for the American and National leagues.

Bench, the first National League catcher to take the rookie prize, received 136 votes in the poll, with his closest contender, Bobby Bonds of the San Francisco Giants, receiving 13. Unser tallied 92 votes, 60 more than rookie third baseman Bob Cox of the Yankees.

Bahnsen, fighting early tendencies to throw wild, closed the season to lead the Yankees with 161 strikeouts and a 2.06 ERA. He posted a 17-12 record.

Koosman was named to the National League All-Star team after winning 11 games to four losses.

Upheaval In Prep Scoring

Finally, the rest of the Marin County Athletic League has caught up with Novato High School halfback Pat Greene.

Greene, who hasn't scored a point since the third game of the season, nevertheless hung on to the season scoring lead until this past weekend.

He had had the lead at 39 points but three players, including teammate Tom Zechlin rushed by him this time.

Terra Linda halfback Dan McInnis and fullback Pete Richter of Redwood of Larkspur got by him, both scoring their seventh touchdowns for 42 points. And fullback Zechlin had a 14-point night against Salesian of Richmond Friday night to push his total to 41 points.

Ski Resorts Cut Down On Passes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sierra ski resort operators have decided enough is too much—no more free lift tickets for Bay Area ski shop employees.

Ski resorts will be belting the snow fans as much as $8 a day for lift tickets.

The Sierra Ski Resorts Association has passed a resolution cutting off complimentary passes for ski shop personnel because the privilege was being abused.

The Boreal Ridge manager reported that in one weekend a leading area that can accommodate 6,000 skiers a day got 1,200 with free passes.

JAMISON, CARROLL

Near-Identical Heroics Net Co-Preps Of The Week

DRAKE'S JAMISON
Look-alikes . . .

REDWOOD'S CARROLL
In performance

The names and uniforms were different but the results were the same.

And as a result, we have two Independent-Journal Preps of the Week this week.

Both Clark Jamison and Pete Carroll played a heavy hand in their respective team's football victories last week, and did it almost the same way that both Jamison of Drake of San Anselmo and Carroll, of Redwood of Larkspur were given top prep honors.

Jamison kept his team alive and breathing in the Marin County Athletic League race. Carroll helped vindicate the badly frustrated Giants.

REPEAT STORY

Jamison, an all-league defensive halfback as a junior last year, scored two touchdowns, one on a 65-yard kickoff return, intercepted one pass, gained 55 yards rushing in five tries for an 11-yard average and caught one pass for ten yards in a 28-12 victory over Tamalpais of Mill Valley Friday night.

Carroll scored two touchdowns, on bursts of 11 and five yards, intercepted one pass, caught two more and gained 85 yards rushing, most of it on a beautiful 51-yard sweep that set up another Redwood score in a 25-6 Giant stomping of San Rafael Saturday.

Long runs, interceptions, rushing, scoring — it was a double repeat story.

NEVER LOOKED BACK

Jamison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Jamison of San Anselmo, did more than pile up statistics. He seemed to be the fiery leader in a Drake defense that rushed and nagged Tamalpais quarterback Don Mackin into four interceptions.

His kickoff return for a touchdown helped turned the tide in a tight game, coming on the heels of a safety that put Drake ahead 9-7. The touchdown made it 15-7 and Drake never looked back.

He still feels the Pirates have a great team this year, possibly another championship team as in the past two years, but with a difference.

"This year we're a team," he said. "Last year, we had some players that were just better than everybody else but this year we're all working together."

Carroll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Carroll of Greenbrae, has been a jack-of-all trades for Redwood this season.

ROOTER

A defensive standout and backup quarterback last year, Carroll has been used as an end, a flankerback and a running back and has seen some duty at quarterback, including one starting game against Tamalpais.

In his one and only starting call, going for injured Jim Peters, he completed 11 of 19 passes for 198 yards, quite a substitute performance. He's the top receiver on the other end of the ball for Redwood with 16 receptions. And his running, of late, has been outstanding.

Jamison will undoubtedly be rooting for a repeat performance or better from Carroll. The Giants meet unbeaten Terra Linda Saturday afternoon and a Redwood victory would give Drake another crack at another title tie, if the Pirates get by Novato Saturday night.

A Case Of Shrinking For Dodger Stadium

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Since moving to Dodger Stadium seven years ago, the Los Angeles Dodgers have averaged only 35 home runs a year before hometown fans. For next season, they're bringing the fences in.

The National Leageu baseball club announced yesterday it would move home plate 10 feet closer to the center field wall. Thus, the power hitting alleys will be 375 feet instead of 385 and a 400-foot shot will clear the center field fence.

Dodger Stadium was constructed in 1962 like a pasture because the Dodger management knew one thing: the Dodgers weren't going to hit many home runs, no matter where the fences were.

In those years, the Dodgers were the scratching, hit-and-run type of ball club that relied on its pitching including Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale, for victories.

Maury Wills and Willie Davis had enough speed to shake up most pitchers and the Dodgers cultivated a rock-hard infield. If either Wills or Davis got wood on the ball, it would bounce so high, they'd be on first before it came down.

But in recent years, the Dodger speed has aged or been traded.

On the face of it, the move to make home runs easier to hit may not really benefit the 1969 Dodgers, though.

They haven't got any new faces on the team who can hit them out.

Vice President Arthur E. "Red" Patterson explained that the move would make games more exciting. The Dodgers may hit 15 or 20 more homers a year, he said, but so would the opposition.

Some Important Facts On Giants' Pitching

Art Santo Domingo just completed the first phase of his winter work. As usual, Santo Domingo has done an excellent job. Santo Domingo is statistician for the Giants and they are lucky to have him because he is the best in baseball.

The first phase of Santo Domingo's 1968 winter work is a masterpiece of analysis, a detailed study of the team's pitching staff. Santo Domingo provides 14 pages of solid statistics to support his conclusions which he lists alphabetically starting with Bob Bolin.

"THIS WAS Bolin's best year, once he got the chance to pitch . . . did not become a regular starter until July 31 . . . all but two decisions (both wins) came as a starter . . . in last two months of season, Bolin started 13 games, won 6, completed five, finished with ERA of 1.98 and 10-5 record.

"For first time in his career, Joe Gibbon did not start a game in the entire season . . . used almost exclusively in short, middle inning relief . . . longest job was 4⅓ innings . . . consistently effective when entering games with no baserunners or at start of an inning . . . infrequently involved in games where outcome hung in balance.

"RON HERBEL . . . used very sparingly and never brought into a game when the Giants were ahead.

"For fourth straight season Frank Linzy was the Giants' best relief pitcher, particularly when games got down to do-or-die stage . . . for last two seasons Linzy has been National League's best fireman from standpoint of consistent effectiveness . . . in last four seasons has won 32 games and saved 50 more . . . lifetime ERA is 2.15.

"THE YEAR 1968 was one of Juan Marichal's most successful seasons although it was not his most effective . . . Marichal's 26 wins were a personal high and also were the most by a Giant since Carl Hubbell won as many in 1936 . . . no Giant pitcher has won more than 26 in a season since Christy Mathewson was 27-9 in 1910 . . . . Marichal pitched 30 complete games, most in the majors, and also set a personal high with 326 innings . . . he also won 21 games for the fifth time in six seasons . . . he has completed 100 of his last 103 wins . . . Juan won more games in the first half of 1968 than after All-Star break but he was more effective in second half . . . he was at his best against the top three clubs St. Louis, Chicago and Cincinnati, winning 9 of 10 decisions from them . . . only Houston beat him for the season, 3 out of 5.

"A 16-15 record doesn't indicate how effective Gaylord Perry was in 1968 . . . it was his best season . . . he capped it with a brilliant no-hitter Sept. 17 over Bob Gibson and the Cardinals 1-0 . . . after losing by one run nine time in 1967, Perry suffered 11 defeats in 1968 when the Giants scored two runs or less . . .

"RAY SADECKI had one of his best seasons in spite of his 12-18 record . . . he completed 13 games, equaling his career high of the 1961 season for St. Louis. . . he struck out more batters than in any previous season (206) and passed the 1,000 mark for his career . . . his 254 innings were also a career high and he led the Giants with six shutouts . . . eight of his defeats came when Giants were shutout, five others when they got only one run."

Friends Give Ailing Former Champ Charles An Assist

CHICAGO (AP) — A helping hand was given ailing former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles last night, including a tender lift out of a wheelchair by ex-ring greats Rocky Marciano and Archie Moore.

The climax of a nostalgic evening for an overflow crowd of 1,300 boxing fans came when Charles, stricken with lateral sclerosis, was helped to his feet to express thanks for his benefit banquet.

Propped before the rostrum by Marciano and Moore, two men he fought, Charles said hatingly scarcely above a hoarse whisper:

"It's hard to realize this could happen to me. All I can say is thank you, thank you."

Marciano, Moore, Cassius Clay, Rev. Henry Armstrong and Johnny Coulon, all former champions, attended the $15-a-plate benefit for 47-year-old Charles, who held the heavyweight from 1949 to 1951.

In the overflow crowd at a downtown hotel were such other former fighters as Johnny Bratton, Bob Stterfield, Coley Wallace, Johnny Paychek, Max Marek, Davey Day and Hubert Hood.

There even was a telegram from former heavyweight champion Max Schmeling of Germany, who expressed regret he was unable to attend.

The dinner chairman, Ed Moran, said a minimum of $15,000 would be deposited in a bank for Charles, who sat in his wheelchair at the speaker's table with his wife, two daughters and his son.

The only two other speakers were Moore and Marciano, although Clay engaged in some good-natured heckling of Marciano.

Marciano, who twice defeated Charles in 1954, lauded Charles as a "fighter of science" who never was appreciated by fight fans because of his skillful boxing in an era between the reigns of Joe Louis and Marciano.

"I thought the fight game was pretty dead until I came here tonight," said Marciano, "but this crowd has really surprised me."

Marciano also asked for five seconds of silence in deference to his former manager, Charlie Goldman, who died Monday.

"Charles was a great man for boxing, a great human being, and he's the only one who never knocked me before a fight," said Marciano.

"There's another guy here who was just the opposite," Rocky said with a smile referring to Moore.

Marciano, jokingly accepting this as a challenge, retorted:

"Back in 1952 maybe we would have had a great match,"

Clay quipped back:

"No contest."

No Love Lost Between Namath, Raiders

NEW YORK (AP) — At 6-feet-8 and 280 pounds, Oakland's Ben Davidson is plenty big. But he's not big enough to be the only reason Joe Namath wants to beat the Raiders Sunday.

It's only natural that the New York Jets' quarterback should want to get even with Davidson since it was the defensive end's fist that he ran into when he broke his right cheekbone last year.

But Namath has a loftier purpose, a grander scheme in mind for his first visit to Oakland since the incident.

INCENTIVE

"The biggest incentive I have," Namath said yesterday, "is we have a chance to cinch the title out there against Oakland and San Diego. If we could come back here with the title, that would be great."

The Jets go into their two-game West Coast trip with a 3½-game lead in the American Football League's Eastern Division. Two victories out there would give the Jets their first title.

Namath had had a lot of knee injuries, but he never had experienced a broken cheekbone before last year's game at Oakland.

In fact, he probably never had been so manhandled as he was by the Raiders. First Ike Lassiter, 6-5 and 270, belted Namath with a forearm, and then Davidson's fist got in his way.

COMPLAINTS

Coach 'Weeb Ewbank complained bitterly afterward, saying something to the effect that the officials had let the game get out of hand. But Ewbank wasn't about to bring up the charges again yesterday.

"I was already fined for that game," he said.

Namath never has been as vocal about the incidents as his coach. He didn't even talk to Davidson when the two were in Jacksonville, Fla., last January for the AFL All-Star game.

"We just didn't have anything to say to each other," Namath explained. "I just stayed away from him. We have no relationship.

"Look, I don't mind a good clean shot. But I don't think it's proper when you're already on the ground and someone twists your leg or sticks a hand through your face mask.

CHEAP SHOTS

"Every team has a couple of individuals who take cheap shots. They say there are a couple of guys on our team who do."

Of the Raiders as a whole, Namath added:

"I think I like Oakland less than any other team personally. We've always been frustrated against them. Two years ago we should've beaten them here, but we lost in the last two seconds. And I remember we had a bad time against them when I was a rookie.

"They hate me, I'm sure, but that's because I'm the opposing quarterback. Beyond that, I don't know."

He may find out Sunday.

Big 'E' Scores 54 Points

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sensational Elvin Hayes went on the biggest scoring binge in the National Basketball Association this season—54 points—but he needed two little points by Art "Hambone" Williams to keep it from going for naught.

Williams connected on a driving layup with 17 seconds left last night to give San Diego a 122-120 victory over Detroit after Hayes fended off a Piston rally with 17 of his points in the final quarter.

Runnerup Baltimore trimmed Cincinnati's lead in the Eastern Division with a 115-111 victory and Atlanta trounced Seattle 142-113 in the night's other games.

Kentucky rolled past Los Angeles 115-108 in the only American Basketball Association game scheduled.

The 6-foot-8 Hayes, a top candidate for Rookie-of-the-Year honors, broke the previous season high of 41 set by San Francisco's Nate Thurmond in a game with Seattle last month.

After Williams' shot wiped that out, the Pistons drew a technical foul and Rocket John Block converted for the final two-point margin.

Earl Monroe drilled in four of his 33 points in the final 1½ minutes in enabling Baltimore to hand Cincinnati a loss that was painful in more ways than one.

The defeat stopped the Royals' six-game winning streak, and to make things worse, their top shooter, Oscar Robertson, aggravated an ankle injury in the second quarter and issed the entire second half.

The Bullets, who trail Cincinnati by only .017 percentage points, led until the last quarter when Fred Foster's free throw put the Royals in front 105-104 with 3:11 left.

After an exchange of field goals, Westley Unseld hit a free throw and a basket and Monroe canned two straight shots to preserve Baltimore's first victory at Cincinnati since 1964.

Joe Caldwell hit 11 of his 26 points in a third-quarter spurt that broke open a tight match.

Seattle had taken a 42-34 lead early in the second quarter, but Atlanta rallied for a 58-52 lead at halftime. Lou Hudson paced the winners with 28 points, while Lenny Wilkens had 27 for the SuperSonics.

Tarkenton Named Player Of Week

"That was the greatest game any man could have played," Sherman told Tarkenton. "You were just great."

Tarkenton threw scoring passes of five yards to Joe Morrison and 60 yards to Homer Jones while completing 16 of 24 for 187 yards. He also scrambled 22 yards for one touchdown.

Marin Vs. Santa Rosa Usually Is A Wild Time

By KIMO CAMPBELL

The College of Marin Tars, fighting for at least a share of the Camino Norte Conference's first football championship, couldn't have chosen a wilder way to do it.

When the Tars face off against the Santa Rosa Bearcubs in Marin's Homecoming Game tomorrow night in Kentfield, there will be enough variables surrounding the game to confound a computer. First, there is the ineligibility issue, with several Marin players possibly out for low grades. Toss in the pressure factor, the angle of a big traditional rivalry, Santa Rosa's desire to make up for a lackluster season, and Marin's mental attitude after the ineligibility hassle, and the season records of the two mean nothing.

UPSETS

Which is hardly novel in the long and seldom placid rivalry between the schools, which dates from 1928, two years after the College of Marin was founded. Upsets abound, usually on the Santa Rosa side, since the Cubs have a 20-10-1 lead in the series.

"They've always played it up big there" Marin Coach Dick Read said. 'We don't make that much out of it, although we try to get the kids up for it as a big point in the season. This year, of course we have all the incentive we need — a championship."

Read's Northern California co-champions of last fall beat the Cubs, 23-0 in Santa Rosa to clinch their last Golden Valley championship and gave Marin its first victory over SRJC since 1947. The series was suspended for a few years due to mutual animosity, but Marin had a 12-game non-winning string until last fall.

Marin has had a long backlog of bad experiences with Santa Rosa teams. "We didn't have the material they did for a long time," says Read, "and when we did they always snuck up on us."

In 1966, a fine Marin squad with quarterback Al Simontacci, end Honor Jackson and halfback Fred Rodoni was favored over a Cub team that was 0-8 for the year but gave up a 16-0 halftime lead and lost 16-14. Marin steamed about that one for a long while, as Santa Rosa confused the Tar defense in the first half by switching numbers and jerseys — which was legal at the time, but not quite recommended by Emily Post. The Marinites also felt that the time was out of joint — the clock moved faster than seemed logical as Marin rallied in the second half, and sprinted at the end as Marin ran out of time on SRJC's 20 yard line.

TENSION

For these and other reasons, the game is not without tension and an emotional factor not usually present at football games. Read's situation is complicated by the fact that he was raised in Santa Rosa, many of his friends are there, and his brother Len is backfield coach under Marvin Mays at SRJC.

This year's Santa Rosa club has an improved defense and the passing and running of quarterback Ray Borowicz, who has the school total-offense mark within his reach. Borowicz, a sophomore scrambler, likes to run and throw, dipping and dodging to avoid tacklers. Marin hopes to put a good rush on him and contain his scrambling. As Read puts it "he'll run around back there on a broken play until he finds someone loose in the end zone — and bingo, they've got six."

FAVORITE

Borowicz's favorite receiver is a familiar name to Marin sports fans — Chris Bowman, who was the starting quarterback for Terra Linda's 1966 Marin County Athletic League co-champions. He went to SRJC, sat out a year, and has been the best Cub receiver this year.

With Borowicz the workhorse (286 plays in eight games) passing, running, and punting, SRJC has struggled through a 4-4 season, putting them at the bottom of Camino Norte. A win would be a big salve to that season.

Babe Ruth was known as the Sultan of Swat, the Bambino, the Behemoth of Swing and the Colossus of Clout.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

To Avoid Trouble, Give Key Trick To Harmless Opponent

In a certain kind of bridge hand one opponent is a menace and the other is harmless. Your plan of play is to keep the dangerous opponent out of the lead, and one of your weapons is an exchange of tricks. You give the harmless opponent a trick that seemed to be the property of his partner.

LEADS CLUBS

West led the queen of clubs, and South won with the king. If South had been an average player he would have gone down one. East would get the lead with a spade to return a diamond through the king. West would then take two diamonds.

Since South was an expert he could see the danger. He looked for a way to give East's spade trick to West.

South's first step was to lead a trump since he needed trump entries to dummy for the success of his plan. West stepped up with the ace of hearts and led the jack of clubs to dummy's ace.

DEVELOPS SPADES

South led a low spade from dummy, and East put up the queen. South won with the ace of spades, led a low trump to dummy and led the nine of clubs. East had to play low, and South joyfully discarded the jack of spades.

West had to win the club trick, but South's trade prevented East from winning a spade trick. What's more, West was unable to make a helpful return.

A DIAMOND TRICK!

If West led a diamond, South would get a trick with the king. If West led a club, dummy would discard a diamond while South ruffed, and if West led a spade, he would help declarer set up dummy's spades.

West actually led his other spade, and South ruffed out East's king. South then got to dummy with a trump to discard to diamonds on the 10 and nine of spades.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer opens with one diamond, and your partner bids one heart.

The next player passes, and it is up to you to speak with:

♠ 10 9 8 2
♥ K 8 7 6
♦ 7 3
♣ A 9 5

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

Game is unlikely but not impossible. Still, you can lose nothing by raising hearts, and you make life very difficult for the other side. Dealer might be delighted to bid again if one heart were passed around to him, but he might well be doubtful of stepping in if he had to bid at a higher level.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, Nov. 14, the 319th day of 1968 with 47 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1832 the first streetcar in the world made its appearance in New York City. It carried 30 persons.

In 1851 Herman Melville's story, Moby Dick, was published.

In 1940 German planes dropped 225 tons of bombs on Coventry, destroying or damaging 69,000 of the English town's 75,000 buildings.

A thought for the day: French Author Emile Zola wrote: "Truth is on the march and nothing can stop it."

From The Bench Come The Heroes

NEW YORK (AP) — The success of Earl Morrall, Bill Nelsen and Virgil Carter may mark the 1968 season as the Year of the Backup Quarterback in the National Football League.

Baltimore picked up Morrall from the New York Giants during the training season as insurance for John Unitas' chronic tennis elbow. The Giants planned to go with Fran Tarkenton and Morrall, 34, who threw only 24 passes last season, was excess baggage.

WORK

Morrall found plenty of work with the Colts when Unitas' arm started acting up in the exhibition season.

The story of Morrall is the story of the Colts who are tied with Los Angeles in the Coastal Division with an 8-1 record. He has thrown 17 touchdown passes, the most in the league.

Nelsen's career at Pittsburgh was ruined by a series of knee injuries that twice required surgery. Coach Bill Austin finally decided to go with Kent Nix and shipped Nelsen off to Cleveland for Dick Shiner. Incidentally, Shiner now is the No. 1 passer for the Steelers.

When the Browns faltered in early season, losing two of their first three games, Blanton Collier benched Frank Ryan his veteran passer, and switched to Nelsen. The results have been remarkable. Cleveland has won its last four and has opened up a half game lead over St. Louis in the Century Division.

SURPRISE

Carter is the real surprise of the bunch. After setting all kinds of college records at Brigham Young he spent all of the 1967 season on the taxi squad with the Chicago Bears. Only after injuries cut down Jack Concannon and Rudy Bukich, did the Bears put Carter on the active list. Under his direction the Bears have won four in a row and are tied with Minnesota for the lead in the Central Division.

Although Carter is way down on the list of top passers, 14th in the rankings, and has thrown only four touchdown passes, he has been able to pull the Bears together.

Several other backup passers have moved front and center because of injuries to the No. 1 men. Shiner has taken over at Pittsburgh and the Steelers have shown new punch. Bob Berry became the starter at Atlanta in the new regime of Norm Van Brocklin after Randy Johnson was injured.

SWEETAN

When Bill Kilmer was knocked out of action at New Orleans, the Saints dropped back to Karl Sweetan, who came over from Detroit earlier in the season. After Sweetan twisted an ankle last Sunday in Cleveland, the Saints were down to Ronnie South, a rookie from Arkansas who was just activated last Friday.

Sonny Jurgensen's damaged ribs bothered him so much last Sunday against Philadelphia that he took himself out of the game as Washington quarterback. Jim Ninowski, his relief man, directed the Redskins to their best running game of the year.

And, of course, there is Bill Munson who sat it out at Los Angeles behind Roman Gabriel. He became No. 1 at Detroit as soon as he was traded and now ranks fourth among the league's passers.

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS

I-J Fish and Game Writer

Trout Season Comes To Close, Here Come Salmon, Steelhead

STEVENS

Tomorrow taps will be blown for the general trout season, and the salmon trolling comes to an end in ocean waters. But that doesn't mean you should hang up your fishing gear until May, 1969.

There are plenty of waters still waiting for you to fish. That brings up the question-and-answer game about streams and lakes where trout and salmon, as well as steelhead, may be legally caught.

THE QUESTION of whether or not it is legal to catch and keep a salmon in such areas as Racoon Strait, Paradise Cove or the Redrock region often comes up. The answer is state plainly in the booklet, Sport Fishing Regulations: (Page 29) "It is open season from the Saturday nearest Feb. 15 through the Sunday nearest Nov. 15 south of Tomales Point including all bays except Tomales Bay. No closed season north of Tomales Point, including Tomales Bay and all bays lying to the north. No closed season in San Francisco, San Pablo and Richardson bays between Carquinez Bridge and Golden Gate Bridge."

The limits are the same: Three salmon 22 inches or more, but said limit may include one fish not less than 20 inches.

ONCE THE Yuba River furnished some hot fishing for shad. At the present time the Yuba is teeming with fish but it requires savvy and patience to garner a limit.

Another river is well worth the effort to fish, the Trinity, where the best action seems to be above Trinity Lake. Very good reports have featured the upper Sacramento River (exceptionally good, actually).

Then you have the upper Klamath River where Jim Roads reports very good angling. Jim Roads spotlights the Happy Camp area. Big steelhead are infesting the Klamath from Orleans to Happy Camp.

I have no verified report from the Smith River from the mouth upstream, but this is the time of the year when fishing in the Smith becomes torrid for salmon (and warm for steelies).

AS YOU probably know the coastal streams both north and south of the "Gate" are now open for salmon. (Try the lagoon from the mouth of the Navarro to the bridge for silver salmon and grilse. Could be you'll do yourself a lot of good. You might get a steelhead, but don't bank on it.)

Unser, Bench Win Rookie Honors In Sporting News

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Center fielder Del Unser of the Washington Senators and catcher Johnny Bench of the Cincinnati Reds easily captured honors for rookies of the year yetserday in a poll of players taken by the Sporting News.

The players also picked Stan Bahnsen of the Yankees and Jerry Koosman of the Mets for rookie pitchers of the year for the American and National leagues.

Bench, the first National League catcher to take the rookie prize, received 136 votes in the poll, with his closest contender, Bobby Bonds of the San Francisco Giants, receiving 13. Unser tallied 92 votes, 60 more than rookie third baseman Bob Cox of the Yankees.

Bahnsen, fighting early tendencies to throw wild, closed the season to lead the Yankees with 161 strikeouts and a 2.06 ERA. He posted a 17-12 record.

Koosman was named to the National League All-Star team after winning 11 games to four losses.

Upheaval In Prep Scoring

Finally, the rest of the Marin County Athletic League has caught up with Novato High School halfback Pat Greene.

Greene, who hasn't scored a point since the third game of the season, nevertheless hung on to the season scoring lead until this past weekend.

He had had the lead at 39 points but three players, including teammate Tom Zechlin rushed by him this time.

Terra Linda halfback Dan McInnis and fullback Pete Richter of Redwood of Larkspur got by him, both scoring their seventh touchdowns for 42 points. And fullback Zechlin had a 14-point night against Salesian of Richmond Friday night to push his total to 41 points.

Ski Resorts Cut Down On Passes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sierra ski resort operators have decided enough is too much— no more free lift tickets for Bay Area ski shop employees.

Ski resorts will be belting the snow fans as much as $8 a day for lift tickets.

The Sierra Ski Resorts Association has passed a resolution cutting off complimentary passes for ski shop personnel because the privilege was being abused.

The Boreal Ridge manager reported that in one weekend a leading area that can accommodate 6,000 skiers a day got 1,200 with free passes.

JAMISON, CARROLL

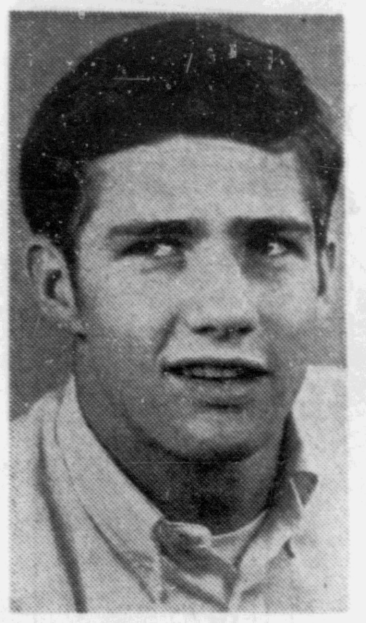
Near-Identical Heroics Net Co-Preps Of The Week

The names and uniforms were different but the results were the same.

And as a result, we have two Independent-Journal Preps of the Week this week.

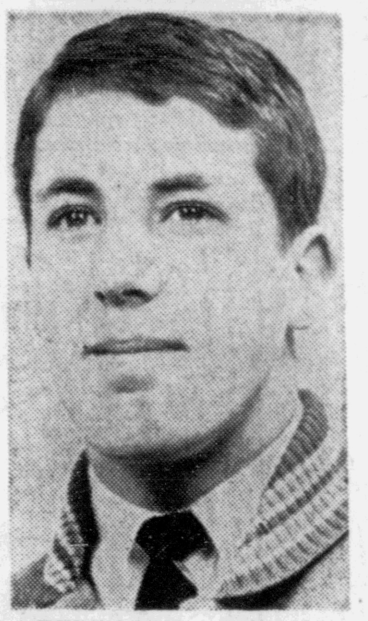
Both Clark Jamison and Pete Carroll played a heavy hand in their respective team's football victories last week, and did it almost the same way that both Jamison of Drake of San Anselmo and Carroll, of Redwood of Larkspur were given top prep honors.

Jamison kept his team alive and breathing in the Marin County Athletic League race. Carroll helped vindicate the badly frustrated Giants.



DRAKE'S JAMISON

Look-alikes . . .



REDWOOD'S CARROLL

In performance

REPEAT STORY

Jamison, an all-league defensive halfback as a junior last year, scored two touchdowns, one on a 65-yard kickoff return, intercepted one pass, gained 55 yards rushing in five tries for an 11-yard average and caught one pass for ten yards in a 28-12 victory over Tamalpais of Mill Valley Friday night.

Carroll scored two touchdowns, on bursts of 11 and five yards, intercepted one pass, caught two more and gained 85 yards rushing, most of it on a beautiful 51-yard sweep that set up another Redwood score in a 25-6 Giant stomping of San Rafael Saturday.

Long runs, interceptions, rushing, scoring — it was a double repeat story.

NEVER LOOKED BACK

Jamison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Jamison of San Anselmo, did more than pile up statistics. He seemed to be the fiery leader in a Drake defense that rushed and nagged Tamalpais quarterback Don Mackin into four interceptions.

His kickoff return for a touchdown helped turned the tide in a tight game, coming on the heels of a safety that put Drake ahead 9-7. The touchdown made it 15-7 and Drake never looked back.

He still feels the Pirates have a great team this year, possibly another championship team as in the past two years, but with a difference.

"This year we're a team," he said. "Last year, we had some players that were just better than everybody else but this year we're all working together."

Carroll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Carroll of Greenbrae, has been a jack-of-all trades for Redwood this season.

ROOTER

A defensive standout and backup quarterback last year, Carroll has been used as an end, a flankerback and a running back and has seen some duty at quarterback, including one starting game against Tamalpais.

In his one and only starting call, going for injured Jim Peters, he completed 11 of 19 passes for 198 yards, quite a substitute performance. He's the top receiver on the other end of the ball for Redwood with 16 receptions. And his running, of late, has been outstanding.

Jamison will undoubtedly be rooting for a repeat performance or better from Carroll. The Giants meet unbeaten Terra Linda Saturday afternoon and a Redwood victory would give Drake another crack at another title tie, if the Pirates get by Novato Saturday night.

A Case Of Shrinking For Dodger Stadium

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Since moving to Dodger Stadium seven years ago, the Los Angeles Dodgers have averaged only 35 home runs a year before hometown fans. For next season, they're bringing the fences in.

The National Leageu baseball club announced yesterday it would move home plate 10 feet closer to the center field wall. Thus, the power hitting alleys will be 375 feet instead of 385 and a 400-foot shot will clear the center field fence.

Dodger Stadium was constructed in 1962 like a pasture because the Dodger management knew one thing: the Dodgers weren't going to hit many home runs, no matter where the fences were.

In those years, the Dodgers were the scratching, hit-and-run type of ball club that relied on its pitching including Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale, for victories.

Maury Wills and Willie Davis had enough speed to shake up most pitchers and the Dodgers cultivated a rock-hard infield. If either Wills or Davis got wood on the ball, it would bounce so high, they'd be on first before it came down.

But in recent years, the Dodger speed has aged or been traded.

On the face of it, the move to make home runs easier to hit may not really benefit the 1969 Dodgers, though.

They haven't got any new faces on the team who can hit them out.

Vice President Arthur E. "Red" Patterson explained that the move would make games more exciting. The Dodgers may hit 15 or 20 more homers a year, he said, but so would the opposition.

Mill Valley Resident Opens Rug Warehouse In San Rafael

Newly opened at 540 Irwin Street, San Rafael, is a 3,200-square-foot store called Rug Warehouse of Marin, Inc.

This is a corporation headed by Benjamin Yates of Mill Valley as president and the company's major stockholder. He formerly was carpet buyer for all the Emporium stores.

Rug Warehouse is stocked primarily with mill ends and remnants and does both retailing and wholesaling. Present hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays and for the time being on Sundays from noon to 4 p.m.

PLANNING TO open a branch boatyard and marine supplies department in Sausalito — though not until the first of March — is the John Beery Co. of Berkeley.

Beery, in business at the Berkeley Aquatic Park for the past 11 years, is taking an acre of ground at Marinship near the Peter M. Sutter Co. and where the Marinship kilns were located. Some new construction will be done.

The company represents W. D. Shock and Co. of Santa Ana and several other lines of sailing vessels. It also conducts a sailing school. About six boats will be displayed at the Oakland Boat Show starting tomorrow, including a Shock 27, a Santana 22 and a Santana 27, a 14-ft. Sunfish and a California Cat (catamaran).

AND ONE MORE Marin dealer has announced intentions to appear at the Oakland Boat Show — but not as a boat dealer.

Ted Schuman Chevrolet of Novato is participating quite heavily and will show 15 to 20 Open Road campers and motor homes. The Oakland event is a sports show as well as boat show. Visitors may see anything on display from an airplane to a ready-built mountain cabin.

Ted Schuman, by the way, has started blacktopping another acre of his Novato property. By the time he finishes he should have enough paved area to put on a boat and sport show of his own.

JOHN M. HACKNEY JR. of San Rafael, director of appraisals at the San Francisco office of Real Estate Research Corp., has been elected a vice president of the company.

WITH A REPORTED total of $7,830,451, Marin County multiple listed real estate sales last month nosed just ahead of sales in October of last year. However, that can be considered an accomplishment during a month noted more for election campaigning than anything else.

Completed sales for October at $7,936,390 were much more impressive when compared to $5,895,616 a year ago. And for the 10 months of 1968 to date, the total of completed sales stands at $60,628,206 — compared with $47,255,341 in 1967.

ASSIGNED to the San Rafael trust office of Crocker-Citizens National Bank is Anthony M. Lum who has been at the Oakland trust office since early 1967. He joined the bank at San Francisco in 1961 and was promoted to assistant trust officer last February.

ACCEPTED INTO MEMBERSHIP in the San Francisco chapter of the National Association of Accountants are F. Paul Hacker of Marinwood, Douglas R. Alter of San Rafael, John F. Fassio of Kentfield and H. Richard Sites of San Anselmo.

TWO MARINITES, Irving Chapman of San Rafael and William Costello of Larkspur, have been elected directors of the Serramonte Merchants Association, Inc. in Daly City.

Chapman heads Chapman Shoes, which now has stores in San Rafael, Novato and the Serramonte Shopping Center. Costello for years managed Macy's in downtown San Rafael and is now in charge of the company's new store in Serramonte.

RICHARD B. BERGMANN of Fairfax has been promoted to assistant vice president of Redwood National Bank and will be in the mortgage division of the bank's real estate department. Before joining Redwood a year ago he was with the Marin County Assessor's Office.

JEROME FLAX of Ross is now president of Product Dynamics Corp., San Francisco, which produces "Smoke Ring," a new gadget for smokers that is claimed to reduce the formation of tars in cigarettes by changing the way they burn.

INSTRUMENT ANALYZES ANYTHING

Two research scientists, Dr. Norbert Weichert (left) and Dr. John Helmer of Varian Associates, Palo Alto, have developed a new spectrometer with the potential to unlock the chemical structure of a single cell. Measuring almost infinitesimal variations in energy which bind electrons to their orbits within atoms, the instrument will analyze solids, gases or liquids and may be used in biochemical applications to observe structural changes in cancerous cells.

Roumiguire Heads Marin Realty Board

Robert A. Roumiguiere has been elected by the Marin County Real Estate Board to serve as president for 1969.

Roumiguiere has been in the Marin real estate business for a number of years and is vice president of the family-owned firm of A. R. Roumiguiere, Inc., San Rafael. He is a director of Redwood National Bank, a member of the Lions Club, Fairfax Masonic Lodge, Royal Lodge chapter of the Knight Templars and the Islam Shrine. He and his family reside at 18 Culloden Park Road, San Rafael.

The board also elected Bruce Shafer, vice president; Mrs. Sue Schaefer, secretary; and Edward Sabo, treasurer. Named as new directors were Kent Seymour, John Manzone, Tom Kramar and Royal Druba. Elected as directors at large and salesmen's representatives were Jerry Newbauer and Janice Valk.

Continuing as directors until the end of next year are Donald Beacock, William Bush and Bruce Wrisley. This year's president Ross Tankersley will also serve as a director, replacing B. D. Schulz.

The San Rafael certified public accountant firm Cooper and Kerr will continue as board auditors; and San Rafael attorney Julius Selinger as general counsel.

The installation of officers and directors for 1969 will take place during the early part of January.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Treasury Bonds Useful In Estate Tax Problem

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I own stocks in 19 companies with a total value of about $120,000, all bought for growth since I do not need income. I am 68, and have for many years taken $5,000 from holdings to give to my nine children and charities. What suggestions do you have on my enclosed portfolio? — K. R.

A. You apparently are aware of the tax-exemption allowed on gifts given on an annual basis to prospective heirs.

As for your portfolio, I would advise four sales: Applied Devices, Levitz Furniture, Titan Group and Vitro Corp.

Since your estate far exceeds the $60,000 statutory federal estate tax-exemption, part of your capital should be invested in certain Treasury bonds, some of which are selling more than 20 per cent below par. These bonds are acceptable at par value in payment of estate taxes — a considerable advantage to your prospective heirs. Four Treasuries, particularly attractive for you, are 3¼'s 1985, 3½'s 1990, 3's 1995 and 3½'s 1998. Each of these selling in the high 70s yields 3.8 to 4.5 per cent.

You would be wise to consult your lawyer or tax accountant for assistance in determining the amount of Treasuries you might need.

Q. After attending an investment lecture, my son invested all his savings in shares of G. W. Murphy Industries. The shares have dropped 12 points and naturally he is very disappointed. What is the reason for the drop and what are the chances for recovery? — A. B.

A. At the time your son bought Murphy Industries the company looked promising. Unfortunately, subsequent earnings reports were disappointing and a top official resigned. Traders sold out, causing the shares to drop rapidly. Recovery appears to be several years away.

My advice would be to accept the loss and bank the proceeds. Your son should broaden his knowledge by reading financial periodicals — available at most public libraries — in preparation for future investing.

Market On Mixed Side At Closing

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed in a scrambled state today, with averages down and gains exceeding losses by a moderate amount throughout the list.

Trading was fairly active as the post election rally ran into profit taking after a five-day advance. Brokers considered it normal and pointed to strength in utilities and rails as encouraging factors.

Weakness in Chrysler and other auto stocks dampened traders, however, and some institutional unloading of Chrysler was reported because of recent disappointing car sales.

Prices near the close included:

Chrysler, off 1⅞ at 64¾; General Motors, off 1¼ at 85; United Aircraft, off 1⅛ at 73⅛; Arlan's Department Stores, off ¾ at 37; Xerox, up 6¾ at 277½; Hart Schaffner & Marx, off 4 at 54; General Electric, up 1⅛ at 95¾; Abacus Fund, off 1⅛ at 22½; and Morse Shoe, off 5⅝ at 35.

Disconcerting weakness in Chrysler gave the im-jams to analysts and customers. The stock was down another couple of points after its loss of 1⅝ Wednesday as the most-active stock.

The street was puzzled as to the exact reason for the selling pressure on Chrysler. Other auto stocks were weak. General Motors and Ford slipped about 1½ each. American Motors, recently rallying strongly in dramatic breakout action, took a fractional loss.

Some observers said the Dow industrials had climbed 21 points since election day and the list was entitled to a breather.

Xerox held a 7-point gain, clipping its initial rise of 10¼ on news that merger talks with C.I.T. Financial were terminated.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

To Avoid Trouble, Give Key Trick To Harmless Opponent

In a certain kind of bridge hand one opponent is a menace and the other is harmless. Your plan of play is to keep the dangerous opponent out of the lead, and one of your weapons is an exchange of tricks. You give the harmless opponent a trick that seemed to be the property of his partner.

LEADS CLUBS

West led the queen of clubs, and South won with the king. If South had been an average player he would have gone down one. East would get the lead with a spade to return a diamond through the king. West would then take two diamonds.

Since South was an expert he could see the danger. He looked for a way to give East's spade trick to West.

South's first step was to lead a trump since he needed trump entries to dummy for the success of his plan. West stepped up with the ace of hearts and led the jack of clubs to dummy's ace.

DEVELOPS SPADES

South led a low spade from dummy, and East put up the queen. South won with the ace of spades, led a low trump to dummy and led the nine of clubs. East had to play low, and South joyfully discarded the jack of spades.

West had to win the club trick, but South's trade prevented East from winning a spade trick. What's more, West was unable to make a helpful return.

A DIAMOND TRICK!

If West led a diamond, South would get a trick with the king. If West led a club, dummy would discard a diamond while South ruffed, and if West led a spade, he would help declarer set up dummy's spades.

West actually led his other spade, and South ruffed out East's king. South then got to dummy with a trump to discard to diamonds on the 10 and nine of spades.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer opens with one diamond, and your partner bids one heart.

The next player passes, and it is up to you to speak with:

♠ 10 9 8 2
♥ K 8 7 6
♦ 7 3
♣ A 9 5

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

Game is unlikely but not impossible. Still, you can lose nothing by raising hearts, and you make life very difficult for the other side. Dealer might be delighted to bid again if one heart were passed around to him, but he might well be doubtful of stepping in if he had to bid at a higher level.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, Nov. 14, the 319th day of 1968 with 47 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1832 the first streetcar in the world made its appearance in New York City. It carried 30 persons.

In 1851 Herman Melville's story, Moby Dick, was published.

In 1940 German planes dropped 225 tons of bombs on Coventry, destroying or damaging 69,000 of the English town's 75,000 buildings.

A thought for the day: French Author Emile Zola wrote: "Truth is on the march and nothing can stop it."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a minus sign (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Light-face type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

White Hats Vs. Black In Political 'Western'

Marin County politics, as seen by many residents, has all the simplicity of a "western" in the movies or on television.

One one side are the good guys in the white hats; on the other, the bad guys with black hats.

What one says or does has little to do with what kind of hat he gets to wear. The type-casting is decided by what clubs he joins, what cocktail circuit he frequents. And once marked for white hat or black, that's what he wears forever.

LET'S CONSIDER some examples.

In 1964, along came an issue that pitted white hats vs. black in the most bitter battle of their long soap-opera serial: Marincello. Lined up against the planned community development on the Marin Headlands were all the established white hat organizations: the Sierra Club, the Marin Conservation League, the Scenic Roads Association, etc.

And who should appear as "intergovernment relations consultant" (a fancy name for lobbyist) for the Marincello developer but Vera Schultz!

Mrs. Schultz, however, did not lose her white hat by this seeming change of sides. Not a bit of it! Once a white hat, always a white hat.

THE MARINCELLO fuss strained the type-casting in other cases, too. When the Marincello master plan went before the county planning commission, that body approved it by a 4-to-3 vote. And the deciding vote was cast by another feminine leader of the white hat brigade, Margaret Azevedo.

Did Mrs. Azevedo thereby lose her type-casting? Not at all. She was a conservationist candidate for supervisor this year, losing out in the primary because the white hat vote was splintered by entry of yet another member of its elite, Michael Wornum.

When the Marincello master plan reached the board of supervisors, white-hatted Tom Storer joined black-hatted Ernest Kettenhofen and hatless Bill Gnoss to approve the plan.

Did Storer have to change hats? Don't be ridiculous! Right now, the "conservationists" are bemoaning his election defeat by Bud Baar.

OF COURSE, Baar and John McInnis must always wear black hats. They are "developers." It says so in the script.

Both of them backed the first sensible attempt by a government in Marin to control development of offshore tidelands: the San Rafael General Plan as originally prepared by consultant Dan Coleman. Did this bring the "conservationists" running to present they with white hats? Quite the opposite. It resulted in an advertising campaign accusing San Rafael of trying to fill the bay, which defeated McInnis in his first try for supervisor. The tidelands remained without local control — as they did also, of course, in the county, where the planning department was created and is controlled by "conservationists."

McInnis and Baar joined in rejecting a Quail Hill plan that would have put 1,200 family units on the hill, creating tremendous congestion in Terra Linda. Did that get them white hats? Of course not! The plan was drawn by that leading conservationist," Lawrence Halprin.

ONE COULD CITE many other examples of the nonsense of this simplistic "conservationist vs. developer" view of things. It is just as childish as the TV plays it so resembles.

Rarely does anyone in Marin wear either a white hat or a black hat. If he wears a hat at all, it is his own — not one provided by Central Casting.

Robin Red-Breast

Robins have been unusually prevalent in Marin this year, by our reckoning. With this thought in mind, we pass along this simple story of how the robin got his red breast.

According to the farmers from the Valley of Virginia, who fought with General Lee's army and were steeped in nature folklore, the robin received his scarlet breast from picking a thorn from the brow of the agonized Christ.

Today, the bird is said to have a red breast as a symbol of honor for that act of pity.

Medi-Cal Frauds Only 1 Per Cent, But That Runs Into Millions

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The "growing pains" of the California Medi-Cal program are emphasized in a report of Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch that claims the program is costing taxpayers from $6 to $8 million a year for illegal activities involving false claims, kickbacks and over-servicing.

The monies siphoned out of the Medi-Cal funds, says Chief Deputry Charles A. O'Brien, under whose supervision the attorney general's investigation was conducted, amount to about one per cent of the annual budget, and "the money stolen is also equal to half a dozen million-dollar bank robberies."

THE REPORT contains 14 recommendations to help wipe out the thievery, including installation of an investigative unit. An effective enforcement program, says the report, does not exist.

Some of the irregularities uncovered included under-the-table payments to nursing homes; misappropriation by nursing homes of patient allowances for minor items; providing of unneeded services to patients by physician-owned hopsitals; kickbacks of fees received by vendors; performance of unnecessary operations; inflation of the cost of drugs through fraudulent billing; issuance of multiple needless prescriptions; bills for dental work not performed and services by optometrists which were not performed.

It was known when the Medi-Cal program was adopted that irregularities would occur. In fact, it was pointed out that the program would be an open invitation to out-and-out thievery.

THE FACT that the charged irregularities have been held to one per cent of the total budget of some $800 million annually can be considered virtually a tribute to the inherent integrity of most of the vendors, who include physicians, dentists, optometrists, pharmacists, and many others.

Comparatively speaking, one per cent of the budget is a small amount to be siphoned off in thievery, but of course, $8 million is a lot of taxpayer dollars. And outside the process for getting started in the program, there seems to be no valid excuse for this much money to go down the drain in illegal expenditures.

The California Legislature was rushed into the Medi-Cal program because of the demands of the federal government, and this, according to the report, is one reason for confusion and growing pains.

The report criticizes the haste, stating, "unprepared and without sufficient analysis, the states are rushed into formulating programs which are both essential and ill-considered. There should be an effort by both state and federal governments to transform such programs into more meaningful and fruitful co-operative action."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Democracy Just Communist Plot

Now that the general elections are over and the crying towels are slowly drying out, we citizens of this great republic, the United States of America, must continue to fight and preserve our nation. "For the republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisable with liberty and justice for all." Americans and our leaders seem to have forgotten these basic concepts. Just ask yourselves do we have a republic or do we have a democrary?

There has been a huge push given the U.S. down the road to communism over the past 60 years or so. One particular conversion, the least understood, was the influx of a two-pronged drive: (a) to convert our constitutional republic into a democracy, and (b) to bring the American people to believe that our government was supposed to be a democracy. Our founding fathers knew from history that a democracy was the worst of all forms of government . . .

This change was fully in accord with the Communist Manifesto. The clear sequence of democracy, mobocracy, Communist dictatorship, which was well understood by Marx, was well understood by those who implemented his program in the U.S . .

Districts Denied Choice In Election

I should like to add to your account of the election of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization in the Nov. 8 edition of the Independent-Journal.

Helen L. Gardner was nominated for this responsible office by a trustee of the Reed School District of the Redwood attendance area. Audrey Miller had nominations from all three of the school boards of the Drake attendance area and from myself, after ascertaining that she shared the primary concern of our San Anselmo City Council (motion passed unanimously Oct. 22).

While we are grateful for the acknowledgement of the Redwood area of our need for representation, we feel it is a basic democratic right that people be allowed to select their own representatives.

MARY TAYLOR OLIVE

(Editor's note: The San Anselmo City Council motion to which the letter refers expressed opposition to any school district unification plan which would divide the area of Tamalpais High School District.)

Overeaters' Club Proves Helpful

Even though I am a Petaluma resident, I take your paper because I like it so much. I would like to tell your readers that there is a new book recently placed on the shelves of your Marin County Free Library, in San Rafael, and the Mill Valley Public Library, in Mill Valley, which will be of great interest to many people. The name of this book is "Compulsive Overeaters Guide" written by weight group therapist, Mrs. Pearl Brians of Penngrove.

I have been having emotional problems which had turned me to food for solace and I went to Mrs. Brians' self-improvement club meeting seeking help . . . In her book and her meetings she uses the Alcoholics Anonymous ideas for recovery because most of us overweight people admit that our compulsions are similar.

At this special no-carbohydrate luncheon, the members surprised their leader with an artificial gaily decorated birthday cake. Under the cake was placed a can of tuna, string beans, and three hard-cooked eggs; foods recommended by Mrs. Brians as good for dieters . . .

I needed someone to help me so I decided to try this club and am so pleased to find so much friendliness and love shown to me with all my shortcomings . . .

'Youth And Society' Series Successful

Recently the Interfaith Fellowship co-sponsored with the College of Marin a series of four conferences on "Youth and Society in Ferment." During the four evenings the series drew a large and attentive audience.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank the Independent-Journal, and Miss Barbara Hosmer in particular, for their vision in judging the conferences as valuable to the public interest, and promoting them with enthusiasm. The coverage was excellent, accounting, no doubt, in a major way for the gratifying attendance. In working on a project of this magnitude it was most encouraging to encounter the warmth and courtesy we found at the Independent-Journal.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A GOLFER was suffering the tortures of the damned on one disastrous round. By the 14th hole, he had lost four balls, developed blisters on both hands, and broken two new clubs across his knee. So he sat down near the next tee, bowed his head low, and muttered, "I've got to give it up" over and over again. "Golf?" queried his caddy. "No," he replied morosely. "The ministry."

Greece Provides An Example Of Decisions Closed To Nixon

WASHINGTON — As he moves into the seat of authority, President-elect Richard Nixon will find many of the levers of power in a fixed position hardly subject to change. The options have been foreclosed by past decisions and the relentless march of events.

A conspicuous example is the lever marked Greece. Among the generous promises he made in his campaign was Nixon's pledge to put new life into a unified NATO. If he goes to Western Europe prior to his inauguration, he will find a deep concern over American support for the military dictatorship in Greece.

That concern has been modified by the Russian invasion of Prague and by increasing signs of Russian military power in the Mediterranean. Yet it remains a gnawing doubt, not so much over the political direction of the junta and whether the new constitution will be implemented to restore some freedoms as over the actual strength and solidity of the regime.

WHEN THE colonels took power they dismissed many high-ranking officers loyal to King Constantine. These were the generals who had been part of the NATO structure. At the time they were cashiered, observers in Athens reported that not only was NATO's cooperation imperiled but the surviving officers simply were incapable of leading the nation and directing a modern military force.

Something else is happening that raises a question about the longer future of Greece. A kind of gold rush is on to get concessions from the junta, Reportedly these concessions are so generous in tax exemption and other terms that no democratic government could possibly sanction them.

LEADING the gold rush is Aristotle Onassis, who interrupted his honeymoon with the former Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy on his private island of Skorpios to deal with the junta. As with everything about Onassis, the deal has elements of the fabulous. It is said to amount to a half-billion dollars. Since he is a master at risking other peoples' money, most of this is to come from two or three large American corporations.

It has only been since the junta took power in April, 1967, that Onassis has shown an interest in large enterprises in his native land. Like the other Greek ship owners he has kept his money in more secure and presumably more profitable capitals, avoiding with his Argentine citizenship paying the taxes that would otherwise have to paid. Sailing under foreign flags purchasable on a bourse of privilege, these adventurers defy the inhibitions applying to most businesses.

Not far behind Onassis is Thomas A. Pappas, a Greek-American industrialist and importer in Boston, who has become an ardent promoter of the junta. During the presidential campaign he was one of Nixon's principal fund raisers.

With the cooperation of Standard Oil he began investing in his homeland before the colonels took over. A refinery, a beginning petro-chemical industry and a chain of Esso-Pappas gas stations dotting the countryside add up to a reported investment of $200 million. Pappas is promoting new American investment contracts for Greece.

ON THE SURFACE all this has a beneficent look. Greece, a poor country, so poor that a half-million workers have had to find jobs in Western Europe, needs industry. Refineries and petro-chemicals provide relatively little employment, tourism somewhat more.

But aggressive enterprisers with American millions are dealing with a dictatorship. The extent to which they can take their profits out of the country and the relationship between wage scales and consumer prices will tell a lot about the benefits that may or may not accrue to the Greek people. And those terms are a closely held secret, as are all the conditions of life under the dictate of the colonels.

Even if the new President should want to change American policy toward Greece, he would find it all but impossible. Military hardware is again flowing to Greece. That decision has been taken. But the hundreds of thousands who packed the streets of Athens for the funeral of George Papandreou, the popular former premier, crying "freedom, freedom," were proof of what still lies close to the surface in spite of repression and terror and the fact of 2,000 political prisoners still held on remote islands. Stability may be bought at a very high price.

Student Revolts Bare Old Sores In Mexico

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Violent unrest among Mexican students exposed other areas of discontent which now seek a voice to give Mexico's ruling party its first real challenge in more than 30 years.

The violence began in July and extended well into October, and as the students hardened their position against the government they gained support from large numbers of bureaucrats, professional people and housewives in Mexico's growing middle class.

THE MOVEMENT began simply enough with student charges that police and troops had violated university autonomy, which is a Latin-American tradition.

As the government reacted with more police and troops, the students expanded upon their charges to include corruption among government functionaries and a claim that the economy mainly benefited a new group of oligarchs which had replaced the dictatorship of the great landowners of prerevolutionary times.

Whether the student charges were valid was almost beside the point. They struck a popular chord.

FOR MOST of 40 years Mexico has been ruled by the IRP or Institutional Revolutionary Party, an umbrella party which was the outgrowth of the revolution of 1911 in which more than one million Mexicans died.

It is an all-embracing confederation of peasants, industrial workers and various other "popular" groups and it has given to Mexican that rarity among Latain American nations, a peaceful transition of power, political stability and a means of working out conflicts between various sectors of the economy.

But its opponents also charge that in the intervening years it has become undemocratic and unresponsive to the rank and file, with a few leaders at the top making all the decisions.

The president, it is charged, becomes an absolute monarch for the six years of his term and, when that ends, picks his own successor.

ON IT SIDE, the government charges that the student groups have been infiltrated by Communists and others representing ideas not in the best interests of Mexico. Both have a certain amount of reason on their side.

The CNED (National Democratic Students Central), for example, is flaming red and has support from some university professors. Against government figures showing impressive growth and the distribution of nearly 150 million acres of land to the peasants is the fact that many peasants still live on a bare subsistence level.

Opponents of the government and the IRP charge that it now pays more attention to its institutional character than it does to the ideals of the revolution. But the opposition so far still is only an idea seeking a voice.

Mill Valley Resident Opens Rug Warehouse In San Rafael

Newly opened at 540 Irwin Street, San Rafael, is a 3,200-square-foot store called Rug Warehouse of Marin, Inc.

This is a corporation headed by Benjamin Yates of Mill Valley as president and the company's major stockholder. He formerly was carpet buyer for all the Emporium stores.

Rug Warehouse is stocked primarily with mill ends and remnants and does both retailing and wholesaling. Present hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays and for the time being on Sundays from noon to 4 p.m.

PLANNING TO open a branch boatyard and marine supplies department in Sausalito — though not until the first of March — is the John Beery Co. of Berkeley.

Beery, in business at the Berkeley Aquatic Park for the past 11 years, is taking an acre of ground at Marinship near the Peter M. Sutter Co. and where the Marinship kilns were located. Some new construction will be done.

The company represents W. D. Shock and Co. of Santa Ana and several other lines of sailing vessels. It also conducts a sailing school. About six boats will be displayed at the Oakland Boat Show starting tomorrow, including a Shock 27, a Santana 22 and a Santana 27, a 14-ft. Sunfish and a California Cat (catamaran).

AND ONE MORE Marin dealer has announced intentions to appear at the Oakland Boat Show — but not as a boat dealer.

Ted Schuman Chevrolet of Novato is participating quite heavily and will show 15 to 20 Open Road campers and motor homes. The Oakland event is a sports show as well as boat show. Visitors may see anything on display from an airplane to a ready-built mountain cabin.

Ted Schuman, by the way, has started blacktopping another acre of his Novato property. By the time he finishes he should have enough paved area to put on a boat and sport show of his own.

JOHN M. HACKNEY JR. of San Rafael, director of appraisals at the San Francisco office of Real Estate Research Corp., has been elected a vice president of the company.

WITH A REPORTED total of $7,830,451, Marin County multiple listed real estate sales last month nosed just ahead of sales in October of last year. However, that can be considered an accomplishment during a month noted more for election campaigning than anything else.

Completed sales for October at $7,936,390 were much more impressive when compared to $5,395,616 a year ago. And for the 10 months of 1968 to date, the total of completed sales stands at $60,628,206 — compared with $47,255,341 in 1967.

ASSIGNED to the San Rafael trust office of Crocker-Citizens National Bank is Anthony M. Lum who has been at the Oakland trust office since early 1967. He joined the bank at San Francisco in 1961 and was promoted to assistant trust officer last February.

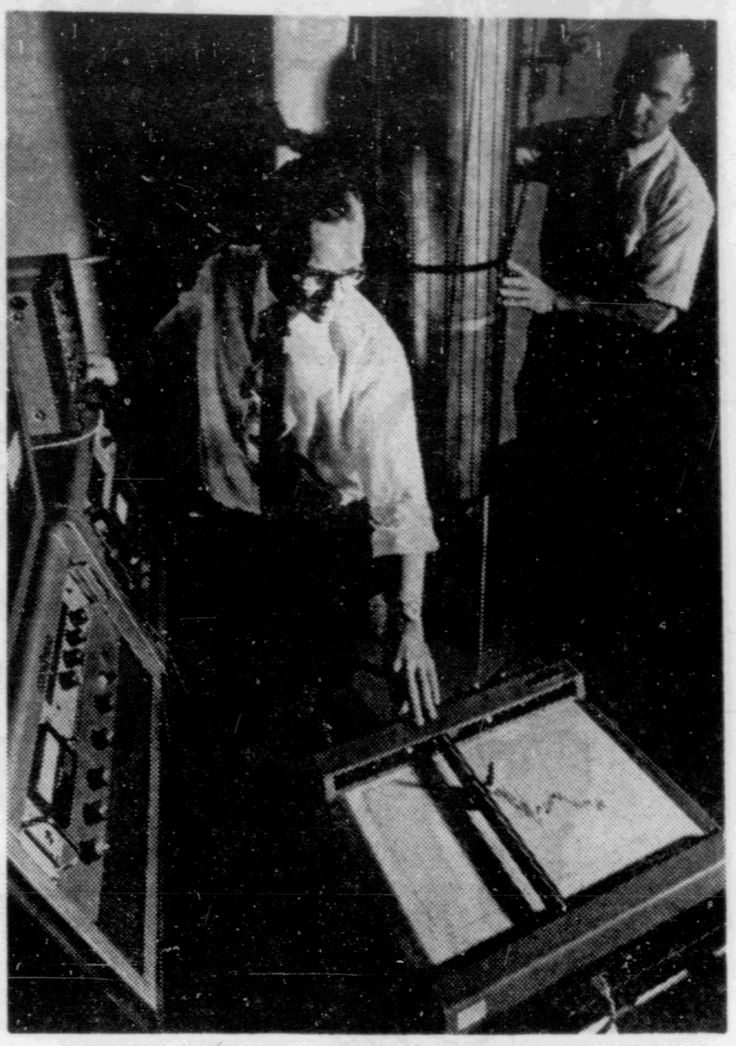
ACCEPTED INTO MEMBERSHIP in the San Francisco chapter of the National Association of Accountants are F. Paul Hacker of Marinwood, Douglas R. Alter of San Rafael, John F. Fassio of Kentfield and H. Richard Sites of San Anselmo.

TWO MARINITES, Irving Chapman of San Rafael and William Costello of Larkspur, have been elected directors of the Serramonte Merchants Association, Inc. in Daly City.

Chapman heads Chapman Shoes, which now has stores in San Rafael, Novato and the Serramonte Shopping Center. Costello for years managed Macy's in downtown San Rafael and is now in charge of the company's new store in Serramonte.

RICHARD B. BERGMANN of Fairfax has been promoted to assistant vice president of Redwood National Bank and will be in the mortgage division of the bank's real estate department. Before joining Redwood a year ago he was with the Marin County Assessor's Office.

JEROME FLAX of Ross is now president of Product Dynamics Corp., San Francisco, which produces "Smoke Ring," a new gadget for smokers that is claimed to reduce the formation of tars in cigarettes by changing the way they burn.



INSTRUMENT ANALYZES ANYTHING

Two research scientists, Dr. Norbert Weichert (left) and Dr. John Helmer of Varian Associates, Palo Alto, have developed a new spectrometer with the potential to unlock the chemical structure of a single cell. Measuring almost infinitesimal variations in energy which bind electrons to their orbits within atoms, the instrument will analyze solids, gases or liquids and may be used in biochemical applications to observe structural changes in cancerous cells.

Roumiguire Heads Marin Realty Board

Robert A. Roumiguiere has been elected by the Marin County Real Estate Board to serve as president for 1969.

Roumiguiere has been in the Marin real estate business for a number of years and is vice president of the family-owned firm of A. R. Roumiguiere, Inc., San Rafael. He is a director of Redwood National Bank, a member of the Lions Club, Fairfax Masonic Lodge, Royal Lodge chapter of the Knight Templars and the Islam Shrine. He and his family reside at 18 Culloden Park Road, San Rafael.

The board also elected Bruce Shafer, vice president; Mrs. Sue Schaefer, secretary; and Edward Sabo, treasurer. Named as new directors were Kent Seymour, John Manzone, Tom Kramar and Royal Druba. Elected as directors at large and salesmen's representatives were Jerry Newbauer and Janice Valk.

Continuing as directors until the end of next year are Donald Beacock, William Bush and Bruce Wrisley. This year's president Ross Tankersley will also serve as a director, replacing B. D. Schulz.

The San Rafael certified public accountant firm Cooper and Kerr will continue as board auditors; and San Rafael attorney Julius Selinger as general counsel.

The installation of officers and directors for 1969 will take place during the early part of January.

Treasury Bonds Useful In Estate Tax Problem

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I own stocks in 19 companies with a total value of about $120,000, all bought for growth since I do not need income. I am 68, and have for many years taken $5,000 from holdings to give to my nine children and charities. What suggestions do you have on my enclosed portfolio? — K. R.

A. You apparently are aware of the tax-exemption allowed on gifts given on an annual basis to prospective heirs.

As for your portfolio, I would advise four sales: Applied Devices, Levitz Furniture, Titan Group and Vitro Corp.

Since your estate far exceeds the $60,000 statutory federal estate tax-exemption, part of your capital should be invested in certain Treasury bonds, some of which are selling more than 20 per cent below par. These bonds are acceptable at par value in payment of estate taxes — a considerable advantage to your prospective heirs. Four Treasuries, particularly attractive for you, are 3¼'s 1985, 3½'s 1990, 3's 1995 and 3½'s 1998. Each of these selling in the high 70s yields 3.8 to 4.5 per cent.

You would be wise to consult your lawyer or tax accountant for assistance in determining the amount of Treasuries you might need.

Q. After attending an investment lecture, my son invested all his savings in shares of G. W. Murphy Industries. The shares have dropped 12 points and naturally he is very disappointed. What is the reason for the drop and what are the chances for recovery? — A. B.

A. At the time your son bought Murphy Industries the company looked promising. Unfortunately, subsequent earnings reports were disappointing and a top official resigned. Traders sold out, causing the shares to drop rapidly. Recovery appears to be several years away.

My advice would be to accept the loss and bank the proceeds. Your son should broaden his knowledge by reading financial periodicals — available at most public libraries — in preparation for future investing.

Market On Mixed Side At Closing

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed in a scrambled state today, with averages down and gains exceeding losses by a moderate amount throughout the list.

Trading was fairly active as the post election rally ran into profit taking after a five-day advance. Brokers considered it normal and pointed to strength in utilities and rails as encouraging factors.

Weakness in Chrysler and other auto stocks dampened traders, however, and some institutional unloading of Chrysler was reported because of recent disappointing car sales.

Prices near the close included:

Chrysler, off 1⅞ at 64¾; General Motors, off 1¼ at 85; United Aircraft, off 1⅛ at 73⅛; Arlan's Department Stores, off ¾ at 37; Xerox, up 6¾ at 277½; Hart Schaffner & Marx, off 4 at 54; General Electric, up 1⅛ at 95¾; Abacus Fund, off 1⅛ at 22½; and Morse Shoe, off 5⅝ at 35.

Disconcerting weakness in Chrysler gave the im-jams to analysts and customers. The stock was down another couple of points after its loss of 1⅝ Wednesday as the most-active stock.

The street was puzzled as to the exact reason for the selling pressure on Chrysler. Other auto stocks were weak. General Motors and Ford slipped about 1½ each. American Motors, recently rallying strongly in dramatic breakout action, took a fractional loss.

Some observers said the Dow industrials had climbed 21 points since election day and the list was entitled to a breather.

Xerox held a 7-point gain, clipping its initial rise of 10¼ on news that merger talks with C.I.T. Financial were terminated.

Low-Cost Psychiatric Center 'Strangled By Its Own Success'

Despite such goodly fund-raising projects as the sale of San Quentin paintings and a benefit showing of a movie, it has been an effort to survive financially.

The center is a place where people can go for psychiatric treatment if they haven't the $25 or $30 for a single session. A patient may pay from one-fourth to half of the actual cost of treatment. How the rest is paid is the source of the headache.

"IT'S A REAL struggle," commented Leonard Shaw, treasurer and past president of the sponsoring agency, Marin Mental Health Foundation. "We just can't quite scramble fast enough. We've been operating on a shoestring for about four years now. Each month we have an $800 to $1,000 deficit, even with county and state funds to stretch out patients' fees."

Shaw estimated the over-all yearly cost of operating the center is now $60,000. The county board of supervisors contributes a maximum of $2,300 a month to the center, of which 75 per cent comes from state Short-Doyle Act Funds.

Although private psychiatric charges are about the aforementioned $30 a visit, Shaw said, the center charges a maximum of $14, depending on the patient's ability to pay. These charges generally are promptly paid and bring in about $2,000 a month toward the center's operational cost.

But since the total of county funds and fees falls short of the required $60,000, the foundation must find other resources. Center officials said one merchant put it this way, "This is a heck of a way to run a business. The more services you sell, the greater the financial loss. You are being strangled by success."

LAST MAY at the Civic Center, some 250 volunteers pitched in to sell 1,400 San Quentin prisoner paintings and craft objects and grossed about $18,000, Shaw reported. After remitting $14,944 to the prisoner artists and deducting insurance and sale costs, the foundation earned $3,700 profit, plus $1,800 in donations, a total of $5,500.

The center is pleased with this means of income, and wants to sponsor more prisoner art sales. A new state law, however, may prohibit such sales by charitable organizations, Shaw said.

"The sad thing is that this ($5,500) subsidizes our operation for only about five to six months, and then we're back in a position where our services are threatened," he added.

The foundation has other benefits, and hopes to continue them. The movie showing, "David and Lisa," brought in funds. The San Francisco entertainment group, the Fantasticks, donated a night's performance to center income.

THE CENTER opened in January of 1964 as the Marin Mental Health Center and has rent-free quarters at Ross General Hospital. Income goes mostly to provide professional staff, including two psychiatric social workers, four staff psychiatrists (one of whom is clinical director), and a clinical psychologist. All are part-time workers.

With fast footwork, the non-profit center has provided uninterrupted service since its start. Its problem is how to keep doing so.

Registration Of Firearms Is Set

Machine guns, sawed-off shotguns and rifles, silencers, deactivated war trophies and other destructive devices must be registered with the Internal Revenue Service by Dec. 1, Joseph M. Cullen, district director of Internal Revenue for Northern California, said today.

Cullen said that registration forms are available at IRS offices and that firearms should not be brought to the offices to be registered.

Under the Gun Control Act of 1968 all such firearms must be identified by a serial number, and if the firearm doesn't have one the owner should phone, visit or write the nearest IRS office and a number will be assigned, he said.

How To Win While Losing, Or Leave It To Rumpelmeyer

WASHINGTON — The next few weeks are going to be very tough for those people who were rooting for Vice President Humphrey to win the election. After gloating at the Republicans for eight years, the Democrats are getting some of their own medicine back and it's not easy for the Dems to accept the loss with good grace.

The only Democrat I know who has been able to handle it is my friend Rumpelmeyer. I bumped into him at lunch the other day and he said, "Sharkey's joining me in a few minutes, and he's going to be impossible over the Nixon win. He specifically invited me to lunch so I would eat crow."

"Why did you accept?"

"I thought I'd have some run. Hang around and see what happens."

I TOOK a seat and a few minutes later Sharkey came in bubbling and bouncing, hardly able to contain himself.

"Well, Rump," he said after he ordered a drink. "What did you think of the elections?"

"Who won?" Rumpelmeyer said. "I've been out of town for a week and haven't seen a paper."

Sharkey flushed. "Don't give me that, Rumpelmeyer. You know damn well who won."

"No, I really don't, Sharkey. The last I heard was that Agnew called the New York Times a fat Jap."

SHARKEY WAVED his finger. "You're not going to trick me with that innocent routine, Rump. I've waited eight years for this moment."

Rumpelmeyer said, "Good heavens, Sharkey. You're not going to tell me Nixon won the election?"

Sharkey yelled, "You're darn tootin' he won and you're eating your heart out."

Rumpelmeyer turned to me. "Is it true?"

"I'm afraid it is," I said. "Everyone's conceded it but Mayor Daley."

"Well," said Rumpelmeyer, "this calls for a celebration."

I'LL DO the celebrating," Sharkey yelled. "I rooted for him. You didn't."

"I think that's rather selfish of you, Sharkey. After all, Nixon is my President, too. I believe we should drink to him."

Sharkey was getting so mad he gripped the table. "Don't patronize me, Rump. I didn't come here to listen to you toast Nixon."

"But Sharkey," Rumpelmeyer said, "I don't know why you should be so upset about me wanting to toast Nixon. After all, it's only a presidential election, and if you've seen one President, you've seen them all."

"Yes, Rumpelmeyer," Sharkey said, gritting his teeth. "But the difference is that my man won and your man lost, and that means your people are out and my people are in."

"So it does," Rumpelmeyer said. "I'll drink to that."

"You won't drink to it!" Sharkey said. "I'll drink to it!"

"I DON'T KNOW what's gotten into you, Sharkey. I'm sure Nixon's happier about all this than you are."

"What do you know about Nixon?" Sharkey cried. "I voted for him."

"Everyone knows about Nixon," Rumpelmeyer said. "He'll probably make a fine President."

I thought Sharkey was going to hit him. "Rump, we may not have agreed politically with each other in the past, and we may have had our differences on the future of this country, but I never thought you'd stoop so low as to steal my one moment of triumph, after I waited eight miserable, lonely years."

Sharkey rose from the table and screamed, "I'll buy my own drinks! Can't you get it through your head? I won!"

He wheeled around and walked out of the restaurant, leaving his coat behind.

Rumpelmeyer shrugged his shoulders and said to me: "The Nixon people are certainly taking their win awfully hard."

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan will start soon the construction of its first nuclear-powered ship, an 8,300-ton vessel which will cost $30 million, Kyodo news agency said today.

White Hats Vs. Black In Political 'Western'

Marin County politics, as seen by many residents, has all the simplicity of a "western" in the movies or on television.

One one side are the good guys in the white hats; on the other, the bad guys with black hats.

What one says or does has little to do with what kind of hat he gets to wear. The type-casting is decided by what clubs he joins, what cocktail circuit he frequents. And once marked for white hat or black, that's what he wears forever.

LET'S CONSIDER some examples.

In 1964, along came an issue that pitted white hats vs. black in the most bitter battle of their long soap-opera serial: Marincello. Lined up against the planned community development on the Marin Headlands were all the established white hat organizations: the Sierra Club, the Marin Conservation League, the Scenic Roads Association, etc.

And who should appear as "intergovernment relations consultant" (a fancy name for lobbyist) for the Marincello developer but Vera Schultz!

Mrs. Schultz, however, did not lose her white hat by this seeming change of sides. Not a bit of it! Once a white hat, always a white hat.

THE MARINCELLO fuss strained the type-casting in other cases, too. When the Marincello master plan went before the county planning commission, that body approved it by a 4-to-3 vote. And the deciding vote was cast by another feminine leader of the white hat brigade, Margaret Azevedo.

Did Mrs. Azevedo thereby lose her type-casting? Not at all. She was a conservationist candidate for supervisor this year, losing out in the primary because the white hat vote was splintered by entry of yet another member of its elite, Michael Wornum.

When the Marincello master plan reached the board of supervisors, white-hatted Tom Storer joined black-hatted Ernest Kettenhofen and hatless Bill Gnoss to approve the plan.

Did Storer have to change hats? Don't be ridiculous! Right now, the "conservationists" are bemoaning his election defeat by Bud Baar.

OF COURSE, Baar and John McInnis must always wear black hats. They are "developers." It says so in the script.

Both of them backed the first sensible attempt by a government in Marin to control development of offshore tidelands: the San Rafael General Plan as originally prepared by consultant Dan Coleman. Did this bring the "conservationists" running to present they with white hats? Quite the opposite. It resulted in an advertising campaign accusing San Rafael of trying to fill the bay, which defeated McInnis in his first try for supervisor. The tidelands remained without local control — as they did also, of course, in the county, where the planning department was created and is controlled by "conservationists."

McInnis and Baar joined in rejecting a Quail Hill plan that would have put 1,200 family units on the hill, creating tremendous congestion in Terra Linda. Did that get them white hats? Of course not! The plan was drawn by that leading conservationist," Lawrence Halprin.

ONE COULD CITE many other examples of the nonsense of this simplistic "conservationist vs. developer" view of things. It is just as childish as the TV plays it so resembles.

Rarely does anyone in Marin wear either a white hat or a black hat. If he wears a hat at all, it is his own — not one provided by Central Casting.

Robin Red-Breast

Robins have been unusually prevalent in Marin this year, by our reckoning. With this thought in mind, we pass along this simple story of how the robin got his red breast.

According to the farmers from the Valley of Virginia, who fought with General Lee's army and were steeped in nature folklore, the robin received his scarlet breast from picking a thorn from the brow of the agonized Christ.

Today, the bird is said to have a red breast as a symbol of honor for that act of pity.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Medi-Cal Frauds Only 1 Per Cent, But That Runs Into Millions

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The "growing pains" of the California Medi-Cal program are emphasized in a report of Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch that claims the program is costing taxpayers from $6 to $8 million a year for illegal activities involving false claims, kickbacks and over-servicing.

The monies siphoned out of the Medi-Cal funds, says Chief Deputry Charles A. O'Brien, under whose supervision the attorney general's investigation was conducted, amount to about one per cent of the annual budget, and "the money stolen is also equal to half a dozen million-dollar bank robberies."

THE REPORT contains 14 recommendations to help wipe out the thievery, including installation of an investigative unit. An effective enforcement program, says the report, does not exist.

Some of the irregularities uncovered included under-the-table payments to nursing homes; misappropriation by nursing homes of patient allowances for minor items; providing of unneeded services to patients by physician-owned hopsitals; kickbacks of fees received by vendors; performance of unnecessary operations; inflation of the cost of drugs through fraudulent billing; issuance of multiple needless prescriptions; bills for dental work not performed and services by optometrists which were not performed.

It was known when the Medi-Cal program was adopted that irregularities would occur. In fact, it was pointed out that the program would be an open invitation to out-and-out thievery.

THE FACT that the charged irregularities have been held to one per cent of the total budget of some $800 million annually can be considered virtually a tribute to the inherent integrity of most of the vendors, who include physicians, dentists, optometrists, pharmacists, and many others.

Comparatively speaking, one per cent of the budget is a small amount to be siphoned off in thievery, but of course, $8 million is a lot of taxpayer dollars. And outside the process for getting started in the program, there seems to be no valid excuse for this much money to go down the drain in illegal expenditures.

The California Legislature was rushed into the Medi-Cal program because of the demands of the federal government, and this, according to the report, is one reason for confusion and growing pains.

The report criticizes the haste, stating, "unprepared and without sufficient analysis, the states are rushed into formulating programs which are both essential and ill-considered. There should be an effort by both state and federal governments to transform such programs into more meaningful and fruitful co-operative action."

Whether the state learns a lesson remains to be seen.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Democracy Just Communist Plot

Now that the general elections are over and the crying towels are slowly drying out, we citizens of this great republic, the United States of America, must continue to fight and preserve our nation. "For the republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisable with liberty and justice for all." Americans and our leaders seem to have forgotten these basic concepts. Just ask yourselves do we have a republic or do we have a democrary?

There has been a huge push given the U.S. down the road to communism over the past 60 years or so. One particular conversion, the least understood, was the influx of a two-pronged drive: (a) to convert our constitutional republic into a democracy, and (b) to bring the American people to believe that our government was supposed to be a democracy. Our founding fathers knew from history that a democracy was the worst of all forms of government . . .

This change was fully in accord with the Communist Manifesto. The clear sequence of democracy, mobocracy, Communist dictatorship, which was well understood by Marx, was well understood by those who implemented his program in the U.S . .

Districts Denied Choice In Election

I should like to add to your account of the election of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization in the Nov. 8 edition of the Independent-Journal.

Helen L. Gardner was nominated for this responsible office by a trustee of the Reed School District of the Redwood attendance area. Audrey Miller had nominations from all three of the school boards of the Drake attendance area and from myself, after ascertaining that she shared the primary concern of our San Anselmo City Council (motion passed unanimously Oct. 22).

While we are grateful for the acknowledgement of the Redwood area of our need for representation, we feel it is a basic democratic right that people be allowed to select their own representatives.

(Editor's note: The San Anselmo City Council motion to which the letter refers expressed opposition to any school district unification plan which would divide the area of Tamalpais High School District.)

Overeaters' Club Proves Helpful

Even though I am a Petaluma resident, I take your paper because I like it so much. I would like to tell your readers that there is a new book recently placed on the shelves of your Marin County Free Library, in San Rafael, and the Mill Valley Public Library, in Mill Valley, which will be of great interest to many people. The name of this book is "Compulsive Overeaters Guide" written by weight group therapist, Mrs. Pearl Brians of Penngrove.

I have been having emotional problems which had turned me to food for solace and I went to Mrs. Brians' self-improvement club meeting seeking help . . . In her book and her meetings she uses the Alcoholics Anonymous ideas for recovery because most of us overweight people admit that our compulsions are similar.

At this special no-carbohydrate luncheon, the members surprised their leader with an artificial gaily decorated birthday cake. Under the cake was placed a can of tuna, string beans, and three hard-cooked eggs; foods recommended by Mrs. Brians as good for dieters . . .

I needed someone to help me so I decided to try this club and am so pleased to find so much friendliness and love shown to me with all my shortcomings . . .

'Youth And Society' Series Successful

Recently the Interfaith Fellowship co-sponsored with the College of Marin a series of four conferences on "Youth and Society in Ferment." During the four evenings the series drew a large and attentive audience.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank the Independent-Journal, and Miss Barbara Hosmer in particular, for their vision in judging the conferences as valuable to the public interest, and promoting them with enthusiasm. The coverage was excellent, accounting, no doubt, in a major way for the gratifying attendance. In working on a project of this magnitude it was most encouraging to encounter the warmth and courtesy we found at the Independent-Journal.

A GOLFER was suffering the tortures of the damned on one disastrous round. By the 14th hole, he had lost four balls, developed blisters on both hands, and broken two new clubs across his knee. So he sat down near the next tee, bowed his head low, and muttered, "I've got to give it up" over and over again. "Golf?" queried his caddy. "No," he replied morosely. "The ministry."

Greece Provides An Example Of Decisions Closed To Nixon

WASHINGTON — As he moves into the seat of authority, President-elect Richard Nixon will find many of the levers of power in a fixed position hardly subject to change. The options have been foreclosed by past decisions and the relentless march of events.

A conspicuous example is the lever marked Greece. Among the generous promises he made in his campaign was Nixon's pledge to put new life into a unified NATO. If he goes to Western Europe prior to his inauguration, he will find a deep concern over American support for the military dictatorship in Greece.

That concern has been modified by the Russian invasion of Prague and by increasing signs of Russian military power in the Mediterranean. Yet it remains a gnawing doubt, not so much over the political direction of the junta and whether the new constitution will be implemented to restore some freedoms as over the actual strength and solidity of the regime.

WHEN THE colonels took power they dismissed many high-ranking officers loyal to King Constantine. These were the generals who had been part of the NATO structure. At the time they were cashiered, observers in Athens reported that not only was NATO's cooperation imperiled but the surviving officers simply were incapable of leading the nation and directing a modern military force.

Something else is happening that raises a question about the longer future of Greece. A kind of gold rush is on to get concessions from the junta, Reportedly these concessions are so generous in tax exemption and other terms that no democratic government could possibly sanction them.

LEADING the gold rush is Aristotle Onassis, who interrupted his honeymoon with the former Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy on his private island of Skorpios to deal with the junta. As with everything about Onassis, the deal has elements of the fabulous. It is said to amount to a half-billion dollars. Since he is a master at risking other peoples' money, most of this is to come from two or three large American corporations.

It has only been since the junta took power in April, 1967, that Onassis has shown an interest in large enterprises in his native land. Like the other Greek ship owners he has kept his money in more secure and presumably more profitable capitals, avoiding with his Argentine citizenship paying the taxes that would otherwise have to paid. Sailing under foreign flags purchasable on a bourse of privilege, these adventurers defy the inhibitions applying to most businesses.

Not far behind Onassis is Thomas A. Pappas, a Greek-American industrialist and importer in Boston, who has become an ardent promoter of the junta. During the presidential campaign he was one of Nixon's principal fund raisers.

With the cooperation of Standard Oil he began investing in his homeland before the colonels took over. A refinery, a beginning petro-chemical industry and a chain of Esso-Pappas gas stations dotting the countryside add up to a reported investment of $200 million. Pappas is promoting new American investment contracts for Greece.

ON THE SURFACE all this has a beneficent look. Greece, a poor country, so poor that a half-million workers have had to find jobs in Western Europe, needs industry. Refineries and petro-chemicals provide relatively little employment, tourism somewhat more.

But aggressive enterprisers with American millions are dealing with a dictatorship. The extent to which they can take their profits out of the country and the relationship between wage scales and consumer prices will tell a lot about the benefits that may or may not accrue to the Greek people. And those terms are a closely held secret, as are all the conditions of life under the dictate of the colonels.

Even if the new President should want to change American policy toward Greece, he would find it all but impossible. Military hardware is again flowing to Greece. That decision has been taken. But the hundreds of thousands who packed the streets of Athens for the funeral of George Papandreou, the popular former premier, crying "freedom, freedom," were proof of what still lies close to the surface in spite of repression and terror and the fact of 2,000 political prisoners still held on remote islands. Stability may be bought at a very high price.

Student Revolts Bare Old Sores In Mexico

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Violent unrest among Mexican students exposed other areas of discontent which now seek a voice to give Mexico's ruling party its first real challenge in more than 30 years.

The violence began in July and extended well into October, and as the students hardened their position against the government they gained support from large numbers of bureaucrats, professional people and housewives in Mexico's growing middle class.

THE MOVEMENT began simply enough with student charges that police and troops had violated university autonomy, which is a Latin-American tradition.

As the government reacted with more police and troops, the students expanded upon their charges to include corruption among government functionaries and a claim that the economy mainly benefited a new group of oligarchs which had replaced the dictatorship of the great landowners of prerevolutionary times.

Whether the student charges were valid was almost beside the point. They struck a popular chord.

FOR MOST of 40 years Mexico has been ruled by the IRP or Institutional Revolutionary Party, an umbrella party which was the outgrowth of the revolution of 1911 in which more than one million Mexicans died.

It is an all-embracing confederation of peasants, industrial workers and various other "popular" groups and it has given to Mexican that rarity among Latain American nations, a peaceful transition of power, political stability and a means of working out conflicts between various sectors of the economy.

But its opponents also charge that in the intervening years it has become undemocratic and unresponsive to the rank and file, with a few leaders at the top making all the decisions.

The president, it is charged, becomes an absolute monarch for the six years of his term and, when that ends, picks his own successor.

ON IT SIDE, the government charges that the student groups have been infiltrated by Communists and others representing ideas not in the best interests of Mexico. Both have a certain amount of reason on their side.

The CNED (National Democratic Students Central), for example, is flaming red and has support from some university professors. Against government figures showing impressive growth and the distribution of nearly 150 million acres of land to the peasants is the fact that many peasants still live on a bare subsistence level.

Opponents of the government and the IRP charge that it now pays more attention to its institutional character than it does to the ideals of the revolution. But the opposition so far still is only an idea seeking a voice.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By ROSS DAVIS

Low-Cost Psychiatric Center 'Strangled By Its Own Success'

The Ross Psychiatric Center has a big, constant headache.

Despite such goodly fund-raising projects as the sale of San Quentin paintings and a benefit showing of a movie, it has been an effort to survive financially.

The center is a place where people can go for psychiatric treatment if they haven't the $25 or $30 for a single session. A patient may pay from one-fourth to half of the actual cost of treatment. How the rest is paid is the source of the headache.

"IT'S A REAL struggle," commented Leonard Shaw, treasurer and past president of the sponsoring agency, Marin Mental Health Foundation. "We just can't quite scramble fast enough. We've been operating on a shoestring for about four years now. Each month we have an $800 to $1,000 deficit, even with county and state funds to stretch out patients' fees."

Shaw estimated the over-all yearly cost of operating the center is now $60,000. The county board of supervisors contributes a maximum of $2,300 a month to the center, of which 75 per cent comes from state Short-Doyle Act Funds.

Although private psychiatric charges are about the aforementioned $30 a visit, Shaw said, the center charges a maximum of $14, depending on the patient's ability to pay. These charges generally are promptly paid and bring in about $2,000 a month toward the center's operational cost.

But since the total of county funds and fees falls short of the required $60,000, the foundation must find other resources. Center officials said one merchant put it this way, "This is a heck of a way to run a business. The more services you sell, the greater the financial loss. You are being strangled by success."

LAST MAY at the Civic Center, some 250 volunteers pitched in to sell 1,400 San Quentin prisoner paintings and craft objects and grossed about $18,000, Shaw reported. After remitting $14,944 to the prisoner artists and deducting insurance and sale costs, the foundation earned $3,700 profit, plus $1,800 in donations, a total of $5,500.

The center is pleased with this means of income, and wants to sponsor more prisoner art sales. A new state law, however, may prohibit such sales by charitable organizations, Shaw said.

"The sad thing is that this ($5,500) subsidizes our operation for only about five to six months, and then we're back in a position where our services are threatened," he added.

The foundation has other benefits, and hopes to continue them. The movie showing, "David and Lisa," brought in funds. The San Francisco entertainment group, the Fantasticks, donated a night's performance to center income.

THE CENTER opened in January of 1964 as the Marin Mental Health Center and has rent-free quarters at Ross General Hospital. Income goes mostly to provide professional staff, including two psychiatric social workers, four staff psychiatrists (one of whom is clinical director), and a clinical psychologist. All are part-time workers.

With fast footwork, the non-profit center has provided uninterrupted service since its start. Its problem is how to keep doing so.

Registration Of Firearms Is Set

Machine guns, sawed-off shotguns and rifles, silencers, deactivated war trophies and other destructive devices must be registered with the Internal Revenue Service by Dec. 1, Joseph M. Cullen, district director of Internal Revenue for Northern California, said today.

Cullen said that registration forms are available at IRS offices and that firearms should not be brought to the offices to be registered.

Under the Gun Control Act of 1968 all such firearms must be identified by a serial number, and if the firearm doesn't have one the owner should phone, visit or write the nearest IRS office and a number will be assigned, he said.

How To Win While Losing, Or Leave It To Rumpelmeyer

WASHINGTON — The next few weeks are going to be very tough for those people who were rooting for Vice President Humphrey to win the election. After gloating at the Republicans for eight years, the Democrats are getting some of their own medicine back and it's not easy for the Dems to accept the loss with good grace.

The only Democrat I know who has been able to handle it is my friend Rumpelmeyer. I bumped into him at lunch the other day and he said, "Sharkey's joining me in a few minutes, and he's going to be impossible over the Nixon win. He specifically invited me to lunch so I would eat crow."

"Why did you accept?"

"I thought I'd have some run. Hang around and see what happens."

I TOOK a seat and a few minutes later Sharkey came in bubbling and bouncing, hardly able to contain himself.

"Well, Rump," he said after he ordered a drink. "What did you think of the elections?"

"Who won?" Rumpelmeyer said. "I've been out of town for a week and haven't seen a paper."

Sharkey flushed. "Don't give me that, Rumpelmeyer. You know damn well who won."

"No, I really don't, Sharkey. The last I heard was that Agnew called the New York Times a fat Jap."

SHARKEY WAVED his finger. "You're not going to trick me with that innocent routine, Rump. I've waited eight years for this moment."

Rumpelmeyer said, "Good heavens, Sharkey. You're not going to tell me Nixon won the election?"

Sharkey yelled, "You're darn tootin' he won and you're eating your heart out."

Rumpelmeyer turned to me. "Is it true?"

"I'm afraid it is," I said. "Everyone's conceded it but Mayor Daley."

"Well," said Rumpelmeyer, "this calls for a celebration."

I'LL DO the celebrating," Sharkey yelled. "I rooted for him. You didn't."

"I think that's rather selfish of you, Sharkey. After all, Nixon is my President, too. I believe we should drink to him."

Sharkey was getting so mad he gripped the table. "Don't patronize me, Rump. I didn't come here to listen to you toast Nixon."

"But Sharkey,'' Rumpelmeyer said, "I don't know why you should be so upset about me wanting to toast Nixon. After all, it's only a presidential election, and if you've seen one President, you've seen them all."

''Yes, Rumpelmeyer," Sharkey said, gritting his teeth. "But the difference is that my man won and your man lost, and that means your people are out and my people are in."

"So it does," Rumpelmeyer said. "I'll drink to that."

"You won't drink to it!" Sharkey said. "I'll drink to it!"

"I DON'T KNOW what's gotten into you, Sharkey. I'm sure Nixon's happier about all this than you are."

"What do you know about Nixon?" Sharkey cried. "I voted for him."

"Everyone knows about Nixon," Rumpelmeyer said. "He'll probably make a fine President."

I thought Sharkey was going to hit him. "Rump, we may not have agreed politically with each other in the past, and we may have had our differences on the future of this country, but I never thought you'd stoop so low as to steal my one moment of triumph, after I waited eight miserable, lonely years."

Sharkey rose from the table and screamed, "I'll buy my own drinks! Can't you get it through your head? I won!"

He wheeled around and walked out of the restaurant, leaving his coat behind.

Rumpelmeyer shrugged his shoulders and said to me: "The Nixon people are certainly taking their win awfully hard."

Marin City: 'Self-Help' Or 'Power Grab'?

By ANNE BARDWELL

After watching the development of Marin City slowly grind to a halt four years ago and stand still since then, Marin City residents are attempting to take matters into their own hands and are seeking new directions for the growth of their community.

Alternately termed "positive self-help" by its supporters and "a power grab" by its detractors, the move to take control of Marin City's future away from the county and its subagencies and give it to local residents has sparked a new interest and vitality in the Southern Marin community.

Suddenly Marin City is swamped with people who want to do something and have the know-how to put the ideas into effect.

Two groups in particular — the Development Corporation of Marin City and Plan of Action for Challenging Times (PACT), a private non-profit organization from San Francisco — have presented in-depth proposals to local leadership for the long-range development of the community.

(At 8 p.m. today at the Manzanita Center, the Marin City Council, the Marin City Community Services District and the Development Corporation of Marin City will meet to discuss the community's future planning and development and the role each of these two vital areas.)

PACT has been consulting with the Marin City Council in recent weeks, aiding that group in its bid to become the official planning agency for the community and to replace the Marin County Redevelopment Agency in the active social, economic, educational and physical planning of Marin City.

The council has retained PACT as its consultant on community development. In months ahead, PACT will draft a master plan for the remaining undeveloped areas of the community and present proposals for such diverse projects as community controlled law enforcement, beautification, a jitney bus service, black culture courses, construction of an enclosed swimming pool and improved community communication.

PACT has already submitted a preliminary application to the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development for funds to accomplish the ambitious planning program and expects to hear within the next few weeks whether the application has been accepted.

The Development Corporation of Marin City, an organization comprised mostly of Marin City residents, is seeking to develop

NO MISSILE BASE

State Plans Busy Angel Island Park

The state is preparing a $2.5 million development of Angel Island which leaves "no room for a missile site," a state park official declared yesterday at a meeting of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission.

Harry Dean Jr., regional supervisor for the State Department of Parks and Recreation, presented slides showing plans for restoration of historic sites, camping and restaurant facilities.

"Do you have any room for a missile site?" asked Lothar Salin, who served as chairman in the absence of Melton Ferris, whose father died in Riverside.

Ayala Cove will be the main public access on the west side, the park official reported. Dockage will be available for tour boats and private boats. Bicycle rentals, concessions for snacks, facilities for picnicking, and ticket sales for rides around the island will be provided at Ayala Cove.

The North Garrison will have vending machines, possibly a store, interpretive exhibits, a dining hall with a concessionaire serving perhaps one meal a day, and barracks for on-duty employees.

The East Garrison, facing San Francisco, will have a highly developed marina with parking for 200 boats, the main museum, and overnight camping facilities for 400 to 500 persons. It will also have a swimming beach, cabins, motels, and possibly an outdoor theater, swimming pool, and auditorium.

At Point Blunt to the south, group picnic areas will handle 1,000 persons. More picnic units are planned at Alcatraz Gardens, and Camp Reynolds will be the major area for historic restoration.

Dean said 11 possible embarkation points are planned in the Bay, with four in Marin County. The four under consideration in Marin are the old Tiburon Naval Net Depot, Fort Baker, City of Tiburon, and the Corte Madera tidelands.

The capacity of the 720-acre island is 10,000 persons at any one time, said Dean.

By 1970-71, the state hopes to put in $1 million in development. He said most of the concessions will be provided by private capital.

Commissioner Helen E. Newman said she was horrified at the number of campsites shown and the extent of commercialization.

"I get the feeling of a certain amount of overdelopment," agreed Salin.

Commissioner Raymond Bresnan, 15-year-old student from Novato, said he fears hotels and restaurants would draw too big a crowd.

"The idea is to provide for all types of people," explained Dean. "Some people want to

Hanoi Demands Viet Cong Place At Negotiation Table

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam said today it would not negotiate with the United States unless the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front is present at the table. It called on the United States to state clearly under what conditions it is prepared to resume the Paris peace talks.

A spokesman for Hanoi's delegation to the Paris conference said the position taken Tuesday by Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford "was ambiguous and requires urgent clarification."

Clifford told a news conference in Washington that if the Saigon government continues to boycott the talks, the United States should go ahead without it.

President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam is demanding that his government be given the status of an independent delegation while the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front be made subordinate to North Vietnam's representatives.

Clifford said even without Saigon, there were various military matters the United States could settle "with Hanoi."

"Mr. Clifford has to explain what he means when he says the United States is prepared to negotiate 'with Hanoi,'" the North Vietnamese said. "If he means a two-sided conference with only the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam on one side, then that is absolutely unacceptable to us.

"We hope to have a clarification of this point soon."

TROUBLE ON CAMPUS — A picket (left) retreats and a San Francisco tactical squad policeman (center) goes down over another picket as turmoil flares again on San Francisco State College campus. (UPI Telephoto)

Search To Solve Turmoil Closes All San Francisco State Classes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Classes have been suspended for an indefinite period for San Francisco State College's 18,000 students after a week of sporadic vandalism and violence stemming from a Black Student Union strike.

President Robert R. Smith ordered the suspension last night "until we can open and operate in a more rational manner." He advised students to stay in their homes and work on their studies.

Smith acted after about 30 members of the police tactical squad were summoned to the campus twice within half an hour. They were met with rocks and cans and surrounded by groups of shouting demonstrators, both Negro and white.

In the resulting melee, eight persons were arrested. There were no reports of serious injuries.

Smith said he felt yesterday's disturbances showed, "We are moving further and further toward physical confrontation between people and this has demonstrated that a minority can close a campus and that we can't keep it open with the assistance of police."

Smith arranged to meet with his administration and faculty, particularly Negro members, to "define the issues and attempt to provide solutions to them."

One of the main demands made by the black student union has been for reinstatement of a controversial part-time instructor now under 30 day suspension —Black Panther George Mason Murray.

Smith, looking grim and haggard, said he suspended classes after discussing the situation with Glenn Dumke, chancellor of the 19 state colleges. Murray was suspended Nov. 1 on Dumke's orders pending investigation of his fitness as an instructor. Smith said he reluctantly acceded to the order. He contended that regular procedures had been initiated to consider Murray's case.

Leydecker Granted Leave By Bank To Fight Charges

Byron W. Leydecker, the Marin County civic leader accused of possessing marijuana, was granted a sudden leave of absence yesterday from his duties as president of the Redwood National Bank in San Rafael.

Directors of the bank said Leydecker, former chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, asked for the leave to answer charges lodged against him yesterday.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, in a complaint filed in Marin Municipal Court, accused Leydecker, 41, and his 24-year-old girl friend, Patricia A. Rabuzzi, with possessing marijuana Oct. 25 at her Tiburon home.

Ernest N. Kettenhofen, a bank director, announced last night that Leydecker had asked for time away from his presidential duties "until such time as charges against him are clarified."

The board, during its meeting yesterday afternoon, took note of newspaper articles regarding Leydecker's felony charge and

Mushrooms Deadly To Fairfax Father?

Harvested New Kind, Ate Them

Since he was a youngster, Kenneth Egger of Fairfax had enjoyed eating wild mushrooms picked on idle hikes.

Monday, a holiday from his job as a repairman with Bill's Refrigeration Service in Corte Madera, Egger took his five children on a hike to Alpine Dam.

Returning, Egger picked about a dozen robust-looking mushrooms — a type he had never selected before.

HIS DISH ALONE

That night, he cooked the mushrooms and offered some to his wife, Mary Louise, and the couple's five children, Delma, 15; Melynda, 13; Kathryne, 10; Kenneth Jr., 8, and Karl Allen, 6.

But they chose to eat a hamburger dinner, a favorite, that Mrs. Egger had prepared, leaving Egger to all the mushrooms.

AWOKE AILING

Egger, 45, awoke at 4:30 a.m. the next morning, sick to his stomach, and although vomiting persisted throughout the day and into yesterday morning, his wife thought he had caught the flu.

She called an ambulance when he collapsed at 10:30 a.m. yesterday. Egger died early today in Marin General Hospital.

'FIRST TIME'

"He had grown up in the habit of eating wild mushrooms but somehow or other it would appear he got some bad ones," said Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, county coroner. "He had told the doctor it was the first time he had eaten this kind."

Cooke said that Egger, in addition to the mushrooms, had joined his wife in a serving of frozen shrimp at the Monday night dinner, but Mrs. Egger had not become ill.

The coroner said Egger's death was the first believed due to mushroom poisoning in Marin County since he took office two years ago.

Egger, who lived at 34 Arroyo Road, was a native of La Habra, Orange County, and had lived in Marin 14 years. He was a Navy veteran of World War II, serving as a gunnery instructor.

Funeral, pending an autopsy, will be from Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Grandchild For Thant

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant became a grandfather for the second time today. His daughter Aye Aye gave birth in New York Hospital at 3:02 a.m. to a girl, named Khin Lei—Burmese for "Little Darling."

LBJ Assures Nixon On Foreign Policy

NEW YORK (AP)—President-elect Richard M. Nixon said today he has President Johnson's assurance—and insistence—that the incoming president be consulted in advance of any major foreign policy decision prior to the inauguration.

Nixon said that is essential so that any action taken by the current administration "will be a decision that I would have approved of and not one that I would have rejected."

He said that is the case because such decisions would be likely to carry over from the current administration to the next.

"If the United States is unable to speak with one voice it can not speak at all" in foreign affairs, Nixon said.

Nixon personally announced his understanding with Johnson in naming career diplomat Robert Murphy to be his personal liaison man with the Johnson administration.

Nixon said Murphy will represent him in foreign policy matters and specifically in connection with the Vietnam peace negotiations.

Nixon said Murphy also will be in charge of arrangements for prior consultation on any foreign policy judgments that might have to be implemented by the next administration. Asked specifically whether he had Johnson's assurance of prior consultation, Nixon replied:

"Not only his assurance, but his and my insistence, that that be done."

Nixon said he talked with Johnson by telephone this morning.

He said Secretary of State Dean Rusk also had given him such assurances at a White House briefing Monday.

After that Monday session, Nixon said he had told the President that the outgoing administration can speak for the nation and the new administration in foreign policy prior to the inauguration.

Nixon's announcement was the

Border Clash Leaves 287 Red Troops Dead

SAIGON (AP) — While U.S. planes and helicopters rained down flares, bullets and bombs, less than 500 South Vietnamese rangers and American artillerymen fought off about 1,000 North Vietnamese troops near the Cambodian border through the night and counted 287 enemy bodies after dawn broke today.

The North Vietnamese attack on the small ranger camp 60 miles north of Saigon produced the Vietnam War's heaviest fighting in weeks, with 120 of the enemy dead found inside the camp's barbed wire.

The other bodies were strewn over the cratered approaches which had been blasted by the Americans' 155mm guns inside the camp and the U.S. planes and helicopters circling overhead.

Four South Vietnamese were reported killed and 23 wounded. No American casualties were reported.

The North Vietnamese crossed the Cambodian border to storm the jungle camp, named Landing Zone Dot, in an area where allied forces are sweeping for an estimated 15,000 to 20,000 North Vietnamese troops believed massed along the border. Dot was held by a battalion of South Vietnamese rangers and a U.S. howitzer battery.

The North Vietnamese made their first charge about midnight, under cover of a heavy mortar barrage to pin down the defenders. Within about an hour, two thrusts had breached the camp's barbed wire defense perimeter.

The attackers made four assaults through the night, holding on for seven hours before the big American guns fired point-blank, helicopter gunships and dive bombers blasted them back across the border.

It was 7:25 a.m. when the camp radioed that the enemy had broke off the action and pulled back.

The rangers reported capturing a large quantity of enemy weapons left on the battlefield, including 53 Chinese assault rifles; 12 rocket launchers; 3 mortar tubes and 7 antiaircraft machine guns.

Earlier, U.S. headquarters reported that troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division killed 50 North Vietnamese soldiers in two fights yesterday in the same general area near the border. Two Americans were reported killed and five wounded.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands also an-

Awaits Reunion

New Palace

TOKYO (AP) — Emperor Hirohito today thanked his people for Japan's new $36 million royal palace and termed it "a masterpiece of modernity harmonized with tradition."

The palace in the heart of Tokyo, built partially of 800-year-old woods and roofed with copper artificially corroded to color it emerald green, replaces the building destroyed by an air raid during World War II.

Snag Telegrams

LONDON (AP) — Telegrams to and from Britain ran into major delays today as 1,800 overseas telegraph operators walked off their jobs in a pay dispute.

A spokesman for the Post Office, which handles telegraph and telephone services, said delays would snowball if the walkout continued. The operators attended a union meeting to discuss their demands.

To Budapest

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko flew to Budapest today for a meeting with Hungarian Foreign Minister Janos Peter, an official announcement said. It did not specify the purpose of the meeting or give other details.

Italians Strike

ROME (AP) — A nationwide 24-hour strike hit Italy today, crippling business and industry, snarling traffic and touching off noisy demonstrations by students and workers.

The strike was called in support of demands for more money for the nation's 28 million pensioners. Crippled and disabled persons marched from the Piazza Barberini to the Chigi Palace, where Giovanni Leone has his office. Strikers also massed in the Piazza del Santi Apstoli, just off the Plazza Venezia.

Abortion Stand

DETROIT (UPI) — "All women" should have the right to "safe legal abortions," the American Public Health Association's governing council declared today.

In a formal resolution, it put no string on any woman's right to decide not to have a baby if she became pregnant. Such a stand goes far beyond even the most liberal of the present state laws.

"The APHA urges that access to abortion be accepted as an important means of securing the right to spacing and choosing the number of children wanted," the resolution said.

No Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fierce battle among America's Roman Catholic bishops has raised doubts they can reach quick concensus on birth control and issue a pastoral letter to guide their troubled church.

The proposed wording of a letter brought before a closed meeting of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops drew such fire yesterday that it forced a night-long rewriting session.

The dispute raised some doubt whether the bishops would be able to shape a stand on either the birth control controversy on the morality of the war on Vietnam before their windup Friday.

TESTS WINGLESS CRAFT

NASA research pilot John A. Manke of Edwards Air Force Base had a double cause for celebration yesterday — his 37th birthday and a successful test flight of the HL-10, a triple-tailed lifting craft. The craft is one of several being tested for possible use as a ferry between earth and an orbiting space station. During the flight the craft reached an altitude of more than eight miles. Bar Girls Thrive In Buenos Aires

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—The greater Buenos Aires area has about 3,000 bar girls who push drinks valued at a total of 14 million pesos ($40,000) daily.

The "coperas," as they are called, keep one-third of the price of the drink. The rest goes to the house.

Russ Space Ship May Be On Return

JODRELL BANK, England (AP) — An unmanned Soviet spaceship circled the moon and apparently headed back to earth today, Britain's Jodrell Bank Observatory reported.

Sir Bernard Lovell, the director of the observatory, said the craft, Zond 6, was performing almost exactly like Zond 5, the first spaceship to circle the moon and be recovered safely.

Zond 5 was launched on a Sunday, like Zond 6, and it was recovered in the Indian Ocean the following Saturday, Sept. 21.

The current moon trip, together with the successful flight of cosmonaut Georgy Beregovoy last month and the Zond 5 success, has started speculation that the Soviets may try to beat the U.S. manned shot around the moon scheduled for Christmas.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Tuesday that three U.S. astronauts would make 10 orbits around the moon during a 20-hour photography mission on Christmas Eve. The Apollo 8 is to orbit 70 miles above the moon's surface.

Lovell reported Zond 6 passed within 1,000 to 2,000 miles of the moon's surface. Yesterday he reported voices that appeared to be recordings were heard from the craft.

Flight Set Within 10 Miles Of Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A flight to less than 10 miles above the moon's surface will be undertaken next year by a crew of space veterans, officials disclosed yesterday.

This Apollo 10 flight will include separation in lunar orbit of the U.S. moon lander and a descent to within 50,000 feet of the moon's surface. Officials have said privately the flight plans possibly could be changed later to a lunar landing.

Crewmen will be Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford, the commander; Navy Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan, lunar module pilot, and Navy Cmdr. John W. Young, the command module pilot.

Apollo 10 will be a mission classification 'F', which, according to plans made public last August, will include a command and service module and lunar module launched by a Saturn 5 booster into an orbit around the moon.

Stafford and Cernan will transfer to the lunar module and separate it from the command module, leaving Young to pilot the command module in moon orbit. Stafford and Cernan will fly the lunar module to within 50,000 feet of the lunar surface.

Then they'll rendezvous with the command module, rejoin Young on board, separate from the lunar module and return to earth.

Apollo 10's, 'F' mission differs from the Apollo 8 'C prime' mission, also a lunar orbit flight, in the type of hardware and altitude above the moon.

Apollo 8, scheduled to fly next month, will orbit the moon 10 times at an altitude of 69 miles. It will not have the lunar module on board. Apollo 8 crew members are Frank Borman, James Lovell and William Anders.

The command module and lunar module combination will fly manned for the first time on Apollo 9, scheduled for launch early next year.

Jamaica Honors Late Dr. King

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Jamaica's Marcus Garvey Prize for human rights has been awarded posthumously to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The award was created by the government of Jamaica as part of its observance of the current international year of human rights. The value of the prize is 5,000 pounds, or $14,000.

Prime Minister Hugh Shearer, announcing the award yesterday, said nominations had been received from 51 governments and nongovernmental bodies. They nominated 23 persons and four organizations.

$183,000 For Petaluma Water Works

A capital outlay of $183,000 was approved by the Petaluma Water Commission yesterday afternoon for the 1968-69 fiscal year.

The major project in the program is $126,000 for the installation of a 12-inch water line from East Washington Street down Wilson Street and Lakeville Highway. There the new line will connect to the present line on McDowell Boulevard to Casa Grande Road.

Robert S. Lipman, Petaluma councilman and commission vice chairman, said the Lakeville area had been described as the only major weak link in the city water system by fire insurance underwriters. The Lakeville area is already sewered, and a water line will aid development there, he said.

Also included in the capital outlay programs are pump stations at McNear and Magnolia avenues to provide better water pressure. Other items were for general maintenance of the water system.

The program will be presented to city council for approval sometime next month.

Rotary President Will Dedicate Park

Kiyoshi (George) Togasaki, president of Rotary International, will dedicate Carl Gabrielson Memorial Park in Sausalito, created by the Sausalito Rotary Club, at 1 p.m. Nov. 21.

Togasaki will attend a meeting of the Sausalito club at 12:15 p.m. at the Alta Mira Hotel prior to the dedication of the park, which was named in honor of the late Carl W. Gabrielson who served on the Sausalito City Council.

ATTENDS MUSICAL

Presidential Dig Brings Nixon Laugh

NEW YOR K(AP) — Richard M. Nixon startled a throng of Broadway theater-goers last night when he and his family showed up at "George M!"—a musical about a young man who rose from modest beginnings to make it really big.

"I thought I would split when that line came in there," the president-elect told star Joel Gray after the show.

The line Nixon referred to is spoken by Gray, who plays song-writer and entertainer George M. Cohan. Cohan is objecting to a comeback part in a musical:

"I wouldn't take the role even if I played the president of the United States."

After the show, the Nixon party—his wife, Pat, daughters Julie and Tricia and others—went to 21 for a private late supper before returning to their Fifth Avenue apartment about 1 a.m.

The Nixon theater party included Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Lewis and C. G. Bebe Rebozo of Key Biscayne, Fla. Lewis is president and executive editor of the Readers' Digest.

The Nixons squeezed through a lobby crowd shortly before curtain time, waited out of sight briefly, then went to their seats amid standing applause.

Some women in the audience exclaimed that Mrs. Nixon is "prettier than her pictures" and that the Nixon daughters are "really lovely."

At intermission, much of the audience remained standing at their places, watching the famous guests. Secret Service men were plentiful, including some occupying the upper boxes.

"You make us all feel young," Nixon told the youthful cast at a backstage picture-taking session.

The Nixon entourage made the trip and from the Palace theater along New York City streets that had been blocked off for the quick trip. The Nixons rode in the new presidential bubble-top limousine that President Johnson has not used yet. Scattered crowds waved along the route.

Nixon, chatting with the cast, said: "There's nothing like coming to the theater, having the feel of it. . .Keep putting on the good ones."

Paper Closed Over Story

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government closed one of Saigon's three English-language newspapers today, charging it failed to give the government equal billing with the United States in their dispute over the Paris peace talks.

A spokesman for the information ministry said the Saigon Daily News had splashed a story on U.S. Defense Secretary Clark Clifford's news conference Tuesday across the top of page one but played down the Saigon government's response.

"They printed the truth under tiny headlines," a spokesman said.

Merger Plan For Libraries Gains Ground

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The proposed merger of the Petaluma Library with the Sonoma County library system was presented trustees of the Santa Rosa Library last night and met with a favorable reaction, according to Kenneth M. Wightman, Petaluma trustees president.

Discussing the merger article by article, Wightman said the Santa Rosa trustees, who administer the county library program, reacted well to the plan. The agreement will be considered at a regular Santa Rosa trustees meeting and if approved will be sent to the Santa Rosa City Council for consideration.

A joint meeting of the Petaluma trustees, city council, chamber of commerce and other interested organizations has been planned for Dec. 5 at 7:30 p.m. at the Kenilworth Recreation Center. "This meeting will serve to inform the people of the status of the proposed merger," Wightman said.

Petaluma City Council delayed approval of the plan until such an informational meeting is held.

Suspects Deny Anti-Nixon Plot

NEW YORK (AP) — Three Yeneni Arabs, a father and his two sons, have pleaded innocent to a charge of conspiring to assassinate President-elect Richard M. Nixon.

Ahmed Rageh Namer, 43, and his sons, Hussin, 20, and Aldo, 19, were indicted yesterday by a Brooklyn grand jury before being brought into Brooklyn Supreme Court for a hearing.

Justice John R. Starkey reduced bail from $100,000 to $25,000 each, but the lower bond was not posted. No trial date was set.

Defense counsel asked lower bail on grounds that the defendants had no criminal records and had been steadily employed in Manhattan's garment district.

Magnolia Parking Deadlocks Council

Merchants from the north end of Magnolia Avenue lost their bid last night to have parking on both sides of the new four-lane stretch in their area. The Larkspur City Council deadlocked 2-2.

After a two-and-a-half-hour hearing the council was back where it started with its plan for parking on the west side only along the stretch from south of Murray Avenue to the north city limits.

A motion by Mayor Alfred Malvino to establish parking on both sides and have two traffic lanes south and one traffic lane north on a temporary basis, ended in the tie vote when Councilman Neil Brixon disqualified himself because he owns property and operates a business in the area.

Malvino and Earl O'Grady voted for the two-side parking, and William G. Fleckles and Benton A. Sifford Jr. voted against.

Malvino explained to the audience of about 20 that the lack of approval meant there would be no change in the city's long standing plan for four traffic lanes and west side parking.

The merchants, claiming business losses and a need for parking, renewed their request for parking on both sides until the Magnolia Avenue widening is completed to Doherty Drive, probably in the fall of 1970.

Councilmen indicated if both side parking were approved, it would be only until the widening is completed to Bon Air Road, sometime late next summer or early fall.

A motion by Fleckles for both side parking, one lane of traffic each way and a center strip for stacking turning cars, failed for lack of a second. It was a plan favored by some merchants.

A motion by O'Grady, similar to Malvino's but setting a 30-minute parking limit on the east side, also failed for lack of a second.

Merchants also had requested that a two-hour parking limit be established, but the council failed to resolve this matter, and said it would be considered at its next meeting, Dec. 4.

O'Grady and Malvino contended that parking spaces in the area are being used by merchants and their employees, and the merchants could gain space by policing this parking.

After the special session on Magnolia Avenue, City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst briefed the council on a tentative schedule for proposed annexation of the Hutchinson Quarry property, 58.3 acres, east of Highway 101, to the city.

Bathurst said there would be a city planning commission session on pre-zoning the area Nov. 26, and probably submission of a request for annexation to the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission Dec. 5.

Under this schedule the council would have to act Dec. 4, 11 and 18 to introduce and adopt necessary ordinances on zoning and permitting the asphalt and batch plant on the property under a use permit.

Utilities District Discussed

The possibility of setting up an assessment district for installation of underground utilities in Greenbrae was discussed last night by the Greenbrae Property Owners Association board.

Mrs. James Staats, board member, said L. P. Biancalana of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and P. S. Bunschu of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., both of San Rafael, attended and discussed the work involved.

The board agreed to write both companies and request that a sample study be made of a small area to determine approximate installation costs to the individual home owner. Greenbrae residents would then be contacted by letter to see what interest exists, Mrs. Staats said.

The board heard a report on the association's annual harvest ball held Nov. 2, and discussed setting up committees to run the annual Christmas decorating contest.

WAR

nounced that combat casualties in the war edged upward last week; the first full week since the bombing of North Vietnam was halted.

The U.S. Command said 166 American troops were killed in action, compared with 150 the week before. South Vietnamese casualties climbed from 129 killed two weeks ago to 200 last week; and 1,431 enemy dead were reported.

Enemy casualties of 1,353 had been reported for the week previous, but this was increased today to 2,162, a usual occurrence, and the 1,431 total presumably will be increased next week after more reports come in.

Meanwhile, in the wake of Washington's warning that serious peace talks cannot be conducted if the Demilitarized Zone is used for attacks on allied forces, the U.S. Command announced six more incidents "involving enemy activity" in the southern part of the buffer zone between North and South Vietnam.

U.S. Command said four of the incidents involved firing on U.S. reconnaissance planes. A fifth was the sighting of sets of vehicle lights moving south, which could have been tanks or supply trucks. The sixth was 10 armed, uniformed North Vietnamese soldiers seen moving in the open.

Garbage Service To Change Hands

The Bolinas Community Public Utility District agreed last night to contract with Henry's Service to handle garbage in Stinson Beach and Bolinas, according to secretary Katherine E. Martin.

The service will begin next week. The basic rate is $3 per month per customer for weekly service. The district previously had contracted with Don Pepper of Bolinas at the same rate.

The board also decided to purchase a pipe finder for the district at a cost of $249.50.

A special meeting of the board has been called for Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the district office to discuss a joint sewerage proposal for Stinson Beach and Bolinas.

Petaluma Coed Bruised In Crash

A teen-age Petaluma girl was injured at 7:30 a.m. today when the car in which she was riding sideswiped a school bus and struck the corner of a vacant house at Laurel Street and Schuman Road, Petaluma, police reported.

Cherrie Qusander, 15, of 753 Elm Drive, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for minor bruises. She had been a passenger in a car driven by her brother, Richard Qusander, 16. Both are students at Petaluma Senior High School.

No one on the bus en route to Petaluma Junior High School was injured.

Dance Policies Are Abandoned

New policies planned for a dance at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Terra Linda High School gym have been abandoned following a change in the sponsorship of the dance.

Students for Action, apparently a two-man group, had announced open doors and elimination of faculty chaperones. Principal Frank Stocking said, however, that all dances at Terra Linda High have faculty chaperones and doors are closed.

He said the sponsorship of the dance was changed to the Block Terra Linda Club, a letterman's club, and the senior class, after Denny Umphreys and John Cullen who call themselves Students for Action, were afraid they would not be able to meet expenses if the dance were a flop.

agreed to the leave of absence, Kettenhofen said.

During the interval, the office of bank president will be filled by the bank's chairman of the board, Abe Blumenfeld of Blumenfeld Enterprises, Kettenhofen said.

He will be assisted in those duties by other directors, who include William R. Berglund, George Gund III, Harry Heifetz, Robert A. Roumiguiere, Dr. John C. Siemens and Dale E. Walter, Kettenhofen said.

Leydecker, accompanied by his attorney Albert Bianchi, was to surrender himself for booking at Marin County Jail and arraignment in Municipal Court this afternoon.

Mrs. Rabuzzi, represented by William O. Weissich, was arraigned on the same charge yesterday by Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. The magistrate ordered her released without bail and set Wednesday as the date for the divorcee to return and plead to the charge.

Leydecker who has been president of the San Rafael bank since it opened, was appointed to the Marin Board of Supervisors by then Gov. Edmund G. Brown in 1963. He later won election to a short term on the board, then declined to run for re-election in 1966.

He has been active in Marin County affairs. He was twice chairman of the United Crusade, and a member of the board of trustees of the San Rafael Military Academy and the Sunnyhills home for children.

Handicapped Talk Scheduled Tonight

Dr. Franz Bauman will speak on the topic, "Experiences with uncommon Approaches to the Neurologically Handicapped Problem: Hypnotherapy and Behavior Therapy," at meeting today of the Marin chapter of the California Association for Neurologically Handicapped Children.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at Bahia Vista School, 125 Bahia Way, San Rafael. Dr. Bauman is a San Francisco pediatrician and associate director of adolescence services, mental health committee, San Francisco Medical Society.

NIXON

other side of that agreement.

Nixon said the arrangement with Johnson did not give him veto power over foreign policy decision. "Nothing of that sort, no."

But he was not explicit on the question of what would happen if the Johnson administration settled upon a decision with which he disagreed.

He said that point was not discussed precisely. He also said he has no disagreement with the broad general outlines of Johnson's current Vietnam policy.

And he also said that Johnson is keenly aware that it would be very difficult to agree on any major foreign matter now without the assurance that it would be implemented and approved by the new administration.

Nixon and Murphy appeared together at a brief news conference at the Pierre Hotel. Nixon said Murphy's assignment is a temporary one during the transition period. He said Murphy will have an office of that adjacent to Dean Rusk.

Murphy spent 39 years in the foreign service, has served as assistant secretary of state and as undersecretary of state and now is chairman of Corning Glass International.

Nixon said he has no plans at this time to send Murphy or anyone else to the Paris peace talks or to Saigon. He said he does not rule that out at a later time, however.

Nixon said his understanding with Johnson in the foreign policy field is more explicit than those of past transition periods. He said this was particularly necessary with the Vietnam negotiations under way. Unless there is to be a 60-day delay in that and other fields "we have to have this kind of an understanding."

In another matter, Nixon named John D. Ehrlichman, 43, a Seattle attorney and eight-year political aide, to be counsel to the president.

Nixon's latest appointment to the White House staff was announced by Ronald L. Ziegler, his chief spokesman. Nixon himself was conferring with advisers at his headquarters on the 39th floor of the Hotel Pierre.

Ehrlichman, active in Nixon's 1960 presidential campaign and his 1962 effort to become governor of California, was tour director of this year's Republican presidential campaign.

hike, others want hotels." In any event, he said controls would be established to keep the maximum capacity to 10,000 persons at any one time.

Troubled School Gets Black Principal

EAST PALO ALTO (AP) — Racially troubled Ravenswood High School's new principal is a Negro educator, Earl M. Meneweather, 41, assistant dean at Merritt Junior College in Oakland.

The Sequoia Union High School District Board of Trustees appointed Meneweather last night to succeed Malcolm J. Taylor, a white principal who resigned recently because of controversies involving Ravenswood's predominantly Negro student body.

How Arms Race Talks Could Start

WASHINGTON (UPI) —In the 24th year of the atomic age, the United States and Russia face an opportunity to make their first real effort to curb their nuclear arms race.

The vehicle by which they could do so is known in official cables as SALT (Strategic Arms Limitation Talks) expected to be held sooner or later between the two countries.

Assuming the dlays caused by the Czechoslovakia crisis are overcome, and the United States and Russia do sit down for such talks, how would they begin?

How could they tackle the complexities of the arms race? What are the prospects of success? What are the hurdles and dangers? What is the outlook if the talks do not take place?

Many U.S. weapons experts believe the two countries can best begin by just talking about the arms race, without worrying too much at the start about what agreements might someday result.

Their reasoning is that the first step will be not nuclear disarmament but a slowdown in the present runaway arms race. This race, they believe, is being propelled forward by a series of uncertainties, misunderstandings and different ways of looking at the problem. For example:

The United States, under former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, and probably still under his successor, Clark M. Clifford, plans its weapons on a philosophy of building "enough" power to maintain a nuclear deterrent. But there is concern here that Russia may do its planning on a "more and more and more" philosophy.

Russia has viewed anti-ballistic missiles as "defensive." The United States has viewed them as upsetting the nuclear balance (except for the small, anti-Chinese variety which the U.S. plans.)

McNamara, before he left office, described how both the United States and Russia had built nuclear arsenals greater than they needed for deterrence, because they could not read each other's intentions and because each planned against the "worst plausible case."

The arms race goes forward by actions and reactions. The United States began working on multiple warhead missiles in order to be able to overhelm a big anti-ballistic missile system which it feared Russia might build by the mid 1970's.

Now, these U.S. multiple warheads, known as MIRVS, threaten in the next few years to greatly magnify the arms race.

Because of the danger that Russia may develop MIRV, or may greatly increase the accuracy of its Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles (ICBMs), the United States has on the drawing boards a whole series of "options" including super-protected underground missile silos, an expanded Sprint defense system, and bigger and better ICBMs.

At the minimum, experts believe U.S.-Soviet talks might achieve better mutual understanding of how the arms race works, how each side looks at it and what the actions and reactions and "destabilizing" factors are.

It is unlikely that the two countries would discuss their secret plans. Instead they would be discussing the possible consequences of each other's actions.

If, as a result, they independently decided not to build some of the new weapons they plan—or even to build more slowly—the talks would have achieved monumental success. Formal treaty negotiating could follow later.

It is immediately clear that such talks make no sense unless both countries adopt two premises:

First, that they have a "mutual interest" in curbing the nuclear race.

Second that until the very distant day of ultimate disarmament, they must maintain the "strategic balance" in which neither could attack the other without being destroyed in return.

Medi-Cal Probe Brings Charges Of Kickbacks And Shady Deals

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The chairman of a joint legislative investigative committee says testimony from its hearing shows kickbacks and unethical practices exist in the state's Medi-Cal program.

The chairman, Assemblyman John W. Veneman, R-Modesto, said as the two-day hearing closed yesterday that the committee will meet in Sacramento in January to issue recommendations.

The hearing should make vendors of medical services "a little leery of attempting something that is on the verge of being illegal or unethical," he said, and help curb abuses in the state's $800-million-dollar-a-year program of health care for the poor.

The hearings followed a report from the state attorney general that Medi-Cal was being bilked of $6 million to $8 million a year.

"When 80,000 claims are processed a day—or 20 million a year—and they have found only 1,000 cases (of abuse), I would say some were escaping," Veneman said.

He said he believes some nursing homes receive kickbacks and some pharmacists "border on practices that are unethical if not illegal."

Albert E. Bridges, the manager of a portable X-ray service, testified yesterday he had been solicited by nursing homes for kickbacks connected with Medi-Cal.

Bridges quoted nursing home operators as asking him: "What's in it for me?" when he offered his service.

Eearlier, a suburban Sunland nursing home operator testified that many convalescent homes demanded kickbacks from equipment and medical service suppliers and suppliers of such items as linen, meat, milk and groceries.

And Dr. Alex E. Okran, dental director of the Los Angeles Department of Social Services, said that a small minority of dentists are "milking the hell' out of Medi-Cal.

He said some make the rounds of sanitariums and make dentures for terminal cancer patients, then send the bill to Medi-Cal. And others, Okran said, charge patients additional money even though full treatment is to be paid by Medi-Cal.

"What I am talking about," said Okran, "covers dentists in Watts, on Wilshire—all colors, creeds. This (Los Angeles) is the most troublesome county in the entire state."

Okran said Blue Shield has failed to program its computers to prevent overpayments, double payments and other violations.

Veneman read aletter from 27 Modesto doctors who said they were overpaid a total of $2,000 from Blue Shield for Medi-Cal services. In one instance, the letter said, a $40 bill was paid at $400, but the money was returned.

Blue Shield vice president Harry Parke, recalled to the stand to answer Okran's testimony, said his company is working to improve its computer system.

Dr. Jean J. Crum, president of the Los Angeles County Medical Association, denied physicians were involved in abuses and accused the attorney general of conducting a "witch-hunt."

And Donald Gormly, president of the California Nursing Home Association, said the attorney general's report was an attempt to destroy public confidence in nursing and convalescent institutions.

"It is obvious it was politically inspired," he said, "because the state attorney general is of a different political party than the governor."

Meanwhile, Gov. Ronald Reagan, speaking to a meeting of county supervisors, said the state will push for prosecution of doctors or institutions guilty of defrauding or abusing the Medi-Cal program.

But the governor said he is sure doctors themselves "will purge that relative handful who would violate the ethics of their profession."

Chairman Selected For Yule Contest

Emeryville Loses Bay Fill Battle

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Town of Emeryville has lost a two-year contest over the authority of the San Francisco Bay Commission.

The State Supreme Court ruled yesterday that Emeryville cannot continue a 144-acre bay fill project without the commission's permission.

The agency was created in 1965 by a state legislative act. Superior Court Judge Robert Kroninger of Oakland ruled in September 1967 that Emeryville had started its filling before the commission came into existence and therefore was entitled to continue.

Kroninger's decision was affired by the State District Court of Appeal, but the commission appealed.

The original Emeryville plan was to develop a high rise residential community on the filled land.

The Supreme Court directed, however, that Judge Kroninger issue a new injunction banning any further bay fill by Emeryville without a commission permit.

Apartment Building Design Is Approved

Design approval of a proposed 11-unit apartment building at 166 Tunstead Avenue was given by the San Anselmo Design Review Committee last night. Applicant was John Komo.

The committee also approved the design request of Andrew Stafford for an addition to an existing duplex at 188 Tunstead Avenue.

Bobby Baker Claims Evidence 'Tainted'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert G. 'Bobby' Baker, former secretary to Senate Democrats who was convicted of income tax evasion, is asking for a new trial because, he says, "tainted" evidence was used in his first.

In a motion filed yesterday in U.S. District Court here, Baker claims evidence uncovered recently in the perjury case of former Lt. Gov. Clifford A. Jones of Nevada will show Baker was convicted by means of evidence that should have been suppressed.

Baker's motion contends this "tainted" evidence was given by Wayne Bromley, Washington lobbyist and lawyer who implicated Baker and Jones in a tax-evasion scheme.

Bromley used a hidden microphone to record in Los Angeles conversations with Baker and Jones, a Baker business associate, with the cooperation of the Department of Justice. Bromley told of these conversations at Baker's trial last January.

Baker's lawyers contend Gesell's ruling must apply in Baker's case since the same circumstances are involved. The government has appealed the ruling.

The government contended at Baker's trial the former Senate Democratic aide stole nearly $100,000 from California savings and loan executives who thought they were making political contributions. It was this income on which Baker was convicted of not paying taxes.

District Judge Oliver Gasch, with whom Baker filed his motion for a new trial, has scheduled a hearing Dec. 16 on certain aspects of the Baker case as ordered by the U.S. Court of Appeals.

The appellate court affirmed in part Baker's conviction that netted him a sentence of 1 to 3 years in prison. But it ordered Gasch to determine whether bugged telephone conversations in which Baker did not take part but in which he was discussed could have led the government to secure evidence used at his trial.

$1 Million Decision In Klan Slaying Case

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) — A federal court jury has returned a judgment of $1,022,500 against the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and three white men in the 1966 slaying of Ben Chester White, a 65-year-old Negro.

Investigators said the slaying was part of a plot to create enough racial tension in Natchez to lure the late Dr. Martin Luther King, a Negro civil rights leader, into rifle range.

At the time, King was busy elsewhere.

Judge Harold Cox, declaring the defendants liable for "the dastardly act," ordered the verdict yesterday. The question he put to the jury was the amount of damages to be awarded in the unusual civil suit, filed under a Reconstruction era law.

The jury of eight Negroes and four whites deliberated for an hour and 30 minutes and then brought back the verdict—$22,500 in actual damages and $1-million punitive damages against Ernest Avants, 37, Claude Fuller, 48, and James L. Jones, 58, all employees of a Natchez paper mill, and the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

Avants, Fuller and Jones listened to the verdicts impassively.

All three had been charged with murder in the slaying. In Circuit Court trials on the state charge Avants was acquitted and Jones won a mistrial. Fuller's case hasn't come up.

White had not been connected with civil rights activities.

The civil suit was brought by his son, Jesse, of Baton Rouge, La.

In the charge to the jury, Judge Fox said assessment of punitive damages would serve as a deterrent to others who may try to do similar acts.

Marin City's Future To Be Session Topic

The Marin City Council, Marin City Community Services District and the Development Corporation of Marin City will have a joint meeting today at 8 p.m. in Manzanita Center on Marin City planning and development.

The Independent-Journal mistakenly said the meeting was to be last night in an article in yesterday's paper.

The community services district will have a special meeting at 7 p.m. to try to work out the responsibilities of the three groups in the development of Marin City as requested by the board of supervisors on Tuesday.

Public notice of more than 24 hours was given by the services district of both meetings.

School's In, School's Out

SCHAIJK, Holland (UPI)— When teachers and pupils arrived to start the school term at the new St. Joseph School, they found the premises completely without furniture.

It had been ordered but the plant failed to deliver. Everybody was sent back home to await the furniture.

Brown Hints Of Possible Try For Governor In '70

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Former Gov. Edmund G. Brown says there's a chance he might run in 1970 for governor — the post he lost to Republican Ronald Reagan in 1966.

"I'm giving it thought, but only thought," Brown said in a telephone interview yesterday from his Beverly Hills law office.

Brown said "I'd like to be vindicated in Sacramento," but he added he would not run unless "there was a tremendous draft . . . tremendous request, and the winds don't blow that strongly in California."

Brown, now 63, earlier mentioned he might seek the U.S. Senate seat in 1970 now held by Republican George Murphy.

But he said in the interview he believes Rep. John V. Tunney of Riverside will run for the Senate and be elected "if he is able to get any real support."

Brown added, "I'm too much a Californian. I just don't want to go back to Washington. I would have four years ago, but not now."

The two-term governor said he thinks the Democratic Party in California has "hit the bottom" with the 1966 and 1968 elections and now "I think we're on our way up."

"The problem is candidates. If we get the right candidates, we'll defeat Reagan and Murphy" Brown said.

Studies of water use patterns reveal the Saturday night bath is still an institution in many American homes.

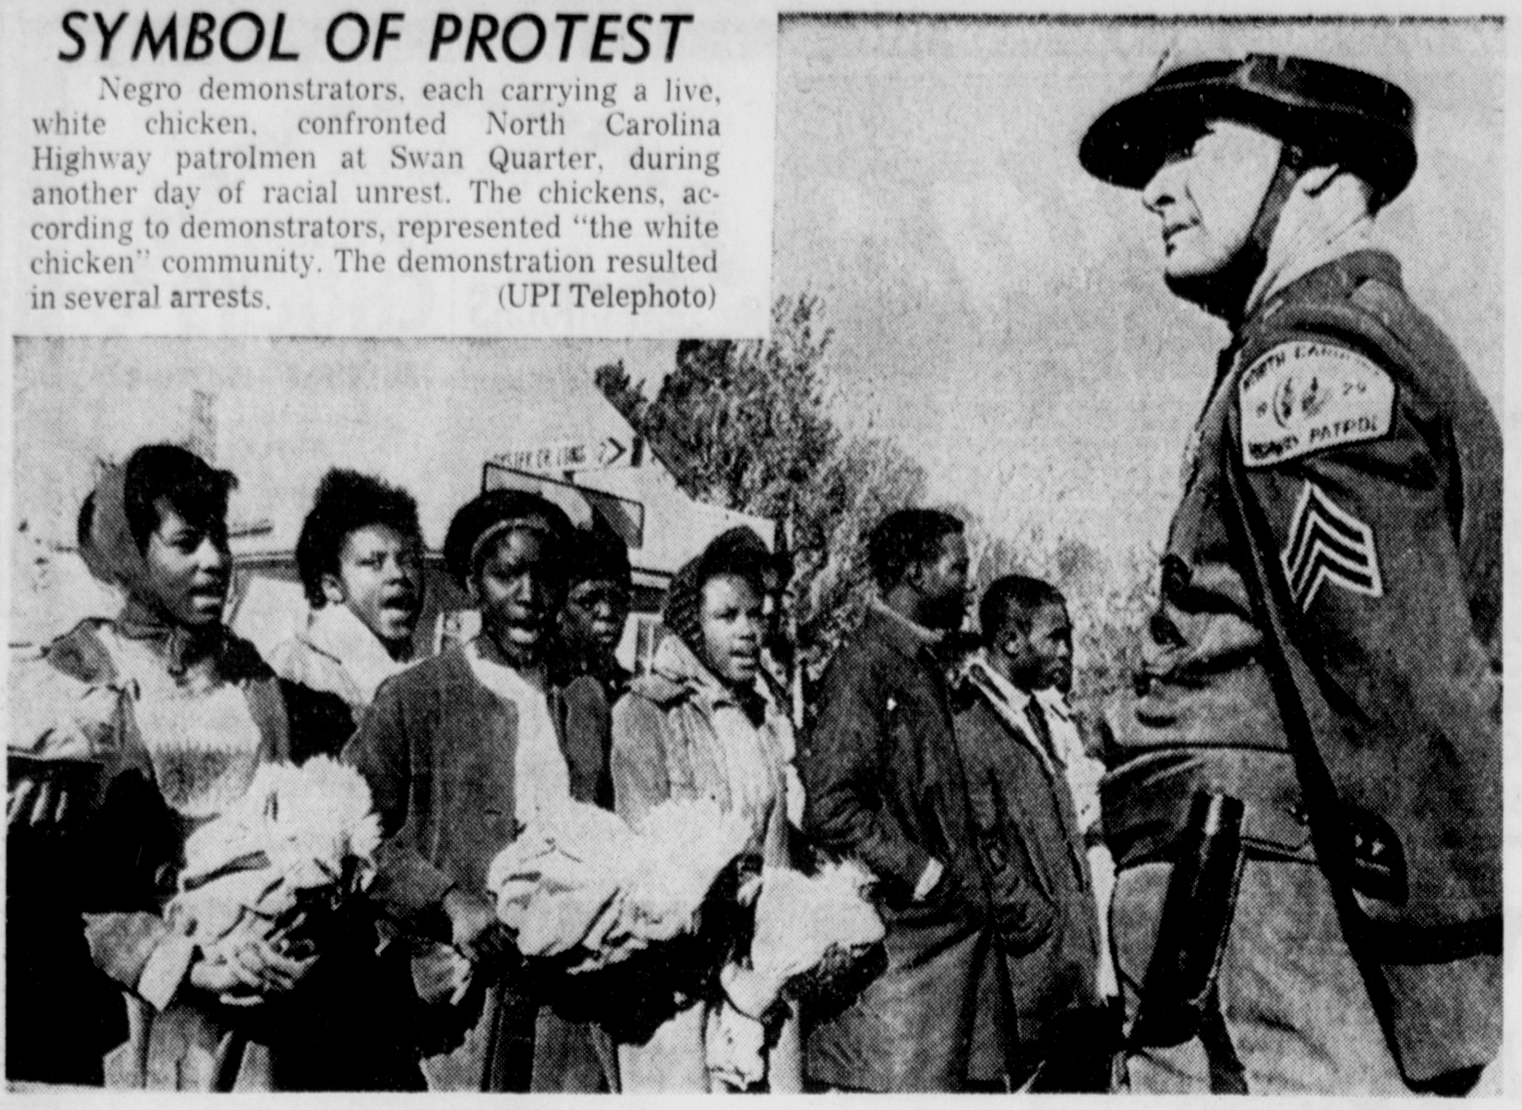
SYMBOL OF PROTEST



Negro demonstrators, each carrying a live, white chicken, confronted North Carolina Highway patrolmen at Swan Quarter, during another day of racial unrest. The chickens, according to demonstrators, represented "the white chicken" community. The demonstration resulted in several arrests. (UPI Telephoto)

Curb Sought On Larkspur Park Hippies

An ordinance designed to alleviate the problem of hippie vandalism in Dolliver Park was ordered last night by the Larkspur Parks and Recreation Commission.

Robert C. Bundy, parks and recreation director, said today he was directed to include in the draft some restrictions on the use of park equipment and the hours which the park should remain open, then submit the draft for consideration at the 8 p.m. commission meeting Dec. 11 at city hall.

Bundy said at present the rules regulating park use are vague, that a 7 p.m. curfew in the evenings has often been ignored because of long summer evenings. Police Chief Howard Clark on Nov. 6 told the city council that hippies have sometimes vandalized the park. He added, however, that the problem has diminished with recent rainy weather.

The Larkspur Parks and Recreation Commission also:

HALL — Heard a report by Bundy that repair of delapidated and city-owned Eastman Hall, 200 Williams Avenue, would cost about $6,600. He said the fire department also has reported that a fire hazard exists with cooking and water vents.

The commission agreed to assist groups now using the hall to find new meeting places until a decision is made whether to repair or replace the hall with a portable building in Piper Park.

BOAT LAUNCHING — Heard Bundy report that the state Department of Highways and the state Small Craft Harbor Commission have approved a proposed city-built small craft launching ramp on Corte Madera Creek beneath the Greenbrae underpass of Highway 101.

Bundy said development plans will now proceed, and he also was directed to investigate the possibility of Larkspur's obtaining financial aid from other agencies toward gaining matching federal funds for dredging of a sand bar off Point San Quentin.

PIPE PARK — Requested a report on possible revision of the master plan of Pipe Park to devote the park to recreational facilities rather than include the suggested erection of a city hall and library there.

Revolver Stolen

Rewording Of 'Fifth' Is Held A Must Today

Californians 34 years ago wrote into their state constitution a construction of the Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination similar to that now proposed for the U.S. Constitution by Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court.

Attorney William O. Weissich noted this today when he appeared on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" with Judge Gardiner to discuss the proposal.

The California constitution was amended by initiative to provide: "In any criminal case (the defendant's) failure to explain or deny . . . may be commented upon by court or counsel and may be considered by the court and jury."

Three years ago, however, the U.S. Supreme Court by 7-2 vote held this California provision was unconstitutional.

Judge Gardiner has proposed in an open letter to Sen.-elect Alan Cranston and Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, that the Congress undertake a rewording of the Fifth Amendment to carry the self-incrimination protection back to the time of arrest — as it has been carried by court decisions — but to provide, if the accused person fails to take the stand and offer "credible response" in open court, that judge or jury "may draw all appropriate conclusions therefrom."

This, he held, would do more than the California provision did before it was thrown out by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Both speakers stressed fear that the United States is trending toward a police state, pointing out that anti-law riots such as now are common in this country preceded imposition of police states in Italy, Germany and elsewhere. Both saw the rewording of the Fifth Amendment guarantee as one step in increasing respect for law by making it more difficult for the guilty man to escape punishment.

Weissich, who is probably Marin's most prominent defense attorney, said an innocent man may need the protection at time of arrest but need not "hide behind the Fifth" in open court.

He quoted from "The Common Law" by the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes: "If the law is to continue to be believed, it must keep its promises."

Use of the Fifth Amendment to protect the guilty, as is done during trial, makes it more difficult for the law to keep its promises, he contended.

Long Distance Call Saves Life Of Novato Wife

Miriam Louise Burrage of 42 Alondros Court, Novato, was treated yesterday at Novato General Hospital for carbon monoxide inhalation after being found unconscious in the living room of her home, according to police reports.

Police said they found Mrs. Burrage after receiving a phone call from a friend of hers in Southern California, reporting a previous phone conversation in which Mrs. Burrage has said she was going to take her own life.

They found a hose leading from a car with its motor running in the garage, into the kitchen. A towel was stuffed in the opening under the door of an adjacent bedroom where her two sons, ages 5 and 10 years, were asleep, according to police. They were unharmed, police said.

Her husband, William Burrage, who has his own garage business in San Francisco, was at work.

Winners Announced In Poster Contest

Scott Kresy wonn a radio as first prize in the poster contest in the sixth grade at Martin Luther King School in Sausalito in connection with the third annual children's bazaar Dec. 7.

Karla Meeks took second prize and Richard Lohmann got third in the event sponsored by the Sausalito Artists and Merchants.

Inverness Water Rate Hike Argued

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A hearing resumed yesterday in the California Public Utilities Commission offices into requests for water rate increases of nearly 100 per cent in Inverness and other Northern California areas.

PUC Examiner Carol T. Coffey heard two days of testimony at the Inverness Yacht Club in October. Inverness residents had contended the increases sought by the Inverness Water Co. were not justified because the holding company to which the Inverness firm belongs was improperly charging expenses to the local subsidiary.

Besides an increase in Inverness rates, hikes up to 106 per cent are sought in other parts of the Redwood Empire by the holding company.

There was no indication when the hearing would conclude. Coffey ultimately will make a recommendation to Public Utilities Commissioner William E. Bennett of Kentifeld, who will present the case to the full commission for a final decision.

The case is being heard beginning at 10 a.m. weekdays in the commission offices in the state building.

Kennedy Funeral Gun Case Ends

NEW YORK (AP) — Gary R. De Dell, a Syracuse, N.Y., printing-firm executive was given a conditional discharge today in criminal court for illegal possession of a pistol at the funeral of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The discharge was given by a three-judge panel, with Judges Daniel Weiss and Hyman Solniker concurring on the sentence and Judge William Shea voting to sentence De Dell to $100 fine or 10 days in prison.

The condition of De Dell's discharge was that he not at any time carry a loaded or unloaded gun without a license.

Sausalito Rail Link Decay Stressed

By DAVID DIETZ

SAN FRANCISCO — The Sausalito branch of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad was pictured yesterday as a rusted and decaying stretch that would require about $1.4 million to renovate.

And such an expense is not justified, said C. E. Neal, vice president and general manager of the railroad, because of light freight business on the branch.

Neal, taking the stand in the first day of an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on Northwestern Pacific's bid to abandon service on the branch, said that "major expenditures must be made to rehabilitate the line if it is to continue to operate."

"The rehabilitation will be extremely expensive," he added, "and I do not believe that the present and future traffic on the line are sufficient to warrant that very large outlay."

Neal said the 2,172-foot Corte Madera tunnel, first built in 1884, would have to be reconstructed, three trestles on the branch replaced or rebuilt and new track laid to replace rail installed in 1909 and 1937.

Neal presented pictures of the tunnel which showed the structure in various degrees of collapse and deterioration. He said the tunnel was weakened and so narrow that it was once necessary to cut away sections of the wall to permit a train to pass.

The cost of a reconstructed tunnel was estimated by Neal at $1.2 million. He placed the cost of repairing or replacing the trestles at $66,485 and of track repair at $219,400.

Neal said under questioning by Robert N. Lowry, attorney for three Sausalito businessmen who use the branch to haul freight and are opposing abandonment, that the reconstruction work had "accumulated" over the years because of light traffic.

But Neal said he "assumed" that traffic at one time was heavier and that, had the railroad spent a sum of $55,000 that was appropriated for this type of work in 1955, the Sausalito branch would be in better condition today.

It is Northwestern Pacific's second attempt to abandon service on the branch. An ICC examiner ruled in favor of abandonment after a hearing in 1960, but was overturned by an ICC subcommittee.

The railroad also sought unsuccessfully to abandon the Puerto Suello Tunnel, which was heavily damaged by fire in 1961 but reopened in September 1967.

New Pearson Feud: Nixon, Psychiatrist

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Columnist Drew Pearson, who has been involved in disputes involving several presidents, has raised the question of why Richard M. Nixon, now president-elect, consulted a New York physician several years ago.

Pearson related to an audience at the National Press Club yesterday that he was told the visit concerned "psychiatric problems" and occurred at some time in the 1953-61 period that Nixon was vice president.

The physician is Dr. Arnold A. Hutschnecker, currently a psychiatrist with offices in New York City. Dr. Hutschnecker told UPI that when he was treating Nixon two or three times a year from 1950 to 1955 it was "for strictly medical problems."

Hutschnecker emphasized that while he had gradually changed his practice to psychiatry over the past several years, at the time Nixon was consulting him he was practicing internal medicine.

Ronald Ziegler, Nixon's press secretary, questioned at a news briefing about the columnist's remarks, said: "I won't be drawn into a discussion of a Pearson utterance that is totally untrue, as most of his statements and utterances are."

Pearson, who spoke at a National Press Club luncheon, mentioned the Nixon medical matter while responding to a question as to how closely he checks material for his column.

Pearson said that in the process of checking rumors, he telephoned Dr. Hutschnecker about 9:30 A.M. Oct. 31 —five days before the election —"and he told me he had treated Nixon when he was vice president."

Parson took this to mean he had treated Nixon psychiatrically. The doctor had patients at the time and asked Pearson to call him again at 4 p.m.

"I called the doctor back at 4 o'clock and he said, it's true that Nixon did consult me, but this was for problems of internal medicine and it was not for psychotherapy," Pearson said. The columnist said he decided to write nothing, although he wondered why Nixon would go to New York to see an internist. He added:

"Now subsequently Dr. Hutschnecker has told others and confirmed the fact that in the interim between my call at 9:30 in the morning and 4 p.m. he got a call from the Nixon office and that he had changed his story to me. And he did confirm to others that he had treated or advised Nixon over psychiatric problems. And he had expressed some worry privately that Nixon had problems —or did have a problem —of not standing up under great pressure."

Dr. Hutschnecker, interviewed by telephone, said that he had not said he had treated Nixon for any psychiatric reason.

"If Mr. Pearson made that statement, he fabricated it," he said. "I did not make it."

The doctor said he treated Nixon from about 1950 (the year Nixon was elected to the Senate) through the first couple of years of his vice presidency, which began in 1953.

"I was engaged at that time in internal medicine, so Mr. Nixon came at that time for strictly medical problems," Hutschnecker said. The visits were "at rather rare intervals, maybe two or three times a year." He would not elaborate on the reason, beyond saying "for general consultation."

The doctor said that "we came to an understanding that because of his exposed position he should get someone in Washington" — indicating that this was because as vice president, Nixon was more in the public eye and always accompanied by a Secret Service man.

Dr. Hutschnecker, who came to this country from Germany in 1936, described himself as now "engaged in psychotherapy which is psychoanalytically-oriented treatment of emotional problems."

He said he has written several books on psychosomatic medicine, which concerns the relationship of psychological elements to bodily ills.

New Attack On Poverty Panel's Role

The Marin County Building and Construction Trades Council has joined the Marin County Labor Council in criticizing lack of coordination of manpower services by the Economic Opportunity Council.

The building and trades council Tuesday concurred with a labor council resolution charging the EOC has failed to coordinate the 20 agencies involved in manpower services in Marin, president N. C. Green reported.

The building and trades council also joined the labor council in urging the county to hire Dr. Arthur Pearl of the University of Oregon as consultant to the New Careers program in Marin.

New Careers, proposed by Dr. Pearl, is a program to train minority workers for county jobs.

The council will also support the labor council's cooperation with the human rights commission in sponsoring a part of the manpower program, as requested by the board of supervisors.

Green said it was also reported that the rain has started to take its toll of construction work. A total of 202 men were reported out of work because of the weather Tuesday, he said.

Burglars Take Mink Valued At $50,000

OAKLAND (UPI) — Burglars with a selective taste for mink robbed the Benioff Furs store early today, taking an estiated $50,000 worth of furs.

The burglars forced the front door and smashed a glass show case where the furs were displayed. The action set off a silent alarm, but the thieves were gone before police arrived. The robbers took all the mink furs in the case but left a Kalgan coat, made of curly lamb, on the floor.

Parents Ask Return Of Gregory Book

About 125 parents, teachers and students converged on the Dixie School District trustees meeting last night and demanded that Dick Gregory's autobiography, "Nigger," be returned to the classrooms.

The trustees appointed a review committee to study the Gregory book and report back with a recommendation on Nov. 27. The review committee will comprise Dr. Penrod Moss, assistant superintendent for curriculum; Earl Thomason, principal of Vallecito School; Mrs. Lorena Pedan, district librarian; one of the teachers at Vallecito; and two teachers to be selected by the Dixie Teachers Association.

The controversy arose last month when Supt. Dennie B. Willis withdrew the book from classrooms at Vallecito School, where two teachers were using the book for classroom study.

The trustees declared last night that the superintendent had acted in his best judgment and they would not second-guess him but would await the report of the review committee before deciding on whether "Nigger" should return to the classrooms.

Dixie School District trustees also:

LANDSCAPING — Adopted a landscaping plan for Oak View School and authorized the superintendent to apply to the state Local Allocation Board and the department of finance to pay for part of the project.

LITTER CLEANING — Authorized the purchase of a litter vacuum to clean school yards at a cost of $436.90.

TRAILERS — Accepted a bid from Design Facilities Corp. in the amount of $5,565 for the three trailers and authorized purchase of a fourth trailer for $1,195. The trailers will be used in the speech program for handicapped pupils.

Kentfield Doctor Tries Out Drug Against Leprosy

Dr. Paul Fasal of Kentfield, chief of the leprosy section of the U.S. Public Health Service Hospital in San Francisco, is working on a new drug to fight the disease.

A story in yesterday's Wall Street Journal noted that Dr. Charles C. Shepard of the National Communicable Disease Center and Dr. Fasal were working on a drug called B-663.

In tests the drug has seemed to work as well as sulfones, which have enabled physicians to arrest the disease before more damaging complications set in, the Wall Street Journal reported.

But B-663 hasn't the side effects of sulfones, such as anemia, the story noted. The only drawback to B-663 discovered so far is that reddish dye, one of its key ingredients, gives the patient's skin a reddish hue, it was reported.

$7,300 Jewelry Theft At Strawberry Home

The theft of $7,300 worth of jewelry from a Strawberry home Friday was among the several burglaries reported today by the Marin sheriff's office.

Engelberta Dwelly of 320 East Strawberry Drive said someone pushed open a sliding glass door while she was away at a party.

They took her valuable jewelry from a chest of drawers, but left behind less expensive costume jewelry, she said.

Other burglaries reported were:

The theft of $88 cash Friday from the home of Marie Ailka at 240A Redwood Highway, Alto. The thief entered through an unlocked door, she said.

The theft of $4.50 in change from John D. Penfield's house at 575 Appleberry Lane, Marinwood, Saturday.

Theft of two radios and $10 cash from the home of John C. Reynolds at 787 Penney Royale Lane, Terra Linda, Sunday.

Antique items, including a civil war saber and a Japanese bayonet, stolen between Oct. 26 and Monday from the summer house on Perth Way, Inverness, of David W. Mushet of 16 Mallard Road, Belvedere.

Teen-Age Trio Accused On Pot; Crossbow Taken

Tiburon police yesterday arrested three 17-year-old boys on suspicion of marijuana possession after the youths were allegedly found smoking pot on a remote Tiburon road.

The youths, from Corte Madera, Larkspur and San Anselmo, were booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall.

Officer John O. Goff reported he smelled the distinctive odor of marijuana when he stopped at 2:55 p.m. to talk to the youths, who were sitting in a car parked on Taylor Road off Paradise Drive near the Corte Madera city limits. A further check uncovered marijuana cigarettes, Goff said.

He also confiscated, as a dangerous weapon, a crossbow, which the youths said they had made in local high school class. Also found in the car were two Volkswagen bucket seats which police said are believed to have been stolen. Investigation of the seats is continuing, police said.

Jury Faces Decision On Killer's Life

SAN JOSE (AP) — The seven men and five women jurors who convicted Thomas E. Braun of first-degree murder were asked today to decide whether he pays with his life or life in prison.

"Your only decision is death, or permission to live out his life in prison," said Superior Court Judge Joseph P. Kelly of Santa Clara County.

College Editor Resumes Post

HAYWARD (UPI) — Karen Holzmeister has resumed her duties as editor of the Pioneer, the student publication at Hayward State College.

Miss Holzmeister resigned last month when she was confronted by a group of Negro students after writing an editorial that was critical of the black power demonstration by two Negro athletes at the Olympic Games.

After an exhaustive investigation, Ellis E. McCune, interim president at Hayward State, yesterday said the resignation was not being accepted.

Bringing Art Into Classrooms

With the help of volunteer mothers, art projects are brightening the classrooms in 33 Marin schools with original paintings and sculpture by the children and color reproductions by the masters.

The program is intended to supplement regular art curriculum in the schools and is directed to children in second through sixth grades.

At Ross School two teams of volunteer mothers are working with the fifth and sixth grade teachers to bring the Marin Museum Association Young People's Art Program into the classroom.

Mrs. William Cavalier Jr. is assisted by Mesdames Richard Nelson, Ralph McMurray and Ned Burman; and Mrs. Richard Saladin has as her assistants Mesdames John Weaver and Laurie Felton. Mrs. Cavalier has assembled a display of European and Asian art history for the Ross youngsters. It includes reproductions of paintings from the time of the caveman to the 20th Century and is mounted along the length of the corridor at the school.

In other parts of Ross School are an exhibit of North American art which begins with the 2,000 - year - old culture of the Marin Miwok Indians and a display of Mexican art from earliest times to the present.

Mrs. Ellis Stephens, art program chiarman at Ross School, explains that the displays can help the children to realize how the elements of art have been used at different times and different cultures and the differences of the peoples who produced the art. But she emphasized that the most important part of the program is the children's own experiments.

At Ross Mrs. Dorothy Hardy's fifth grade classroom has paintings, sculpture, collage, ceramics and mixed media on every available wall space, window sills and the floor.

Recently a field trip to Stinson Beach was made by the volunteer mothers and fifth graders from the school, who became fascinated with seaweed. Later, in the classroom the children drew their own impressions of seaweed with a soft stick and sumi ink.

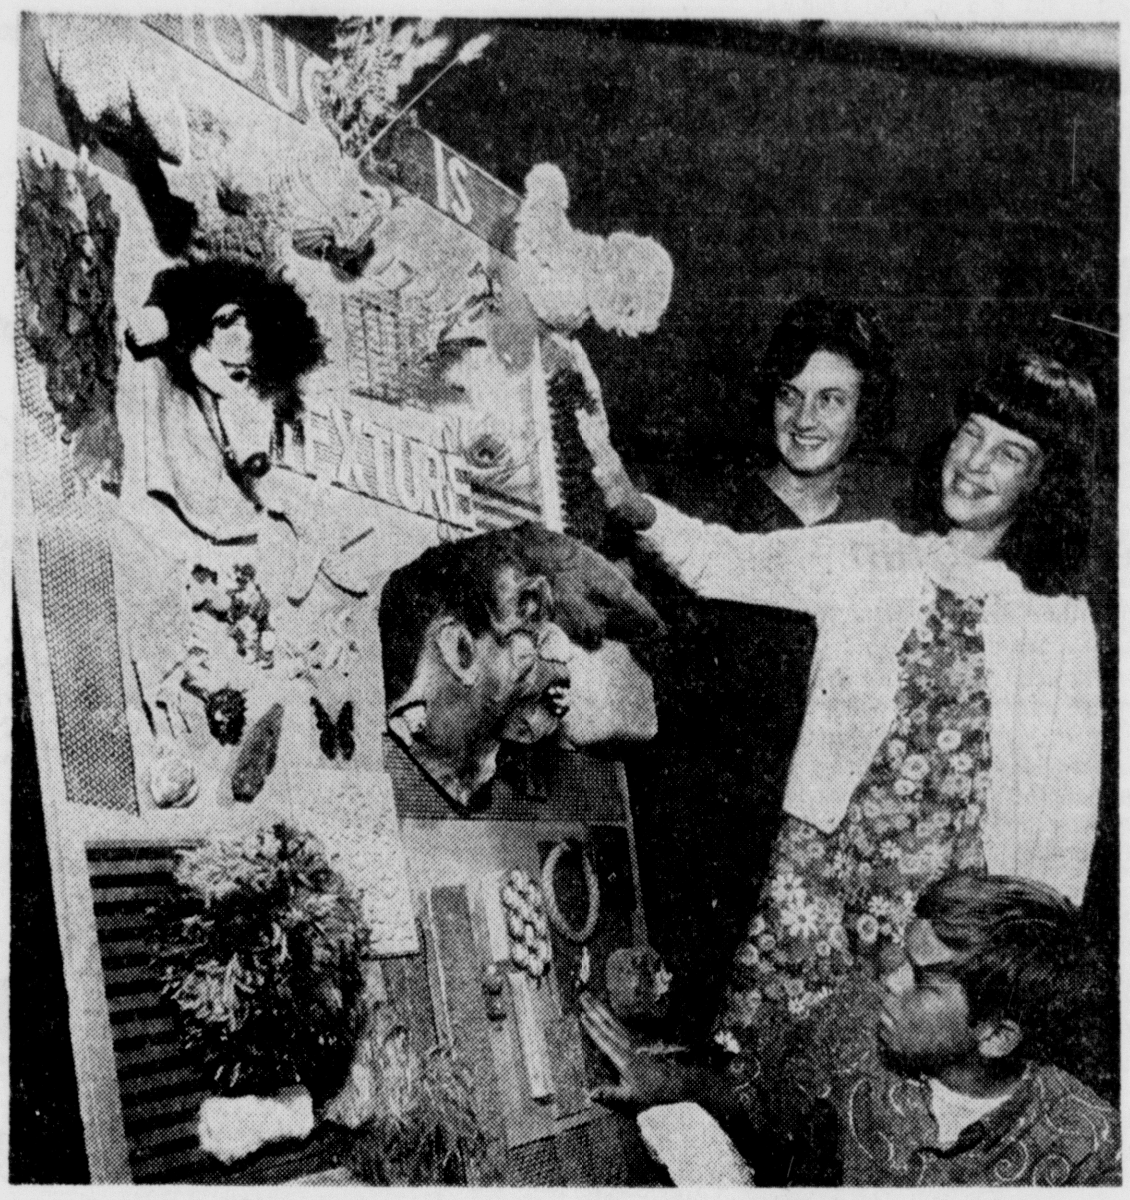
The children are enthusiastic about the volunteer program. When eight more mothers finish their training course as art volunteers the Ross program can be expanded in the spring.

Before they become volunteers the mothers are given a two month training course, with both basic and advanced training offered to them by the Marin Museum Association at the County Schools Office in Corte Madera. Mrs. Jay Crotty of San Rafael is the course director.

Many of the volunteers were art majors in college or were teachers, but a great variety of backgrounds is represented among them.

Guest lecturers for the adults who will then assist in Marin schools are art and education specialists from the Dixie, Kentfield and Reed districts and the College of Marin, as well as professional artists and education supervisors from the San Francisco art museums and San Francisco State College instructors in elementary education. The women are also given field trips and films in their training.

The program has been underway through the Marin Museum Association and public schools for some four years.



'TOUCH IS TEXTURE' reads the board, and who could resist running a hand over such smooth and rough objects? Learning the varieties and uses of textures are Ross pupils Jane Grazzola, center, and Mark Simonitch. Mrs. Richard Nelson, volunteer mother in the art program, discusses it with them. The texture board includes everything from scrub brush bristles, to bottle caps, to a starfish and a fold of velvet cloth.

(Independent-Journal photos)

Couple Adjusting To Life In Mill Valley After Rome

By MOLLY MARIN

Home after 14 months in Rome, Dr. and Mrs. Michael Hogan say that if they didn't live right where they do in Mill Valley, they would like to move to Rome.

An eye specialist, Dr. Hogan has been doing research on uveitis and teaching at the University of Rome. Mrs. Hogan said they finally learned to speak Italian and became so accustomed to the ways of life in Italy that they are now having to make adjustments to life in this country.

The Hogans bought a car and had the opportunity to do a lot of traveling. Some of the most interesting places they visited were Istanbul, Beirut and Cairo. They went to Sicily and Tunis at Christmas time, and in February they went skiing in Switzerland and had a chalet near the Jungfrau.

Their daughter Judy came over to spend a month with them, and they had many visitors from the Bay Area.

On the way home they took six weeks, going up the Adriatic to Vienna and stopping at Salzburg, Tubingen and Wurzburg and Ghent before going to London, their last stop.

They visited clinics, and Dr. Hogan lectured in most of these places. They will return to Rome next year for a month so that Dr. Hogan can do followup work on his research.

TWO BIRTHDAYS were celebrated Sunday with a cocktail party and buffet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stevens in Novato. Honored on their natal day were Mr. Stevens and Mrs. Edward Ghirardo. Among the guests who gathered for singing around the piano and dancing were Messrs. and Mesdames Ghirardo, Ed Adams, Leigh Metteer, Thomas H. Smith, Jack Hudson, Ike Doerksen, Robert Lusk, Rudy Larisch, J. Scott Wright and Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Almgren, all of Novato. Other guests were the Ralph Beattys and Roy Smith of Kentfield, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Boehm of Walnut Creek and the Larry Driscolls and Robert St. Johns of the Peninsula.

THE SIDNEY Diehls of San Rafael are home after a visit to Gold Beach, Ore., to see their newborn grandson, Terry Martin Hirt, born Nov. 2. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hurt (Margaret Diehl).

MR. AND MRS. Richard F. Bradley of Kentfield are on an around-the-world cruise aboard the liner President Roosevelt.

A RETIRED school teacher that couldn't take her retirement seriously continues to substitute teach while planning to celebrate her 80th birthday tomorrow. Mrs. Orbie S. Griffith of San Anselmo was a third grade teacher in the Fairfax School District until her official retirement in 1957. Since that time she has assisted with kindergarten classes through fourth grade at various schools.

Very active in the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo, Mrs. Griffith will be honored at an invitational reception at the church Sunday afternoon. Hosting the occasion will be her three sons and a foster son and their families. They are Mr. and Mrs. Newell Griffith of Terra Linda, Mr. and Mrs. George Griffith of Novato, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Griffith of Larkspur and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Stiener of San Mateo.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Girl Would Divorce Her Family And Seeks Advice On First Step

DEAR HELEN:

Just like married people get divorces, I'd like to divorce my family.

My mother hates me, and my father couldn't care less. My family is a whole army against me. You can hear my mother screaming at me clear down the street. Both parents figure by yelling louder or hitting harder and grounding me, they will make things better.

My mother sees sex in everything, and trusts nobody. My friends aren't fiends, but she thinks all teen-agers ever do is have orgies. If she had her way, she'd send me to the doctor every month for an examination to see if I'm still "pure."

A boy I know moved away and sent me a letter. You know how all kids sign "Luv" on their notes. Well, he printed it in those fat, psychedelic letters, and my mother said it was "a picture of the sex act" and he was "depraved." He just wrote friendly things. We never dated, 'cause they don't allow me to. I'm over 16, do well in school and earn my own money, which they mostly take away from me, for board and room.

I'd run away, but my brother did, and he ended up in Juvy.

I have a girl friend whose mother and father are wonderful. They see how things are and want me to come live with them. I don't dare mention it at home. But I'm getting so nervous I burst into tears if anybody looks at me.

What can I do?—JANIE

DEAR JANIE:

If things are as bad as they appear from your 10-page letter, a foster home is just about the only solution. Since a good one is waiting, it may take only a discussion with juvenile authorities and your parents to place you there. Surely your friend's parents will go to bat for you. Ask them! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

My Dad and I have a little argument. When my boy friend comes over, he usually holds my hand, or sometimes lightly puts an arm around me. No mushy stuff though. We aren't the type.

I see nothing wrong with this, but Dad practically throws a fit. He says it's very disrespectful, especially when I've got younger sisters around.

I can see where he might object to an arm over my shoulder (though not really), but holding my hand? I just wish my mother and father would show their affection like this in front of us. It would make us all feel closer. — ABERDEEN TEEN

DEAR TEEN:

I think your attitude is healthier than your father's.

Take a lesson from your teen, Pop! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You had so many blasts at Jade, K.K. and Deadette, that you may not want another, but I had to tell you these spoiled brats need a good whacking. When they call anyone over 30 "old bats" they aren't speaking for any teens but themselves. But they're creating an impression that all teens must live down. If I did the crude things Deadette brags about at her "skating rink love-ins" I sure wouldn't brag!

I belong to a gang too. We are the Mighty Blackjacks, but a nicer name is "soul sisters." Our block dances and parties don't get us reputations. We try to do good, not bad, and maybe it's just a little harder for US.

See, I'm black. But besides being proud of it, I feel I am blessed for it because I have learned to appreciate what I've got and take things as they come. My parents don't bow to my every command, and neither does the world — and I like it that way!

I think those three should not only chew on a bar of soap as you said, Helen, but douse it with double strength mouthwash! — BORN BLACK

Food Prices Are Up Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail food prices advanced one per cent from July through September and were three per cent higher than in the same period last year, reports the Agriculture Department.

Prices of all farm-originated food, except fresh vegetables and fats and oils, were higher than a year ago.

Farmers received an average of 39 cents of each dollar consumers spent for a "market basket" list of food during the period, the same as for previous quarter and third quarter 1967, the department said.

The rising prices this year resulted from increased consumer demand, decreased supplies of some foods — mainly fruits and vegetables — and higher charges for marketing, the department said.

Though the farm value of market basket foods is currently decreasing, higher marketing costs are expected to keep retail prices through the first half of 1969 at about this year's third quarter levels, the department said.

Set Hair With Home Hairdryer

A new hairdryer will set dry hair as if it were wet, and do the job in only 20 minutes. The manufacturer, Rayette, says the dryer uses a controlled mist action — "moist heat" — which cannot dry nor water-log the hair. One deluxe model of the dryer comes with four temperature settings and a facial sauna attachment.

Paper It

In the kitchen, they've used towels as substitute coffee filters, for rolling up cake rolls and bouquet garni bags. They've also substituted towels for pressing cloths in ironing clothes, for diaper liners and baby bed pads and lining the inside of men's hat bands.

Art Films Held Lousy For Popcorn

That was the opinion voiced yesterday by Julian Lefkowitz of Detroit, president of the National Association of Concessionaires.

Lefkowitz told a newspaper reporter that "What's really good for us is a male customer between 17 and 19 years old who is in school and has a part time job.

"When he goes to a drive-in with his date he'll spend $1.50 to $2 on food and drink."

"The guy we don't want to see walk or drive into a movie is a white-collar man over 40," he continued. "He's watching his diet. His concept of going to a movie is to be entertained, not to sit munching a candy bar. . ."

The association is meeting here in conjunction with the meeting of the National Association of Theater Owners.

Shah's Coronation Film To Be Shown

Tiburon Outlines Planner's Duties

The Tiburon City Council last night established the general duties, qualifications, salary and method of selection for the recently created post of city planning director.

Councilmen agreed to pay their new planning director, upon whom they indicated they might bestow the loftier title of director of community development, a starting annual salary of $11,000 with five per cent step increases over a period of five years. At the end of the fifth year, the council agreed, the planner should be earning approximately $13,500.

Jackie Parnell, former city councilman, told the council: "This is a very very good salary. For this price you should be able to get the very best man to apply for the job."

The council specified a master's degree in planning with a proviso the requirement could be waived for other "outstanding qualifications," a minimum of five years experience and an extensive knowledge of all areas of planning, including data processing.

The council also agreed to have the full council and planning commission and a representative from the parks and recreation commission screen final candidates. The final selection will be made by the council and city manager in joint consultation.

Earlier in the evening, the council ratified appointments to the planning and parks and recreation commissions made by Mayor William R. Bremer.

Bremer reappointed Peter MacGowan and Victor C. Banks to the planning commission for second four-year terms and named Allan Thompson, a parks and recreation commissioner, to fill the post vacated by Elmo L. DeMartini.

F. G. Knight was named to the parks and recreation commission to fill out Ullan Thompson's unexpired term which runs through July, 1971.

Councilman Anne L. Ellinwood, in a written statement to the council objected to the reappointment of Banks.

Banks, she said, had made a "serious mistake in judgment" when he organized support in his neighborhood against a proposed rezoning of his and other property in the area.

Not only did Banks propose joint neighborhood action to defeat the zoning proposal, Miss Ellinwood said, but he also proposed the services of an attorney, contacted the attorney and, in a letter sent to the affected property owners, attached an authorization blank for the attorney to act in behalf of the property owners.

Banks later called neighbors and also held a meeting in his own home to organize opposition to the rezoning, Miss Ellinwood said.

"I do not in any way dispute the right or privilege of this citizen to exercise his prerogatives as a citizen to achieve his goal," Miss Ellinwood said, but she argued, in the statement, that his activity in the matter was to such a degree as to disqualify him for public office.

She noted that Banks did not vote on the matter when it came before the commission, but said, "in my view, no public official can just 'take off his hat' when matters of personal (and economic) concern are involved."

Other councilmen made no comment, apparently because the matter had been previously discussed in closed sessions held on appointments. Vote on the appointments was 3-1 with Miss Ellinwood dissenting.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

ANNEXATION — Approved the annexation of five parcels of property on Mar East Avenue, adjacent to the city limits. The annexation was initiated at the request of the property owners who wanted to consolidate their land under one governmental jurisdiction, Rose said.

NUISANCE — Declared a drainage problem in Blackie's pasture at Tiburon Boulevard and Reed Ranch Road a public nuisance and gave owners Thomas and Gerald Connell 30 days in which to abate it.

APPEAL — Dismissed an appeal request by Weinberg and Demeraux for a permit to establish a parking lot adjacent to Paradise Drive between Tiburon Boulevard and Mar West Street.

DRAINAGE — Postponed discussion of the Trestle Glen basin drainage problem to Nov. 25, pending a report from the public services committee.

MEETING — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Nov. 25 in city hall.

Transport Agency Aide Resigning

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Gordon C. Luce, secretary of the state Business and Transportation Agency, today announced that James C. Schmidt assistant secretary, will leave his post to return to private business in December.

Schmidt accompanied Luce to Sacramento in 1967. He will return to his position as vice president of the Home Federal Savings and Loan Association in San Diego and also will act as assistant to that firm's president.

Luce lauded the 41-year-old attorney, and drew attention to the role Schmidt played in "streamlining the operation of each of the state's units now included in the Business and Transportation Agency."

MARIN FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

2:48 p.m., Larkspur — Backfire from engine carburetor caused minor damage to car wiring and insulation at Larkspur Automotive Co., 444 Magnolia Avenue.

Has 'Law-Order' Been Robbed Of Meaning?

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The phrase "law and order" has been largely robbed of its meaning by becoming a political slogan, two speakers at the Mill Valley Forum agreed last night.

A third speaker on the four-man panel agreed in part with this view. The fourth held that "law and order" means just what it says, that strict enforcement of the laws will maintain order, and that such enforcement must be left to local police.

"I really see it ('law and order') pretty much as a trick phrase — another move by the Establishment to keep black people in their place," said Michael Brown, a black San Francisco State College student who has been working in a police-community relations project in Vallejo. Brown appeared as a substitute for Elmer Cooper, associate dean of students at San Francisco State, who canceled his appearance because of a disorderly confrontation with the law that closed the college yesterday afternoon.

" 'Law and order' is a political slogan," flatly declared attorney Richard Wertheimer, legal committee chairman of the American Civil Liberties Union in California.

Joseph E. Sheeks, Mill Valley attorney, chose to analyze the phrase for what it really means rather than its political context.

"Law is a body of rules and sanctions designed to prescribe human conduct," he pointed out, and "gives society a certainty which gives a measure of orderliness." But to preserve order, he held, law must provide justice — which it does not always do.

What Wertheimer called "the easy answer" was advanced by W. Garry Woodward of Larkspur, electric company slaesman who is John Birch Society section leader in Marin. He held that discrediting of "law and order" is a Communist plot, and "advocates of civil disobedience set themselves up as their own supreme court."

Questions from the standing-room-only audience in the Mill Valley City Council chamber ranged widely. Despite a warning by moderator Robert H. Andresen, an attorney and city councilman, that "we want questions, not speeches," several in the audience indulged in considerable oratory and rambling talk.

When Woodward, responding to a question, said, "We need better people, not more laws," Brown instantly agreed, "That's it!"

To another question, Brown said he believes Negro riots are about ended. "The only people killed in riots have been black people," he said. "We are no longer going to put ourselves in a position where we will be shot." Also, he said, "things are happening in the black community which are emphasizing other things than just taking to the streets."

When a young girl asked Woodward whether people should have the right to evade the draft, he replied: "If on a legitimate basis of conscientious objection, yes. I'm against the draft. It should be done away with."

Wertheimer, responding to a question, said: "Law and order must be coupled with equal justice for all, then it has meaning."

And from the other end of the table, Woodward chimed in "I wouldn't want anybody to accuse me of being a liberal, but I'll agree with that."

State Officials Weighing North Bay Milk Price Cut

The state Department of Agriculture will decide in 45 days whether or not it should lower the price of retail milk by a penny per half gallon in Marin, Sonoma, Napa and Solano counties.

The request for a lower price came yesterday from the Northern California Dairy Association before a hearing board of the Bureau of Milk Stabilization which met at the Marin County Civic Center.

L. C. Schafer, chief of the bureau, said the testimony taken yesterday will be reviewed, and a new price order announced before Dec. 31. The decision will be made by Richard Lyng, director of the Department of Agriculture.

The present price of milk in Marin is $1.05 per gallon, 52.5 cents for a half gallon, and 27 cents per quart.

The Northern California Dairy Association, represented by J. D. Kaczor, asked for reduction in the minimum prices set by the department of agriculture so that the dairy association can compete with integrated operators such as Safeway stores.

Educator Cites Youth Discontent

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Pennsylvania educator said today discontent among the nation's youth is growing and is already more serious than ever.

Dr. David Gottlieb, professor of human development at Pennsylvania State University, warned delegates to the 20th Annual California Conference on Educational Research against indifference.

"It is clear that growing numbers of young people do not and will not accept even our most sincere explanations for who we are and what we do," Gottlieb said.

He urged that adults "respond to the needs of youth not out of fear of riots and rebellion, but because any other answer is morally unacceptable, economically incomprehensible and socially untinkable."

Peninsula Joint Rec Session Set

The Belvedere and Tiburon parks and recreation commissions will hold a joint meeting at 8 p.m. today in Tiburon City Hall to discuss future summer recreation programs with teen-agers from both communities.

Following the joint meeting, the Belvedere commission will adjourn to the Belvedere Community Hall to consider other agenda items.

The Tiburon commission has nothing else scheduled.

Marin City Planning Pace Quickens Again

the remaining undeveloped areas of the community.

According to Sausalito attorney and corporation director Hugh G. Lawrence, the corporation will supplement, rather than overlap, PACT'S program.

Since PACT is primarily involved in planning rather than development, it would have to hire outside developers to undertake its projects, Lawrence noted. The Development Corporation is the logical group to implement the planning, Lawrence said, since it is a local organization controlled by local residents.

It is headed by an eight-man board of directors, six of whom are Marin City residents. The seventh director, Jerry Brown, owns a business in Marin City but lives in San Francisco. Lawrence is the only director who neither lives nor works in Marin City. Other directors are Ronald Foster, Alvin C. Bynum, Mrs. Willie H. Smith, Benjamin Myles, Alvis Allen, Daniel Hayden and Margaret Beauchampt.

The group was incorporated in September under articles of incorporation purposely tailored to fit the needs of the community and requirements of the federal Small Business Administration so that it can qualify for federal small business loans.

Its primary objective, as stated in the articles, is to "benefit the community as measured by increased employment, payroll, business volume . . . rather than monetary profits to the shareholders. Any monetary profits or other benefits which flow to shareholders shall be merely incidental to such community benefits."

The corporation is now in the process of hiring Ulysses J. Montgomery, a San Francisco planning consultant, to undertake the economic planning of its projects and to shepherd applications for federal and private loans through the various funding agencies.

Its immediate goal is to develop the eight-acre parcel adjacent to Highway 101 designated as the community's commercial area by the redevelopment agency.

Initially, the corporation is planning to construct a 10,000-square-foot building on one acre of the commercial acreage to house existing Marin City stores and some new businesses.

According to Hayden, corporation secretary, the new building will house the Marin City market, the cleaners, barber shop, beauty shop and music store all of which are presently housed in delapidated World War II buildings. The buildings will also contain legal offices and a Greyhound bus depot.

Future plans for the remaining seven acres envisage a shoe store, a restaurant and bar and other resident-serving shops and offices.

Construction will be financed through private and federal Small Business Administration loans and/or the sale of corporation stock, according to Lawrence.

Stock will be sold to Marin City residents at a minimum of $10 per share. Directors hope to finance a major part of the construction costs through the stock sales.

Lawrence noted that the articles of incorporation were written specifically to ensure broad community participation. They require that 80 per cent of the stock must be held by local residents, there must be a minimum of 25 stockholders and no one stockholder can own more than 20 per cent of the shares.

The number of shares to be issued will depend on the size and cost of the development, he said.

One the commercial buildings are completed, the corporation board hopes, through another Small Business Administration program, to finance local residents in establishing new businesses in the community.

This is a project which is also being studied by the Marin County Human Rights Commission. (The commission is scheduled to discuss the project at its meeting at 8 p.m. today at the Civic Center.)

According to Austin J. Thompson, Human Rights Department executive director, the program envisions Marin County businessmen acting as consultants to persons interested in establishing their own businesses.

Local planning and development in Marin City unofficially have been encouraged by the board of supervisors. However, the redevelopment agency is less unified in its support.

Agency chairman Phillip S. Erlich Jr. has publically supported the move toward local control but other directors, especially Vera Schultz, are less certain.

Mrs. Schultz, at the agency's Nov. 6 meeting, argued that the planning implementation of the existing Marin City master plan is the function and duty of the redevelopment agency. The agency, she said, is "permitting its function to be taken over by voluntary groups." She also argued that since the Marin City Council is not a public body, it cannot legally be entrusted with planning authority."

Also concerned is the California Development Corp., a private company which has options to develop Marin City. The corporation was hired in 1961 by the redevelopment agency to plan and redevelop the community which was originally established as temporary housing for Sausalito's Marinship workers during World War II. The corporation won a national architectural prize at the time for its master plan for the community.

In 1964, completion of the Marin City community bogged down with the national tight money crisis, which also drastically curtailed construction in Marin County until this year.

The California Development Corp. stand, thus far, has been that it is willing to give up its options on the one acre of commercial land sought by the Development Corporation of Marin City but that it wishes to retain development rights to the remaining undeveloped acreage throughout the community.

The local Development Corporation of Marin City, on the other hand, according to Hayden, hopes eventually to obtain options, now held by the California Development Corp. for the commercial acreage and, perhaps, if local planning dictates, to the remaining undeveloped residential uses.

Court-Martial Of Airman Will Begin On Tuesday

The general court-martial for Airman John E. King, a security policeman charged in the death of a fellow security policeman at Hamilton Air Force Base, will start at 9 a.m. Tuesday in the judge advocate's office at the base.

Airman King, 20, of West Plains, Mo., is charged with involuntary manslaughter and failure to obey a lawful order in the Sept. 10 shooting of fellow policeman A/1C Wesley A. Dorman, 20, of Phoenix, Ariz.

At the pre-trial hearing, a witness, Airman Christopher J. Autieri, 21 of Evansville, Ind., another security officer, testified that King was playing with his revolver when it went off accidentally, hitting Dorman in the forearm and head.

If found guilty, King could be given a maximum sentence of a dishonorable discharge, three-and-a-half years at hard labor, forfeiture of all pay, allowances and rank or any combination of these, according to base officials.

GI Widows, Wives Eligible For Studies

Education and training benefits will be extended for the first time to widows of servicemen who died as a result of military service and wives of veterans who are totally and permanently disabled as a result of such service.

These benefits are provided in a law that goes into effect on Dec. 1, according to James V. Burdick, Marin County veterans service officer.

These wives and widows will be eligible for the same Veterans Administration educational assistance now offered to sons and daughters of veterans who died or are permanently and totally disabled.

Payments will range from $130 a month for full time training (up to a maximum of 36 months) to $95 for three-quarters time training and $60 for half-time training.

The new law also gives veterans separated from service after Jan. 31, 1955, more education and training time under the current post-Korean G.I. Bill. For each month of service, the veteran gets one and one-half months, instead of one month, of training. However, the maximum entitlement of 36 months remains unchanged.

Under the new law, veterans with 18 months or more of service after Jan. 31, 1955 are entitled to 36 month of VA educational assistance.

Prince Charles Leaves His Teens

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — Prince Charles, the heir to the British throne, ceased being a teen-ager today and took the day off from university lectures to celebrate.

The 20-year-old prince went off in his sports car, accompanied by a detective, to join friends at a hunting party somewhere in Suffolk. It was believed the prince was at Elveden Hall, the estate of the chairman of Guinness, Lord Iveagh.

In this university city flags waved atop the colleges and church bells pealed in the only official celebration of his birthday. Tomorrow it's back to the lecture halls for the student prince.

Mechanical Heart?

Christmas Card Costs Six Cents

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Christmas Cards this year will require the same six-cent stamp as first class mail whether they are sealed or not.

Under a little-noticed provision of the new postal rates, costs for the first ounce were made identical to first class rates — six cents.

A year ago and for many Christmases before that, unsealed greeting cards containing no personal message beyond the sender's signature could be mailed for a penny less than first class.

DESIRES VS. RULES

Adults Hear Teen Recreation Goals

By WAT TAKESHITA

Marin County teen-agers want a "drop-in place" with minimum or no supervision where they can buy refreshments, smoke, and meet other teen-agers without rigid schedules.

That was the gist of their request at a meeting at the Civic Center yesterday, where Marin County Parks and Recreation Commissioners invited them to speak up.

Several teen-agers mentioned the Fillmore and Avalon Ballrooms in San Francisco as the type of place they have in mind. They said the coffee house program in Terra Linda is a step in that direction, but otherwise, they have no place to go in the county.

Leaders of organized recreation in the county promptly pointed out that the desire of youth for a free rein conflicts with rules and regulations such as the 11 p.m. curfew, no smoking on campus, and the laws against marijuana.

After two hours of frank talk, the group of more than 50 who attended the meeting agreed that a problem exists and set 8 p.m. Nov. 26 as the next countywide meeting on teen-age recreation.

Gary Peter Davis, student at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, was the scheduled feature speaker. But outside of his opening remarks, he scarcely had a chance to speak as others from the audience demanded attention.

It was Davis's report to the San Rafael Board of Education and Terra Linda Community Services District board on "teen-age anarchy" and drug use in Terra Linda which caught the attention of the county parks and recreation commissioners and prompted yesterday's meeting.

Davis charged that the press had distorted his report, exaggerating drugs and his statement about "anarchy." He explained he did not mean destructive anarchy but teenage drop-outs who reject society.

"Drugs are merely the symptom," declared Davis. He said the report that 90 per cent of youth use drugs is untrue. "I don't know what the figure is."

He said the existing recreational system is not responsive to the needs of youth. "We need things like the coffee houses." But even coffee houses will fail unless the community gives them financial backing, warned Davis.

Commissioner Lothar Salin invited youth to speak up.

Rick Mulhaupt, president of the student body at Terra Linda High School, laid it on the line:

"Teen-agers want a place open from 8 a.m. to 1 a.m., all day and most of the night. A drop-in center where they can go and not feel supervised . . . Where they can buy food and drinks but are not compelled to buy."

Daytime recreation is more than ample for anyone who wants such recreation, said Mulhaupt. "We're practically drowned in the daytime with activities." But it is an unsupervised place which teen-agers need. "They go because lots of other people are there, and that's good enough."

He said the Fillmore and Avalon Ballroom in San Francisco provide a meeting place with a minimum of supervision. "If they can just go do their own thing and not have to participate in art work, and a place where they won't be run out at a designated time."

But recreation officials pointed out that each community has rules and regulations to follow.

"There's the 11 p.m. curfew which we have to abide by," said Gary Howell, recreation supervisor in Novato. "They ask 'why can't we smoke marijuana?' Because there's a law against it. So they don't show up."

"All we run into are rules and regulations," complained one youth.

"Would you prefer setting your own rules?" asked Howell.

"Yes."

"That answers it," said Howell.

Commissioner Raymond Bresnan , 15-year-old student from Novato, declared that basic rules like the 11 p.m. curfew present no problems at the coffee houses in Terra Linda. "The kids know when it's curfew. They just go. No problems."

Both Edward Adams, recreation director in Novato, and Andrew Snyder, director in San Rafael, claimed fund limitations make it impossible to meet the needs of all age groups, but Snyder added that San Rafael has a variety of programs, and the real problem is lack of communication with teen-agers.

"Frankly I resent being cast as the community authoritarian." He referred to complaints by youths that they are chased out of Northgate and counter complained that damage during the summer months of 1967 ran to about $1,000 per month.

Less said merchants do not mind teen-agers who congregate at the shopping center after school. "Those not welcome are those who are there from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., carving initials in the benches and destroying electrical equipment."

Robert Bundy, director of recreation for Larkspur and Corte Madera, complained he gets no response from youth when he attempts to find out what they want. He suggested a drop-in center open daily, not just one night a week.

John A. Colistra, chairman of the Terra Linda Recreation and Park District, said Terra Linda Valley is no different from other communities. He said the recreation district tried to get funds from the county and from Northgate without success. With minimum funds, the district hired Davis for summer recreation. "But what we did brought the problem to light and culminated in this meeting."

William A. Gordon, Marinwood recreation director, said his experience has been that teen-agers observe basic rules like the curfew and good behavior and proper dress, if rules are kept to a minimum and firmly enforced.

Acting Chairman Salin asked that each organization or individual come up with specific ideas on teen-age recreation at the special meeting of Nov. 26.

Exam Date Set

A graduate school entrance examination has been scheduled for Dec. 14 at Sonoma State College, according to Edie Moon, college test officer. Registration materials and information can be received at the test office, Stevenson Hall.

San Anselmo Neighbors Objecting To Proposed Nursery School

A proposal by a San Anselmo public school official to open a private nursery school on Yolanda Drive has upset residents of the Hub City's Yolanda subdivision.

Patrick O'Donnell, director of instruction for San Anselmo School District, has filed with the city planning commission an application for a use permit for a school for 60 children, aged 3 years and up, in a two-story residence at 39 Yolanda Drive.

Mrs. R. D. Smith of 30 Yolanda Drive said today a petition in protest is being circulated in the neighborhood and "we will be there to present it" at the planning commission meeting next Monday at 8 p.m.

The application calls the school an "early childhood education school."

The residence is on the market, and O'Donnell proposes to buy it and convert it to school use.

Charles R. Leitzell, city planning director, said a private school is permitted in a single-family residential zone in San Anselmo by use permit. The planning commmission has discretion on whether or not to issue such a permit.

Leitzell said, however, that fire regulations will not permit 60 children in the house. The maximum would be 20, he reported.

The planning director said O'Donnell's intention was to have the classrooms in the lower story of the house, and living quarters upstairs for the teachers — of whom there would be six for the proposed enrollemnt of 60 children.

O'Donnell could not be reached today at the San Anselmo School District office. Rulon H. Cook, administrative assistant for the district, said he had heard nothing of the director of instruction's plan for a private school.

Pair Is Booked In Petty Theft Probe

Two San Rafael women were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of petty theft after they were picked up at Northgate Shopping Center with $90 worth of merchandise from the Emporium and H. Liebes, San Rafael, police reported.

Shirley Ray McMurphy, 23, and Judy Laverne Tamburini, 23, both of 87 Elizabeth Way, made bail of $315 each and were to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Helen E. Newman Rejoins County Rec Commission

Helen E. Newman of Tiburon was welcomed back to the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission yesterday after an absence of five years.

She was appointed to fill the post held by Aline M. McClain, who resigned last month for personal reasons.

Mrs. Neman formerly served on the county recreation commission for seven years, two years as chairman, before she resigned in 1963.

The Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission also:

CHAIRMAN — Elected Lothar Salin as temporary chairman in the absence of Melton Ferris, who was in Riverside because of the death of his father.

COMMENDATION — Voted a resolution of commendation for Mrs. McClain, who served on the commission since 1963.

TIBURON TRAILS — Accepted in principle a plan for riding and hiking trails on Tiburon Peninsula, devised by Walter S. Horchler, county planner. The plan proposes a trail extending along the ridges from Bluff Point to Alto Hill.

Youths Booked For Car Theft

Three Vallejo youths were booked into Marin County Jail today on suspicion of car theft, not having identification, possession of stolen property and possession of an automobile with altered or missing identification.

San Rafael police arrested James Earl, 19, Jimmie Lee Mackbee, 20, and Joseph Lester Cannon, 19, at Northgate Shopping Center at 1:27 a.m. today after they could not produce identification.

Bail was set at $2,500 in each case and not made. The three were to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

$212 Theft Reported

Christine Halverson of Sacramento reported yesterday that $212 had been taken from her car while it was parked at 26 Inverness Drive, San Rafael, Sunday, police said.

Coffee House For Teens Is Approved

Weekend coffee houses for teen-agers at the Terra Linda Recreation Center will open Nov. 22, Terra Linda Parks and Recreation directors announced last night.

The coffee house will be open on Friday and Saturday nights thereafter in the teen room at the center, the hours to be announced later.

Eleanor Langendorf, general manager-secretary, said a small conflict has developed in the use of the teen room because the coffee house group has moved in furniture and rugs, which means that the furniture will have to be moved aside when the room is used for other activity the rest of the week. Director Elroy S. Munson will investigate the possibility of storing some of the furniture in another location at the center.

Terra Linda Parks and Recreation Directors also:

MINI-BIKE CLUB — Munson reported that the Terra Linda fire chief has offered to help set up a minibike club and an auto mechanics club for youth. Chairman John A. Colistra will contact the firemen to discuss details.

MRS. MARTZ — Failed to muster enough votes to accept the resignation of director Cecelia Martz, who announced her resignation on Oct. 26. Munson moved to accept the resignation, but there was no second. "It was left in limbo," said Mrs. Langendorf.

BINGO — Announced that a bingo game sponsored by the district will be held at the center tonight from 8 to 10 p.m.

Many San Rafael Burglaries Solved

Fifteen to 20 San Rafael house burglaries were solved yesterday with the cooperation of one member of a gang which has been operating throughout the Bay Area for the past year, San Rafael Police Inspector Thomas Cheetham reported today.

Cheetham said Ronald Lee Barrows, 27, of Hayward, who has pleaded guilty to similar charges in San Jose, came to Marin yesterday to pick out houses he and his gang had burgled within the past year.

He said Barrows has also cleared up more than 100 East Bay house burglaries.

Cheetham said most of the San Rafael burglaries were committed in the daytime and most of the houses were entered by popping open sliding glass doors.

He said it is doubtful that any of the stolen merchandise will be recovered because Barrows told him it had been shipped out to Texas and Utah.

He said three of the other men involved, Edward Roemki, Jim Durant and Eddie Revine, are scheduled to be sentenced in San Jose tomorrow.

He said information on the San Rafael cases will be turned over to the district attorney, but noted several other police departments are ahead of San Rafael.

Cheetham said some men involved in the thefts are still at large and may still be operating.

Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa, noting there were 365 burglaries in San Rafael in the first 10 months of the year, compared to 261 in the same period last year, recommended that residents with sliding glass doors install extra bolts to help prevent unwanted entry.

Gnoss Estates Slate Elected

John Schoonover was re-elected president of the Gnoss Estates Association at a postponed meeting of the association last night at the Olive School in Novato.

Mrs. Gerald N. Birkland was re-elected vice president and Mrs. Josephine Johnson, treasurer. Mrs. Thomas Stahlbaum was elected secretary, according to Schoonover.

The bylaws of the association were changed so that the board, which had consisted of the four officers and seven other members, became four officers and only one other member, Schoonover said. Edward C. Saunders was elected as that board member, according to Schoonover.

The officers will be installed Jan. 13, he said.

Low Bid Set For Dredging

Hydraulic Dredge of Oakland with a bid of $53,775, was the apparent low bidder for dredging the lagoon and waterways at Bel Marin Keys when bids were opened last night at a special meeting of the Bel Marin Keys Community Service District, according to publicity chairman Joan Wrightsman.

The only other bid received was from Shellmaker Inc. of San Francisco with a bid of $58,125, she said. The district had estimated $65,000 for the job.

The contract for the dredging will be let at the regular meeting of the CSD board at 8 p.m. today in the community center, she said.

Park Pavilion Paint Job Asked

The Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission last night asked the city council to allocate $2,700 to paint the inside and refinish the floors of the park pavilion.

Mrs. Kenneth Edgar, commission secretary, said the council had budgeted funds for the work.

Sets Yule Party

The Marin City Senior Citizens Club has scheduled a Chirstmas party for Dec. 11 at 10 a.m. in Manzanita Center and a bazaar Dec. 14 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. also at the center.

Morals Case Figure Flunks Defect Test

William Duncan Lindley, the first man to be ordered tested in Marin courts for a chromosome defect which allegedly makes a man a born criminal, has no such defect, his attorney said today.

Deputy Public Defender Richard Breiner said Lindley, a 22-year-old sex offender, was tested while in Atascadero State Hospital and found to have normal chromosome composition.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr. of Municipal Court, concerned by a hospital report that Lindley is a potential killer, ordered Nov. 5 that Lindley be given the chromosome test.

The judge apparently did not know of the previous test, Breiner said.

The test is based on researchers' findings that men with an extra Y chromosome are prone to criminal violence.

In a Municipal Court hearing today, Vernon Betourni, a social worker from Atascadero told Judge Goldstein that Lindley was returned to Marin courts in September because the staff decided "treatment was not successful and, in our view, he was still a danger."

Another staff report describes Lindley, who pleaded guilty to trying to sexually molest two hitchhiking boys in Marin, as a "potential murderer."

Lindley told staff workers at the hospital that he "had difficulty controlling his sexual impulses toward younger patients," Betourni said.

At another time, Lindley reported "fantasies about deriving sexual pleasure from injuring and torturing young boys," Betourni said.

Judge Goldstein must decide whether he should sentence Lindley on his misdemeanor convictions or suspend criminal proceedings and try to send the young man to state prison as a mentally disordered sex offender.

Medical Testimony Given In Death Of Gun Collector

A Marin Superior Court jury yesterday heard detailed medical testimony on the final days of Wesley L. Marshall's life in Marin General Hospital before he succumbed to infection following brain surgery.

The jury will decide the fate of Dennis C. Novotny and John Arceo, charged with Marshall's murder. The gun collector died after he was robbed, beaten and stomped at his San Rafael home Dec. 6.

Marshall, 68, was found four days after the beating. He underwent surgery Dec. 20 to remove a blood clot on the brain, developed an infection 11 days later and died Jan. 6, testimony showed.

Dr. David G. Costanza, internist who treated Marshall for the infection, related in detail the drugs and treatment Marshall received.

Robert A. Smallman, a defense attorney for Arceo, bored in on Costanza with questions and won an admission that some medication given Marshall reduced his resistance to infection.

But the medicine, a synthetic form of cortisone, was necessary because of Marshall's brain injury, Costanza said.

Dr. Calvin Plumhof, pathologist who performed the autopsy on Marshall's body, testified today that Marshall caught his fatal infection in the hospital.

If Marshall had not been beaten, Plumhof said, "there is no indication any of this would have happened."

"Including the staph infection?" asked Deputy Dist. Attorney Joshua W. Thomas.

"Yes," Plumhof replied. He said there was no probable reason Marhall would have been in the hospital otherwise.

Surgeon William M. Klemme testified that the infection probably triggered another blood clot on the brain which killed Marshall.

Judge Thomas F. Keating blocked a defense attempt to turn Klemme's statement to profit.

"The second hemorrhage was not a direct result of the injury?" asked Michael Lewton, Novotny's attorney.

"That's a difficult question to answer," Klemme said. "... I can't answer on those terms. The clot did not result from the blow ... but one could say there was a casual relationship between the injury and the blood clot."

Keating stepped in then. "He has told us the sequence of events," the judge said. "This broad question is one for the jury."

Costanza also testified that a man of Marshall's age and physical condition would have had only a 25 to 50 per cent of surviving such a severe infection even if he had not been injured in a beating and had not undergone brain surgery.

Costanza said the most likely sources of the infection were a catheter or nose tubes required in treating Marshall after the surgery.

Teen Director Discussion Set

The Sausalito Recreation Commission will have a special meeting at 10 a.m. Saturday in city hall to discuss appointing a part-time director for the Sausalito Teen Club.

Chairman Eleanor Cruikshank said the special session was called so a recommendation could be made to the Sausalito City Council before it meets Tuesday.

She said the teen club had met Monday, inviting representatives of the commission and the council to attend and explained its financial problems and again requested a part-time director.

The young people had started a program this summer in the basement of the Old Star of the Sea Church with about 100 teenagers participating, but felt they could not continue without a director.

Army Cutting Back Infantry Training

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is making an initial move to cut back on its training establishment by eliminating advanced individual training for infantrymen at Fort Dix, N.J.

The Army said the phaseout, announced yesterday at Fort Dix, "is prompted by the decline in the number of new recruits entering the Army since the peak months of the Vietnam buildup."

Viet Impasse Called For By Cranston

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Democratic Senator-elect Alan Cranston suggested today that the United States try to create a stalemate in Vietnam, forcing the North Vietnamese to negotiate an end to the war.

Cranston told a news conference that if the fighting has not ended by the time he is seated as a senator, he will support efforts to de-Americanize the war and turn the fighting over to the South Vietnamese themselves.

This should be done, he said, after serving notice to the South Vietnamese that the United States will offer only material aid — in arms and training — but will not fight in Southeast Asia.

By matching the aid (about $3 billion a year) which the Soviet Union and Communist China give to the North Vietnamese, Cranston said, the United States could force a stalemate.

"I believe this would be to the advantage of both sides," Cranston said. "I think it would strengthen South Vietnam because you are stronger when you are compelled to stand on your own feet."

The United States, he said, has been spending about $30 billion a year in Vietnam, and has lost 30,000 men while the Communists have lost no troops.

Cranston praised the ooperative relationship between President Johnson and Republican President-elect Richard Nixon on seeking peace in Vietnam.

Asked if he believes Nixon is moving closer to the Johnson administration's policies in Vietnam, Cranston said he believes Nixon may "have some new approaches" to the war after his inauguration.

Auto Is Stolen

Walter C. Miles of Marin Dodge, 1075 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, reported yesterday that a 1967 brown Plymouth, license UYR 890, had been stolen from the car lot Saturday, police said.

Airport Taxi Hearing Set

A state Public Utilities Commission hearing will open Wednesday into an application to provide airport limousine service in the Bay Area, including Marin.

The hearing, into the application by National Executive Service Inc. of Burlingame, will begin at 10 a.m. in the commission courtroom of the State Building. Examiner Thomas E. Daly will preside.

The Marin locations from which the limousine would operate have not been spelled out, according to Eugene Raleigh, PUC information officer. The company also seeks to operate between airports and points in Santa Clara, San Mateo, San Francisco, Contra Costa and Alameda counties.

Drill Tower Plans Take Up Session

Cooper and Clark of 816 Grant Avenue, Novato, will make the soils tests and Sonoma Testing Inc. of Santa Rosa will make the concrete tests on the two buildings. They were selected by architects Gromme and Priestley, Fire Chief George Cavallero reported.

The board approved a change order costing $996 for underground irrigation for the landscaping required by the county planning department, according to the chief. William L. Kapranos, landscape architect of 503 D Street, San Rafael, was paid $250 for the landscaping plans, Cavallero said.

The board approved the payment of $14,702 as the first payment to Hayco Inc. of 61 Industrial Way, San Rafael, for their $85,442 contract on the drill tower and training facility.

The Novato Dire District board also:

MEETINGS — Moved the Nov. 27 meeting up to 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday because Nov. 27 is Thanksgiving Eve. It set a special meeting Dec. 4 to discuss hospitalization plans. The regular meeting will be held on Dec. 11. The meeting scheduled for Dec. 25 was moved to Dec. 18.

BEDS — Ordered two beds at $82.50 each from Johnson's Red Barn on Highway 101 at Vallejo Avenue.

Mt. Rainier, the highest volcano in the contiguous United States, is still steaming.

$2795

Here's the cleanest, like new 1967 car in the county. Local couple who have always been a Buick owner tried a Chev in '67 and traded on another new Buick.

There isn't a thing wrong with this clean car. It's so new you can't tell it from a new one on our floor. Fully equipped including 327 V-8 engine, GM air conditioning, power steering, custom interior and vinyl landau top.

Unusually low mileage — just broken in.

'ARE REALLY SHY'

Ex-Marinite Dispels The Gorilla 'Myth'

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Humans have almost a completely wrong idea of the nature of gorillas, says an attractive former Marin woman who has been observing a bunch of the great apes in the African wilds.

Dian Fossey, 36-year-old brunette who is the daughter of Kathryn Fossey of Kentfield and the late George E. Fossey, has just returned from 22 months in Africa not only braving the wilds but safely escaping native troubles.

DIAN FOSSEY
Gorillas are 'shy'

"The popular notion that gorillas are ferocious beasts is just a big myth — an ancient myth that has been helped along in modern times by 'King Kong' movies and comic books," says Miss Fossey.

"They're really pretty shy, tend to be friendly and are not aggressive," says the anthropologist.

She says she likes nothing better than to sit down with a group of 475-pound gorillas and chew giant celery leaves with her strictly vegetarian pals.

She rose to the defense of gorillas at a news conference called by the National Geographic Society from which she has a grant "to provide science with the knowledge needed to help save Africa's mountain gorillas from extinction."

After reporting to the society on her progress, she plans to head back to Rwanda in central Africa where she lives in a little one-room hut, 10,000 feet up on a mountainside.

Her headquarters is some 50 miles from the nearest town and she comes down only every month or so to get fresh food. To reach the gorillas, she says she usually has to push her way through thick forests.

"In the 22 months I've been engaged in this study — first in the Congo, later in Rwanda — I've had 830 hours of direct observation of gorillas," she says, "but each hour costs at least four hours of walking."

And the species is endangered, says Miss Fossey, by cattle grazing on their traditional territory — forcing the apes ever higher into the mountains where food is scarcer.

Also, she says, the apes have long been naturally terrified of humans — including native cattle-herders and game-poachers in the area—to such an extent that when the California girl first showed up on the mountain, "they would scream and run."

But, she said, she gradually gained acceptance with many of about 50 apes on her side of the mountain — by sitting in the undergrowth with them, chewing celery leaves, and even beating on her chest and grooming herself with ape-like motions.

"I want them to react normally, so I imitate their behavior," she says.

Once, she said, she had a dangerous close call from a group of five male gorillas who came charging down the mountainside — only because she had apparently frightened them.

"I had been following them without their knowing it," she said, "when one of them spotted me. He let out a fearful roar, spread the alarm, and five gorillas came galloping down from 50 yards away — letting out intensive, explosive roars and causing the foliage to shake as they came on.

"As they came near me, I held out my arms and yelled, 'Whoa.'

"And, when they were only about three feet from me, their leader caused them to swerve. Apparently, his first instinct was to protect them from me. I had never been a fright-object to them before."

Cross Burning Case Is Solved

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — A burning cross in front of the home of a Negro family was set by two teen-age students from Sequoia High School, police said yesterday.

The white youths, whose names were not disclosed, were arrested and charged with a misdemeanor count of burning rubish on private property and a felony county of conspiracy, officers reported.

Police quoted the boys as saying they placed the burning cross Sunday night as a joke.

Speed Record

LONG BEACH (AP)—A Western Air Lines Boeing 737 twin-jet claimed a San Francisco-to-Long Beach speed record of 49 minutes yesterday, breaking the old mark of 54 minutes set by a prop jet last year.

Classes On Learning To Spend Are Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—American consumers need to learn how to spend their money just as much as they need to learn how to make it, according to a social scientist.

"It seems strange that almost every conceivable way to earn an income is represented by a course if not an entire curriculum, but that almost no attention is given to spending that income wisely," said Dr. James Mullen at the Federal Trade Commission hearings on "national consumer protection."

Appearing yesterday in behalf of the Association for Education in Journalism, Mullen said, "We believe that it is the responsibility of the educational system to prepare people to be consumers as well as producers.

"When the great mass of consumers cannot be fooled by half-truths and faulty logic, advertisers will not find it profitable to resort to these practices," Mullen said.

He is with the School of Journalism, University of North Carolina.

Another witness warned the commission that the widely heralded Consumer Credit Protection Act, commonly called the truth-in-lending law, was just "scratching the surface."

Mrs. Erma Angevine, Executive director of Consumer Federation of America, said a seemingly innocuous provision written into the law "is about to offer a wholesale escape from the principle protections of the consumer credit protection act, to wholly emasculate the act's effectiveness."

The vehicle for this purpose, she claimed, is the uniform consumer credit code which allows any state adopting it to exempt the classes of consumer credit transactions governed by the code from the federal law which requires full disclosure of how much more it costs to buy on credit.

School Panel Set

A panel of five parents and citizens will discuss education in the Bolinas-Stinson School District today at 8 p.m. in the Bolinas School.

Bay Leader Calls For Regionalism

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Creation of a multi-purpose regional government was recommended today by Stanley E. McCaffrey, president of the San Francisco Bay Area Council.

McCaffrey, keynoting the Construction Materials Conference '68, said such an organization could best coordinate Bay Area transportation decisions with other regional problems.

McCaffrey also is a member of the Bay Transportation Study Commission and chairman of its citizens advisory committee.

He urged combining all existing regional functions such as air pollution control, water quality, bay conservation and development and transportation.

Transportation is the backbone of economy and society and its development must be comprehensive, McCaffrey said.

Contracting License

The contractors state license board has announced that on Nov. 29 it will grant a license for general contracting to Menlo Construction Co., 808 Third Street, San Rafael, operated by Douglas M. Christensen, if no written protests are filed.

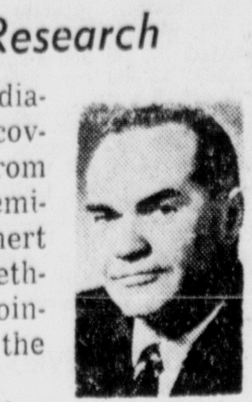
New Substance Opens Vistas In Diabetes Riddle Research



VAN DELLEN

The search for the cause of diabetes has narrowed since the discovery of proinsulin, a substance from which insulin is formed. The chemical, isolattd from animals, is an inert substance. The big question is whether lack of an enzyme to convert proinsulin to insulin proves to be the cause of some forms of diabetes.

It is difficult to distinguish between insulin and proinsulin via the usual blood tests. On the other hand, the former is more active, explaining why some who develop diabetes after age 40 have blood insulin levels above, rather than below, normal.

PERHAPS THEY have a greater proportion of proinsulin that is not being properly converted into usable insulin. The presence of proinsulin may also explain a somewhat related condition in which the individual is "insulin resistant." Although insulin is in the blood, it does not metabolize sugars and other carbohydrates.

Coincidental research conducted at the National Institute for Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases also yielded two forms of insulin in blood plasma. One was labeled big insulin because of heavier molecular weight; the other, little insulin, because it was smaller. Both insulins are found in the pancreas, but the highly purified pancreatic hormone resembled little insulin. Other tests suggested that big insulin may be related to, or the same as, proinsulin.

IN DIABETES, the body is unable to utilize starches and sugars due to a disturbance of the pancreas. The problem is offset by using insulin or antidiabetic pills, but the basic cause continues to be a mystery. There is some evidence that the gland could be affected by a virus or poor circulation.

The discovery of proinsulin will open up many new fields in diabetes research.

CAUSE OF NEPHROSIS

Mrs. L. writes: My boy has nephrosis and the doctor is giving him steroids. Is this disease caused by an infection?

REPLY

Yes, in some instances. In others, degeneration is responsible but in the majority the cause is not known. Steroids often are helpful in this condition, which is confined to the tubules of the kidney.

CAUSES OF CLUMSINESS

Mrs. B. writes: I know that growing boys tend to be awkward, but my 14-year-old seems unusually clumsy. Are there any exercises that would help him become more graceful?

REPLY

You might get a medical opinion as to whether his nervous system is normal, because a boy who suddenly becomes awkward may have chorea. If he is otherwise healthy, teach him how to pick up and hold various objects.

Sports such as baseball and swimming also may take off the rough edges. It is better to give instructions of this kind than to be too critical, for some children have better coordination than others.

EPILEPY FORM CHANGES

N. T. writes: If a youngster suffers from petit mal, will he develop grand mal in adulthood?

REPLY

This sequence would be usual. But victims of petit mal may continue to have these "spells" or they may develop epileptic equivalents in later life.

MYELOGRAM EXPLAINED

H. G. writes: Is a myelogram the same as a spinal fluid test?

REPLY

No. In a myelogram, some of the spinal fluid is withdrawn and replaced with a radiopaque solution. This dye is visible under X-ray and demonstrates whether a slipped disk is pressing upon the spinal cord or a tumor exists.

A fifth brother, Antonio Samaniego of Woodland Hills was not included in the trust but a provision in the will provided for payment of his outstanding debts.

Extension Of Water Main Is Given Approval

The Novato Sanitary District board has approved an agreement with the City of Novato and Western California Telephone Co. to extend an eight-inch water main down Davidson Street to the corporation yards of the city, telephone company, and the sanitary district offices, one third of the cost, or $2,523, to be borne by each agency.

The board accepted a deed of easement yesterday from Ted Schuman Chevrolet Co. for the extension of the sewer main west of Highway 101, south of Lamont Avenue and also approved a temporary agreement to furnish service to Peter La Dow at 793 Eucalyptus Avenue until that lot can be annexed into the district.

Worker Kills His Family, Then Himself

LIVERMORE (AP)—An electronics assembler shot and killed his wife and two young children yesterday then killed himself, police said.

The body of Paul Cranfill, 27, was found slumped against a bedroom wall by his brother, Carl, when he returned home from classes at Hayward State College.

The brother said the family was heavily in debt.

Faced down in front of the television set in the living room of the apartment was Robert Allen Cranfill, 4.

Police theorized the shootings had occurred earlier in the day. The victims had been dead several hours, coroner's deputies said.

The mother had some of her daughter's clothes in her hands and apparently had been dressing the girl when the shots were fired.

Carol told police he had been living with the family several months while going to school.

Two Water Districts Agree To Sewer Study

Marin Municipal Water District officially branched out into the sewage business yesterday with the approval of a five-year agreement with the County of Marin and North Marin County Water District.

Under the agreement, the two water districts will:

Investigate the effects of the county's Brown and Caldwell report, a long range master plan for sewerage service, on existing sanitary districts.

Prepare recommendations for implementation of the Brown and Caldwell report.

Make recommendations for providing sewage disposal service to portions of the county not now within a sanitary district; and Prepare recommendations for future county action on septic tanks in cooperation with the health department.

Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger explained all work will be done under the direction of a project engineer furnished by Marin Municipal Water District, and an assistant engineer furnished by the North Marin Municipal by the North Marin district.

All costs will be paid by the county, he said.

Director William A. Marcus commented on the county's current problems with waste disposal from houseboats and asked unhappily, "Are we going to inherit that?"

The vote on the agreement was taken without further discussion and was unanimous.

Marin Municipal Water District Board Also:

FLOOD CONTROL — Set 1:30 p.m. Dec. 11 as the date to open bids on the second stage of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

PHOENIX DAM — Approved a payment of $12,551 toward the Phoenix Dam rehabilitation and heard a report from Seeger that the total project would cost $175,000, about $23,000 more than estimated, because of unexpected extra excavation.

CORTE MADERA — Agreed to let the Town of Corte Madera use a water district driveway as access to the town's corporation yard, in return for the town taking over maintenance of the drive.

RELOCATION — Approved administrative action awarding a contract for moving an 18-inch line for Highway 101 widening to the low bidder, Maggiora & Ghilotti Inc., Corte Madera, with the state paying the full cost of $2,000.

TREES — Decided to spend not more than $1,275 on removing dead limbs and trees in the Lake Lagunitas area.

MOBILE HOME PARK — Agreed to sell water to the North Marin County Water District so it can provide service to a new mobile home park near Hamilton Air Force Base.

Strep Infections Top Weekly List

Streptoccocus infections again topped the list of communicable diseases reported last week in Marin County, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, county health officer.

A total of 61 strep cases was reported in the county, with Novato the hardest hit community, accounting for 31 of the cases.

Also reported were seven cases of infectious hepatitis and one of salmonella.

"Civil Liberties for Secondary Students" will be the topic of a forum sponsored by the Marin chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday at Olney Hall, College of Marin.

Duane F. Miller of Woodacre and program chairman for the chapter, said talks by several speakers will deal with freedom of the high school student press, the students' right to dress as he or she chooses, questions of school censorship and the right to hear controversial speakers.

Miller said the meeting is free and open to the public, including students.

Tam Officials Eye Impact Of Bond Issue's Failure

In wake of the Nov. 5 defeat of a $10.9 million Tamalpais High School District bond election, District Supt. Chester G. Carlisle has requested information on the more urgent school needs for next year.

District officials said yesterday the data, solicited from the principals of the three high schools — Redwood, Tamalpais and Sir Francis Drake — will include an estimate of the number of portable classrooms that would handle the student population overflow, what minimal construction could be undertaken, or suggestions on further doubling up on class schedules in existing classrooms.

They said the information probably will be presented at the 8 p.m. meeting Monday of the district board at its offices at Redwood High in Larkspur.

There is general agreement that defeat of the bond issue, which would have provided new high schools at Tiburon and San Geronimo Valley and additional construction at the three existing schools, was a part of the continuing trend throughout California to defeat bond issues including those for school development.

Gloria Melbostad, board president, said she has no new proposal on how to meet the demand for more school facilities. She said the board hasn't discussed it yet, but probably will at the Monday session.

She said an often made proposal that the district be split into three smaller districts, one for each existing high school, would probably create even less chance for passage of bond issues. "I don't see that that's going to help the picture any," said she. "I've always been opposed to splitting off any financially disadvantaged part of the district, but we (the board) haven't discussed that, either."

She added: "It's not that we're unaware of the problems (since the election). It's just that we haven't thrashed them out."

Library Exhibit

A water color exhibit by Norman Beals of Tamalpais Valley will be on display at the Larkspur Library until the middle of next month.

Armed Bandit Hits Station For About $100

An armed bandit took approximately $100 cash from the Shell service station in Strawberry yesterday, sheriff's deputies said.

Station attendant Charles Plato of Greenbrae said he was working in the lubrication room about 3:45 a.m. when the bandit crept up behind him and ordered him to "turn around and see what I've got."

He had a revolver and he demanded and received a key to the station cash box. Plato said he watched as the gunmen took the cash and drove off in a 1963 or 1964 Chevrolet Impala.

The bandit was about 25 years old, six feet tall and 200 pounds. He wore a blue nylon jacket and jeans, Plato said.

O.J. Simpson Ponders Million Dollar Offer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Football star O. J. Simpson of the University of Southern California was offered a $1-million concontract yesterday. Simpson's reaction: "Whew! A million bucks:"

The offer came from Sam Morris Jr., of National Enterprises, Inc., of San Antonio, Tex. But the catch is that the contract is for the management of Simpson's personal services and does not specifically mention football.

Morris, a former high school football player in Texas, says he hopes to acquire a pro team in one of the existing leagues or open his own circuit, "a television league that would play Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday nights in Southern cities and at any time during the year."

He said he made the offer to the All-American running back at USC "because he's the best football player in the country, the greatest runner since Red Grange at least.

"I would expect to get back my investment in him in a very short time," Morris said, noting that the contract would cover "all facets of Simpson's professional career, including his signing."

If Simpson accepts the offer, the signing would take place after the season ends this month or, if the No. 1 ranked Trojans make it to the Rose Bowl, after the New Year's Day classic.

Morris said he will not contact Simpson again "until the season is over, I don't want to get the USC people mad at me."

Simpson, obviously stunned by the offer, said:

"I've had guys say that they'd be willing to handle my affairs and say I could make a million dollars and things like that—but this is the first set figure I've received."

But he said he still is far from a decision. "I'll put off until at least the end of the season any thoughts about my future career," he said.

"We have three tough ball games to play yet. I don't want to get my mind cluttered up with money and business right now."

Simpson, who grew up in a San Francisco ghetto, didn't hide his thoughts about the offer. "I think of the few bills I've got now and I wish I had some of that money to pay them.

"I'd like to buy things for my family, for my wife and the baby that's coming along in December that I've never been able to buy," he said. "But I don't have that money yet and I, get the feeling sometimes I'm gonna wake up one morning and find I never will."

But No. 32 in the Southern Cal backfield who says he "ran with reckless abandon" last year, but adds "I haven't this year," is showing equal caution with his future and the contracts that will accompany it.

"I have to make sure that whoever it is with has my welfare in mind."

Gal Teaches Women The Arts Of Sailing

SAILING SALLIES — You land-lubbing dollies who'll tag along with your better halves to the Northern California Boats and Sports Show opening tomorrow at the Oakland Coliseum should make it a point to visit a booth operated by Mrs. G. C. Nooney of Mill Valley.

Jeanne Nooney is dedicated to the task of educating skirts in all that is involved in the sailing of boats. She'll have a booth on the main floor of the Oakland Coliseum Arena to register femmes for her series of lectures scheduled after the first of the year.

'The Boat Show will be populated by a lot of enthusiastic husbands contemplating their first purchase of a sailboat," Mrs. Nooney said yesterday, "and at this point the wife usually doesn't comprehend what is required of her. My bag, then, is I want her to visit me at the show so that I can encourage her to start learning NOW. Whether or not a woman expects to participate in the handling of a boat, it behooves her to know what is going on so that she becomes a more relaxed and, therefore, more helpful mate aboard."

After First Of Year

Mrs. Nooney schedules her lectures after the first of the year because, "No woman with a family can consider her time free after school is out. After vacation, she is still hung up until a home schedule is set. By then we are well into planning for the holidays. Thus it naturally follows that the best time for women to devote themselves to a boat class is after the first of the year. My services are learned about by word-of-mouth, and too many women call me after Opening Day on the Bay and then it is too late. I'll start registrations at the Oakland boat show because I want to forestall those dissappointed phone calls that come too late in the spring."

For those of you planning to attend the show which runs daily through Nov. 24, admission is $2 for adults, six-bits for kids.

SAFETY FIRST—And while we're on the instructional kick, you motorcycle buffs should be aware of the Marin Motorcycle Association's second series of safety classes scheduled to start tomorrow, 7:15 p.m. at Sir Francis Drake High School in San Anselmo.

Dr. Ken O'Brien, the association's safety officer, reports that the first classes were a huge success with 54 persons passing tests.

More Pavement Training

Dr. O'Brien said students will be given more pavement riding training this time since most accidents happen on streets. Also, tests will be used as a teaching aid to show students what to expect if and when the state starts examining for license purposes. Trainees must be over 15½ years of age and need not own a motorcycle. The course includes four sessions, opening tomorrow with a three-hour classroom session. Bikes are provided by the association and Marin motorcycle dealers.

THE STARS — If you've been wondering why assistant coach Carl Brown of Drake High School occasionally slaps one of his gridders on the helmet during games, here's the explanation:

Every time a Drake player intercepts a pass he is rewarded with a star on his helmet and Brown is assitant coach in charge of slapping stars on helmets.

Trevino, Boros Favored To Win World Cup Golf

ROME (AP) — They add up to 76 years of age and almost a quarter of a million dollars in golf winnings for 1968 alone. By any odds they are the favorites to outplay two-man teams from 41 other nations and capture the 16th annual World Cup Golf Championship which opened today.

In a lazy practice round under a mellow Rome sun yesterday Boros carded a 68, two off the record 66 for the 6,850-yard par 72 Olgiata Country Club course. Trevino, tanned and fresh from winning the Hawaii Open, finished in 72.

Athens Invitational On Tap In Oakland

OAKLAND (AP) — The third annual Athens Invitational Indoor Track Meet will be Jan. 24 in the Oakland Arena, it was announced yesterday.

Sam Bell, track coach at the University of California and meet director, said acceptances had already been received from Olympic high jump champion Dick Fosbury and indoor three-mile record holder Tracy Smith, another Olympian.

Ashe In British Doghouse

LONDON (UPI) — Arthur Ashe, the king of America's amateur tennis players, is in the doghouse with critical British fans who claim they were shortchanged by his lackluster showing in the London Indoor Championships.

Ashe, the reigning U.S. Open champion from Richmond, Va., bowed out of the meet yesterday amidst sneers of "half-hearted" and "not trying." The uncomplimentary remarks were made when young Welshman Gerald Battrick beat the American 6-1, 6-4, 6-2, in a second round match.

IN DOUBLES, TOO

Then to top off a miserable day Ashe and doubles partner Jim Osborne of Honolulu were trounced by John Paish and David Lloyd of Britain, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2, in a match which prompted Lloyd to comment "There is no joy in winning a match like that."

Ashe seemed to play at half speed against Battrick and at no stage did the American show the form which he used in leading the U.S. team to a decisive role in the team's victory over India in the Davis Cup Inter-Zone final.

HURTING?

At first Ashe denied that there was anything wrong with him physically but later gave as reasons for his poor performance: "There might be three things wrong with me. I might have a fractured left shin, I might have a deposit of calcium on my left heel or I might have tendonitis in my right elbow. Anyhow, I guess you could say I had a black day."

Asked if he would be consulting a doctor, Ashe said: "I will wait until my Davis Cup captain Donald Dell arrives."

WAITING

Ashe was not the only one awaiting Dell's arrival in London. Sponsors of the indoor meet also wanted to talk with him.

Chairman of the management committee for the Dewar Cup tournament—of which the covered court championships are a part—said "Any comment I have to make will only come after I have seen the American captain. Beyond saying that I am extremely disappointed with today's showing."

49ers' Pass Blocking Gets A Stiff Test

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — San Francisco's 49ers believe they have organized an effective blocking unit for the passing of John Brodie. Just how good it is probably will be apparent this Sunday.

Despite the 49er loss last week to Chicago, Bear tacklers were unable to dump Brodie a single time while he was throwing. Coach Dick Nolan says motion pictures showed the quarterback was hurried only twice.

But this Sunday at Kezar Stadium the 49ers will be playing the Los Angeles Rams who may have the best rushing line in the National Football League in David Jones, Merlin Olsen, Roger Brown and Gregg Schumacher.

Los Angeles has an 8-1 record and the 49ers are 4-5.

Seals Nip Red Wings, And Howe

By DAVID DIETZ

OAKLAND — Ruddy-faced Chris Worthy sipped a soft drink in the Seals' dressing room last night and spoke reverently of 40-year-old Gordie Howe.

"He's so bloody smart," said the English-born goalie. "He came in on the right side and looked for a hole between my skates to put the puck, but I got lucky."

Worthy stopped that shot — off the stick of the most prolific scorer in National Hockey League history — and 13 others in the last period as the Detroit Red Wings rushed the Seals' net in an effort to break a 1-1 tie.

WINNING SHOT

But the Seals stole the last cheer. With 48 seconds left, Gary Jarrett swiped home a Norm Ferguson pass from behind the Red Wings' net to lift the Seals to a 2-1 victory.

Worthy — like Jarrett, a former Red Wing — was superb. Besides Howe's attempt, the 20-year-old rookie stopped Frank Mahovlich and Alex Delvecchio on two other ominous rushes.

"I feel great," said Worthy, who played the second game of his NHL career. He lost Tuesday although he played well.

PLAYING GOOD

"I'm glad he (coach Fred Glover) put me in. Luck? Oh, yeah, you need it, but the guys were playing good out there; they were clearing the puck from in front."

The victory snapped a four-game losing streak for the Seals, who begin a seven-game road trip Saturday night in Montreal. The next home game is Nov. 29, also against Montreal.

Illegal Payoffs—What To Do Next?

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. Olympic Committee and the Amateur Athletic Union agree that some hanky-panky went on among American track and field athletes in the Mexico City Olympic Games but the two groups can't get together on what to do next about those taking illegal payoffs.

Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, yesterday accepted the likelihood there were payoffs as high as $7,500 to "eight or 10" members of the U.S. track squad, but said the next step, including possible revocation of medals, was up to the AAU.

But an AAU official said his group must first have a report from the U.S. Olympic Committee on its investigation of the alleged payoffs. A USOC official said, "We're interested in getting evidence on it, but at this time we're not doing anything on it."

AWARE OF REPORTS

Brundage said his group was aware of reports of illegal payoffs during the games in Mexico City last month. The 80-year-old IOC president said the matter would be taken up first by the AAU, which controls track and field athletes in the U.S., then brought up at the 1969 meeting of the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

Ollan Cassell, an AAU official, said "Our hands are tied" until the AAU gets the USOC report, which was begun in Mexico City.

WAIT

"We cannot do anything until we receive that report. They have not presented that kind of progress report," Cassell said. The U.S. Olympic Committee has jurisdiction for the investigation, he said, because the reported payoffs came while the athletes were under USOC control.

Brundage said his IOC would come in only on general survey of the situation and the necessity of controlling identification marks on equipment of any kind.

CASHED CHECKS

U. S. Olympic Committee Chairman Douglas F. Roby said in Birmingham, Ala. Monday that several American athletes cashed travelers' checks for amounts ranging up to $7,500 during the Olympic Games.

Roby said there still was not enough evidence to take action against those involved—Even though he knew their names—because "Since those checks are the same as cash it is impossible to pin down the people who were making the payoffs and just what the payoffs were for."

WEST GERMANS

The Mexican government turned over some of the used checks and they were traced to West German banks, Roby said. Rumors during the games implicated a West German shoe firm in the payoffs. Roby did not name any firms.

Ineligible List Is Not Revealed

College of Marin's football team, on the verge of a possible Camino Norte Conference championship, has been jolted by a roadblock that haunts all football coaches — scholastic ineligibility.

Nine players, four to five of them starters, were declared ineligible because of scholastic deficiencies yesterday.

Five of the nine players were deficient because of incompletes — which contains the possibility that they could make up work or tests before tomorrow's 8 p.m. game with Santa Rosa Junior College in Kentfield.

The other four have received failing marks in at least 10½ credit hours and would not be able to play unless their grades take an upswing between today and tomorrow. And that could happen, according to athletic director Harry J. Pieper.

OUTSIDE CHANCE

"There is a possibility that they may be failing in a subject where it is possible to raise a grade through weekly tests," Pieper said. "There is an outside chance that they may be able to play. But they will receive no special favors."

Pieper refused to release the names of the athletes on the ineligible list.

"This is a departmental policy," he said. "We will not release personal or private records of students to the public. I know some places do this but we don't. In the case of the incompletes, it would do damage to the athletes who could make up their work."

Football coach Dick Read conceded that there was very little chance that four of the athletes would play tomorrow. That would include two backfield standouts, a substitute lineman and a defensive backfield starter. The others are expected to return.

FOR THE TITLE

"It won't help us," Read said. "But we are playing for a championship and the boys that will play know it."

In Read's tentative starting lineups for tomorrow night's game, Jim Finnegan, Gary Dinkel, Keith Stirling and Val Sabuco will be in the offensive backfield. Missing are Tim Garvin, the Tars' top rusher and scorer, and safetyman Rod Powell, who started in last week's victory over Contra Costa College of San Pablo.

The deficiencies were discovered through a standard check after mid-terms.

SHARES LEAD

College of Marin shares the Camino Norte Conference lead with West Valley of Los Gatos and DeAnza of Cupertino with 3-1 records. The other co-leaders will battle it out Saturday night.

Pieper said the situation would probably change by tomorrow, with some of the athletes making up deficiencies.

Giants Announce Schedule

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Six doubleheaders and 19 night games feature the 1969 home schedule of the San Francisco Giants released today.

The Giants played 23 night games and four doubleheaders during the 1968 season. They will play the usual 81 home-game schedule next year despite the expansion of the National League to 12 teams by the addition of San Diego and Montreal.

San Diego will open the Giants' 1969 home schedule on April 17 and close it Oct. 2.

One of the doubleheaders will be with the Atlanta Braves on the Fourth of July. The other five will be on Sundays—the Houston Astros on April 27, Pittsburgh on May 25, Montreal on June 15, Chicago on Aug. 17 and New York Aug. 31.

Montreal also will furnish the opposition for the Giants in a single game at Candlestick Park on Labor Day.

Eleven of the 19 night games will be played on Friday.

Added to the special attraction program were Helmet Day on Saturday, May 24, and Ball Day on Saturday, July 5, when souvenir helmets and balls will be presented to younger fans. Other special events will be Bat Day on Saturday, April 26, combined Camera and Cap Day on Saturday, June 14, Old Timers Day on Sunday, July 20 and Fan Appreciation Day on the last Sunday of the home season.

The National League has been divided into two divisions with San Francisco, Los Angeles, San Diego, Atlanta, Cincinnati and Houston bracketed in one division. There will be a five-game playoff series between the division winners to determine the National League champion.

Some Important Facts On Giants' Pitching

Art Santo Domingo just completed the first phase of his winter work. As usual, Santo Domingo has done an excellent job. Santo Domingo is statistician for the Giants and they are lucky to have him because he is the best in baseball.

The first phase of Santo Domingo's 1968 winter work is a masterpiece of analysis, a detailed study of the team's pitching staff. Santo Domingo provides 14 pages of solid statistics to support his conclusions which he lists alphabetically starting with Bob Bolin.

"THIS WAS Bolin's best year, once he got the chance to pitch . . . did not become a regular starter until July 31 . . . all but two decisions (both wins) came as a starter . . . in last two months of season, Bolin started 13 games, won 6, completed five, finished with ERA of 1.98 and 10-5 record.

"For first time in his career, Joe Gibbon did not start a game in the entire season . . . used almost exclusively in short, middle inning relief . . . longest job was 4⅓ innings . . . consistently effective when entering games with no baserunners or at start of an inning . . . infrequently involved in games where outcome hung in balance.

"RON HERBEL . . . used very sparingly and never brought into a game when the Giants were ahead.

"For fourth straight season Frank Linzy was the Giants' best relief pitcher, particularly when games got down to do-or-die stage . . . for last two seasons Linzy has been National League's best fireman from standpoint of consistent effectiveness . . . in last four seasons has won 32 games and saved 50 more . . . lifetime ERA is 2.15.

"THE YEAR 1968 was one of Juan Marichal's most successful seasons although it was not his most effective . . . Marichal's 26 wins were a personal high and also were the most by a Giant since Carl Hubbell won as many in 1936 . . . no Giant pitcher has won more than 26 in a season since Christy Mathewson was 27-9 in 1910 . . . . Marichal pitched 30 complete games, most in the majors, and also set a personal high with 326 innings . . . he also won 21 games for the fifth time in six seasons . . . he has completed 100 of his last 103 wins . . . Juan won more games in the first half of 1968 than after All-Star break but he was more effective in second half . . . he was at his best against the top three clubs St. Louis, Chicago and Cincinnati, winning 9 of 10 decisions from them . . . only Houston beat him for the season, 3 out of 5.

"A 16-15 record doesn't indicate how effective Gaylord Perry was in 1968 . . . it was his best season . . . he capped it with a brilliant no-hitter Sept. 17 over Bob Gibson and the Cardinals 1-0 . . . after losing by one run nine time in 1967, Perry suffered 11 defeats in 1968 when the Giants scored two runs or less . . .

"RAY SADECKI had one of his best seasons in spite of his 12-18 record . . . he completed 13 games, equaling his career high of the 1961 season for St. Louis. . . he struck out more batters than in any previous season (206) and passed the 1,000 mark for his career . . . his 254 innings were also a career high and he led the Giants with six shutouts . . . eight of his defeats came when Giants were shutout, five others when they got only one run."

Friends Give Ailing Former Champ Charles An Assist

CHICAGO (AP) — A helping hand was given ailing former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles last night, including a tender lift out of a wheelchair by ex-ring greats Rocky Marciano and Archie Moore.

The climax of a nostalgic evening for an overflow crowd of 1,300 boxing fans came when Charles, stricken with lateral sclerosis, was helped to his feet to express thanks for his benefit banquet.

Propped before the rostrum by Marciano and Moore, two men he fought, Charles said hatingly scarcely above a hoarse whisper:

"It's hard to realize this could happen to me. All I can say is thank you, thank you."

Marciano, Moore, Cassius Clay, Rev. Henry Armstrong and Johnny Coulon, all former champions, attended the $15-a-plate benefit for 47-year-old Charles, who held the heavyweight from 1949 to 1951.

In the overflow crowd at a downtown hotel were such other former fighters as Johnny Bratton, Bob Sterfield, Coley Wallace, Johnny Paychek, Max Marek, Davey Day and Hubert Hood.

There even was a telegram from former heavyweight champion Max Schmeling of Germany, who expressed regret he was unable to attend.

The dinner chairman, Ed Moran, said a minimum of $15,000 would be deposited in a bank for Charles, who sat in his wheelchair at the speaker's table with his wife, two daughters and his son.

The only two other speakers were Moore and Marciano, although Clay engaged in some good-natured heckling of Marciano.

Marciano, who twice defeated Charles in 1954, lauded Charles as a "fighter of science" who never was appreciated by fight fans because of his skillful boxing in an era between the reigns of Joe Louis and Marciano.

"I thought the fight game was pretty dead until I came here tonight," said Marciano, "but this crowd has really surprised me."

Marciano also asked for five seconds of silence in deference to his former manager, Charlie Goldman, who died Monday.

"Charles was a great man for boxing, a great human being, and he's the only one who never knocked me before a fight," said Marciano.

"There's another guy here who was just the opposite." Rocky said with a smile referring to Moore.

Marciano, jokingly accepting this as a challenge, retorted:

"Back in 1952 maybe we would have had a great match,"

Clay quipped back:

"No contest."

No Love Lost Between Namath, Raiders

NEW YORK (AP) — At 6-feet-8 and 280 pounds, Oakland's Ben Davidson is plenty big. But he's not big enough to be the only reason Joe Namath wants to beat the Raiders Sunday.

It's only natural that the New York Jets' quarterback should want to get even with Davidson since it was the defensive end's fist that he ran into when he broke his right cheekbone last year.

But Namath has a loftier purpose, a grander scheme in mind for his first visit to Oakland since the incident.

INCENTIVE

"The biggest incentive I have," Namath said yesterday, "is we have a chance to cinch the title out there against Oakland and San Diego. If we could come back here with the title, that would be great."

The Jets go into their two-game West Coast trip with a 3½-game lead in the American Football League's Eastern Division. Two victories out there would give the Jets their first title.

Namath had had a lot of knee injuries, but he never had experienced a broken cheekbone before last year's game at Oakland.

In fact, he probably never had been so manhandled as he was by the Raiders. First Ike Lassiter, 6-5 and 270, belted Namath with a forearm, and then Davidson's fist got in his way.

COMPLAINTS

Coach 'Weeb Ewbank complained bitterly afterward, saying something to the effect that the officials had let the game get out of hand. But Ewbank wasn't about to bring up the charges again yesterday.

"I was already fined for that game," he said.

Namath never has been as vocal about the incidents as his coach. He didn't even talk to Davidson when the two were in Jacksonville, Fla., last January for the AFL All-Star game.

"We just didn't have anything to say to each other," Namath explained. "I just stayed away from him. We have no relationship.

"Look, I don't mind a good clean shot. But I don't think it's proper when you're already on the ground and someone twists your leg or sticks a hand through your face mask.

CHEAP SHOTS

"Every team has a couple of individuals who take cheap shots. They say there are a couple of guys on our team who do."

Of the Raiders as a whole, Namath added:

"I think I like Oakland less than any other team personally. We've always been frustrated against them. Two years ago we should've beaten them here, but we lost in the last two seconds. And I remember we had a bad time against them when I was a rookie.

"They hate me, I'm sure, but that's because I'm the opposing quarterback. Beyond that, I don't know."

He may find out Sunday.

Big 'E' Scores 54 Points

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sensational Elvin Hayes went on the biggest scoring binge in the National Basketball Association this season—54 points—but he needed two little points by Art "Hambone" Williams to keep it from going for naught.

Williams connected on a driving layup with 17 seconds left last night to give San Diego a 122-120 victory over Detroit after Hayes fended off a Piston rally with 17 of his points in the final quarter.

Runnerup Baltimore trimmed Cincinnati's lead in the Eastern Division with a 115-111 victory and Atlanta trounced Seattle 142-113 in the night's other games.

Kentucky rolled past Los Angeles 115-108 in the only American Basketball Association game scheduled.

The 6-foot-8 Hayes, a top candidate for Rookie-of-the-Year honors, broke the previous season high of 41 set by San Francisco's Nate Thurmond in a game with Seattle last month.

After Williams' shot wiped that out, the Pistons drew a technical foul and Rocket John Block converted for the final two-point margin.

Earl Monroe drilled in four of his 33 points in the final 1½ minutes in enabling Baltimore to hand Cincinnati a loss that was painful in more ways than one.

The defeat stopped the Royals' six-game winning streak, and to make things worse, their top shooter, Oscar Robertson, aggravated an ankle injury in the second quarter and issed the entire second half.

The Bullets, who trail Cincinnati by only .017 percentage points, led until the last quarter when Fred Foster's free throw put the Royals in front 105-104 with 3:11 left.

After an exchange of field goals, Westley Unseld hit a free throw and a basket and Monroe canned two straight shots to preserve Baltimore's first victory at Cincinnati since 1964.

Joe Caldwell hit 11 of his 26 points in a third-quarter spurt that broke open a tight match.

Seattle had taken a 42-34 lead early in the second quarter, but Atlanta rallied for a 58-52 lead at halftime. Lou Hudson paced the winners with 28 points, while Lenny Wilkens had 27 for the SuperSonics.

Tarkenton threw scoring passes of five yards to Joe Morrison and 60 yards to Homer Jones while completing 16 of 24 for 187 yards. He also scrambled 22 yards for one touchdown.

Marin Vs. Santa Rosa Usually Is A Wild Time

By KIMO CAMPBELL

The College of Marin Tars, fighting for at least a share of the Camino Norte Conference's first football championship, couldn't have chosen a wilder way to do it.

When the Tars face off against the Santa Rosa Bearcubs in Marin's Homecoming Game tomorrow night in Kentfield, there will be enough variables surrounding the game to confound a computer. First, there is the ineligibility issue, with several Marin players possibly out for low grades. Toss in the pressure factor, the angle of a big traditional rivalry, Santa Rosa's desire to make up for a lackluster season, and Marin's mental attitude after the ineligibility hassle, and the season records of the two mean nothing.

UPSETS

Which is hardly novel in the long and seldom placid rivalry between the schools, which dates from 1928, two years after the College of Marin was founded. Upsets abound, usually on the Santa Rosa side, since the Cubs have a 20-10-1 lead in the series.

"They've always played it up big there" Marin Coach Dick Read said. 'We don't make that much out of it, although we try to get the kids up for it as a big point in the season. This year, of course we have all the incentive we need — a championship."

Read's Northern California co-champions of last fall beat the Cubs, 23-0 in Santa Rosa to clinch their last Golden Valley championship and gave Marin its first victory over SRJC since 1947. The series was suspended for a few years due to mutual animosity, but Marin had a 12-game non-winning string until last fall.

Marin has had a long backlog of bad experiences with Santa Rosa teams. "We didn't have the material they did for a long time," says Read, "and when we did they always snuck up on us."

In 1966, a fine Marin squad with quarterback Al Simontacci, end Honor Jackson and halfback Fred Rodoni was favored over a Cub team that was 0-8 for the year but gave up a 16-0 halftime lead and lost 16-14. Marin steamed about that one for a long while, as Santa Rosa confused the Tar defense in the first half by switching numbers and jerseys — which was legal at the time, but not quite recommended by Emily Post. The Marinites also felt that the time was out of joint — the clock moved faster than seemed logical as Marin rallied in the second half, and sprinted at the end as Marin ran out of time on SRJC's 20 yard line.

TENSION

For these and other reasons, the game is not without tension and an emotional factor not usually present at football games. Read's situation is complicated by the fact that he was raised in Santa Rosa, many of his friends are there, and his brother Len is backfield coach under Marvin Mays at SRJC.

This year's Santa Rosa club has an improved defense and the passing and running of quarterback Ray Borowicz, who has the school total-offense mark within his reach. Borowicz, a sophomore scrambler, likes to run and throw, dipping and dodging to avoid tacklers. Marin hopes to put a good rush on him and contain his scrambling. As Read puts it "he'll run around back there on a broken play until he finds someone loose in the end zone — and bingo, they've got six."

FAVORITE

Borowicz's favorite receiver is a familiar name to Marin sports fans — Chris Bowman, who was the starting quarterback for Terra Linda's 1966 Marin County Athletic League co-champions. He went to SRJC, sat out a year, and has been the best Cub receiver this year.

With Borowicz the workhorse (286 plays in eight games) passing, running, and punting, SRJC has struggled through a 4-4 season, putting them at the bottom of Camino Norte. A win would be a big salve to that season.

Babe Ruth was known as the Sultan of Swat, the Bambino, the Behemoth of Swing and the Colossus of Clout.

EARLY TIMES

From The Bench Come The Heroes

NEW YORK (AP) — The success of Earl Morrall, Bill Nelsen and Virgil Carter may mark the 1968 season as the Year of the Backup Quarterback in the National Football League.

Baltimore picked up Morrall from the New York Giants during the training season as insurance for John Unitas' chronic tennis elbow. The Giants planned to go with Fran Tarkenton and Morrall, 34, who threw only 24 passes last season, was excess baggage.

WORK

Morrall found plenty of work with the Colts when Unitas' arm started acting up in the exhibition season.

The story of Morrall is the story of the Colts who are tied with Los Angeles in the Coastal Division with an 8-1 record. He has thrown 17 touchdown passes, the most in the league.

Nelsen's career at Pitttsburgh was ruined by a series of knee injuries that twice required surgery. Coach Bill Austin finally decided to go with Kent Nix and shipped Nelsen off to Cleveland for Dick Shiner. Incidentally, Shiner now is the No. 1 passer for the Steelers.

When the Browns faltered in early season, losing two of their first three games, Blanton Collier benched Frank Ryan his veteran passer, and switched to Nelsen. The results have been remarkable. Cleveland has won its last four and has opened up a half game lead over St. Louis in the Century Division.

SURPRISE

Carter is the real surprise of the bunch. After setting all kinds of college records at Brigham Young he spent all of the 1967 season on the taxi squad with the Chicago Bears. Only after injuries cut down Jack Concannon and Rudy Bukich, did the Bears put Carter on the active list. Under his direction the Bears have won four in a row and are tied with Minnesota for the lead in the Central Division.

Although Carter is way down on the list of top passers, 14th in the rankings, and has thrown only four touchdown passes, he has been able to pull the Bears together.

Several other backup passers have moved front and center because of injuries to the No. 1 men. Shiner has taken over at Pittsburgh and the Steelers have shown new punch. Bob Berry became the starter at Atlanta in the new regime of Norm Van Brocklin after Randy Johnson was injured.

SWEETAN

When Bill Kilmer was knocked out of action at New Orleans, the Saints dropped back to Karl Sweetan, who came over from Detroit earlier in the season. After Sweetan twisted an ankle last Sunday in Cleveland, the Saints were down to Ronnie South, a rookie from Arkansas who was just activated last Friday.

Sonny Jurgensen's damaged ribs bothered him so much last Sunday against Philadelphia that he took himself out of the game as Washington quarterback. Jim Ninowski, his relief man, directed the Redskins to their best running game of the year.

And, of course, there is Bill Munson who sat it out at Los Angeles behind Roman Gabriel. He became No. 1 at Detroit as soon as he was traded and now ranks fourth among the league's passers.

Trout Season Comes To Close, Here Come Salmon, Steelhead

STEVENS

Tomorrow taps will be blown for the general trout season, and the salmon trolling comes to an end in ocean waters. But that doesn't mean you should hang up your fishing gear until May, 1969.

There are plenty of waters still waiting for you to fish. That brings up the question-and-answer game about streams and lakes where trout and salmon, as well as steelhead, may be legally caught.

THE QUESTION of whether or not it is legal to catch and keep a salmon in such areas as Racoon Strait, Paradise Cove or the Redrock region often comes up. The answer is state plainly in the booklet, Sport Fishing Regulations: (Page 29) "It is open season from the Saturday nearest Feb. 15 through the Sunday nearest Nov. 15 south of Tomales Point including all bays except Tomales Bay. No closed season north of Tomales Point, including Tomales Bay and all bays lying to the north. No closed season in San Francisco, San Pablo and Richardson bays between Carquinez Bridge and Golden Gate Bridge."

The limits are the same: Three salmon 22 inches or more, but said limit may include one fish not less than 20 inches.

ONCE THE Yuba River furnished some hot fishing for shad. At the present time the Yuba is teeming with fish but it requires savvy and patience to garner a limit.

Another river is well worth the effort to fish, the Trinity, where the best action seems to be above Trinity Lake. Very good reports have featured the upper Sacramento River (exceptionally good, actually).

Then you have the upper Klamath River where Jim Roads reports very good angling. Jim Roads spotlights the Happy Camp area. Big steelhead are infesting the Klamath from Orleans to Happy Camp.

I have no verified report from the Smith River from the mouth upstream, but this is the time of the year when fishing in the Smith becomes torrid for salmon (and warm for steelies).

AS YOU probably know the coastal streams both north and south of the "Gate" are now open for salmon. (Try the lagoon from the mouth of the Navarro to the bridge for silver salmon and grilse. Could be you'll do yourself a lot of good. You might get a steelhead, but don't bank on it.)

Unser, Bench Win Rookie Honors In Sporting News

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Center fielder Del Unser of the Washington Senators and catcher Johnny Bench of the Cincinnati Reds easily captured honors for rookies of the year yetserday in a poll of players taken by the Sporting News.

The players also picked Stan Bahnsen of the Yankees and Jerry Koosman of the Mets for rookie pitchers of the year for the American and National leagues.

Bench, the first National League catcher to take the rookie prize, received 136 votes in the poll, with his closest contender, Bobby Bonds of the San Francisco Giants, receiving 13. Unser tallied 92 votes, 60 more than rookie third baseman Bob Cox of the Yankees.

Bahnsen, fighting early tendencies to throw wild, closed the season to lead the Yankees with 161 strikeouts and a 2.06 ERA. He posted a 17-12 record.

Koosman was named to the National League All-Star team after winning 11 games to four losses.

Upheaval In Prep Scoring

Finally, the rest of the Marin County Athletic League has caught up with Novato High School halfback Pat Greene.

Greene, who hasn't scored a point since the third game of the season, nevertheless hung on to the season scoring lead until this past weekend.

He had had the lead at 39 points but three players, including teammate Tom Zechlin rushed by him this time.

Terra Linda halfback Dan McInnis and fullback Pete Richter of Redwood of Larkspur got by him, both scoring their seventh touchdowns for 42 points. And fullback Zechlin had a 14-point night against Salesian of Richmond Friday night to push his total to 41 points.

Ski Resorts Cut Down On Passes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sierra ski resort operators have decided enough is too much—no more free lift tickets for Bay Area ski shop employees.

Ski resorts will be belting the snow fans as much as $8 a day for lift tickets.

The Sierra Ski Resorts Association has passed a resolution cutting off complimentary passes for ski shop personnel because the privilege was being abused.

The Boreal Ridge manager reported that in one weekend a leading area that can accommodate 6,000 skiers a day got 1,200 with free passes.

JAMISON, CARROLL

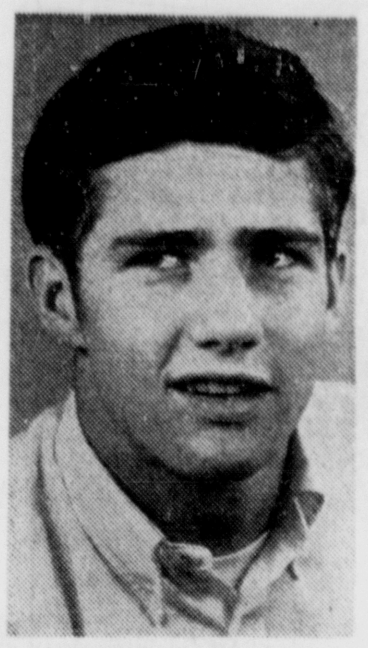
Near-Identical Heroics Net Co-Preps Of The Week

The names and uniforms were different but the results were the same.

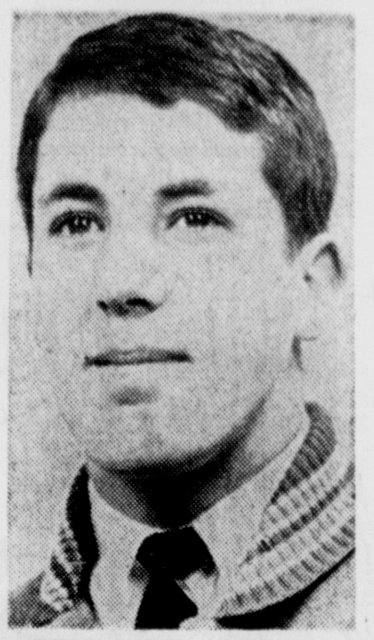
And as a result, we have two Independent-Journal Preps of the Week this week.

Both Clark Jamison and Pete Carroll played a heavy hand in their respective team's football victories last week, and did it almost the same way that both Jamison of Drake of San Anselmo and Carroll, of Redwood of Larkspur were given top prep honors.

Jamison kept his team alive and breathing in the Marin County Athletic League race. Carroll helped vindicate the badly frustrated Giants.



DRAKE'S JAMISON
Look-alikes . . .



REDWOOD'S CARROLL
In performance

REPEAT STORY

Jamison, an all-league defensive halfback as a junior last year, scored two touchdowns, one on a 65-yard kickoff return, intercepted one pass, gained 55 yards rushing in five tries for an 11-yard average and caught one pass for ten yards in a 28-12 victory over Tamalpais of Mill Valley Friday night.

Carroll scored two touchdowns, on bursts of 11 and five yards, intercepted one pass, caught two more and gained 85 yards rushing, most of it on a beautiful 51-yard sweep that set up another Redwood score in a 25-6 Giant stomping of San Rafael Saturday.

Long runs, interceptions, rushing, scoring — it was a double repeat story.

NEVER LOOKED BACK

Jamison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Jamison of San Anselmo, did more than pile up statistics. He seemed to be the fiery leader in a Drake defense that rushed and nagged Tamalpais quarterback Don Mackin into four interceptions.

His kickoff return for a touchdown helped turned the tide in a tight game, coming on the heels of a safety that put Drake ahead 9-7. The touchdown made it 15-7 and Drake never looked back.

He still feels the Pirates have a great team this year, possibly another championship team as in the past two years, but with a difference.

"This year we're a team," he said. "Last year, we had some players that were just better than everybody else but this year we're all working together."

Carroll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Carroll of Greenbrae, has been a jack-of-all trades for Redwood this season.

ROOTER

A defensive standout and backup quarterback last year, Carroll has been used as an end, a flankerback and a running back and has seen some duty at quarterback, including one starting game against Tamalpais.

In his one and only starting call, going for injured Jim Peters, he completed 11 of 19 passes for 198 yards, quite a substitute performance. He's the top receiver on the other end of the ball for Redwood with 16 receptions. And his running, of late, has been outstanding.

Jamison will undoubtedly be rooting for a repeat performance or better from Carroll. The Giants meet unbeaten Terra Linda Saturday afternoon and a Redwood victory would give Drake another crack at another title tie, if the Pirates get by Novato Saturday night.

A Case Of Shrinking For Dodger Stadium

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Since moving to Dodger Stadium seven years ago, the Los Angeles Dodgers have averaged only 35 home runs a year before hometown fans. For next season, they're bringing the fences in.

The National Leageu baseball club announced yesterday it would move home plate 10 feet closer to the center field wall. Thus, the power hitting alleys will be 375 feet instead of 385 and a 400-foot shot will clear the center field fence.

The foul lines remain 330 feet, because of the way the fences curve.

Dodger Stadium was constructed in 1962 like a pasture because the Dodger management knew one thing: the Dodgers weren't going to hit many home runs, no matter where the fences were.

In those years, the Dodgers were the scratching, hit-and-run type of ball club that relied on its pitching including Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale, for victories.

Maury Wills and Willie Davis had enough speed to shake up most pitchers and the Dodgers cultivated a rock-hard infield. If either Wills or Davis got wood on the ball, it would bounce so high, they'd be on first before it came down.

But in recent years, the Dodger speed has aged or been traded.

On the face of it, the move to make home runs easier to hit may not really benefit the 1969 Dodgers, though.

They haven't got any new faces on the team who can hit them out.

Vice President Arthur E. "Red" Patterson explained that the move would make games more exciting. The Dodgers may hit 15 or 20 more homers a year, he said, but so would the opposition.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

To Avoid Trouble, Give Key Trick To Harmless Opponent

In a certain kind of bridge hand one opponent is a menace and the other is harmless. Your plan of play is to keep the dangerous opponent out of the lead, and one of your weapons is an exchange of tricks. You give the harmless opponent a trick that seemed to be the property of his partner.

LEADS CLUBS

West led the queen of clubs, and South won with the king. If South had been an average player he would have gone down one. East would get the lead with a spade to return a diamond through the king. West would then take two diamonds.

Since South was an expert he could see the danger. He looked for a way to give East's spade trick to West.

South's first step was to lead a trump since he needed trump entries to dummy for the success of his plan. West stepped up with the ace of hearts and led the jack of clubs to dummy's ace.

DEVELOPS SPADES

South led a low spade from dummy, and East put up the queen. South won with the ace of spades, led a low trump to dummy and led the nine of clubs. East had to play low, and South joyfully discarded the jack of spades.

West had to win the club trick, but South's trade prevented East from winning a spade trick. What's more, West was unable to make a helpful return.

A DIAMOND TRICK!

If West led a diamond, South would get a trick with the king. If West led a club, dummy would discard a diamond while South ruffed, and if West led a spade, he would help declarer set up dummy's spades.

West actually led his other spade, and South ruffed out East's king. South then got to dummy with a trump to discard to diamonds on the 10 and nine of spades.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

Game is unlikely but not impossible. Still, you can lose nothing by raising hearts, and you make life very difficult for the other side. Dealer might be delighted to bid again if one heart were passed around to him, but he might well be doubtful of stepping in if he had to bid at a higher level.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, Nov. 14, the 319th day of 1968 with 47 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Saturn and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1832 the first streetcar in the world made its appearance in New York City. It carried 30 persons.

In 1851 Herman Melville's story, Moby Dick, was published.

In 1918 Prof. Thomas Masaryk was elected first president of the Republic of Czechoslovakia.

In 1940 German planes dropped 225 tons of bombs on Coventry, destroying or damaging 69,000 of the English town's 75,000 buildings.

A thought for the day: French Author Emile Zola wrote: "Truth is on the march and nothing can stop it."

TIME AND TIDE

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

Mill Valley Resident Opens Rug Warehouse In San Rafael

Newly opened at 540 Irwin Street, San Rafael, is a 3,200-square-foot store called Rug Warehouse of Marin, Inc.

This is a corporation headed by Benjamin Yates of Mill Valley as president and the company's major stockholder. He formerly was carpet buyer for all the Emporium stores.

Rug Warehouse is stocked primarily with mill ends and remnants and does both retailing and wholesaling. Present hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays and for the time being on Sundays from noon to 4 p.m.

PLANNING TO open a branch boatyard and marine supplies department in Sausalito — though not until the first of March — is the John Beery Co. of Berkeley.

Beery, in business at the Berkeley Aquatic Park for the past 11 years, is taking an acre of ground at Marinship near the Peter M. Sutter Co. and where the Marinship kilns were located. Some new construction will be done.

The company represents W. D. Shock and Co. of Santa Ana and several other lines of sailing vessels. It also conducts a sailing school. About six boats will be displayed at the Oakland Boat Show starting tomorrow, including a Shock 27, a Santana 22 and a Santana 27, a 14-ft. Sunfish and a California Cat (catamaran).

AND ONE MORE Marin dealer has announced intentions to appear at the Oakland Boat Show — but not as a boat dealer. Ted Schuman Chevrolet of Novato is participating quite heavily and will show 15 to 20 Open Road campers and motor homes. The Oakland event is a sports show as well as boat show. Visitors may see anything on display from an airplane to a ready-built mountain cabin.

Ted Schuman, by the way, has started blacktopping another acre of his Novato property. By the time he finishes he should have enough paved area to put on a boat and sport show of his own.

JOHN M. HACKNEY JR. of San Rafael, director of appraisals at the San Francisco office of Real Estate Research Corp., has been elected a vice president of the company.

WITH A REPORTED total of $7,830,451, Marin County multiple listed real estate sales last month nosed just ahead of sales in October of last year. However, that can be considered an accomplishment during a month noted more for election campaigning than anything else.

Completed sales for October at $7,936,390 were much more impressive when compared to $5,395,616 a year ago. And for the 10 months of 1968 to date, the total of completed sales stands at $60,628,206 — compared with $47,255,341 in 1967.

ASSIGNED to the San Rafael trust office of Crocker-Citizens National Bank is Anthony M. Lum who has been at the Oakland trust office since early 1967. He joined the bank at San Francisco in 1961 and was promoted to assistant trust officer last February.

ACCEPTED INTO MEMBERSHIP in the San Francisco chapter of the National Association of Accountants are F. Paul Hacker of Marinwood, Douglas R. Alter of San Rafael, John F. Fassio of Kentfield and H. Richard Sites of San Anselmo.

TWO MARINITES, Irving Chapman of San Rafael and William Costello of Larkspur, have been elected directors of the Serramonte Merchants Association, Inc. in Daly City.

Chapman heads Chapman Shoes, which now has stores in San Rafael, Novato and the Serramonte Shopping Center. Costello for years managed Macy's in downtown San Rafael and is now in charge of the company's new store in Serramonte.

RICHARD B. BERGMANN of Fairfax has been promoted to assistant vice president of Redwood National Bank and will be in the mortgage division of the bank's real estate department. Before joining Redwood a year ago he was with the Marin County Assessor's Office.

JEROME FLAX of Ross is now president of Product Dynamics Corp., San Francisco, which produces "Smoke Ring," a new gadget for smokers that is claimed to reduce the formation of tars in cigarettes by changing the way they burn.

INSTRUMENT ANALYZES ANYTHING

Two research scientists, Dr. Norbert Weichert (left) and Dr. John Helmer of Varian Associates, Palo Alto, have developed a new spectrometer with the potential to unlock the chemical structure of a single cell. Measuring almost infinitesimal variations in energy which bind electrons to their orbits within atoms, the instrument will analyze solids, gases or liquids and may be used in biochemical applications to observe structural changes in cancerous cells.

Roumiguire Heads Marin Realty Board

Robert A. Roumiguiere has been elected by the Marin County Real Estate Board to serve as president for 1969.

Roumiguiere has been in the Marin real estate business for a number of years and is vice president of the family-owned firm of A. R. Roumiguiere, Inc., San Rafael. He is a director of Redwood National Bank, a member of the Lions Club, Fairfax Masonic Lodge, Royal Lodge chapter of the Knight Templars and the Islam Shrine. He and his family reside at 18 Culloden Park Road, San Rafael.

The board also elected Bruce Shafer, vice president; Mrs. Sue Schaefer, secretary; and Edward Sabo, treasurer. Named as new directors were Kent Seymour, John Manzone, Tom Kramar and Royal Druba. Elected as directors at large and salesmen's representatives were Jerry Newbauer and Janice Valk.

Continuing as directors until the end of next year are Donald Beacock, William Bush and Bruce Wrisley. This year's president Ross Tankersley will also serve as a director, replacing B. D. Schulz.

The San Rafael certified public accountant firm Cooper and Kerr will continue as board auditors; and San Rafael attorney Julius Selinger as general counsel.

The installation of officers and directors for 1969 will take place during the early part of January.

Market On Mixed Side At Closing

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed in a scrambled state today, with averages down and gains exceeding losses by a moderate amount throughout the list.

Trading was fairly active as the post election rally ran into profit taking after a five-day advance. Brokers considered it normal and pointed to strength in utilities and rails as encouraging factors.

Weakness in Chrysler and other auto stocks dampened traders, however, and some institutional unloading of Chrysler was reported because of recent disappointing car sales.

Prices near the close included:

Chrysler, off 1⅞ at 64¾; General Motors, off 1¼ at 85; United Aircraft, off 1⅛ at 73⅛; Arlan's Department Stores, off ¾ at 37; Xerox, up 6¾ at 277½; Hart Schaffner & Marx, off 4 at 54; General Electric, up 1⅛ at 95¾; Abacus Fund, off 1⅛ at 22½; and Morse Shoe, off 5⅝ at 35.

Disconcerting weakness in Chrysler gave the im-jams to analysts and customers. The stock was down another couple of points after its loss of 1⅝ Wednesday as the most-active stock.

The street was puzzled as to the exact reason for the selling pressure on Chrysler. Other auto stocks were weak. General Motors and Ford slipped about 1½ each. American Motors, recently rallying strongly in dramatic breakout action, took a fractional loss.

Some observers said the Dow industrials had climbed 21 points since election day and the list was entitled to a breather.

Xerox held a 7-point gain, clipping its initial rise of 10¼ on news that merger talks with C.I.T. Financial were terminated.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Treasury Bonds Useful In Estate Tax Problem

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I own stocks in 19 companies with a total value of about $120,000, all bought for growth since I do not need income. I am 68, and have for many years taken $5,000 from holdings to give to my nine children and charities. What suggestions do you have on my enclosed portfolio? — K. R.

A. You apparently are aware of the tax-exemption allowed on gifts given on an annual basis to prospective heirs.

As for your portfolio, I would advise four sales: Applied Devices, Levitz Furniture, Titan Group and Vitro Corp.

Since your estate far exceeds the $60,000 statutory federal estate tax-exemption, part of your capital should be invested in certain Treasury bonds, some of which are selling more than 20 per cent below par. These bonds are acceptable at par value in payment of estate taxes — a considerable advantage to your prospective heirs. Four Treasuries, particularly attractive for you, are 3¼'s 1985, 3½'s 1990, 3's 1995 and 3½'s 1998. Each of these selling in the high 70s yields 3.8 to 4.5 per cent.

You would be wise to consult your lawyer or tax accountant for assistance in determining the amount of Treasuries you might need.

Q. After attending an investment lecture, my son invested all his savings in shares of G. W. Murphy Industries. The shares have dropped 12 points and naturally he is very disappointed. What is the reason for the drop and what are the chances for recovery? — A. B.

A. At the time your son bought Murphy Industries the company looked promising. Unfortunately, subsequent earnings reports were disappointing and a top official resigned. Traders sold out, causing the shares to drop rapidly. Recovery appears to be several years away.

My advice would be to accept the loss and bank the proceeds. Your son should broaden his knowledge by reading financial periodicals — available at most public libraries — in preparation for future investing.

White Hats Vs. Black In Political 'Western'

Marin County politics, as seen by many residents, has all the simplicity of a "western" in the movies or on television.

One one side are the good guys in the white hats; on the other, the bad guys with black hats.

What one says or does has little to do with what kind of hat he gets to wear. The type-casting is decided by what clubs he joins, what cocktail circuit he frequents. And once marked for white hat or black, that's what he wears forever.

LET'S CONSIDER some examples.

In 1964, along came an issue that pitted white hats vs. black in the most bitter battle of their long soap-opera serial: Marincello. Lined up against the planned community development on the Marin Headlands were all the established white hat organizations: the Sierra Club, the Marin Conservation League, the Scenic Roads Association, etc.

And who should appear as "intergovernment relations consultant" (a fancy name for lobbyist) for the Marincello developer but Vera Schultz!

Mrs. Schultz, however, did not lose her white hat by this seeming change of sides. Not a bit of it! Once a white hat, always a white hat.

THE MARINCELLO fuss strained the type-casting in other cases, too. When the Marincello master plan went before the county planning commission, that body approved it by a 4-to-3 vote. And the deciding vote was cast by another feminine leader of the white hat brigade, Margaret Azevedo.

Did Mrs. Azevedo thereby lose her type-casting? Not at all. She was a conservationist candidate for supervisor this year, losing out in the primary because the white hat vote was splintered by entry of yet another member of its elite, Michael Wornum.

When the Marincello master plan reached the board of supervisors, white-hatted Tom Storer joined black-hatted Ernest Kettenhofen and hatless Bill Gnoss to approve the plan.

Did Storer have to change hats? Don't be ridiculous! Right now, the "conservationists" are bemoaning his election defeat by Bud Baar.

OF COURSE, Baar and John McInnis must always wear black hats. They are "developers." It says so in the script.

Both of them backed the first sensible attempt by a government in Marin to control development of offshore tidelands: the San Rafael General Plan as originally prepared by consultant Dan Coleman. Did this bring the "conservationists" running to present they with white hats? Quite the opposite. It resulted in an advertising campaign accusing San Rafael of trying to fill the bay, which defeated McInnis in his first try for supervisor. The tidelands remained without local control — as they did also, of course, in the county, where the planning department was created and is controlled by "conservationists."

McInnis and Baar joined in rejecting a Quail Hill plan that would have put 1,200 family units on the hill, creating tremendous congestion in Terra Linda. Did that get them white hats? Of course not! The plan was drawn by that leading conservationist," Lawrence Halprin.

ONE COULD CITE many other examples of the nonsense of this simplistic "conservationist vs. developer" view of things. It is just as childish as the TV plays it so resembles.

Rarely does anyone in Marin wear either a white hat or a black hat. If he wears a hat at all, it is his own — not one provided by Central Casting.

Robin Red-Breast

Robins have been unusually prevalent in Marin this year, by our reckoning. With this thought in mind, we pass along this simple story of how the robin got his red breast.

According to the farmers from the Valley of Virginia, who fought with General Lee's army and were steeped in nature folklore, the robin received his scarlet breast from picking a thorn from the brow of the agonized Christ.

Today, the bird is said to have a red breast as a symbol of honor for that act of pity.

Medi-Cal Frauds Only 1 Per Cent, But That Runs Into Millions

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The "growing pains" of the California Medi-Cal program are emphasized in a report of Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch that claims the program is costing taxpayers from $6 to $8 million a year for illegal activities involving false claims, kickbacks and over-servicing.

The monies siphoned out of the Medi-Cal funds, says Chief Deputry Charles A. O'Brien, under whose supervision the attorney general's investigation was conducted, amount to about one per cent of the annual budget, and "the money stolen is also equal to half a dozen million-dollar bank robberies."

THE REPORT contains 14 recommendations to help wipe out the thievery, including installation of an investigative unit. An effective enforcement program, says the report, does not exist.

Some of the irregularities uncovered included under-the-table payments to nursing homes; misappropriation by nursing homes of patient allowances for minor items; providing of unneeded services to patients by physician-owned hopsitals; kickbacks of fees received by vendors; performance of unnecessary operations; inflation of the cost of drugs through fraudulent billing; issuance of multiple needless prescriptions; bills for dental work not performed and services by optometrists which were not performed.

It was known when the Medi-Cal program was adopted that irregularities would occur. In fact, it was pointed out that the program would be an open invitation to out-and-out thievery.

THE FACT that the charged irregularities have been held to one per cent of the total budget of some $800 million annually can be considered virtually a tribute to the inherent integrity of most of the vendors, who include physicians, dentists, optometrists pharmacists, and many others.

Comparatively speaking, one per cent of the budget is a small amount to be siphoned off in thievery, but of course, $8 million is a lot of taxpayer dollars. And outside the process for getting started in the program, there seems to be no valid excuse for this much money to go down the drain in illegal expenditures.

The California Legislature was rushed into the Medi-Cal program because of the demands of the federal government, and this, according to the report, is one reason for confusion and growing pains.

The report criticizes the haste, stating, "unprepared and without sufficient analysis, the states are rushed into formulating programs which are both essential and ill-considered. There should be an effort by both state and federal governments to transform such programs into more meaningful and fruitful cooperative action."

Whether the state learns a lesson remains to be seen.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Democracy Just Communist Plot

Now that the general elections are over and the crying towels are slowly drying out, we citizens of this great republic, the United States of America, must continue to fight and preserve our nation. "For the republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisable with liberty and justice for all." Americans and our leaders seem to have forgotten these basic concepts. Just ask yourselves do we have a republic or do we have a democrary?

There has been a huge push given the U.S. down the road to communism over the past 60 years or so. One particular conversion, the least understood, was the influx of a two-pronged drive: (a) to convert our constitutional republic into a democracy, and (b) to bring the American people to believe that our government was supposed to be a democracy. Our founding fathers knew from history that a democracy was the worst of all forms of government . . .

This change was fully in accord with the Communist Manifesto. The clear sequence of democracy, mobocracy, Communist dictatorship, which was well understood by Marx, was well understood by those who implemented his program in the U.S . .

Districts Denied Choice In Election

I should like to add to your account of the election of the Marin County Committee on School District Organization in the Nov. 8 edition of the Independent-Journal.

Helen L. Gardner was nominated for this responsible office by a trustee of the Reed School District of the Redwood attendance area. Audrey Miller had nominations from all three of the school boards of the Drake attendance area and from myself, after ascertaining that she shared the primary concern of our San Anselmo City Council (motion passed unanimously Oct. 22).

While we are grateful for the acknowledgement of the Redwood area of our need for representation, we feel it is a basic democratic right that people be allowed to select their own representatives.

(Editor's note: The San Anselmo City Council motion to which the letter refers expressed opposition to any school district unification plan which would divide the area of Tamalpais High School District.)

Overeaters' Club Proves Helpful

Even though I am a Petaluma resident, I take your paper because I like it so much. I would like to tell your readers that there is a new book recently placed on the shelves of your Marin County Free Library, in San Rafael, and the Mill Valley Public Library, in Mill Valley, which will be of great interest to many people. The name of this book is "Compulsive Overeaters Guide" written by weight group therapist, Mrs. Pearl Brians of Penngrove.

I have been having emotional problems which had turned me to food for solace and I went to Mrs. Brians' self-improvement club meeting seeking help . . . In her book and her meetings she uses the Alcoholics Anonymous ideas for recovery because most of us overweight people admit that our compulsions are similar.

At this special no-carbohydrate luncheon, the members surprised their leader with an artificial gaily decorated birthday cake. Under the cake was placed a can of tuna, string beans, and three hard-cooked eggs; foods recommended by Mrs. Brians as good for dieters . . .

I needed someone to help me so I decided to try this club and am so pleased to find so much friendliness and love shown to me with all my shortcomings . . .

'Youth And Society' Series Successful

Recently the Interfaith Fellowship co-sponsored with the College of Marin a series of four conferences on "Youth and Society in Ferment." During the four evenings the series drew a large and attentive audience.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank the Independent-Journal, and Miss Barbara Hosmer in particular, for their vision in judging the conferences as valuable to the public interest, and promoting them with enthusiasm. The coverage was excellent, accounting, no doubt, in a major way for the gratifying attendance. In working on a project of this magnitude it was most encouraging to encounter the warmth and courtesy we found at the Independent-Journal.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A GOLFER was suffering the tortures of the damned on one disastrous round. By the 14th hole, he had lost four balls, developed blisters on both hands, and broken two new clubs across his knee. So he sat down near the next tee, bowed his head low, and muttered, "I've got to give it up" over and over again. "Golf?" queried his caddy. "No," he replied morosely. "The ministry."

QUOTABLE:

Greece Provides An Example Of Decisions Closed To Nixon

WASHINGTON — As he moves into the seat of authority, President-elect Richard Nixon will find many of the levers of power in a fixed position hardly subject to change. The options have been foreclosed by past decisions and the relentless march of events.

A conspicuous example is the lever marked Greece. Among the generous promises he made in his campaign was Nixon's pledge to put new life into a unified NATO. If he goes to Western Europe prior to his inauguration, he will find a deep concern over American support for the military dictatorship in Greece.

That concern has been modified by the Russian invasion of Prague and by increasing signs of Russian military power in the Mediterranean. Yet it remains a gnawing doubt, not so much over the political direction of the junta and whether the new constitution will be implemented to restore some freedoms as over the actual strength and solidity of the regime.

WHEN THE colonels took power they dismissed many high-ranking officers loyal to King Constantine. These were the generals who had been part of the NATO structure. At the time they were cashiered, observers in Athens reported that not only was NATO's cooperation imperiled but the surviving officers simply were incapable of leading the nation and directing a modern military force.

Something else is happening that raises a question about the longer future of Greece. A kind of gold rush is on to get concessions from the junta, Reportedly these concessions are so generous in tax exemption and other terms that no democratic government could possibly sanction them.

LEADING the gold rush is Aristotle Onassis, who interrupted his honeymoon with the former Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy on his private island of Skorpios to deal with the junta. As with everything about Onassis, the deal has elements of the fabulous. It is said to amount to a half-billion dollars. Since he is a master at risking other peoples' money, most of this is to come from two or three large American corporations.

It has only been since the junta took power in April, 1967, that Onassis has shown an interest in large enterprises in his native land. Like the other Greek ship owners he has kept his money in more secure and presumably more profitable capitals, avoiding with his Argentine citizenship paying the taxes that would otherwise have to paid. Sailing under foreign flags purchasable on a bourse of privilege, these adventurers defy the inhibitions applying to most businesses.

Not far behind Onassis is Thomas A. Pappas, a Greek-American industrialist and importer in Boston, who has become an ardent promoter of the junta. During the presidential campaign he was one of Nixon's principal fund raisers.

With the cooperation of Standard Oil he began investing in his homeland before the colonels took over. A refinery, a beginning petro-chemical industry and a chain of Esso-Pappas gas stations dotting the countryside add up to a reported investment of $200 million. Pappas is promoting new American investment contracts for Greece.

ON THE SURFACE all this has a beneficent look. Greece, a poor country, so poor that a half-million workers have had to find jobs in Western Europe, needs industry. Refineries and petro-chemicals provide relatively little employment, tourism somewhat more.

But aggressive enterprisers with American millions are dealing with a dictatorship. The extent to which they can take their profits out of the country and the relationship between wage scales and consumer prices will tell a lot about the benefits that may or may not accrue to the Greek people. And those terms are a closely held secret, as are all the conditions of life under the dictate of the colonels.

Even if the new President should want to change American policy toward Greece, he would find it all but impossible. Military hardware is again flowing to Greece. That decision has been taken. But the hundreds of thousands who packed the streets of Athens for the funeral of George Papandreou, the popular former premier, crying "freedom, freedom," were proof of what still lies close to the surface in spite of repression and terror and the fact of 2,000 political prisoners still held on remote islands. Stability may be bought at a very high price.

Student Revolts Bare Old Sores In Mexico

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Violent unrest among Mexican students exposed other areas of discontent which now seek a voice to give Mexico's ruling party its first real challenge in more than 30 years.

The violence began in July and extended well into October, and as the students hardened their position against the government they gained support from large numbers of bureaucrats, professional people and housewives in Mexico's growing middle class.

THE MOVEMENT began simply enough with student charges that police and troops had violated university autonomy, which is a Latin-American tradition.

As the government reacted with more police and troops, the students expanded upon their charges to include corruption among government functionaries and a claim that the economy mainly benefited a new group of oligarchs which had replaced the dictatorship of the great landowners of prerevolutionary times.

Whether the student charges were valid was almost beside the point. They struck a popular chord.

FOR MOST of 40 years Mexico has been ruled by the IRP or Institutional Revolutionary Party, an umbrella party which was the outgrowth of the revolution of 1911 in which more than one million Mexicans died.

It is an all-embracing confederation of peasants, industrial workers and various other "popular" groups and it has given to Mexican that rarity among Latain American nations, a peaceful transition of power, political stability and a means of working out conflicts between various sectors of the economy.

But its opponents also charge that in the intervening years it has become undemocratic and unresponsive to the rank and file, with a few leaders at the top making all the decisions.

The president, it is charged, becomes an absolute monarch for the six years of his term and, when that ends, picks his own successor.

ON IT SIDE, the government charges that the student groups have been infiltrated by Communists and others representing ideas not in the best interests of Mexico. Both have a certain amount of reason on their side.

The CNED (National Democratic Students Central), for example, is flaming red and has support from some university professors. Against government figures showing impressive growth and the distribution of nearly 150 million acres of land to the peasants is the fact that many peasants still live on a bare subsistence level.

Opponents of the government and the IRP charge that it now pays more attention to its institutional character than it does to the ideals of the revolution. But the opposition so far still is only an idea seeking a voice.

Low-Cost Psychiatric Center 'Strangled By Its Own Success'

The Ross Psychiatric Center has a big, constant headache.

Despite such goodly fund-raising projects as the sale of San Quentin paintings and a benefit showing of a movie, it has been an effort to survive financially.

The center is a place where people can go for psychiatric treatment if they haven't the $25 or $30 for a single session. A patient may pay from one-fourth to half of the actual cost of treatment. How the rest is paid is the source of the headache.

"IT'S A REAL struggle," commented Leonard Shaw, treasurer and past president of the sponsoring agency, Marin Mental Health Foundation. "We just can't quite scramble fast enough. We've been operating on a shoestring for about four years now. Each month we have an $800 to $1,000 deficit, even with county and state funds to stretch out patients' fees."

Shaw estimated the over-all yearly cost of operating the center is now $60,000. The county board of supervisors contributes a maximum of $2,300 a month to the center, of which 75 per cent comes from state Short-Doyle Act Funds.

Although private psychiatric charges are about the aforementioned $30 a visit, Shaw said, the center charges a maximum of $14, depending on the patient's ability to pay. These charges generally are promptly paid and bring in about $2,000 a month toward the center's operational cost.

But since the total of county funds and fees falls short of the required $60,000, the foundation must find other resources. Center officials said one merchant put it this way, "This is a heck of a way to run a business. The more services you sell, the greater the financial loss. You are being strangled by success."

LAST MAY at the Civic Center, some 250 volunteers pitched in to sell 1,400 San Quentin prisoner paintings and craft objects and grossed about $18,000, Shaw reported. After remitting $14,944 to the prisoner artists and deducting insurance and sale costs, the foundation earned $3,700 profit, plus $1,800 in donations, a total of $5,500.

The center is pleased with this means of income, and wants to sponsor more prisoner art sales. A new state law, however, may prohibit such sales by charitable organizations, Shaw said.

"The sad thing is that this ($5,500) subsidizes our operation for only about five to six months, and then we're back in a position where our services are threatened," he added.

The foundation has other benefits, and hopes to continue them. The movie showing, "David and Lisa," brought in funds. The San Francisco entertainment group, the Fantasticks, donated a night's performance to center income.

THE CENTER opened in January of 1964 as the Marin Mental Health Center and has rent-free quarters at Ross General Hospital. Income goes mostly to provide professional staff, including two psychiatric social workers, four staff psychiatrists (one of whom is clinical director), and a clinical psychologist. All are part-time workers.

With fast footwork, the non-profit center has provided uninterrupted service since its start. Its problem is how to keep doing so.

Registration Of Firearms Is Set

Machine guns, sawed-off shotguns and rifles, silencers, deactivated war trophies and other destructive devices must be registered with the Internal Revenue Service by Dec. 1, Joseph M. Cullen, district director of Internal Revenue for Northern California, said today.

Cullen said that registration forms are available at IRS offices and that firearms should not be brought to the offices to be registered.

Under the Gun Control Act of 1968 all such firearms must be identified by a serial number, and if the firearm doesn't have one the owner should phone, visit or write the nearest IRS office and a number will be assigned, he said.

Copters Collide, Killing All Aboard

DAX, France (AP) — Two French army helicopters collided during a training flight today and crashed, killing all five men aboard the two craft.

The crash occurred at Saint Bandelon, about six miles from this city in southwestern France.

How To Win While Losing, Or Leave It To Rumpelmeyer

WASHINGTON — The next few weeks are going to be very tough for those people who were rooting for Vice President Humphrey to win the election. After gloating at the Republicans for eight years, the Democrats are getting some of their own medicine back and it's not easy for the Dems to accept the loss with good grace.

The only Democrat I know who has been able to handle it is my friend Rumpelmeyer. I bumped into him at lunch the other day and he said, "Sharkey's joining me in a few minutes, and he's going to be impossible over the Nixon win. He specifically invited me to lunch so I would eat crow."

"Why did you accept?"

"I thought I'd have some run. Hang around and see what happens."

I TOOK a seat and a few minutes later Sharkey came in bubbling and bouncing, hardly able to contain himself.

"Well, Rump," he said after he ordered a drink. "What did you think of the elections?"

"Who won?" Rumpelmeyer said. "I've been out of town for a week and haven't seen a paper."

Sharkey flushed. "Don't give me that, Rumpelmeyer. You know damn well who won."

"No, I really don't, Sharkey. The last I heard was that Agnew called the New York Times a fat Jap."

SHARKEY WAVED his finger. "You're not going to trick me with that innocent routine, Rump. I've waited eight years for this moment."

Rumpelmeyer said, "Good heavens, Sharkey. You're not going to tell me Nixon won the election?"

Sharkey yelled, "You're darn tootin' he won and you're eating your heart out."

Rumpelmeyer turned to me. "Is it true?"

"I'm afraid it is," I said. "Everyone's conceded it but Mayor Daley."

"Well," said Rumpelmeyer, "this calls for a celebration."

I'LL DO the celebrating," Sharkey yelled. "I rooted for him. You didn't."

"I think that's rather selfish of you, Sharkey. After all, Nixon is my President, too. I believe we should drink to him."

Sharkey was getting so mad he gripped the table. "Don't patronize me, Rump. I didn't come here to listen to you toast Nixon."

"But Sharkey," Rumpelmeyer said, "I don't know why you should be so upset about me wanting to toast Nixon. After all, it's only a presidential election, and if you've seen one President, you've seen them all."

"Yes, Rumpelmeyer," Sharkey said, gritting his teeth. "But the difference is that my man won and your man lost, and that means your people are out and my people are in."

"So it does," Rumpelmeyer said. "I'll drink to that."

"You won't drink to it!" Sharkey said. "I'll drink to it!"

"I DON'T KNOW what's gotten into you, Sharkey. I'm sure Nixon's happier about all this than you are."

"What do you know about Nixon?" Sharkey cried. "I voted for him."

"Everyone knows about Nixon," Rumpelmeyer said. "He'll probably make a fine President."

I thought Sharkey was going to hit him. "Rump, we may not have agreed politically with each other in the past, and we may have had our differences on the future of this country, but I never thought you'd stoop so low as to steal my one moment of triumph, after I waited eight miserable, lonely years."

Sharkey rose from the table and screamed, "I'll buy my own drinks! Can't you get it through your head? I won!"

He wheeled around and walked out of the restaurant, leaving his coat behind.

Rumpelmeyer shrugged his shoulders and said to me: "The Nixon people are certainly taking their win awfully hard."

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan will start soon the construction of its first nuclear-powered ship, an 8,300-ton vessel which will cost $30 million, Kyodo news agency said today.
